Snyder's budget proposal provides strong investments for one Michigan moving forward

Key investments for Flint water crisis, statewide infrastructure, and Detroit Public Schools

LANSING, Mich. — Gov. Rick Snyder presented his proposed fiscal year 2017 budget today, a total budget that is up just 0.8 percent from last year, calling for critical investments for the Flint water crisis, statewide infrastructure and the Detroit Public Schools. The governor's recommendation also addresses the skyrocketing costs of specialty medications that Michigan residents depend on for better health outcomes.

By investing in the specific needs for Flint and Detroit, setting aside funding for statewide infrastructure needs and the rising cost of prescription drugs, while staying committed to the core statewide priorities of education, talent and economic development, health and human services, and public safety, today's announcement provides the right plan for moving Michigan forward.

A new supplemental budget request for the current fiscal year was introduced, which includes $30 million for relief of Flint water bill payments currently being acted upon by the Legislature.

The supplemental request also includes $25 million for infrastructure needs specific to Flint and another $165 million to be set aside for statewide infrastructure needs in a newly created Michigan Infrastructure Fund. The $165 million in statewide infrastructure funding represents the first step toward a longer term solution for the state's needs and will be used to make strategic improvements based on recommendations from the Commission on 21st Century Infrastructure.

The overall budget recommendation totals $54.9 billion, an increase of 0.8 percent or $438 million over last year, and includes $10.2 billion in general fund dollars. The general fund is up 1.5 percent from last year which translates to $145 million.

Budget recommendations to aid Flint and Detroit Public Schools include:

Funding for Flint Water Crisis

- An additional investment of over $195 million spread out across several state agencies to continue the support needed for the children and residents of Flint. These funds will be used to address various needs, including safe drinking water; food and nutrition; physical health; social well-being; and educational intervention. When combined with previously enacted supplemental funding in fiscal year 2016, total funding for Flint comes to more than $230 million.

Funding for Detroit Public Schools

- An investment of $72 million a year, for 10 years, from Michigan's tobacco settlement proceeds to offset the Detroit Public Schools' repayment of a debt load expected to accumulate to $515 million by this summer. The $720 million generated from this plan will provide for $200 million needed for the startup and transition costs to create the new district.

- The fiscal year 2016 supplemental includes $50 million to ensure Detroit schools remain solvent through the rest of this school year while the governor's longer term solution is considered by the Legislature. General fund dollars will used for this funding to ensure the school aid fund is held harmless.

The proposed fiscal year 2017 budget is a balanced approach focused on Michigan's continued growth and future prosperity. The governor today also offered a 2018 projected budget, continuing his practice of ensuring that Michigan maintains a long-range planning focus with an emphasis on fiscal responsibility.

With a growing economy and unemployment at its lowest rate in more than 15 years, Michigan's future economic forecast remains bright. With more than 440,000 new private sector jobs since December 2010 and rising personal incomes for families across Michigan, the state is well positioned to continue its comeback.

"I'm committed to providing critical investments needed for the Flint water crisis and Detroit Public Schools while maintaining the long-term focus on the key priorities of education, job creation, health and human services, public safety and fiscal responsibility. Coupled with fiscal year 2016 investments, this recommendation brings total funding for the Flint water crisis to more than $230 million. The plan provides new investments in both K-12 education as well as higher education and continues the emphasis on developing our talent and connecting that talent to jobs," Snyder said. "From day one we have remained committed to our vision and reinvention strategy and it is paying off. This budget recommendation is the next step in the remarkable growth of our state and I look forward to working on it with our partners in the Legislature."

State Budget Director John Roberts joined Snyder in outlining the budget recommendation to a joint session of House and Senate appropriations committees.

"As budget director, I am proud of this budget because we addressed the challenges we have in Flint and Detroit while remaining committed to our core budget principles and managing the taxpayer dollar wisely," Roberts said. "This is a credit positive plan that keeps us on a good growth curve."

Lt. Governor Brian Calley was in Flint during the budget presentation to meet with stakeholders about the budget recommendation and how it will directly benefit the residents of the city. Snyder's recommended budget will now be reviewed and acted upon by the Legislature in the coming months with the target of having the budget signed in early June.

Additional highlights of the recommended budget include:

Preparing Our Children for the Future

- An additional $150 million for the K-12 foundation allowance, bringing total K-12 appropriations to $12.1 billion, a $1.4 billion funding increase from fiscal year 2011. The increase in the foundation allowance equates to an additional $60 to $120 per pupil.
- An additional $61.2 million or 4.3 percent for the operations of Michigan's 15 public universities and an additional $7.5 million or 2.4 percent for community college operations. The recommendation calls for universities to limit tuition increases to 4.8 percent or less in order to receive the funding increase. This investment restores aggregate university funding to fiscal year 2011 levels.
- An increase of $15 million for career and technical education middle college and equipment program
- An investment of $2.1 million to encourage students toward studying the fields of science, technology, engineering and mathematics.
- An investment of $9 million for water testing in schools.
- An investment of $5 million for school consolidation grants.

Putting People First

- Funding of $91.5 million to treat nearly 7,000 patients living with hepatitis C and $43.7 million to treat approximately 320 children with cystic fibrosis is built into the Department of Health and Human Services' (DHHS) base budget. The state Pharmacy and Therapeutics Committee recently recommended that new specialty medications to treat these conditions be approved for Medicaid patients.
- An investment of $30 million to include a specialty medications prescription reserve in the DHHS budget to address additional specialty medications in the pipeline.
- An investment of $3.4 billion in federal funds for the Healthy Michigan Plan to continue expanded Medicaid coverage for more than 600,000 Michigan residents.
- Another $25.6 million in funding to fully expand the Healthy Kids Dental program to cover all eligible children across the state in all 83 counties, growing the number of children who will receive good dental care to approximately 826,800. When the governor took office, the program covered 285,000 children in 61 counties.
- An investment of $7.6 million for a new patient unit at the Center for Forensic Psychiatry.

- An investment of $22.3 million to fully implement the state's automated child welfare information system.
- Increased funding of $6.1 million to enhance and expand the clothing allowance from $140 to $200 a year for children in the Family Independence Program. The clothing allowance will cover all children in the program, adding nearly 25,000 children.

Job Creation

- A total of $115.5 million to grow Michigan's economy through business attraction and community revitalization efforts.
- An investment of $2 million for the Community Ventures - Challenge Grant, which will provide matching grants to expand service and further program integration in Detroit, Flint and Saginaw to help the structurally unemployed pursue career opportunities and maintain employment.
- A $10 million increase to the skilled trades training program, bringing total funding to $35.6 million to match employers talent needs with skilled workers for in-demand jobs.

Infrastructure/Technology

- A total of $533.3 million in new dedicated transportation revenue, including $189.2 million for the state trunkline fund, $283 million for local road agencies and $61.4 million for rail and public transit, for maintenance and improvement of transportation infrastructure across the state.
- A total of $57.5 million in new federal funds from the Fixing America's Surface Transportation (FAST) Act, to be used for local road agency, state trunk line, and transit projects.
- A total of $132.8 million in new technology investments, including additional funding for cybersecurity to protect critical data from growing threats and added investment for the Information Technology Investment Fund for technology improvements to better serve residents and improve government efficiency.

Protecting the Public

- An additional $9.5 million to run a trooper recruit school with the goal of producing another 85 graduates that will further the enlisted strength within the Michigan State Police.
- A total of $1.5 million to expand the Secure Cities effort to the communities of Benton Harbor, Hamtramck, Harper Woods, Highland Park, Inkster and Muskegon Heights. The program has already produced impressive results by reducing violent crime in Detroit, Flint, Pontiac and Saginaw.
- An investment of $8.5 million to run an academy to train and graduate 350 new corrections officers for prisons across the state.

- A total of $500,000 to help prevent sexual assaults on college campuses through the higher education sexual assault prevention and education initiative.
- Funding of $2.2 million to enhance the capacity to combat the increasing growth of digital crime.
- An investment of $4 million to support safe and secure learning environments for students.
- An investment of close to $1 million for the purchase of new ballistic vests to keep probation and parole agents safe while on field duty.

Stronger Communities

- Eligible counties will receive a combination of revenue sharing payments and incentive-based payments, provided they meet required transparency provisions, totaling $215.2 million, which is the maximum funding allowed under statute to 78 eligible counties, up from 76 counties in the current fiscal year.
- A 3.9 percent increase in constitutional revenue sharing payments for cities, villages, and townships for a total of $781.5 million, based on estimated sales tax collections.
- As an incentive to combine government operations, all local units may apply for grant assistance to help defray expenses related to consolidation of services or programs, with a recommendation of $11 million for this competitive grant assistance program.

Focusing on Long-term Liabilities

- Fiscal year 2016 deposits to the Budget Stabilization ("Rainy Day") Fund will bring the projected total balance to $611 million which equates to a $609 million increase since the governor first took office, when the rainy day fund was at a mere $2.2 million.
- Funding for the school employee retirement system is recommended at $1 billion for K-12 schools, which equates to over $660 per K-12 student. This investment provides fiscal relief to schools for retirement obligations and helps ensure retirement promises made to employees can be kept. The governor's commitment to solving the state's pension and retiree health care obligations is strong. Reforms made to the school employee retirement system and the state employee retirement system have reduced the state's long-term debt by more than $20 billion.
- A $730,000 increase and a total of $5.9 million in ongoing funds is recommended within higher education to provide for costs above a proposed rate cap for seven participating universities in the Michigan Public School Employees Retirement System (MPSERS). Community colleges receive a recommended $3.7 million increase and $74.9 million total in ongoing funds, to provide for costs above the rate cap for MPSERS.

The state's new fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

DRINKING WATER WARNING

The City of Flint water system lost pressure and contamination may have occurred
BOIL YOUR FILTERED WATER BEFORE USING

Due to a drop in pressure in the City of Flint water supply, bacterial contamination may have occurred in the water system. Bacteria are generally not harmful and are common throughout our environment. Corrective measures are currently being undertaken to correct the situation.

What should I do?

AS A PRECAUTIONARY MEASURE, DO NOT DRINK THE WATER WITHOUT BOILING IT FIRST. Bring all FILTERED water to a boil, let it boil for one minute, and let it cool before using, or use bottled water. If you are currently NOT using a filter to remove lead from drinking water, FLUSH your water for AT LEAST 7 minutes before collecting any to boil. Boiled FILTERED, boiled FLUSHED, or bottled water should be used for drinking, making ice, brushing teeth, washing dishes, and preparing food. Boiling kills bacteria and other organisms in the water. Continue using boiled or bottled water until further notice.

Due to the pressure loss, there may be trapped air and loose sediment in your water lines. The air and sediment may be removed by flushing you water system. DO NOT FLUSH YOUR SYSTEM THROUGH THE FILTER. The resulting air and sediment may affect the performance of your filter and the filter cartridge should be replaced.

What happened? What is being done?

These precautionary actions are being taken due to the loss of water pressure in the water distribution system caused by a water transmission main break on February 9, 2016. Whenever a water system loses pressure for any significant length of time, precautionary measures are recommended.

The City of Flint Water Department is working to get pressure restored, and water staff will be taking other remedial actions such as flushing and collecting bacteriological samples from around the system. The samples will be collected to determine that the water quality meets the state drinking water standards. We will inform you when tests show no bacteria and you no longer need to boil your water. We anticipate resolving the problem later today. This precautionary boil water notice shall remain in effect until results from the sampling verify the water is safe to drink. Customers will be advised when the boil water advisory has been lifted.

For more information, please contact The City of Flint Water Department at (810) 766-7202. General guidelines on ways to lessen the risk of infection by microbes are available from the EPA Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1(800) 426-4791.

Please share this information with all the other people who drink this water, especially those who may not have received this notice directly (for example, people in apartments, nursing homes, schools, and businesses). You can do this by posting this notice in a public place or distributing copies by hand or mail.

NEWS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
February 10, 2016
Release #: 34

State Launches New Streamlined Services for Residents

New Testing Sites Help Confirm Water Quality

FLINT, Mich. – This week the Michigan Departments of Environmental Quality (DEQ) and Health and Human Services (MDHHS) initiated new initiatives to engage residents in a more in-depth level of data collection that will help confirm when Flint's drinking water is safe and provide a more streamlined level of post-testing services for resident health and wellness.

Starting today, 10 Sentinel Site teams consisting of representatives from the DEQ, along with licensed plumbers, will begin to visit 402 identified residential sites across the city to teach homeowners how to test their water in a scientifically accurate manner so they may submit regular samples to the state for testing.

Geographically dispersed across all nine wards, these sites will be established for ongoing lead and copper monitoring and will be resampled periodically to help determine when the drinking water advisory may be discontinued. This testing regimen calls for resampling every two weeks for an additional four, two-week cycle.

"These Sentinel Sites are an important step in helping us achieve a higher level of data analytics on the quality of the water," said Keith Creagh, Director of the DEQ. "The data collected will help us determine when and where corrosion control treatment has been effective."

Also launching today is a more streamlined system of addressing residences that test high for lead or copper in their water. This new process will provide residents with more efficient in-home follow-up for environmental and health wrap-around services.

"As soon as we see that a household's water level tests high for lead or copper, this new automatic protocol kicks in, beginning a series of measures to get people the health-related services they need faster," said Dr. Eden Wells, chief medical executive with the MDHHS. "While many of these residents have had outreach from county and state agencies since last fall, this new system creates a timeline and multi-agency organizational structure so that services can be provided in a more cohesive manner."

MORE

The new streamlined system of in-home follow-up visits not only allows for faster residential feedback, but also allows for multiple agencies to work with residents in a more coordinated manner. The process is as follows:

- Daily lab test results are posted publicly online at www.michigan.gov/flintwater
- Test results greater than 150 ppb are emailed to MDHHS
- All test results are emailed to the City of Flint, who then sends them to residents by U.S. Mail
- Within 48 hours, MDHHS coordinates a home health visit through the Genesee County Health Department to any resident whose lead test result was greater than 150 ppb. Home visit includes:
  - Health and wellness information
  - Off-site blood test referral
  - Assists with transportation support for appointments, as necessary
  - Provides additional bottled water, filters and water sample kits
- Within 48 hours, DEQ schedules a home water visit to any resident whose lead test result was greater than 150 ppb (100 ppb or greater, but less than 150 ppb residents are visited within seven days). Home visit includes:
  - Water testing and sampling information
  - Water sample collection
  - Inspection by the Flint Local 370 Plumbers Union (field verification of service line, aerator cleanout, filter check)
  - Provides additional bottled water, filters and water sample kits

Unlike lead, there is a safe level of copper. Everyone comes into contact with it every day and copper is essential for good health, but for homes with elevated copper levels, individuals are being instructed to use bottled water for drinking and cooking.

People's bodies require copper for normal functioning, and at different amounts depending on age, and whether a women is pregnant or breastfeeding. Ingesting high levels of copper can cause nausea, vomiting and diarrhea.

Flint Water Daily Update
Updated Feb. 10

Current Issues Talking Points

Legionnaires Disease

- Recent comments in the media are inconsistent with the collaboration that has taken place between the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services and the Genesee County Health Department.
- MDHHS takes legionella concerns seriously and has released some of its earliest email conversations between its epidemiologists and the Genesee County Health Department regarding legionella cases.
- The MDHHS partnership with the Genesee County Health Department is central to providing Flint residents with the health resources they need to overcome obstacles in both the short and long terms. They have worked side by side to deliver health services, exchange data and ideas, and to be there for the Flint community.
- In the fall of 2014, the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services was aware of an increase in Legionnaires' disease cases in Genesee County and it was determined that additional support from the state was needed. The state stepped in to offer that support. Within a month, state epidemiologists were actively conducting interviews with cases and medical record reviews to make sure that Flint residents had the joint resources of local and state experts.
- MDHSS is continues to be engaged with environmental health officials on the local and national levels to proactively address the potential for future Legionnaires disease cases.

Budget Proposal today, Feb. 10

- The Governor will give the formal FY 2017-18 budget presentation today, Feb. 10 at 11 a.m.
- As part of the budget proposal, the Governor will outline long-term funding efforts to aide in Flint's recovery.
- To date, the state has allocated $37.3 million in emergency funding for Flint.
    - The Governor also proposed and the Senate has approved an additional $30 million the city could use to help relieve Flint residents of a portion of their water bill.
- The budget presentation is available via livestream at www.michigan.gov/snyderlive.
    - To limit the negative impact on state network speeds, DTMB advises employees to reserve a conference room and watch the presentation in teams rather than individually at their desks.

Flint Mayor calls for immediate replacement of Flint pipes

- In an announcement yesterday, Flint Mayor Karen Weaver called for immediate replacement of Flint's water infrastructure.
- Immediately removing pipes could potentially add to the infrastructure problem and result in higher costs for the city.
- Both Senate Minority Leader Jim Ananich and Virginia Tech water treatment expert Marc Edwards advise first mapping the city's pipes to determine the location of lead infrastructure.
- Edwards also says the state is taking the correct actions to make Flint's water safe again. Adding phosphate to the water to coat the pipes is a necessary first step toward ensuring safe drinking water for Flint residents.
    - Flint's damaged pipes spark debate on fix (Detroit Free Press)
    - Prof. Marc Edwards discusses pipes in Flint (video)
- The Governor continues to work with Edwards and the Flint Water Interagency Coordinating Committee to identify and implement a successful long-term solution for Flint families.

STATEWIDE INFRASTRUCTURE PRIORITIZATION

THE FIRST STEPS

In 2015, we made a renewed commitment to our roads and bridges with the passage of the transportation funding package.

Now it's time to focus on the rest of Michigan's infrastructure need based on the recommendations of the announced Commission on 21st Century Infrastructure.

Categories for investment could include:

1) Replacement of known high-risk lead and copper service lines attributed to high lead or copper levels in children, pregnant women, or the drinking water supply.

2) Implementation of infrastructure improvements that incentivize infrastructure upgrades while repairing roads or other utilities and allow communities to fully leverage federal, state, and local funds.

3) Development of asset management plans including an inventory and analysis of the current infrastructure and prioritization of needs based on a right sizing of infrastructure in comparison to population

- An investment of close to $1 million for the purchase of new ballistic vests to keep probation and parole agents safe while on field duty.

Stronger Communities

- Eligible counties will receive a combination of revenue sharing payments and incentive-based payments, provided they meet required transparency provisions, totaling $215.2 million, which is the maximum funding allowed under statute to 78 eligible counties, up from 76 counties in the current fiscal year.
- A 3.9 percent increase in constitutional revenue sharing payments for cities, villages, and townships for a total of $781.5 million, based on estimated sales tax collections.
- As an incentive to combine government operations, all local units may apply for grant assistance to help defray expenses related to consolidation of services or programs, with a recommendation of $11 million for this competitive grant assistance program.

Focusing on Long-term Liabilities

- Fiscal year 2016 deposits to the Budget Stabilization ("Rainy Day") Fund will bring the projected total balance to $611 million which equates to a $609 million increase since the governor first took office, when the rainy day fund was at a mere $2.2 million.
- Funding for the school employee retirement system is recommended at $1 billion for K-12 schools, which equates to over $660 per K-12 student. This investment provides fiscal relief to schools for retirement obligations and helps ensure retirement promises made to employees can be kept. The governor's commitment to solving the state's pension and retiree health care obligations is strong. Reforms made to the school employee retirement system and the state employee retirement system have reduced the state's long-term debt by more than $20 billion.
- A $730,000 increase and a total of $5.9 million in ongoing funds is recommended within higher education to provide for costs above a proposed rate cap for seven participating universities in the Michigan Public School Employees Retirement System (MPSERS). Community colleges receive a recommended $3.7 million increase and $74.9 million total in ongoing funds, to provide for costs above the rate cap for MPSERS.

The state's new fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

WE ARE ONE MICHIGAN

GOVERNOR RICK SNYDER

DISCUSSION POINTS
FY 2017 Budget Recommendation
February 10, 2016

Budget Facts

- Budget total: $54.9 billion (up 0.8% or $438 million)
- General Fund budget: $10.2 billion (up 1.5% or $145 million)
- School Aid Fund: $12.5 billion

Key Points

- We are one Michigan. The FY 2017 budget recommendation reflects the right plan for Michigan's continued growth and strength.
- Michigan's economic forecast remains positive, but we realize the state faces unique challenges that require immediate attention. This budget recommendation makes critical investments toward the Flint water crisis and the financial and educational crisis in Detroit Public Schools.
- Michigan has faced tough challenges before and we have remained strong. The crises facing Flint and Detroit are monumental but not insurmountable. Our focus is centered on the Flint water crisis, statewide infrastructure needs, and the Detroit Public Schools. We will address these challenges and we will fix them.
- Today's announcement calls for a $165 million deposit into a newly created Michigan Infrastructure Fund for strategic improvements for local infrastructure. An additional $25 million is recommended specifically for Flint. Funding originally targeted for the rainy day fund is now recommended for statewide infrastructure needs.
- Even with these big challenges, the values and priorities of our state have not changed and our key priorities such as economic growth, education, public safety and fiscal responsibility can be seen throughout this budget recommendation. This plan provides a balanced approach to addressing our special challenges while continuing to pay off debt, save money for the future, and make needed investments in critical areas.
- With a growing economy and unemployment at its lowest rate in more than 15 years, Michigan's future economic forecast remains bright. More than 440,000 new private sector jobs have been created since December 2010 and personal income for families across Michigan is on the rise.

- This budget recommendation doesn't lose sight of the need for fiscal responsibility and it is built on the same fiscal disciplines and long-term view of budgeting as the governor's first five budgets. Paying our debts and planning for the future remain key principles in this plan.

- This marks the governor's sixth budget recommendation. The days of stalled budgets and government shutdown are long gone. The practice of getting the budget done early in June will continue so that schools, local governments, and others depending on state funding can have timely information to plan their budgets.

- This plan fully restores aggregate funding for higher education to fiscal year 2011 levels and brings total operating funds for universities to over $1.4 billion.

- This budget plan includes the full expansion of the Healthy Kids Dental program to all of Michigan's 83 counties, ensuring that every eligible child has access to dental care which has been proven to lead to a lifetime of better health outcomes. The $25.6 million investment will bring the number of children with access to dental care to an estimated 826,800, compared to 285,000 who were covered in fiscal year 2011.

- Three-fourths of the recommended budget is devoted to education and health and human services. This critical investment in Michigan's people creates an environment in which all residents can succeed, regardless of their stage in life. The vision is focusing government on people rather than programs.

- The governor's budget recommendation includes the assumption that the sunset on the Health Insurance Claims Assessment (HICA) will be extended and passed by the Legislature. Without a HICA extension, this budget recommendation does not balance and cuts to the plan will be required.

Flint Water Crisis

- The top priority for Governor Snyder and his administration is ensuring every Flint resident has access to clean, safe drinking water. We are committed to providing affected children and families access to medical and educational resources to ensure long-term care and treatment.

- The Flint water crisis has been a systemic failure of government at all levels. The governor has held himself and his government accountable, and when coupled with the supplemental funding already provided to the city, this budget recommendation brings total funding for the Flint water crisis to more than $230 million.

- Governor Snyder and his administration are committed to working in partnership with Flint Mayor Karen Weaver, independent experts, and the federal government to ensure both short-term and long-term solutions.

- The residents of Flint are our top priority, and this budget plan provides the funding necessary for the families of Flint to obtain the resources necessary in the areas of safe drinking water, physical health, food and nutrition, and social and developmental needs including education.

- An infrastructure study will be conducted in Flint to determine the long-term need for pipe replacement. In the meantime, the governor is calling for $25 million in funding to be set aside to prioritize the immediate infrastructure needs for Flint.

- In addition to the investments already made to provide emergency response for Flint's most immediate needs, this budget recommendation offers more investments to resolve the longer term needs of the city and the future health and well-being of the people of Flint. The path forward for Flint will require continued investment from the state not only in this budget, but in the years to come, to ensure Flint residents receive the care and services necessary for a healthy future.

- The investments for Flint in this budget recommendation are spread out across several state agencies and will be used to address various needs, including nurses and epidemiologists and the ongoing treatment of children.

- According to calculations by the state demographer, the number of children in City of Flint ages 0 to 9 totals 11,484, as follows:

  Age 0: 1,219

  Age 1: 1,223

  Age 2: 1,243

  Age 3: 1,288

  Age 4: 1,264

  Age 5: 995

  Age 6: 1,050

  Age 7: 1,060

  Age 8: 1,067

  Age 9: 1,075

- The population in the City of Flint is 99,000, with a total number of 39,125 occupied homes.

Funding for Detroit Public Schools

- All of Michigan's children deserve a quality education that prepares them for future success. The financial stress currently facing the Detroit Public Schools must be resolved in order to ensure Detroit's schoolchildren have the same opportunities for success as other children in our state.

- Schools throughout the Detroit Public Schools system are struggling both academically and financially to provide Detroit children with the education they need to succeed. Test scores of all Detroit high schoolers show that just 6 percent of high school students are proficient in math, 4 percent are proficient in science and two-thirds are not proficient in reading. With declining enrollment, losing nearly 100,000 students in the last decade, and projected accumulation of nearly $515 million in debt by summer, Gov. Snyder understands the severity of the challenges the district is facing and how desperately systemic change is needed.

- The governor's plan to help turnaround the district involves maintaining the current district to pay off the district's debt; establishing a new district to operate the schools; and a new commission that would hire an education manager to oversee all traditional and charter public schools in the city and manage universal services, such as security, for all buildings.

- Carrying a debt load that will hit $515 million by this coming summer, under the governor's plan, the Detroit Public Schools would use the existing local millage – about $72 million per year – to pay off debt. The governor is extremely concerned that the debt requires more than $1,100 per student to pay down what is owed – money that would be better spent in the classroom helping students learn. That is why the governor's budget recommendation provides $72 million a year for 10 years from Michigan's tobacco settlement proceeds to offset the loss of locally generated money. These funds will help get the school district back on firmer financial footing and more importantly, help ensure Detroit children are receiving a quality education, setting them on a path toward a brighter future.

Education Highlights

- The goal of building one Michigan rests firmly on the foundation of ensuring our children and young adults have the education they need to succeed. The governor's sixth budget once again prioritizes education funding.

- Since 2011, state funding for K-12 education has increased by $1.4 billion!

- This budget provides significant investment at all academic levels with a focus on long-term results.

- Preparing students to meet the needs of a global economy and changing work force demands innovative thinking and system reinvention.

- An investment of $150 million is recommended to provide a $60 to $120 per-pupil increase in the foundation allowance for schools across the state, bringing the minimum foundation allowance to $7,511 and the basic foundation allowance to $8,229 per pupil.

- A total of nearly $12.1 billion in state funding is recommended for K-12 education, a $1.4 billion funding increase from fiscal year 2011.

- Evidence shows that early learning before kindergarten is an indicator for success in life. The governor's budget recommends nearly $240 million to provide preschool programs for at-risk 4-year-old children. A total of $24 million is continued for early literacy to help ensure children are reading at grade level by third grade.

- The funding recommendation for the school employee retirement system is set at $1 billion for K-12 schools, providing fiscal relief to schools for their retirement obligations and helping to ensure that retirement promises made to school employees can be kept.

- To help ensure all schools have safe drinking water, the governor's plan calls for $9 million to be designated for reimbursements to schools for costs associated with voluntary testing of water.

- The governor's plan also recommends funding to ensure our students and educators are prepared, including $10 million for training and professional development related to educator evaluation tools, $15 million for the expansion of career and technical education, and $2.4 million for STEM initiatives.

Post-Secondary Education

- The plan calls for an increase in operations funding for state universities of 4.3% or $61.2 million, and restores aggregate university funding to fiscal year 2011 levels. Also included is an increase in operations funding for community colleges of 2.4% through an additional $7.5 million.

- The recommendation calls for limiting tuition increases to 4.8 percent or less in order for universities to receive the funding increase.

Capital Outlay

- The governor's 2016 recommended capital outlay projects for three university and two community colleges are pending before the Legislature and include total project costs of $240 million for the following projects:

    - Lake Superior State University: Center for Freshwater Research and Education
    - University of Michigan – Dearborn: Engineering Laboratory Building Replacement
    - University of Michigan – Ann Arbor: School of Dentistry Renovation & Addition
    - Delta College: Saginaw Center
    - C.S. Mott Community College: Southern Lakes Branch Center Renovation

- The governor's capital outlay recommendations for fiscal year 2017 includes 9 projects totaling $403 million and includes the following projects:
    - U of M Flint – Murchie Science Building Expansion
    - Saginaw Valley State University – College of Business and Management Expansion
    - Wayne State University – STEM Innovation Learning Center
    - Eastern Michigan University – Strong Hall Renovation
    - Kellogg Community College – Regional Manufacturing Technology Center
    - Wayne County Community College – Eastern Campus Upgrade
    - Northwestern Michigan College – West Hall Innovation Center Expansion
    - DNR – Coolwater Rearing Hatchery Improvements
    - DTMB – Jackson State Office Building

Job Growth Highlights

- The governor envisions one Michigan where any resident who wants employment can find it. That's why he is focused on growing the state's economy and reducing unemployment.

- Continuing the governor's focus on skilled trades, an additional $10 million in restricted funds is recommended, bringing total program funding to $35.6 million.

- The budget recommendation calls for one-time funding of $8.8 million for the Statewide Data System Integration project which will help Michigan meet new workforce data reporting requirements and integrate data across workforce and education programs.

- To help the structurally unemployed pursue career opportunities and maintain employment in Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, and Pontiac, $9.8 million in general fund is recommended for the Community Ventures program. An additional $2 million is recommended in challenge match funding to encourage foundations and other organizations to support the program.

- The Rising Tide initiative will continue to be a priority in 2017 as work continues with communities in each of the state's ten prosperity regions. Rising Tide provides economically challenged communities with needed resources to develop a thriving community and attract business investment and talent.

Healthier Families Highlights

- A healthier Michigan is good for the individual, good for the economy, and good for all taxpayers.

- The budget plan includes an investment of $3.4 billion in federal funds for the Healthy Michigan Plan to continue expanded Medicaid coverage. More than 600,000 Michigan residents now have health coverage through the Healthy Michigan Plan.

- Michigan is getting healthier. With more than 600,000 residents now enrolled in the Healthy Michigan Plan, men and women around the state are now the recipient of primary care and preventive care visits through the Healthy Michigan Plan.

- The budget recommendation provides another $25.6 million for the Healthy Kids Dental program and achieves the governor's goal of fully expanding the program to cover all eligible children in all of the state's 83 counties. The investment will bring the number of children with access to dental care to an estimated 826,800, compared to 285,000 who were covered in fiscal year 2011, providing a vital building block to a lifetime of better health.

- The governor's plan calls for $30 million in general fund dollars to be set aside in a reserve for the future need for specialty medications. Specialty medications are changing and improving lives across Michigan. For example, patients with Hepatitis C and Cystic Fibrosis are experiencing drastic improvements in quality of life through new medications, and additional medications to help patients with other conditions are now in the pipeline.

- As part of a series of recommendations from Lt. Governor Calley's Michigan Prescription Drug and Opioid Task Force, the budget plan calls for $4.5 million to upgrade the Michigan Automated Prescription System (MAPS), a statewide database that assists in the prevention of prescription drug abuse through better tracking. The enhancement of MAPS will allow for better coordination between health professionals and law enforcement when investigating prescription drug and opioid abuse.

Human Services Highlights

- The governor's budget calls for continued support of behavioral and mental health services with $3.25 billion in gross funding including the Mental Health and Wellness Commission, Medicaid mental health services, and Medicaid substance abuse treatment.

- Funding for autism services is recommended at $63 million and expands coverage of applied behavioral analysis to the age of 21.

- The governor is recommending an increase in the funding for the children's clothing allowance through an additional $6.1 million. The current $140 clothing allowance, paid once a year to approximately 20,000 children, will be increased to $200 a year to cover 45,000 children.

- An investment of $7.6 million in general fund dollars is recommended for the expansion of the Center for Forensic Psychiatry for persons identified as Not Guilty by Reason of Insanity and Incompetent to Stand Trial. This expansion will assist in moving individuals currently waitlisted and housed in other hospitals to a facility better suited to address their mental health needs.

- The DHHS budget recommendation includes $22.3 million in gross funding to support the implementation of the statewide IT system (MiSACWIS) to help ensure the state and private welfare agencies are effectively monitoring child protective services, foster care, and adoption cases.

Infrastructure/Transportation/Technology/Government Efficiency Highlights

- With passage of a new comprehensive transportation package in 2015, there is a long-term plan in place for funding the state's crumbling infrastructure. The new plan will dedicate an extra $1.2 billion a year, when fully implemented in fiscal year 2021, to maintain and repair roads and bridges across the state.

- The governor's plan for fiscal year 2017 features $533.3 million in dedicated transportation revenue, which includes $189 million for the State Trunkline Fund, $283 million for local road agencies and $61 million for rail and public transit. The budget proposal also includes $57.5 million in new federal funds from the Fixing America's Surface Transportation (FAST) Act to be used for local road agencies, state trunklines, and transit.

- Investing in the maintenance of state facilities is the fiscally responsible thing to do. Too often, these investments are delayed or eliminated, resulting in higher costs down the road. This budget recommendation includes $16.5 million space consolidation and for building maintenance, including armories.

- Investments in information technology (IT) are a key driver for improved government efficiency and cost savings for taxpayers. Gov. Snyder has been a strong supporter and advocate for investing in IT and those investments are making state government more efficient safe. The fiscal year 2017 budget recommendation calls for an additional $133 million in IT investment, including $5 million for cybersecurity to protect state systems and networks

- The governor's budget recommendation provides $2.8 million in general fund for development and implementation of an internet individual electronic file system to allow residents to e-file their Michigan tax returns free of charge.

- Funding of $10 million in general fund is provided for the purchase and replacement of voting systems, voting devices, and elections management systems for counties, cities and townships to ensure reliable and uniform statewide voting systems.

Protecting the Public Highlights

- Michigan must be a safe place to live and work. Safe cities and neighborhoods improve our overall quality of life and our economy.

- To increase the strength of the Michigan State Police ranks, the governor's budget recommendation calls for $9.5 million to support a trooper recruit school aimed at producing 85 graduates. Residents across the state will benefit from having more troopers trained and sworn to protect and serve the public.

- Following impressive results from the Secure Cities program, which has reduced violent crime in four of the state's larger cities (Detroit, Flint, Pontiac and Saginaw), the governor's plan calls for an investment of $1.5 million to expand the program to the communities of Benton Harbor, Hamtramck, Harper Woods, Highland Park, Inkster and Muskegon Heights.

- Other public safety investments include $8.5 million to run an academy to train and graduate 350 new corrections officers; $4 million aimed at supporting a safe learning environment for students; $2.2 million to enhance efforts to combat the rising tide of digital crime; $500,000 for a higher education sexual assault prevention and education initiative; and nearly $1 million to purchase new ballistic vests to help keep probation and parole agents safe while on field duty.

- The governor's ongoing commitment to justice for rape victims is supported with $1.7 million for sexual assault law enforcement efforts with the Attorney General budget. Additionally, a comprehensive plan to fight human trafficking is supported with nearly $400,000.

- The budget plan calls for $750,000 in general fund to develop a statewide strategy and implementation plan for energy assurance that will identify necessary actions to effectively respond to potential long-duration power outages.

Stronger Communities Highlights

- Michigan is only as strong as its communities. Whether it's a small community or one of our urban cores, Michigan's future depends on leadership and success at the local level.

- The county revenue sharing and incentive program funding is set at $215.2 million, an increase of $467,500, as two additional counties are added this year, bringing the total number of counties to 78.

- Constitutional revenue sharing payments for cities, villages, and townships is increased by $29.4 million, 3.9 percent, to $781.5 million, based on estimated sales tax collections.

- Distressed municipalities will be eligible for $5 million in grant funding to help reduce unfunded accrued liabilities, reduce general fund debt, transition to shared services and repair publicly-owned critical infrastructure.
- Local units of government across the state can apply for $11 million available through a competitive grant assistance program to encourage the consolidation of services and programs.

Fiscal Responsibility Highlights

- With already scheduled deposits to the rainy day fund in fiscal year 2016, the balance in the state's savings account will increase from the current $498 million to $611 million. This equates to a $609 million increase since 2011, when the fund contained a mere $2.2 million.
- The governor's commitment to solving the state's pension and retiree health care obligations cannot be understated. These long-term debts are strangling other states, while Michigan is now on a sustainable path to resolving the liabilities while ensuring the promises to state and school employees can be kept. Reforms made to both the school employee retirement system and the state employee retirement system have reduced the state's long-term debt by more than $20 billion.
- Funding for the school employee retirement system is recommended at $1 billion for K-12 schools, which equates to over $660 per K-12 student. This investment provides fiscal relief to schools for retirement obligations and helps ensure retirement promises made to employees can be kept.
- A $730,000 million increase and a total of $5.9 million in ongoing funds is recommended within higher education to provide for costs above a proposed rate cap for 7 participating universities in the Michigan Public School Employees Retirement System (MPSERS). Community colleges receive a recommended $3.7 million increase and total ongoing funds of $74.9 million, to provide for costs above the rate cap for MPSERS. Capping costs for universities and community colleges is another example of Gov. Snyder's commitment to fiscal responsibility.

HICA

Background: Legislation that created the Health Insurance Claims Assessment (HICA) Act effective Jan. 1, 2012, requires certain third party administrators, carriers and self-insured entities to pay an assessment on certain paid health care claims. HICA was enacted to replace the HMO Use Tax, intended to generate funds that will be used to leverage federal Medicaid matching funds. The assessment was levied at the rate of 1 percent and now stands at 0.75 percent of the "paid claims" of the covered carrier, third party administrator, or self-insured entity and was designed to produce revenue of approximately $400 million. HICA revenues have consistently fallen short of $400 million, and with Use Tax going away in 2017, we must act to implement a long-term solution that guarantees our full Medicaid match

- HICA was enacted as a bipartisan answer to replace the HMO Use Tax. However, collections have fallen short of expectations and in order to ensure Michigan receives all federal dollars, a solution is still needed. Legislation to extend the sunset for HICA beyond 2017 is necessary and assumed in order to keep this budget recommendation in balance. If an extension is not passed, cuts to this recommendation will be necessary.

DRAFT

Overall Budget Growth

- Total budget $54.9B, up 0.8 percent ($438M)
- General Fund $10.2B, up 1.5 percent ($145M)

Facing Challenges Head On

- Flint water crisis
- Statewide infrastructure prioritization
- Detroit Public Schools
- Specialty medications

Addressing Flint Water

- Clean drinking water is a human necessity
- Residents across Flint, especially children, have been impacted by lead in the water
- To date, more than $37M in state supplemental funding
- Additional resources will be required in the coming years to ensure Flint residents receive the necessary care and services and to strengthen the city overall

Complications of Lead Exposure

- Lead exposure is especially harmful to children
- Effects of lead exposure are lifelong
- Must assume all children exposed

Need for Broad and Early Intervention

- Leverage and enhance existing programs
  - Great Start, Pathways to Potential
- Add other critical programs
  - Early On, developmental childcare, nutritional support, crisis support
- Intense monitoring to ensure every child is cared for
- Time is of the essence – we can't play catch up

Address Water Infrastructure

- Achieve safe drinking water out of the tap
- Complete a system-wide assessment of pipes, etc.
- Prioritize infrastructure replacement needs
- Have a successfully operating utility in place

Strengthen Flint

- Neighborhoods
- Economy and community
- City government

Everyone Focused on Problem Solving

- State: Mission Flint
- City
- Community
- County
- Federal
- Non-governmental organizations
- Foundations
- Other donors

Key Actions to Date …

- Reconnection to Detroit water
- Bottled water/filters provided to residents
- Corrosion controls in water to coat the pipes
- Fixtures being replaced in facilities, including: schools, child care and adult foster centers, nursing homes, and surgical/dialysis centers
- Providing education and nutrition assistance
- Expediting funding for nurses
- Water testing

Flint Action Plan …

- October Supplemental, $9.3M gross, including:
  - Water sampling to ensure safe drinking water for every resident in the city
  - Lab and testing costs
  - Blood screening
  - Inspections of fixtures in schools and daycare facilities

Flint Action Plan …

- January Supplemental, $28M Gross, including:
  - Replacement of fixtures in schools and daycare facilities
  - Treatment of children with high blood levels, which includes diagnostic testing, nurse visits and environmental assessments
  - Epidemiologists to analyze blood lead levels
  - Lead abatement in Flint homes
  - School nurses
  - Lab and testing costs

Flint Action Plan …

- Added investment request in FY16 & FY17 = $195.4M Gross, including:
  - Early On education funding and Great Start Readiness funding to ensure 0-4 year olds have access to early education
  - Epidemiologists to analyze blood lead levels
  - Child and adolescent health centers and additional support necessary for children's health care access
  - Fixture replacements in schools and daycare facilities
  - Lab and testing costs

Flint Action Plan …

- FY16 & FY17 investments continued …
  - Mobile food bank and additional food bank resources
  - Staying connected with Detroit Water through the end of 2016
  - Lead abatement in Flint homes
  - Specialized therapy for children exhibiting effects of lead
  - Food inspections at licensed food establishments through the Genesee County Food Safety Division
  - Water bill relief

Bringing Flint investment to more than $230M

Accountability for Results

- Major investments including new programs
- Need to deliver measurable results to the most important areas
- Invest $50M into a flexible fund related to the lead crisis
- Legislative review mid fiscal year to allocate properly
- Have monitoring results, studies done, and input from people

Statewide Infrastructure Prioritization

- The situation in Flint signals the need for infrastructure updates across the state
- Michigan's infrastructure was given a D grade by the American Society of Civil Engineers
  - Not isolated to Michigan, nationwide grade D+
- Time to focus on Michigan's infrastructure needs and replacement of lead pipes
- Forming the Commission on 21st Century Infrastructure

Statewide Infrastructure Prioritization

Michigan Infrastructure Fund, $165M:

- Replace known high-risk lead and copper service lines
- Implement improvements/upgrades while repairing roads or other utilities – allowing communities to fully leverage federal, state and local funds
- Develop asset management plans, including:
  - Inventory and analysis of current infrastructure
  - Prioritization of needs

Turning Around Detroit's Schools

- Detroit Public Schools are struggling both academically and financially
- Test scores of Detroit high schoolers underscore the urgent need for action:
  - Just 6 percent are proficient in math
  - Only 4 percent are proficient in science
  - Two-thirds are not proficient in reading
- District debt to accumulate to $515M by summer
- More than $1,100 per student to pay down DPS debt

Detroit Public Schools Action Plan

- Working with the Legislature to develop an approach that ensures Detroit's children receive a high quality education
- General fund dollars to hold School Aid Fund harmless
- Invest in Detroit's public schools, $72M a year for 10 years from Michigan's tobacco settlement proceeds
- $50M FY16 supplemental for current year DPS debt
- Critical and urgent

High Cost of Medications

- New specialty medications save lives and improve health, but cost is high
- Medicines to treat patients with hepatitis C and cystic fibrosis recently recommended by Pharmacy and Therapeutics Committee
- Additional specialty medications to treat other conditions may be approved in the future
- Specialty medications driving the pharmacy cost increase in Medicaid for FY17
- DHHS budget includes specialty medications prescription reserve, $30M general fund to address more medications in the pipeline

Specialty Medications Action Plan

- Coverage recommended for individuals with:
  - Hepatitis C:
    - Assumed full year cost: $91.5M GF, nearly 7,000 patients treated
    - Includes an additional $17.3M GF to expand treatment to approximately 340 prisoners
  - Cystic fibrosis:
    - Assumed full year cost: $43.7M GF, approximately 320 children impacted

Even with these challenges, Michigan's future is brighter for all Michiganders

Michigan Economy Continues to Thrive

- More than 440,000 new private sector jobs since December 2010
- Michigan recorded fourth largest drop in jobless rate of any state over past year
- From December 2010 to now, Michigan's unemployment rate has fallen from 11.2 percent to 5.1 percent, lowest since 2001

STATE OF MICHIGAN
EXECUTIVE OFFICE
LANSING

GOVERNOR

BRIAN CALLEY
LT. GOVERNOR

February 10, 2016

My Fellow Michiganders,

While Michigan's economic forecast remains positive, the state faces unique challenges that require immediate attention. Specifically, our work to respond to the Flint water crisis and the financial and educational crisis in Detroit Public Schools requires immediate action and investment. We worked to develop a solution to address Michigan's crumbling roads and bridges. Now we must solve the Flint water crisis and address the challenges at Detroit Public Schools.

In addition to the investments already made to provide emergency response for Flint's most immediate needs, this budget recommendation offers more investments to resolve the longer term needs of the city and the future health and well-being of the people of Flint. The path forward for Flint will require continued investment from the state not only in this budget, but in the years to come, to ensure Flint residents receive the care and services necessary for a healthy future.

All of Michigan's children deserve a quality education that prepares them for future success. The financial stress currently facing the Detroit Public Schools must be resolved in order to ensure Detroit's schoolchildren have the same opportunities for success as other children in our state. The plan I presented to resolve the crisis in Detroit schools requires action and this budget recommendation provides the necessary funding for the first steps of that plan.

Even with these big challenges, the values and priorities of our state have not changed and our key priorities such as economic growth, education, public safety and fiscal responsibility can be seen throughout this budget recommendation. This plan provides a balanced approach to addressing our special challenges while continuing to pay off debt, save money for the future, and make needed investments in critical areas.

Michiganders should remain excited about the future. The unemployment rate is at its lowest mark in 15 years and private payroll jobs are up by more than 440,000 since December 2010. I remain committed to the reinvention of our great state with this recommended budget for fiscal year 2017, as well as projections for fiscal year 2018.

I look forward to working in partnership with members of the Michigan House and Senate to enact the fiscal year 2017 budget, as together we work to build one Michigan that will thrive for generations to come.

Sincerely,

Rick Snyder
Governor

WE ARE ONE MICHIGAN

Executive Budget Recommendation for Fiscal Years 2017 and 2018

Governor Rick Snyder's sixth budget recommendation is again focused on how to best serve Michigan residents and build one Michigan where the generations of today and tomorrow can flourish and thrive. This budget recommendation is presented with the understanding that our state is currently facing critical challenges in Flint and Detroit. While the governor's traditional priorities of education, job growth, health and wellness, public safety and fiscal responsibility are reflected in this budget recommendation, the lens is centered on these critical challenges facing our state today – the Flint water crisis and the financial and educational crisis in the Detroit Public Schools system.

This is not the first time Michigan has faced tough challenges. Our state has been tested time and again by seemingly insurmountable obstacles. We must again work together to provide Flint residents with safe, clean drinking water, and Detroit children with a quality education. Addressing the current challenges in Flint and Detroit will take a great deal of Michigan ingenuity and a significant financial investment. For our state to move forward as one Michigan, we must come together to tackle both of these challenges, while remaining focused on making budget decisions that will help all of Michigan move ahead.

With the goal of continuous improvement accompanied by relentless positive action, the governor's executive budget recommendation for fiscal year 2017 and projected fiscal year 2018 makes strategic investments that reach to all corners of our state and connect us all. We are one Michigan. Together, we will overcome these challenges and continue the work to make our great state even better.

Addressing the Flint Water Crisis

Clean drinking water is a necessity. Flint residents shouldn't have to rely on bottled water and water filters just to drink a glass of water or safely cook a meal. This is simply unacceptable. Gov. Snyder is dedicated to ensuring the situation is dealt with quickly and thoroughly, so that Flint's water is safe for residents once again.

Recognizing the magnitude of the crisis in Flint and the immediate need for swift action, the governor has already put forth two supplemental recommendations for fiscal year 2016 totaling $37.3 million to begin addressing the critical demand for safe water in Flint. The funds have been used in a variety of ways, including reconnecting Flint to the Detroit water system; performing water inspections and public health monitoring; laboratory services; providing residents with bottled water, water filters and replacement cartridges; blood screening; plumbing inspections in schools, childcare and health facilities; experts to assess potential linkages to Legionnaire's disease; and bringing in outside experts to conduct an integrity study of the infrastructure. The supplemental funding provided to address the crisis is a good starting place, but the governor realizes that addressing the full scope of the situation requires additional resources long into the future.

Above and beyond the funds already set aside to tackle the urgent crisis in Flint, the governor recommends more than $195.4 million in fiscal years 2016 and 2017 to provide the long-term health and educational support that will be needed for the children and residents of the city. Spread out across several state agencies, these funds will be used to continue the work to provide Flint residents with immediate needs like bottled water, water filters and replacement cartridges while also investing in longer term needs such as specialists and staff, including nurses and epidemiologists; support for health care access for Flint children; payment for testing and studies; and the ongoing treatment of children. Additional funds will be needed in the coming years to ensure Flint residents receive the care and services they need for a healthy future.

Turning Around Detroit Public Schools

Schools throughout the Detroit Public Schools (DPS) system are struggling both academically and financially to provide Detroit children with the education they need to succeed. Test scores of all Detroit high schoolers show that just 6 percent of high school students are proficient in math, 4 percent are proficient in science and two-thirds are not proficient in reading. With declining enrollment, losing nearly 100,000 students in the last decade, and accumulation of about $483 million in debt, Gov. Snyder understands the severity of the challenges the district is facing and how desperately systemic change is needed. The long-term issue facing Detroit has reached a crisis point and the governor is determined to turn the district around. We cannot stand idly by and let Michigan's largest city and school district falter. As one Michigan, we must acknowledge that our children are our future and we must do whatever we can to help ensure that every child receives a quality education.

The governor's three-part plan to help turn around the district involves maintaining the current district to pay off the district's debt; establishing a new district to operate the schools; and creating a commission that would hire an education manager to oversee all traditional and charter public schools in the city.

"For several months the governor has been working on a package to revamp the Detroit schools and while other governors have tried and failed, he hopes this plan will be different ..."

WLNS, September 15, 2015

Facing a debt load that will hit $515 million by this coming summer, under the governor's plan the Detroit Public Schools would use the existing local millage – about $72 million per year – to pay off the debt. The governor is extremely concerned that the debt requires more than $1,100 per student to pay down what is owed – money that would be better spent in the classroom helping students learn, which is why the governor's budget recommendation provides $72 million a year for 10 years from Michigan's tobacco settlement proceeds to offset the loss of locally generated revenues. As part of the governor's $720 million plan, $200 million provides for startup and transition costs, including space consolidation, academic and instructional support and investment in key academic programs. These funds will help get the school district back on firmer financial footing and, more importantly, help ensure Detroit children are receiving a quality education, setting them on a path toward a brighter future.

Economy Continues to Rebound

Earlier this year we heard economic experts once again forecast a promising future for Michigan. The unemployment rate is at its lowest mark in 15 years and private payroll jobs are up by more than 440,000 since the governor took office. Since December 2014, jobs have risen in manufacturing by 19,000 or 3.2 percent, at a time when national manufacturing job expansion has been sluggish. A total of 115,000 jobs have been created in the manufacturing sector since 2010. When it comes to job creation, Michigan is ranked sixth in the nation and personal income is increasing again in Michigan, more than doubling from 1.9 percent in 2013 to 3.9 percent in 2014.

"Things are looking pretty good. The environment has stabilized and progress has been fairly impressive."

George Fulton, director of Research
Seminar in Quantitative Economics
Detroit Free Press, November 20, 2015

Throughout 2015, home prices increased faster in Michigan than in the rest of the nation. In fact, home values have increased 32.1 percent since 2010, compared to the national average of only 22.7 percent. The state's per capita personal income increased 15.7 percent between 2010 and 2014 – 14th strongest among the states.

Budget Recommendation in Totality

The total Executive Budget Recommendation for fiscal year 2017, including all state and federal revenue sources, is $54.9 billion. Seventy-five percent of the total budget is dedicated to education and health and human services.

The Consensus Revenue Estimating Conference held in early January projected that revenues will be $10.2 billion in the general fund and $12.5 billion in the School Aid Fund for fiscal year 2017, for a combined total of $22.7 billion.

Fiscal year 2018 projected revenues are $10.6 billion in the general fund and $12.8 billion in the School Aid Fund, for a combined total of $23.4 billion.

Preparing Our Children for the Future

The governor knows how vital a good education is to the future success of our children, which is why his executive recommendation once again makes significant investments in education to help Michigan's children be more successful. Factoring in the proposed investments for fiscal year 2017, the governor has invested an additional $1.4 billion in the state's K-12 education system since taking office in 2011.

Despite continued declining enrollment, the governor recommends $12.1 billion in state funds for K-12. The governor's plan calls for $150 million in funding for the foundation allowance, an investment that translates to $60 to $120 per pupil. In addition, the proposed budget includes a $15 million increase for career and technical education middle college programs and equipment, and a $2.1 million investment in science, technology, engineering and mathematics programs to encourage students toward these fields of study.

"The education omnibus bills passed through the GOP-led House with flying colors, winning an unusually large number of votes from Democrats, who have traditionally opposed education budgets offered during Snyder's tenure."

MLive, June 4, 2015

State K-12 Appropriations Continue to Increase

Post-secondary

With an ongoing investment of $61.2 million, a 4.3 percent increase, the fiscal year 2017 recommendation fully restores aggregate university funding to fiscal year 2011 levels, a key goal of the governor since his first budget proposal in 2011. To help ensure college degrees remain affordable for Michigan students attending one of the state's 15 public universities, the governor's plan again relies on tuition restraint, setting restraint at 4.8 percent.

"Gov. Snyder recognizes that state government and state universities are partners in creating the Michigan of the future. Restoring higher education funding even in the face of difficult budget choices is an important part of that future."

Ferris State University President David Eisler, February 11, 2015

The proposed budget also recommends a 2.4 percent increase of $7.5 million for Michigan's 28 community colleges, for a total of $319 million.

Protecting the Public

Following impressive results from the Secure Cities program, which has reduced violent crime in four of the state's larger cities (Detroit, Flint, Pontiac and Saginaw), the governor's plan calls for an investment of $1.5 million to expand the program to the communities of Benton Harbor, Hamtramck, Harper Woods, Highland Park, Inkster and Muskegon Heights.

The governor's proposal also includes investments to protect the public of $9.5 million to support an additional trooper recruit school aimed at producing 85 graduates to increase the strength of the Michigan State Police. Residents across the state will benefit from having more troopers trained and sworn to protect and serve the public.

"The Michigan State Police have battled cyber crime since the 1990s. And now, along with Gov. Rick Snyder's initiative to improve the state's criminal justice system, the State Police have organized a task force to help fight cybercrime and deal with virus attacks on computer networks. This is a worthwhile effort to improve the safety of the Internet."

The Detroit News, June 6, 2015

Other public safety investments include $8.5 million to run an academy to train and graduate 350 additional corrections officers; a deposit of $6 million into the Disaster and Emergency Contingency Fund; $4 million aimed at providing safe and secure learning environments for students; $2.2 million to enhance capacity to combat the rising tide of digital crime; $500,000 for a higher education sexual assault prevention and education initiative; and $981,300 to purchase new ballistic vests to help keep probation and parole agents safe while on duty.

Putting People First

Gov. Snyder's executive recommendation includes several investments that put people first. The recently combined Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) is designed to serve residents across the state.

Health

This budget recommendation achieves the governor's goal of fully expanding the Healthy Kids Dental program to cover all eligible children in all of the state's 83 counties. The $25.6 million investment will bring the number of children with access to dental care to an estimated 826,800, compared to 285,000 who were covered in fiscal year 2011. Good dental hygiene is a vital building block to a lifetime of better health outcomes. According to Humana, research suggests that the inflammation from periodontal, or gum disease, puts individuals at a higher risk for diabetes, Alzheimer's and heart disease.

"For lawmakers and Gov. Rick Snyder, pat yourselves on the back for including dental in the Healthy Michigan Plan and for expanding Healthy Kids Dental to all 83 counties ..."

Lansing State Journal, July 8, 2015

Beyond dental health, the governor is also concerned with ensuring that residents across the state have access to affordable health care, which is why he signed the Healthy Michigan Plan into law three years ago. Since then, more than 600,000 Michiganders have signed up for health insurance. Per federal regulations, the state is starting to pick up a larger portion of program costs, which will help ensure that people continue to receive the quality coverage they've come to rely on for their health care.

The advancement of science and medicine has brought about countless new prescription drugs that can save lives and result in greatly improved health outcomes for individuals who live with a wide variety of medical conditions. While these new medications can significantly change lives, they are also rather costly. The state Pharmacy and Therapeutics Committee has recommended that new specialty medications to treat hepatitis C and cystic fibrosis be approved for Medicaid patients. The assumed cost to treat nearly 7,000 residents with hepatitis C for a full year is $91.5 million general fund, while treating 320 Michigan children with cystic fibrosis would total $43.7 million general fund. The DHHS base budget has been built to accommodate these costs. To prepare for additional medications in the pipeline to treat other conditions, the health and human services budget currently includes a specialty medications prescription reserve. Understanding that the need for funding will only increase as additional medications are recommended for treatment, the governor's executive recommendation includes a one-time deposit of $30 million into the reserve.

Human Services

Approximately 20,000 Michigan children in the Family Independence Program (FIP) who live with a caregiver who does not qualify currently receive an annual payment of $140 a year for clothing. To provide further assistance to these families and all families who qualify for FIP, the governor recommends a $6.1 million increase to extend the clothing allowance to all children in the program, adding nearly another 25,000 children, and increasing the allowance to $200 annually.

The governor's plan also includes $22.3 million to improve child safety and welfare through enhanced information technology to better monitor child protective services, foster care, and adoption cases. Additionally, the governor recommends $7.6 million to expand the Center for Forensic Psychiatry to help ensure persons ruled incompetent to stand trial or not guilty by reason of insanity receive mental health services they need.

Investing in Infrastructure

Michigan's infrastructure was given a D grade by the American Society of Civil Engineers, which is why the governor's supplemental request also includes $25 million for infrastructure needs specific to Flint and another $165 million to be set aside for statewide infrastructure needs in a newly created Michigan Infrastructure Fund. The new fund will be used to make strategic improvements and provide local governments with financial assistance in making necessary improvements to known high-risk lead and copper service lines.

"Gov. Rick Snyder capped a four-year effort Tuesday when he signed into law a $1.2 billion road funding package ..."

Detroit Free Press, November 10, 2015

With passage of a new comprehensive transportation package in 2015, Michigan has a new level of support and stability for infrastructure funding for the first time in many years. When fully implemented, the package will dedicate $1.2 billion to maintain and repair Michigan roads, bridges and other critical infrastructure across the state. The added funding comes from a 7.3 cents per gallon increase in gasoline taxes, an 11.3 cents per gallon increase in diesel taxes and increased vehicle registration taxes and fees beginning in 2017. The package also redirects existing income tax revenue to transportation starting in fiscal year 2019.

In the meantime, the governor's plan for fiscal year 2017 features $533.3 million in increased dedicated transportation revenue, which includes $189 million for the State Trunkline Fund, $283 million for local road agencies and $51 million for rail and public transit. The budget proposal also includes $57.5 million in new federal funds from the Fixing America's Surface Transportation (FAST) Act, which will for the first time in a decade provide stabilized and predictable federal funding for five years, with 2 percent annual increases for highway funding through 2020. The FAST funds will be used for local road agencies ($32 million), state trunklines ($15 million), and local transit ($10 million).

Saving for a Rainy Day

Saving for a rainy day is the cornerstone of any financially sound budget. Individuals and families throughout Michigan have to live according to a budget with three core concepts – set aside savings, pay bills and pay down debt. As a certified public accountant, Gov. Snyder understands that it's prudent to tackle the state budget with the same approach: fund critical programs and services, make strategic, long-term investments and ensure there are sufficient reserves.

While the fiscal year 2017 budget does not call for a deposit into the state's Budget Stabilization Fund (commonly referred to as the "Rainy Day Fund"), a fiscal year 2016 deposit will bring the fund to $611 million, for a total Rainy Day Fund increase of $609 million since the governor took office in 2011, when the balance was a mere $2.2 million.

The Budget Stabilization Fund (BSF) peaked at $1.3 billion in FY 2000, but was quickly depleted. Michigan started to rebuild the BSF balance in FY 2012. At the end of FY 2016 the balance will be approximately $611M.

Conclusion

The governor's sixth budget recommendation is focused on making strategic investments to address our challenges in Flint and Detroit while making statewide investments to educate our children, promote better health outcomes for Michiganders, protect state residents and ensure our infrastructure will last well into the future to support our needs. It's a budget recommendation focused on one Michigan where we can all live, work and play. Together, we are one Michigan working toward a brighter future.

Adoption of Governor Snyder's two-year budget recommendation for fiscal year 2017 is both measured and fiscally responsible. The governor and his administration are ready to work together with the members of the Michigan Senate and House of Representatives to enact a budget to build one Michigan that will prosper for generations to come.

Department of Agriculture and Rural Development

The Department of Agriculture and Rural Development (MDARD) provides services to Michigan residents as well as the food and agriculture sector through a variety of food safety, consumer protection, environmental protection, and animal and plant health programs. The governor's proposed budget for fiscal year 2017 recommends total funding of $91.6 million, of which $48 million is general fund. The general fund recommendation for fiscal year 2018 increases by $1.2 million to $49.2 million.

Funding Protects Public Health and the Environment

Highlights of Governor's Budget Recommendation

Funding for core programs of the department is maintained including food safety and consumer protection programs as well as plant and animal health, and disease response.

- The state's agricultural laboratory program provides services to farmers, industry and consumers. The governor proposes to increase laboratory funding by $3.1 million general fund. The additional funding for the Geagley laboratory will support new staff who will work to facilitate timely export of Michigan agricultural products utilizing internationally accepted testing methods, while ensuring that tainted commercial products are removed from the marketplace before they reach the consumer. Funding will also support updated equipment to facilitate quick identification of foodborne illness, and corresponding data upload onto shared platforms with the Centers for Disease Control, local public health agencies, and hospitals. The added resources within the Heffron laboratory will aid in consumer protection efforts including inspections of gasoline quality, product labeling, and accuracy of commercial scaling equipment.

- Included in the governor's fiscal year 2017 recommendation is $1.2 million general fund to implement on-farm food produce safety requirements under the Food Safety Modernization Act (FSMA). This federal law is designed to develop food safety programs with a focus on prevention, and will require the establishment of minimum standards regarding the production and harvesting of fruits and vegetables. Half of the additional funding will be allocated to the Michigan State University Extension and various local conservation districts to provide training, education and technical assistance for Michigan produce farmers.

- Public Act 411 of 2012 created the rural development fund to be used for grants and loans for projects that address the expansion and sustainability of agriculture, mining, forestry, oil and gas production and tourism. The Executive Recommendation contains $2 million to fund this program.

- The governor proposes an additional $500,000 general fund for the Farmland and Open Space Preservation program to replace declining restricted revenue. The Farmland Preservation Program was established in 1975 to preserve Michigan farmland in exchange for certain tax benefits including a state income tax credit.

- The governor proposes to focus more resources on the refined petroleum product cleanup program in the Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) by gradually shifting most refined petroleum fund from the Department of Agriculture and Rural Development to the DEQ. To accomplish this, the Executive Recommendation adds general fund to MDARD to maintain their critical laboratory services. At the end of 3 years, $500,000 refined petroleum revenues will remain in MDARD to support gasoline and oil inspection programs.

- In order to focus available revenues on high priority programs, the Executive Budget reduces general fund support for several discretionary programs by approximately $1 million.

Attorney General

As the lawyer for the State of Michigan, the Attorney General provides legal advice and representation to state officials and agencies and, when warranted, initiates legal action on behalf of the residents of Michigan. The Attorney General also receives and investigates consumer complaints and enforces child support orders. The governor's proposed budget for fiscal years 2017 and 2018 recommends total ongoing funding of $94.5 million, of which $38.4 million is general fund. In addition, one-time funding of $700,000 general fund is recommended for fiscal year 2017.

Attorney General Provides Legal Services on Behalf of the Public

Total: $95.2 million

Highlights of Governor's Budget Recommendation

- The Executive Budget includes $86.2 million for Attorney General programs and support services, including funding for 295 attorneys who represent the state in appellate court and the United States Supreme Court, support minors who are victims of abuse and neglect, investigate and prosecute Medicaid provider fraud, and mediate complaints regarding deceptive practices which harm consumers.

- The Child Support Enforcement Division and the Prosecuting Attorneys Coordinating Council are supported with $3.5 million and $2.1 million, respectively. The Child Support Enforcement Division prosecutes parents who are able to pay their court-ordered obligations but fail to do so. The Prosecuting Attorneys Coordinating Council provides continuing professional education, case management support, and legal research for local prosecutors in Michigan.

- The governor's ongoing commitment to justice for rape victims is supported with $1.7 million for sexual assault law enforcement efforts. Additionally, a comprehensive plan to fight human trafficking is supported with nearly $400,000.

- The governor's public safety initiative is continued with $900,000 to target repeat violent offenders and reduce backlogs of outstanding warrants in high-risk urban areas.

- To support the recommendations of the Michigan Prescription Drug and Opioid Abuse Task Force, the Attorney General will establish a prescription drug abuse unit with one-time funds of $700,000.

Department of Civil Rights

The Michigan Department of Civil Rights works to prevent discrimination through educational initiatives that promote voluntary compliance with civil rights laws. The department also investigates and resolves discrimination complaints. The Civil Rights Commission, appointed by the governor, is charged by the Michigan state constitution with investigating alleged discrimination against Michigan residents and securing the equal protection of civil rights. The Department of Civil Rights also provides support for the Women's Commission, the Hispanic/ Latino Commission of Michigan, the Asian Pacific American Affairs Commission, the Commission on Middle-Eastern American Affairs, and the staff for the American with Disabilities Act. The governor's proposed budget for fiscal years 2017 and 2018 recommends total ongoing funding of $16.4 million, of which $13.1 million is general fund. In fiscal year 2017, the governor also recommends one-time funding of $350,000 general fund.

Highlights of Governor's Budget Recommendation

- The governor's recommendation provides one-time funding of $250,000 general fund to expand a key initiative, Advocates and Leaders for Police and Community Trust (ALPACT). ALPACT brings state, federal and local law enforcement leaders together with community and religious leaders to address trust issues between police and communities they serve. The 8 existing ALPACT organizations have expanded their membership and activities, while 3 additional cities will launch similar organizations in 2017.

- The Executive Recommendation also includes one-time funding of $100,000 general fund for the Commission on Middle-Eastern American Affairs created under Executive Order 2015-6. The Commission will be responsible for reviewing the state's policies concerning the Middle Eastern American community.

Community Colleges

A key component of the state's education system, Michigan's 28 community colleges provide nearly 383,000 students with affordable access to postsecondary education opportunities. These institutions are integral to attaining the governor's goal of ensuring that at least 60 percent of Michigan residents have high-quality skills training, a degree or other credential by 2025. The governor's proposed budget for fiscal year 2017 recommends total funding of $399 million, of which $138.6 million is general fund. The recommendation for fiscal year 2018 is $399.5 million, of which $138.6 million is general fund.

Highlights of Governor's Budget Recommendation

- Community colleges receive an increase of 2.9 percent in total funding over fiscal year 2016. Since fiscal year 2011, combined operations and retirement funding for community colleges has increased by $98 million, an increase of 33 percent.

- This proposed budget includes a 2.4 percent inflationary increase of $7.5 million in community college operations funding, which brings total operations funding to $319 million. The increase is distributed through a modified version of the existing funding formula. The formula distributes 30 percent of new funding as an across-the-board increase. The other 70 percent of new funding is distributed based on the following performance metrics: student contact hours that are weighted based upon increased program costs in health and technology; degrees and certificates with an emphasis on natural sciences, engineering, technology, and health; completion improvement; administrative costs as a percentage of core expenditures; and best practices that enhance local strategic value. In order to receive this additional funding, community colleges will be required to participate in the Michigan Transfer Wizard, making it easier for students to transfer credits among Michigan institutions.

- The governor's budget continues to cap the amount of unfunded accrued liability contributions paid by community colleges to the Michigan Public School Employees Retirement System, with the state making payments for amounts over the cap. This requires $3.7 million in new funding and total ongoing funds of $74.9 million in fiscal year 2017. The state funding provides community colleges with a more predictable cost for their retirement payments, facilitating greater long-term planning.

- State Building Authority rent payments of $30.9 million, all general fund, support debt service for recently constructed community college building projects.

Department of Corrections

The Department of Corrections maintains public safety by providing custody and care for Michigan's incarcerated prisoners while maintaining oversight and supervision of parolees and felony probationers. The governor's proposed budget for fiscal years 2017 and 2018 recommends total ongoing funding of $2 billion, of which $1.97 billion is general fund. The recommendation for fiscal year 2017 also includes $9.5 million in one-time funding.

Over 75% of Corrections Costs are in Prison Operations and Health Care Services

Highlights of Governor's Budget Recommendation

- The governor remains committed to tightly controlling corrections costs while ensuring public safety. The Executive Budget includes $1.2 billion to operate safe and secure prison system facilities that currently house approximately 42,600 inmates.

- The budget includes almost $370 million for parole, probation, and community programs that provide cost-effective local alternatives to more costly incarceration in the state prison system. The department supervises approximately 45,000 offenders on felony probation and more than 15,000 offenders on parole.

Efficient Prison Operations

- The Executive Budget recognizes $3.8 million in general fund savings resulting from a new health care contract. Savings are realized by consolidating health care and pharmaceutical services from multiple providers to one provider.

- The governor recommends $10 million in general fund savings due to the relocation of the Kinross Correctional Facility to the site of the former Hiawatha Correctional Facility and the redistribution of prisoners throughout the system to most efficiently utilize existing prison capacity.

Health Care

- Based on the recommendation of the Michigan Pharmacy and Therapeutics committee, the Executive Budget includes $17.3 million general fund to fund expanded treatment options for prisoners with Hepatitis C. The new class of drugs cures the most common type of Hepatitis C. Expanding the use of this treatment helps ensure a safe environment for the overall prison population and helps control long term health care costs.

- To address the ongoing mental and behavioral health challenges experienced by prisoners, the governor recommends $2 million general fund to expand treatment options to best meet mental health and sex offender programming needs. The governor's budget recommends $750,000 general fund to expand substance abuse programs specifically designed for probationers with a history of relapse.

Investing in Infrastructure and Safety

- The Executive Budget recommends $981,300 in one-time funding to support the replacement of ballistic vests for corrections officers. Routine replacement of safety equipment helps to ensure the safety of agents in the field across the state.

- The governor's budget recommends approximately $1 million to upgrade internet bandwidth to support video conferencing of court hearings and internet based education programs.

- To meet the workforce needs of the department, the governor's budget recommends $8.5 million in one-time general fund to support a corrections officer academy with the anticipation of graduating 350 corrections officers. The additional officers will allow the department to keep pace with current attrition rates and ensure the safe and secure operations of Michigan's prisons.

STATE BUDGET OFFICE
February 10, 2016

Community Colleges
FY 2017 Executive Budget Highlights

Overview: The governor proposes a fiscal year 2017 budget for community colleges of $399 million, an increase of 2.9 percent in total funding over fiscal year 2016. Operations funding receives a 2.4 percent increase ($7.5 million) to a total of $319 million. Since fiscal year 2011, combined operations and retirement funding for community colleges has increased by $98 million, an increase of 33 percent.

Operations: An inflationary increase of $7.5 million for performance-based funding is distributed through a modification of the enacted fiscal year 2016 formula. In keeping with the governor's goal of increasing the number of Michigan citizens employed in the skilled trades, 20 percent of funding is distributed based on the weighted degree and certificate metric, which rewards colleges for skilled trades graduates. The metrics are as follows:

- Across-the-board distribution: 30 percent of the formula.
- The number of student contact hours, weighted for increased program costs in health and technology: 30 percent of the formula.
- The two-year average number of weighted associate degree and certificate completions. Degree and certificate completions continue to be weighted with an emphasis on natural sciences, engineering, technology, and health: 20 percent of the formula.
- The completion improvement rate, which rewards colleges for an increase in the percentage of students who completed a certificate, degree, or transfer within six years: 10 percent of the formula.
- The two-year average of the percentage of institutional expenditures spent on administration: 5 percent of the formula.
- Across-the-board distribution of presumed local strategic value funds, because all colleges had met best practices in the past: 5 percent of the formula.

As a prerequisite for new funding, community colleges will continue to be required to actively participate in the Michigan Transfer Network, similar to universities, which informs students how their credits will transfer in and out to other Michigan postsecondary education institutions.

Retirement Reform Payments: The governor's budget continues to cap the amount of unfunded accrued liability contributions paid by community colleges to the Michigan Public School Employees Retirement System, with the state making payments for amounts over the cap of 20.96%. The budget increases the state's payments for retirement liabilities by $3.7 million, bringing the total state support for the community colleges' MPSERS obligations to $74.9 million in fiscal year 2017. The fiscal year 2018 budget assumes an additional increase of $500,000 for a total of $75.4 million.

Activities Classification Structure (ACS) Transfer: Responsibility for the maintenance and coordination of the state community college database (ACS) is transferred from the Workforce Development Agency (WDA) to the Center for Educational Performance and Information (CEPI).

State Building Authority Rent: Included in the bill is a schedule of estimated payments the state makes to support debt service for recently constructed community college building projects. This $30.9 million in general fund, although appropriated in the DTMB budget, represents additional state support for community colleges.

Notes:

1. Calculations for weighted contact hours are based on data provided by the Workforce Development Agency from FY 2014.
2. Calculations for completion improvement are based on data provided to the Governor's dashboard on completion rates from the Michigan Community College Association annually.
3. The completion improvement metric utilizes six-year completions for each college from 2007 and 2008 cohorts. The metric measures the college against itself over the two year cohort period. Completions include certificates, degrees and transfers.
4. Weighted completions and adjusted administrative costs are based on a two-year average of data from FY 2014 and FY 2015. Adjusted administrative costs are preliminary data provided by the Workforce Development Agency while completions data are from IPEDS. The FY16 enacted formula is the source of the methodology for weighted completions, administrative costs, and local strategic value.
5. Adjusted administrative cost percentages are subtracted from a ceiling of 24%, which was the same ceiling amount in the FY16 enacted formula.

Department of Corrections Highlights

Background
The fiscal year 2017 Executive Recommendation invests in new programming and technology infrastructure while also realizing savings from operational efficiencies. The governor's budget enhances physical, mental, and behavioral health treatment capacities and the overall safety for all who serve and are served within the Department of Corrections environment. The Executive Budget recommends total funding of $1.97 billion general fund for fiscal year 2017. The following are highlights from the Executive Budget Recommendation.

Population Trends and Operating Efficiencies Savings: $10 million
Over the past decade, the prison population has decreased by 17% from a high of 51,500 inmates in early 2007 to 42,600 inmates in 2015. Decreased intake, increased parole, and decreased parole revocations for small violations have contributed to the declining population trend. As population declines, operational efficiencies are gained to realize savings department wide. Recommended savings for fiscal year 2017 are realized via the elimination of leased beds, efficient utilization of existing prison capacities, and the relocation of the Kinross Correctional Facility for a total savings of $10 million general fund.

Health care savings: $3.8 million
A new contract for consolidated health care and pharmaceutical services will result in $3.8 million general fund savings for fiscal year 2017.

Specialty Pharmaceuticals: $17.3 million
The Pharmacy and Therapeutics Committee, an advisory body that makes recommendations as Medicaid-eligible pharmacy treatments become available, recently recommended expanded treatment options for Hepatitis C for Medicaid recipients. The 2017 Executive Recommendation includes $17.3 million general fund to enable the department to expand Hepatitis C treatment protocols to align with the expanded community standard of care. As more specialty pharmaceuticals become available in the future, the department may have a need for continued investment to ensure the community standard of health care is sustained.

Food service vendor: $1.5 million
The department continues to realize $10 million general fund in ongoing savings from privatized food service, as well as operational stability resulting from consistent and reliable food service provision. An increase of $1.5 million general fund will help ensure the continuity of a secure and stable prison environment.

EDUCATION OMNIBUS BUDGET
EXECUTIVE BUDGET
FISCAL YEARS 2017 AND 2018

Presented February 10, 2016

The Executive Budget for fiscal year 2017 contains one budget bill for all government agencies and one for education. The education omnibus budget bill supports the state's education system at all levels from preschool to higher education. The Executive Budget for education totals $16.2 billion - $14.2 billion for public schools, $399 million for community colleges and nearly $1.6 billion for higher education.

Highlights of the Education Omnibus Budget Bill

- Despite the challenging state revenue situation, the education omnibus bill is still increased by a total of $357.6 million, or 2.3%, from fiscal year 2016 enacted levels.

- Over $1 billion of the education budget supports MPSERS unfunded accrued liability (UAL) costs. As part of recent MPSERS reforms, a cap of 20.96% of salary and wages was placed on the share of retirement UAL costs that school districts, community colleges and libraries are obligated to pay, with the state paying the amount over the cap.

  The budget also includes a similar payment for universities over a payroll cap of 25.73% to the seven participating universities, at an estimated cost of $5.9 million in fiscal year 2017. Legislation effectuating the cap continues to be pending.

  In addition, the budget provides for $101.7 million to offset normal retirement costs, bringing total MPSERS spending to $1.16 billion.

Higher Education
FY 2017 Executive Budget Highlights

Overview: The governor proposes investing an additional $61.2 million, or 4.3 percent, in state university operations. This increase brings total operating funds for universities to over $1.48 billion and restores aggregate university funding to fiscal year 2011 levels. Total funding for higher education is nearly $1.6 billion.

Operations: A total of $59.8 million for performance-based funding is proposed, furthering the governor's efforts to have 60 percent of citizens hold a high-quality degree or other credential by 2025.

All of last year's performance-based metrics are continued in this Executive Budget, providing stability to universities, and allowing for long-range institutional planning. The metrics are as follows:

- The two-year average number of undergraduate degree and certificate completions in critical skills areas. Critical skills areas are science, technology, engineering, mathematics, and health.
- Research and development expenditures for only those universities that are ranked as research universities under Carnegie Classifications, as classified prior to February 1, 2016.
- Several metrics that are scored by comparison with national Carnegie Classification peers, and then weighted by undergraduate FYES. Scoring is done using the enacted fiscal year 2016 values (3 points for Top 20 percentile performance, and 2 points for performance above the national median or improved performance).
    - Six-year graduation rate.
    - Total degree completions.
    - Institutional support costs as a percentage of total core expenditures.
    - The percentage of students receiving a Pell Grant.

Michigan State University AgBioResearch and Extension also receive a combined 2.3 percent increase, or $1.4 million. This brings total funding for these programs to $61.9 million.

The prerequisites for funding are those enacted in fiscal year 2016 and include the following requirements:

- Universities must limit tuition and fee increases to 4.8 percent or less in order to receive new performance funding provided in this recommendation. This cap represents double the level of expected inflation.

- Universities must actively participate in the MACRAO Michigan Transfer Network and provide timely updates to the network, which informs students how their credits will transfer in and out to other Michigan postsecondary education institutions.
- Universities must participate in reverse transfer agreements with at least 3 community colleges.
- Universities do not and will not consider whether dual enrollment credits were utilized for high school graduation when deciding to award university credit for those classes.

MPSERS Reform: The governor's budget continues to recommend state funding for the amount of unfunded accrued liability contributions paid by the seven member universities of the Michigan Public School Employees Retirement System over a cap of 25.73% of payroll. This payment totals $5.9 million, an increase of $730,000 over the fiscal year 2016 level. The legislation effectuating the cap is still pending.

Student Financial Aid: A total of $107.5 million is recommended for student financial aid. An additional $2 million funds increased reimbursement costs for the Tuition Incentive Program (TIP), supporting Michigan's low-income postsecondary students. Beginning in fiscal year 2018, the governor recommends capping TIP reimbursements to any university or college at $8.5 million per year.

State Building Authority Rent: Included in the bill is a schedule of estimated payments the state makes to support debt service for recently constructed university building projects. This $145 million in general fund, although appropriated in the DTMB budget, represents additional state support for higher education.

FISCAL YEAR 2017 EXECUTIVE RECOMMENDATION
Medicaid Funding for Specialty Pharmacy

Proposal
The Fiscal Year (FY) 2017 Executive Recommendation includes three adjustments to account for the cost of specialty pharmacy products in Michigan's Medicaid, Children's Special Healthcare Services (CSHCS) and Healthy Michigan Plan (HMP) programs. The three adjustments are as follows:

- Hepatitis C Treatment: The Executive Recommendation provides $327.8 million gross ($91.5 million general fund) to fund the cost of hepatitis C specialty pharmacy treatment.
- Cystic Fibrosis Treatment: The Executive Recommendation provides $66.3 million gross ($43.7 million general fund) to fund the cost of specialty pharmacy treatment for persons with cystic fibrosis.
- Pharmacy Reserve Fund: The Executive Recommendation provides $86.1 million gross ($30.0 million general fund) in one-time funding as a reserve for the costs associated with new specialty pharmacy products reaching the market which may arise throughout the year.

Background
The State of Michigan makes use of its Pharmacy and Therapeutics (P&T) Committee, an advisory committee comprised of physicians and pharmacists, to make non-binding clinical recommendations to the DHHS related to coverage for new pharmacy products. In December of 2015, Michigan's P&T committee made two recommendations related to the coverage of specialty pharmacy products that will be implemented in FY 2016.

Hepatitis C Coverage
The P&T Committee recommended that Michigan expand Medicaid coverage to include new hepatitis C specialty pharmacy products. Unlike other treatments previously available to patients, use of these new specialty pharmacy products cures a user of hepatitis C about 90% of the time. The cost of this treatment is significant; budgeted in FY 2017 at an average cost of $46,600 per patient. To conserve state resources and ensure treatment compliance:

- Coverage is prioritized to persons most severely affected by hepatitis C (those with a metavir score of F3 and F4).
- Enrollees must complete a prior authorization process with a specialist prior to accessing this medication. Through this process they must attest that they are not engaging in high risk behaviors that may lead to a recurrence of hepatitis C and that they are committed to adherence to the treatment protocol.

Michigan's Medicaid program is the last in the United States to provide broad-based access to these drugs to its enrollees. The FY 2017 Executive Recommendation assumes that 7,000 Medicaid and HMP enrollees will access this drug in FY 2017.

Cystic Fibrosis Coverage
The P&T Committee also recommended that Michigan provide access to a new pharmacy product (Orkambi) to eligible enrollees with cystic fibrosis. Orkambi is a drug demonstrated as effective for individuals with a common form of cystic fibrosis who are age 12 or older. While this product does not cure a person of cystic fibrosis, it has been demonstrated to greatly aid in the management of this disease and improve the quality of life. This product is also quite expensive; the FY 2017 appropriation assumes the full year cost of providing Orkambi to an enrollee is $207,500. To ensure appropriate use of this drug DHHS will implement the following:

- Coverage is limited to persons who will benefit from the treatment- those with the proper form of cystic fibrosis over the age of 12.
- Persons can only access Orkambi after completing a prior authorization process, and obtaining a recommendation from a specialist.

It is assumed that 320 Medicaid, HMP and CSHCS enrollees will access this drug in FY 2017.

Pharmacy Reserve Fund
Throughout the FY 2017 budget development process the DHHS will continue to monitor new pharmacy products that come to market and any price changes associated with existing specialty products covered through Michigan's Medicaid program. An expectation that Michigan Medicaid may need to expand coverage to additional high cost pharmacy products in FY 2017 has driven the creation of a one-time pharmacy reserve fund. If appropriated, these funds are intended to be accessed if especially high-cost pharmaceuticals are released and are deemed medically necessary for inclusion on the Medicaid drug formulary or are required to be covered under state or federal statute.

FISCAL YEAR 2017 EXECUTIVE RECOMMENDATION
Prescription Drug and Opioid Abuse Task Force

Overview

The Prescription Drug and Opioid Abuse Task Force (Task Force), established in June of 2015, was asked to provide policy recommendations to address the growth in abuse of opioid and prescription drugs in Michigan. The Task Force was chaired by Lieutenant Governor Brian Calley and included state lawmakers and representatives from state agencies, the courts, law enforcement and the medical community. In October of 2015, the Task Force released 25 recommendations that largely focused on the following:

- Establishing new requirements for greater use of the Michigan Automated Prescription System (MAPS), the state's prescription drug monitoring system.
- Increasing resources for drug treatment courts and support for the use of Medication Assisted Treatment.
- Enhancing existing law enforcement efforts related to opioids and prescription drug abuse.

The FY 2017 Executive Recommendation provides $7.9 million in general fund to implement new investments related to these Task Force recommendations.

Background Information

The table below details proposed FY 2017 initiatives related to Task Force recommendations in the Executive Recommendation.

INITIATIVE	DEPT	DESCRIPTION	ONGOING GF	ONE-TIME GF
Michigan Automated Prescription System Upgrades	LARA	Recommends $2.5 million in one-time funding for system upgrades, server and application supports for MAPS to accommodate additional system usage requirements. Also includes $2.0 million in ongoing funding for analytical support, investigative staff, and enhanced technology for increased enforcement.	$2,020.0	$2,470.0
Drug Enforcement Strategy	MSP	Proposes $1.3 million as ongoing funding for drug diversion teams to implement a drug enforcement strategy. The diversion teams will respond to requests for investigations by police agencies and independently detect, investigate, and arrest drug trafficking violators.	$1,256.3	$0.0
Expand Problem Solving Courts	Judiciary	Recommends $1.0 million in one-time funding to expand drug and veteran drug treatment court programs by $500,000 each in order to serve additional participants.	$0.0	$1,000.0
Prescription Drug Abuse Unit	AG	Includes $700,000 in one-time funding to establish a statewide attorney general drug unit to provide investigatory and prosecution assistance to supplement the efforts of local authorities in prosecuting drug cases.	$0.0	$700.0

Public Safety Initiatives
Fiscal Year 2017 Executive Budget

February 10, 2016

Building on the priorities outlined in the governor's 2015 Special Message on Criminal Justice, the Executive Budget for fiscal year 2017 continues a commitment to public safety and criminal justice. The budget includes $31.2 million in general fund investments across the State Police, Department of Corrections, and Judiciary budgets (including $17.3 million one-time general fund) to support an extensive array of public safety initiatives focusing on specialized law enforcement services, drug enforcement, school and campus safety, disaster preparedness, problem-solving courts, indigent defense, and expanded mental health and behavioral health programming for Michigan's offender population.

Law Enforcement

Protecting the public is a fundamental role of government. The Executive Recommendation emphasizes this role by investing in several law enforcement initiatives within the budget for State Police including Secure Cities Partnerships. Secure Cities Partnerships have reduced violent crime in Detroit by 8.1 percent, Flint by 37.3 percent, Pontiac by 10.1 percent, and Saginaw by 29.5 percent from 2012 through 2014. Building on this success, the budget includes funding to expand Secure Cities Partnerships into Benton Harbor, Hamtramck, Harper Woods, Highland Park, Inkster, and Muskegon Heights.

With technology rapidly expanding into more and more aspects of daily life, law enforcement must keep pace. To increase the capacity of the Michigan State Police to prevent, detect, and investigate cybercrimes, the governor's budget invests in the resources necessary to provide statewide investigatory and digital forensics support in the realm of cyber security, computer crimes, and digital evidence.

To continue the governor's focus on improving public safety and address emerging crime trends and public safety needs, the budget recommends a trooper recruit school anticipated to graduate 85 troopers reflective of the communities they will serve.

Statewide Drug Enforcement Strategy

Opioid abuse has increased dramatically in Michigan. In response to this emerging crisis, the governor's budget for State Police includes the deployment of a statewide drug enforcement strategy in support of the recommendations made by the Michigan Prescription Drug and Opioid Abuse Task Force. This strategy will focus on enhancing capacity to combat the illegal diversion and trafficking of prescription drugs, and enhancing training programs for state and local law enforcement personnel actively engaged in drug interdiction efforts.

School and Campus Safety

Ensuring safe learning environments for students is a paramount responsibility at both the state and local levels of government. To help fulfill this responsibility, the Executive Budget for State Police recommends a grant program focused on K-12 school safety. This initiative will provide competitive grants to schools and county sheriff departments to support the purchase of equipment, technologies, and training to provide safe and secure learning environments for students.

Additionally, the State Police budget includes grant funding to help prevent sexual assaults on higher education campuses. The sexual assault prevention and education grants will support new and innovative education, awareness, prevention, reporting, and bystander intervention programs to combat sexual assault in campus environments.

Disaster Preparedness

To best ensure Michigan's disaster readiness, the governor's budget includes a deposit into the Disaster and Emergency Contingency Fund. The Disaster and Emergency Contingency Fund supports immediate response and recovery activities in the event of a disaster or emergency.

The budget also supports the development of a statewide strategy and implementation plan for energy assurance. The strategy will identify the necessary actions to effectively respond to potential widespread, long-duration power outages and ensure the state has the capabilities to deal with infrastructure and population impacts resulting from a catastrophic power outage.

Problem Solving Courts and Right to Counsel

Providing fair representation and appropriate legal process is a pillar of the criminal justice system. Supporting the recommendation of the Michigan Prescription Drug and Opioid Abuse Task Force, the Judiciary budget continues to invest in specialized drug treatment and veterans' courts. These problem-solving courts focus on diverting non-violent offenders with underlying medical and social problems into an individualized treatment plan as an alternative to incarceration.

Ensuring the constitutional right to counsel for low-income individuals facing criminal charges is adequately provided, the governor includes funding to support the development of minimum standards for representation, rules, and procedures to guarantee the right of indigent defendants.

Prisoner Reentry and Diversion Programs

Recognizing that most offenders will be released from the custody of the Michigan Department of Corrections and reenter their communities, the governor's budget includes funding to support expanded prisoner reentry and diversion programs to help offenders succeed upon their release.

To support these efforts, the Executive Budget for the Department of Corrections supports the implementation of the Living in Recovery Program that combines mental/physical health and substance abuse treatment techniques to provide specialized support for offenders with a history of recidivism. The program focuses on identifying and understanding behavioral triggers that that may result in offender relapse and working through them to better prevent future drug and behavioral relapses.

The governor also proposes expansion of mental and behavioral health treatment capacity within the Department of Corrections to better equip prisoners with the necessary skills to successfully transition back into their communities and function independently long-term without reoffending.

The following table highlights the investments in public safety included in the Executive Recommendation for fiscal year 2017:

FY2018 – 1,476,000, a decrease of 10,000 from FY2017

School Operations Funding

- The FY2017 budget provides for a $60 to $120 per pupil foundation allowance increase distributed through the 2x formula, at a cost of $150 million. Total foundation allowance funding exceeds $9.1 billion. The minimum foundation allowance will increase to $7,511 per pupil; the basic foundation allowance will increase to $8,229 per pupil. To help declining enrollment, the budget recommends revising the membership blend calculation to place greater weight on prior year counts. Also included is a provision that allows hold harmless districts to receive the full foundation allowance increase above the statutory CPI cap of 0.1%.

Per-Pupil Foundation Allowances
	Minimum	Basic/Maximum
FY2016	$7,391	$8,169
Increase	$ 120	$ 60
FY2017 Foundation	$7,511	$8,229

- State funding for MPSERS retirement contributions totals over $1 billion, with $982.8 million in payments for the amount above the statutory cap of 20.96% (PA 300 of 2012) for districts, ISDs and district libraries, an increase of $89.3 million over the FY2016 level. This equates to an average of $660 per pupil, with a range of between $5 and $3,100.

- As part of an overall turnaround plan for Detroit Public Schools, the governor recommends $72 million per year from Michigan's tobacco settlement proceeds be placed in a Detroit Public Schools Trust Fund for ten years. These separate funds will be used to offset the loss of local tax revenue needed to retire the existing district's debt, protecting all other districts from reduced financial resources.

- Intermediate School District (ISD) Operations funding is increased by 1.6% to a total of nearly $68.2 million.

- Competitive consolidation grants of $5 million are continued to help offset transition costs associated with dissolutions, consolidations, or annexations of districts.

Improving Early Learning and Literacy

- The budget includes $257.3 million for the Great Start Readiness Program. Of that amount, $243.9 million will provide over 63,000 half-day preschool opportunities to 4-year-olds across the state.

- The governor's budget continues recent reforms to improve Michigan's ranking in national comparisons of 4th-grade reading proficiency levels. The budget includes $23.9 million for efforts to increase reading proficiency by the end of a child's third grade year. The programs include the use of multi-tiered systems of supports at the district level, regular diagnostic screenings of students, and targeted interventions for students identified as falling behind. The investment also includes funding for professional development, literacy coaches, and additional instruction time.

Investing in College and Career Readiness Programs

- The budget recommends an increase of $15 million (total of $25 million) to update equipment for career and technical education early/middle college programs ($10 million) and to increase funding for programs that are aligned with the ten prosperity regions ($5 million), providing students with the opportunity to earn an associate's degree, technical certification, transferable college credit, or participation in a registered apprenticeship while taking high school courses. Funding for other vocational education programs remains at $45.8 million.

- The budget continues to recommend $3.05 million to increase awareness of available college and career choices and to increase the number of college advisors in schools. The budget also maintains $1.75 million for incentives to districts that support dual enrollment.

- The FY2017 budget recommends a total of $2.5 million for First Robotics programs, as well as $250,000 to pay for testing costs associated with Advanced Placement and International Baccalaureate tests for low-income pupils.

- A total of $10.5 million ($5.3 million state funds and $5.2 million federal) supports the state's science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) initiatives, nearly $8 million for the existing math and science centers, and an additional $2.5 million for program recommendations from the STEM Advisory Council.

Assessments and Accountability

- The FY2017 budget provides $40.1 million ($33.9 million in state and $6.2 million in federal) for costs associated with student assessments required under state and federal law. This is a reduction of $10.1 million for one-time costs of converting tests to online which are completed and to make use of the kindergarten summative assessment in place of the kindergarten entry assessment.

- With the assistance of appointed Chief Executive Officers, the School Reform Office will intervene in eligible chronically low-performing schools. $5 million in funds are proposed to provide these schools with additional resources needed to improve student achievement for 3 years.

- A total of $10 million is included in the FY2017 budget for costs associated with the educator evaluations system. Funds are recommended to be used for professional development and training activities required by law.

- The FY2017 budget maintains funding to districts at the FY2016 level of $38 million for state data collection and reporting costs. Center for Educational Performance and Information (CEPI) funding totals $12.2 million general fund.

Student Support Services

- The FY2017 budget provides over $1.4 billion for special education services: $973 million in state funds and $441 million in federal funds.

- Based upon the recent recommendations of the Special Education Reform Task Force, the budget includes $1.4 million for a grant to the Michigan Integrated Behavioral and Learning Support Initiative (MiBLSi) to assist ISDs with implementing a nationally-recognized evidence-based and data-driven academic and behavioral intervention model.

- Funding for academically at-risk children continues at nearly $390 million. Within that amount, funding for adolescent teen health centers is continued at 5.6 million and hearing and vision screenings is maintained at $5.2 million. In addition, the budget includes $852.7 million federal funds to support at-risk students.

- Funding for school lunch and breakfast programs is $538.2 million: $25 million in state funds and $513.2 million in federal funds.

- Funding is maintained for adult education programs, administered by the Talent Investment Agency (TIA) at $25 million. Many programmatic changes are included that more closely align state funding with federal adult education program requirements.

- The budget maintains $7.4 million for the Michigan Virtual University to provide best practices in virtual coursework.

- School transportation safety programs are funded at $3.3 million: $1.7 million for school bus inspections provided by Michigan State Police and $1.6 million for school bus driver safety training. Funding to support transportation costs in small, isolated districts is maintained at $5 million.

- Education programs in juvenile justice facilities are included at $1.3 million. Educational programs that serve wards of the court are supported with $8 million. Funding for the Youth ChalleNGe Program is maintained at $1.5 million.

Health and Safety Supports

- To help address the critical needs in Flint, a total of $10.1 million general fund is recommended to provide partial year funding to expand early education programs in Flint and to provide Genesee ISD with staffing resources for early identification and intervention services to children impacted by elevated levels of lead. Recommendations include $6.4 million to offer Early On services, $1.3 million for additional school nurses, $1.5 million to expand GSRP services, and $950,000 to support Genesee ISD. The budget includes a placeholder for funding from the Flint Emergency Reserve Fund to increase support as needs are identified throughout FY 2017.

- The budget includes $9 million for reimbursements to districts for costs associated with voluntary testing of water for lead in schools pursuant to a statewide strategic plan developed by the department, in coordination with DEQ and LARA.

Debt Service and Other Required Payments

- School Bond Loan Fund Debt Service is funded at $126.5 million.
- Renaissance Zone reimbursements are recommended at $20 million.
- School Aid Fund Borrowing Costs are increased by $1 million to a total of $3 million.

STATE BUDGET OFFICE
February 10, 2016

Issue Briefing:
State and Local Transportation Revenues

The fiscal year 2017 executive recommendation includes $590.8 million in new revenue for state and local transportation programs – bringing a new level of support and stability for infrastructure funding for the first time in many years. Along with baseline revenue increases, this additional funding is derived from the state transportation revenue package and reauthorization of the federal Fixing America's Surface Transportation (FAST) Act – both enacted in December 2015.

State Transportation Revenue Package

The principal source of revenues for the 2015 state transportation package comes from three major areas:

Motor Fuel Tax
- Gasoline tax increased 7.3 cents per gallon on January 1, 2017.
- Diesel tax increased 11.3 cents on January 1, 2017 (parity with gasoline).
- Gasoline and diesel tax rates indexed to inflation, beginning on January 1, 2022.

Vehicle Registration
- Increased registration taxes for passenger vehicles, light trucks and large commercial trucks by 20 percent, beginning on January 1, 2017. Truck weight fees are also increased 20 percent.

Income Tax Revenues
- Beginning in fiscal year 2019, the transportation package statutorily dedicates $150 million of individual income tax revenue (that would otherwise be deposited to the general fund) exclusively to roads. This dedication is increased to $325 million in fiscal year 2020, and $600 million in fiscal year 2021 and each year thereafter.

A key provision of the revenue package diverts an initial $100 million of increased motor fuel tax revenue to a new Roads Innovation Fund beginning in fiscal year 2017. These funds may only be released for distribution to local road agencies and the Department of Transportation after a 1-time concurrent resolution is approved by the legislature. The Executive Recommendation assumes the Roads Innovation Funds will be released prior to fiscal year 2017.

FAST Act Reauthorization

The FAST Act represents the first long-term federal transportation re-authorization bill in over a decade, providing $57.5 million in new support for Michigan highway and transit programs in fiscal year 2017. This is in addition to the over $1 billion that the state receives in federal transportation funding annually. The FAST Act also includes 2% increases in highway funding for each of the following four years.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
February 9, 2016
Release #: 33

Outreach to Flint's Blind Community Helps Ensure Access to Information and Resources

Flint, Mich. – The Bureau of Services for Blind Persons (BSBP) is working to ensure Flint's blind community has access to all information and resources related to the Flint water emergency.

"We have made direct contact with all of the bureau's blind clients who live in Flint to ensure they have the resources they need and we will continue to provide assistance to any Flint resident who is blind or visually impaired," said BSBP Director Edward Rodgers.

Bureau staff contacted nearly 40 BSBP clients living in Flint by either home visit or phone to ensure they had access to all health-related water emergency information and to offer assistance in obtaining bottled water, filters, water replacement cartridges and water testing kits.

Information is available in braille by contacting the bureau. Flint residents who are blind or visually impaired and need further assistance or information should contact Sue Luzenski at the BSBP at Luzenskis@michigan.gov or 517-335-4265.

The State of Michigan continues to coordinate response efforts in partnership with the City of Flint, Genesee County and local community organizations. Additional information about water response efforts is available at www.michigan.gov/flintwater, by calling United Way's 211 or visiting www.helpforflint.com.

For more information about the BSBP, visit www.michigan.gov/bsbp or call 1-800-292-4200, TTY 888-864-1212.

Flint Water Daily Update
Updated Feb. 8

Current Issues Talking Points

State partners with Flint human service groups to assist with water testing

- Water testing teams need extra hands to get the job done in a timely manner.
- The new partnership between the state and Flint area organizations - Orchards Children's Services and Flint YMCA's Safe Places Program – will hire and train 50 Flint residents this month to help conduct water tests for their fellow community member across the city.
    - More residents will be hired as more work is identified.
- The partnership is part of a comprehensive effort to help ensure Flint families benefit from both short-term and long-term opportunities created by relief efforts.
- Comprehensive water testing is a necessary step along Flint's road to recovery.
- The health, safety and well-being of Flint families remains a top priority as we work together to ensure progress in the city.
- Free water testing kits are also still available at Fire Stations 1,3,5,6, and 8. Water samples should be returned to the fire stations for testing.
- Until water is declared safe, people should continue to follow established safety protocols.

Governor invited to testify at Congressional Hearing

- The Governor received an invitation to testify at the Democratic Steering and Policy Committee hearing in Washington D.C. next week.
- The Governor has denied the invitation as he will be giving the formal FY 2017 budget presentation the same day in Lansing.
- As part of the budget proposal, the Governor will outline long-term funding efforts to aide in Flint's recovery.
- To date, the state has allocated $37.3 million in emergency funding for Flint.
    - The Governor also proposed and the Senate has approved an additional $30 million the city could use to help relieve Flint residents of a portion of their water bill.
        - The $30 million recommendation must also be approved by the House before it going into effect.

Hi Meegan and Anna,

Just a thought... Wondering if it would be beneficial to add a bullet that stations 1, 5 and 8 also serve as recycling locations and include that info in parentheses (like below)? I know there is a big push to encourage bottle recycling. As always, let me know if you have any questions or if there is anything I can help with. --Tiff

FLINT WATER RESPONSE TEAM

UPDATE | MONDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 2016

This daily update is being issued in order to provide the latest information regarding actions and available resources.

Help keep your kids safe

The foods we prepare and serve to our families can help limit the effects of our kids' exposure to lead.

You should serve children foods that are rich in calcium, vitamin C, and iron to help keep lead from being stored in a child's body.

For food assistance for low-income Flint residents, contact WIC at 810-237-4537. You can apply for SNAP food assistance at www.michigan.gov/mibridges.

If you think your child is at risk for lead exposure, please contact your primary care doctor or the Genesee County Health Department by dialing 810-257-3612.

Click here for more helpful tips.

KEEP FLINT KIDS SAFE

GOOD FOOD AND NUTRITION:
Serve children foods rich in calcium, vitamin C, and iron to help keep lead from being stored in a child's body.

SOURCES OF IRON:	SOURCES OF CALCIUM:	SOURCES OF VITAMIN C:
> Lean red meats, fish, and chicken > Green leafy vegetables > Iron-fortified cereal, bread and pasta > Dried fruit > Beans	> Milk, cheese and yogurt > Green leafy vegetables > Calcium-enriched orange juice > Tofu > Canned salmon and sardines (both with the bones in)	> Citrus fruits, like oranges and grapefruit and their juices > Tomatoes or tomato juice > Peppers > Other fruits like kiwi, strawberries, melons, and potatoes

For fresh, healthy food assistance:
- Contact WIC at 810-237-4537
- Apply for SNAP food assistance at www.michigan.gov/mibridges
- Visit your local Michigan Department of Health and Human Services office.

FLINT WATER
RESPONSE TEAM

Gov. Rick Snyder seeks federal waiver to expand Medicaid services in Flint to people under age 21 and pregnant woman

If this request is approved, it would mean an expansion of Medicaid and Children's Health Insurance Program services to about 15,000 more Flint residents.

Those eligible for coverage include anyone up to the age of 21 and pregnant women and their future children.

Additional information about water response efforts is available at www.michigan.gov/flintwater, by calling United Way's 2-1-1 or visiting www.helpforflint.com.

Flint families need critical clean water resources. Since January 9, the state has distributed:

- 321,117 cases of bottled water
- 105,604 water filters
- 214,300 replacement cartridges
- 35,570 water testing kits

REMINDERS

- For Flint water assistance: Dial United Way 211 or visit www.mi.gov/FlintWater
- To donate or volunteer: visit www.HelpForFlint.com
- Residents should install filters to their taps to ensure they have immediate and ongoing access to safe water. Only run cold water through the water filter and use filtered water for drinking and cooking

- Monitor the cartridge on the filter and replace as needed.

WATER RESOURCE LOCATIONS
These sites are open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. with the following resources:

- Bottled water
- Water filters
- Replacement cartridges for water filters
- Water testing kits pick-up

Subject: DRAFT MSP weekly report

Hi Shanon and Sierra,

Below is a draft of the weekly report. I will be out tomorrow and Friday but wanted to compile a draft report. As always, please add anything I may have missed. Also, I know this is a busy time for the Governor's Office so I wanted to include the MCO RS graduation in the report so that it is on their radar. According to information Chelsea received from the Training Academy, the Governor is speaking at the graduation. I have not confirmed that for myself, so I did not include that in the write-up. And I don't know what time the Director is scheduled to give testimony on Feb. 23 so I did not include that info. I hope this is helpful. --Tiff

Jess, Jordan and Anna,

Below is our report for the upcoming period. Please let me know if you have any questions.

Here's DEQ – open for edits if you like ~ Thanks Mel.

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) continues work in conjunction with the City of Flint, Genesee County and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to test and monitor the quality of the water in Flint. Michigan DEQ has embarked on a five part strategy to collect information on current water conditions that will help to establish a baseline of data that will be used for water experts to determine when the water is safe to drink.
The Michigan DEQ five part strategy includes:
Residential Water Testing – At-home water testing done by residents which helps to provide a snapshot of where the most problem areas are located so that DEQ and the EPA can quickly spot areas of concern. Residential water testing is key in guiding experts to areas of closer study and therefore is very important for residents to participate in. flint residents can get their free water testing kits at any of the Water Resource Site - check the website Michigan.gov/flintwater for locations.
To date, the most updated stats on Flint residential testing is as follows. While the 4924 Total Samples
4616 Samples @ 15 ppb or less for Lead (93.7%)
4179 Samples @ 5 ppb or less for Lead (84.9%)
308 Samples over 15 ppb for Lead (6.3%)
37 Samples over 150 ppb for Lead (0.75%)
26 Samples over 1,300 ppb for Copper (0.5%) School Testing – Michigan DEQ in collaboration with the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs (LARA) has tested all 13 public schools throughout the city and continues to test non-public schools, children's centers and senior centers. Of the 13 public schools, the state will retest again once it has completed replacing water fixtures to see how the lead levels are affected. Fixture replacement has begun at Freeman School and is estimated to be retested after water flushing happens within the next week.
Food Service / Restaurant Provider Testing - To ensure that all food providers and restaurants have safe water, the DEQ is working in collaboration with the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development (MDARD) to test establishments and ensure they are using water filters, are flushing their water systems properly and have the correct food and water standards in place.
Blood Level Testing – Michigan DEQ is working in conjunction with the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS) to ensure that residents with high blood levels, have their homes water tested for lead. Homes with high water levels are provided additional services by DHHS and Genesee County to ensure residents exposure to lead is prevented.
Flint Water Distribution System Testing – Michigan DEQ and the City of Flint are working to monitor and test the quality of the water as it travels throughout the city's water distribution system to collect information on where the areas of concern are as water travels from the water plant through the system and into the home. Additionally, Sentinel sites are in the process of being established across the city which will play a key role in data collection.

In order for local, state and federal experts to determine when the water will be safe to drink – we are collecting sets of data so that each piece can be layered on top of one another providing us the ability to make an intelligent trend analysis. Michigan DEQ is working with the EPA and other experts to ensure the data layers are sensible and appropriate. These data sets will also be reviewed by the Flint Water Interagency Coordinating Committee and its correlating Water Quality Subcommittee which have an array of water quality experts who will together with local, state and federal government review and provide a consensus conclusion to water quality and safety.

Here's DEQ – open for edits if you like ~ Thanks Mel.

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) continues work in conjunction with the City of Flint, Genesee County and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to test and monitor the quality of the water in Flint. Michigan DEQ has embarked on a five part strategy to collect information on current water conditions that will help to establish a baseline of data that will be used for water experts to determine when the water is safe to drink.
The Michigan DEQ five part strategy includes:
Residential Water Testing – At-home water testing done by residents which helps to provide a snapshot of where the most problem areas are located so that DEQ and the EPA can quickly spot areas of concern. Residential water testing is key in guiding experts to areas of closer study and therefore is very important for residents to participate in. Flint residents can get their free water testing kits at any Water Resource Site - check the website Michigan.gov/flintwater or call 2-1-1 for locations.
To date, the most updated stats on Flint residential testing is as follows. While the 4924 Total Samples
4616 Samples @ 15 ppb or less for Lead (93.7%)
4179 Samples @ 5 ppb or less for Lead (84.9%)
308 Samples over 15 ppb for Lead (6.3%)
37 Samples over 150 ppb for Lead (0.75%)
26 Samples over 1,300 ppb for Copper (0.5%) School Testing – Michigan DEQ in collaboration with the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs (LARA) has tested all 13 public schools throughout the city and continues to test non-public schools, children's centers and senior centers. Of the 13 public schools, the state will retest again once it has completed replacing water fixtures to see how the lead levels are affected. Fixture replacement has begun at Freeman School and is estimated to be retested after water flushing happens within the next week.
Food Service / Restaurant Provider Testing - To ensure that all food providers and restaurants have safe water, the DEQ is working in collaboration with the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development (MDARD) to test establishments and ensure they are using water filters, are flushing their water systems properly and have the correct food and water standards in place.

Blood Level Testing – Michigan DEQ is working in conjunction with the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS) to ensure that residents with high blood levels, have their homes water tested for lead. Homes with high water levels are provided additional services by DHHS and Genesee County to ensure residents exposure to lead is prevented.
Flint Water Distribution System Testing – Michigan DEQ and the City of Flint are working to monitor and test the quality of the water as it travels throughout the city's water distribution system to collect information on where the areas of concern are as water travels from the water plant through the system and into the home. Additionally, Sentinel sites are in the process of being established across the city which will play a key role in data collection.
In order for local, state and federal experts to determine when the water will be safe to drink – we are collecting sets of data so that each piece can be layered on top of one another providing us the ability to make an intelligent trend analysis. Michigan DEQ is working with the EPA and other experts to ensure the data layers are sensible and appropriate. We are aware (JIC, SEOC, G's Office). Did you coordinate with the warehouse so they will be expecting and prepared to accept the delivery?

We've been getting a TON of donations (which is great), but we need to be ready to accept large donations (like yours).

Hi Meegan,

I hope all is well. We are still working on getting the letters posted, but I have a quick question for you. Are you sure you want to include the request letter with it? We could just post the response letter with a description of what it is? I see it was attached to the press release that was issued, but it looks a little bland. Please call me if you want to discuss further. Or if you just want us to post it--no worries--we will just post it with the response letter. Thanks!

Attached are two letters – a request from Michigan DHHS for a federal waiver to expand the WIC program to Flint kids ages 5-10, and the federal denial of that request.

We'd like those put up on Michigan.gov/flintwater in the same section at the bottom(Federal Emergency Request), where we posted the Presidents emergency declaration.

Maybe we should change that section name to "Requests for Federal Help"

Thanks,
Meegan

Hi Paul,

Thanks for your patience while I checked into this for you. --Tiff

Is the MSP investigating the denial of service attack on Michigan.gov last Saturday? Any evidence Saturday attack could be linked to Anonymous?
The MSP Cyber Section, in conjunction with DTMB, is investigating the Distributed Denial of Service (DDOS) incident that occurred on the Michigan.gov website Saturday, January 16. As this is an ongoing investigation, we are not discussing any details at this time.

Is the MSP investigating the video threat posted by Anonymous-related group this week?
The MSP Cyber Section is aware of the video and is actively monitoring the situation.

Paul,
There aren't any updates to report, we have not experienced anything unusual today. We do have our cybersecurity teams at DTMB on alert for activity outside of the normal parameters and are in contact with our private vendor partners and MSP to ensure we are prepared in case of an attack attempt.

I will defer to Tiffany or Nicole regarding the MSP investigation. They should be able to fill you in on their activities.

Paul,

To stay prepared for any possible coordinated attempts to disrupt our services, we are constantly monitoring online conversations that involve threats against State of Michigan networks with our partners at the Michigan State Police and the FBI. This past weekend, on Saturday, Jan. 16, we experienced a Distributed Denial of Service (DDOS) attack on our website, Michigan.gov. The attempt caused slower performance and a brief period where the site was offline. Working with our private partners we were able to mitigate the problem in a short amount of time and have not incurred any further attacks since this past weekend's events.

If you would like to get into the weeds more on what a DDOS attack is and what it means for our website I can likely set up some time for you to talk with our chief security officer.

F/Lt. Ellis helped me with the responses and below is what I am planning to share with Paul. Let me know if there are any concerns. tb

Is the MSP investigating the denial of service attack on Michigan.gov last Saturday? Any evidence Saturday attack could be linked to Anonymous?
The MSP Cyber Section, in conjunction with DTMB, is investigating the Distributed Denial of Service (DDOS) incident that occurred on the Michigan.gov website Saturday, January 16. As this is an ongoing investigation, we are not discussing any details at this time.

Is the MSP investigating the video threat posted by Anonymous-related group this week?
The MSP Cyber Section is aware of the video and is actively monitoring the situation.

Paul,
There aren't any updates to report, we have not experienced anything unusual today. We do have our cybersecurity teams at DTMB on alert for activity outside of the normal parameters and are in contact with our private vendor partners and MSP to ensure we are prepared in case of an attack attempt.

I will defer to Tiffany or Nicole regarding the MSP investigation. They should be able to fill you in on their activities.

Hi Rusty,

How've you been? I hope all is well—it's been a while! Hopefully you still remember me from my time as an intern with B95 and from the Governor's Office (Granholm).

I know you spoke with Spl/F/Lt. Dave Kaiser yesterday, but he asked that I follow up with you regarding the MSP's role in the Flint water response. Attached is the press release issued when the Governor declared an emergency for Genesee County. This explains the MSP's role in the response effort. Also, the department is assisting water response team with door-to-door efforts. The www.michigan.gov/flintwater<http://www.michigan.gov/flintwater> website has all of the information outlining what's been occurring relating to the Flint water response.

Gov. Snyder declares emergency for Genesee County State Emergency Operations Center activated to assist with relief efforts Tuesday, Jan. 5, 2016

LANSING, Mich. – Gov. Rick Snyder today declared a state of emergency for Genesee County due to the ongoing health and safety issues caused by lead in the city of Flint's drinking water.

By declaring a state of emergency, Snyder has made available all state resources in cooperation with local response and recovery operations. The declaration authorizes the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division (MSP/EMHSD) to coordinate state efforts.

"The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we're committed to a coordinated approach with resources from state agencies to address all aspects of this situation," Snyder said. "Working in full partnership with the Flint Water Advisory Task Force, all levels of government and water quality experts, we will find both short-term and long-term solutions to ensure the health and safety of Flint residents."

In addition to the emergency declaration, Snyder activated the State Emergency Operations Center to coordinate state response and recovery activities. State agencies will report to the center to coordinate resources, assess the situation and begin providing assets to assist with local relief operations.

"Our staff recognizes the urgency of this situation and is already working closely with local officials," said Capt. Chris A. Kelenske, Deputy State Director of Emergency Management and Homeland Security and commander of the MSP/EMHSD. "We will continue to collaborate with state, city and county leaders to coordinate relief efforts, streamline communication and use all available resources to help residents."

On Jan. 4, Genesee County declared a "local state of emergency," which activated local emergency response and recovery plans. By requesting a governor's declaration, the county has determined local resources are insufficient to address the situation and state assistance is required to protect public health, safety and property to lessen or avert the threat of a crisis.

The city of Flint has been under a local emergency declaration since Dec. 14, 2015.

The SEOC is the emergency operations center for the state of Michigan. Located in Lansing, the center is overseen by the MSP/EMHSD and coordinates response and recovery efforts by state agencies and local government. The SEOC is staffed by members of state agencies and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state of Michigan.

Hi Rusty,

How've you been? I hope all is well-it's been a while! Hopefully you still remember me from my time as an intern with B95 and from the Governor's Office (Granholm).

I know you spoke with Spl/F/Lt. Dave Kaiser yesterday, but he asked that I follow up with you regarding the MSP's role in the Flint water response. Attached is the press release issued when the Governor declared an emergency for Genesee County. This explains the MSP's role in the response effort. Also, the department is assisting water response team with door-to-door efforts. The www.michigan.gov/flintwater<http://www.michigan.gov/flintwater> website has all of the information outlining what's been occurring relating to the Flint water response.

Gov. Snyder declares emergency for Genesee County State Emergency Operations Center activated to assist with relief efforts Tuesday, Jan. 5, 2016

LANSING, Mich. - Gov. Rick Snyder today declared a state of emergency for Genesee County due to the ongoing health and safety issues caused by lead in the city of Flint's drinking water.

By declaring a state of emergency, Snyder has made available all state resources in cooperation with local response and recovery operations. The declaration authorizes the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division (MSP/EMHSD) to coordinate state efforts.

"The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we're committed to a coordinated approach with resources from state agencies to address all aspects of this situation," Snyder said. "Working in full partnership with the Flint Water Advisory Task Force, all levels of government and water quality experts, we will find both short-term and long-term solutions to ensure the health and safety of Flint residents."

In addition to the emergency declaration, Snyder activated the State Emergency Operations Center to coordinate state response and recovery activities. State agencies will report to the center to coordinate resources, assess the situation and begin providing assets to assist with local relief operations.

"Our staff recognizes the urgency of this situation and is already working closely with local officials," said Capt. Chris A. Kelenske, Deputy State Director of Emergency Management and Homeland Security and commander of the MSP/EMHSD. "We will continue to collaborate with state, city and county leaders to coordinate relief efforts, streamline communication and use all available resources to help residents."

On Jan. 4, Genesee County declared a "local state of emergency," which activated local emergency response and recovery plans. By requesting a governor's declaration, the county has determined local resources are insufficient to address the situation and state assistance is required to protect public health, safety and property to lessen or avert the threat of a crisis.

The city of Flint has been under a local emergency declaration since Dec. 14, 2015.

The SEOC is the emergency operations center for the state of Michigan. Located in Lansing, the center is overseen by the MSP/EMHSD and coordinates response and recovery efforts by state agencies and local government. The SEOC is staffed by members of state agencies and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state of Michigan.

Hi Tiff,

Can we send Rusty a brief synopsis of what the state police role is for the Flint water crises? His email is: rusty.thomas@cumulus.com.

I did speak with him. This is what he requested after I explained our role.

Thanks,
Dave

Hi Tiffany,

Beth Williams in our government affairs office gave me your contact info, wanted to reach out as I will be taking lead on getting the Flint water issue video on the DISH Network on Demand service. Wanted to reach out and see how you delivered the videos intended for air to the cable companies and see if we could piggyback on that to get it to our customers as well. Ideally a digital file would be best in terms of turnaround time, but a tape sent to our uplink center would also suffice.

Please feel free to give me a call or reply to this e-mail with any insight you might have, thanks.

Hi Bob and Jenn,

Please see the below questions from DISH about how to get them the digital files. Also, I was asked how long we would like the PSA and video to broadcast. They mention two weeks, but I'm thinking we'll want it to run longer. Looking to you guys for guidance. I'd like to get back with them today, if possible. Thanks!

Nothing yet! I know it needs to be approved through the MSP lead and the Gov's office today in the JIC. I'm looping in Jen Eisner, who is the MDHHS rep in the JIC today. Jen, I started the review process for the FAQ (I've started calling it a Fact Sheet since there are no Q &As in it) yesterday. DEQ and MDHHS approved it. Can you help get MSP and the Gov's office edits and approval today? We will need to ensure that GCHD has a chance to review as well.

We're getting a lot of calls from public health partners about the info in this so we need to get this wrapped up. Trevor is working on the design so he needs any content edits that the JIC may have made. The most recent file is attached here.

Hi Trevor,

We are working on a document to post to the Flint Water website that will replace a few others currently up there. The draft is attached. It's labeled an FAQ but I think it fits better as a Fact Sheet. Can you please format this like the other Flint Water documents, such as the palm card, so we can get it online hopefully yet today?

The content may shift slightly, but overall, should remain the same.

Thank you,

Angela Minicuci

Hi Elizabeth,

My name is Tiffany; I am a public information officer (PIO) with the Michigan State Police. I am currently assigned to the Joint Information Center (JIC) with other state agency PIOs working on the Flint water issue concerning lead in the drinking water.

We have partnered with Comcast, who is sharing the below PSAs on Demand. We would also like to partner with Dish to make the PSAs available as well. Are you the most appropriate person for me to work with on this? Is this something Dish would be willing to do?

Nothing yet! I know it needs to be approved through the MSP lead and the Gov's office today in the JIC. I'm looping in Jen Eisner, who is the MDHHS rep in the JIC today. Jen, I started the review process for the FAQ (I've started calling it a Fact Sheet since there are no Q &As in it) yesterday. DEQ and MDHHS approved it. Can you help get MSP and the Gov's office edits and approval today? We will need to ensure that GCHD has a chance to review as well.

We're getting a lot of calls from public health partners about the info in this so we need to get this wrapped up. Trevor is working on the design so he needs any content edits that the JIC may have made. The most recent file is attached here.

Thank you,

Angela

Hi Trevor,

We are working on a document to post to the Flint Water website that will replace a few others currently up there. The draft is attached. It's labeled an FAQ but I think it fits better as a Fact Sheet. Can you please format this like the other Flint Water documents, such as the palm card, so we can get it online hopefully yet today?

The content may shift slightly, but overall, should remain the same.

Thank you,

My name is Tiffany; I am a public information officer (PIO) with the Michigan State Police. I am currently assigned to the Joint Information Center (JIC) with other state agency PIOs working on the Flint water issue concerning lead in the drinking water.

We have partnered with Comcast, who is sharing the below PSAs on Demand. We would also like to partner with Dish to make the PSAs available as well. Are you the most appropriate person for me to work with on this? Is this something Dish would be willing to do?

In the below WNEM article it implies that the National Guard is part of the teams that are going door-to-door.

Snyder activates National Guard, requests FEMA assistance to help in Flint

FLINT, MI (WNEM) -
Gov. Rick Snyder has requested support from FEMA.

That request was made on Tuesday, according to a press release from his office.

The request will identify federal agencies that have programs or the authority that could be utilized in the ongoing response to Flint's water crisis.

Snyder also issued an executive order activating the Michigan National Guard to assist with distributing supplies at the five water resource sites established in Flint.

Members of the National Guard are expected to arrive as early as Wednesday to assist the efforts of teams going door to door in Flint neighborhoods to distribute bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges and testing kits.

"As we work to ensure that all Flint resident have access to clean and safe drinking water, we are providing them with the direct assistance they need in order to stretch our resources further," Snyder said in a press release.

U.S. Rep. Dan Kildee released a statement in response to Snyder's deployment of the National Guard:

"Flint needs more action and less talk from Governor Snyder. It is important to remember that this crisis was created by a state-appointed emergency financial manager, and it is the state's ultimate responsibility to act and make it right. Flint residents are the victims in this crisis and they deserve a more urgent response equal to the gravity of this crisis."

Kildee spoke to President Barack Obama shortly after the State of the Union address on Tuesday night.

Capt. Chris Kelenske
Flint Water Talking Points
Monday, January 11, 2016

Good morning. I am Capt. Chris Kelenske, commander of the Michigan State Police Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division.

The State Emergency Operations Center continues to be activated and staffed by members of state agencies and other partners to deploy resources and ensure the ongoing needs of Flint residents are met.

We recognize the urgency of this situation and continue to engage in full partnership with local officials to coordinate relief efforts, streamline communication, and use every resource available to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint and address all aspects of this situation.

One of our immediate objectives is making sure every household in Flint has a water filter.
When used properly water filters remove 99% of lead in water.

Right now, we are bringing all state resources to bare to protect public health and safety.

Since Saturday, five water resource sites have been established Flint fire stations where residents can receive the resources they need to ensure their drinking water is safe. These sites are open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and serve as a one-stop location where residents can pick up free bottled water, water filters, water filter replacement cartridges, and free household water testing kits.

To date, the water resources sites have distributed over 43,000 bottles of water; 1,200 water filters; 800 water replacement cartridges; and 750 water testing kits to Flint residents.

We are making every effort to ensure the water resource sites are stocked with these supplies. We recognize at times that some of the sites may be running low on resources, but I ensure you that we are doing all that we can to meet the needs of residents.

Residents who may need transportation assistance can call 2-1-1.

Also, beginning tomorrow, four water resource teams, comprised of state personnel and Michigan State Police troopers, will be going door-to-door throughout Flint neighborhoods to ensure residents have the resources they need. The water resource teams will be handing out bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and water testing kits.

If by chance a resident is not at home when the teams stop by, a flyer with information on how to receive these free water resources will be left at their residence. And calling 2-1-1- is always a great resource for citizens to learn more information.

The bulk of our actions continue to be identifying where specific resource needs are, where the gaps in recovery are, and ensuring we are coordinating closely with the city and county on any actions. This will allow us to target our actions and ensure we are not duplicating efforts.

A lot of great efforts are already underway by many local agencies; public, private, non-profit, etc.

I would especially like to thank the American Red Cross, United Way, 2-1-1 and the many other organizations that have assisted with water resource distribution efforts and the donations management process. We have also received an outpouring of support from volunteers and organizations who want to help with this effort. Individuals looking to volunteer or donate water should call 211.

We're working as fast as we can to identify what is being done already and what still needs to be done.

One of the most important messages and priorities for us is making sure residents are aware of the information and free resources currently available to them. The one-stop shop for all these resources is www.michigan.gov/FlintWater.

This entire operation is about making sure Flint residents receive the resources and information they need, and we're 100% committed to doing what needs to be done until all needs are met.

If asked:

The efforts by the State of Michigan is to supplement the efforts being done by the City of Flint and Genesee County. If needed, the Federal Emergency Management Agency will help supplement state efforts to ensure city of Flint residents have the water resources they need.

Three Federal Emergency Management Agency liaisons are here providing technical guidance, but we will need a comprehensive and throughout assessment of the situation before we can approach FEMA.

Reporters will be receiving information about how to get video of the water resource teams distributing resources in neighborhoods will receive information from the JIC yet today.

Hi Captain Kelenske,

Below and attached are DRAFT talking points. Also, we are gathering additional information to include in your remarks.

•The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we are committed to a coordinated approach to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint and address all aspects of this situation.

•Efforts are being coordinated by the State of Michigan in partnership with the City of Flint, Genesee County, and local community organizations. This is now a coordinated effort to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint.

•We recognize the urgency of this situation and will continue to engage in full partnership to coordinate relief efforts, streamline communication, and use every resource available to help the residents of Flint.

•The efforts by the State of Michigan is to supplement the efforts being done by the City of Flint and Genesee County. If needed, the Federal Emergency Management Agency will help supplement state efforts to ensure city of Flint residents have the water resources they need.

•Last week, the State Emergency Operations Center was activated and is staffed by members of state agencies and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state.

•Right now, we are bringing all state resources to bare to protect public health and safety.

•Monday, we established water resource sites at the five fire stations across the city to serve as a one-stop location where residents can pick-up all of the resources they need to ensure their drinking water is safe, including free bottled water, water filters, water filter replacement cartridges, and free household lead testing kits.

•The hours of the resource sites have been extended until 9 p.m. daily, rather than 4 p.m. as initially scheduled. This is to help make the process of picking up water resources as convenient as possible for Flint residents. And citizens who may need transportation can call 2-1-1 for assistance.

•One of our immediate objectives is to make sure every household in Flint has a water filter. When used properly water filters remove 99% of lead in water.

•Beginning on Tuesday we will have water resource teams, consisting of state personnel including MSP troopers who will be going door-to-door throughout Flint neighborhoods to ensure residents have the resources they need. The water resource teams will be handing out bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and water testing kits.

•If by chance a resident is not at home when the teams stop by, a flyer with information on how to receive these free water resources will be left at their residence. And calling 2-1-1- is always a great resource for citizens to learn more information.

•The bulk of our actions continue to be identifying where specific resource needs are, where the gaps in recovery are, and ensuring we are coordinating closely with the city and county on any actions. This will allow us to target our actions and ensure we are not duplicating efforts.

•A lot of great efforts are already underway by many local agencies; public, private, non-profit, etc., but we need to marshal all these efforts and ensure they are coordinated to maximize our effectiveness.

•I would especially like to thank The American Red Cross, United Way, 2-1-1 and the many other organizations that have assisted with water resource distribution. We have also received an outpouring of support from volunteers and donors to help with this effort.

•We're working as fast as we can to identify what is being done already and what still needs to be done.

Water resource sites established in Flint with bottled water, filters and testing kits
State and local officials coordinating resource distribution

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
January 9, 2016
Release #: 02
For more information contact: Joint Information Center: 888-EMD-TODAY (888-363-8632)

LANSING, Mich. – The State of Michigan has partnered with local officials in a coordinated approach to establish five water resource sites in Flint where residents can pick-up bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges and home water testing kits.

The water resource sites are now open and will be open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Flint fire stations located at:

Fire Station #1

310 East 5th St.
Flint, MI 48502

Fire Station #3
1525 Martin Luther King Ave.
Flint, MI 48503

Fire Station #5
3402 Western Rd.
Flint, MI 48506

Fire Station #6
716 West Pierson Rd.
Flint, MI 48505

Fire Station #8
202 East Atherton Rd.
Flint, MI 48507

"The water resource sites serve as a one-stop location where residents can pick-up all of the resources they need to ensure their drinking water is safe, including bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges and water testing kits," said Capt. Chris Kelenske, Deputy State Director of Emergency Management and Homeland Security and commander of the Michigan State Police Emergency Management & Homeland Security Division. "The state continues to work in coordination with local officials to ensure the daily needs of residents are met."

Water filters and replacement cartridges continue to be available Monday through Friday, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. at the following locations:

Michigan Department of Health and Human Services office
125 E. Union St.
Flint, MI 48502

Michigan Department of Health and Human Services office
4809 Clio Road
Flint, MI 48504

Genesee County Community Action Resource Department office
2727 Lippincott
Flint, MI 48507

Genesee County Community Action Resource Department office
601 N. Saginaw
Flint, MI 48502

Flint City Hall
1101 S. Saginaw St.
Flint, MI 48502

Residents who need transportation or any other assistance can call 211.

Residents are urged to use filtered water for drinking, food preparation, brushing teeth and watering pets. Unfiltered water may be used for bathing and cleaning.

In addition to the water resource sites, home water testing kits are available at Flint City Hall, the Flint Water Treatment Plant or Flint Fire Department locations.

Visit www.michigan.gov/flintwater or call 2-1-1 for more information.

Hi Lt. Kaiser,

The JIC will stay in Lansing through the end of the day, but will be moved to Flint on Monday. The address for the Flint location is 125 E. Union Street, 48502. I'm thinking this may be part of U of M; the location is near the UM Pavilion. I anticipate being there on Monday (gotta confirm this with Shanon), but will let you know if that changes. Please be on standby. I REALLY appreciate your willingness to step in!! --Tiff

You can use these documents to write the memo. I don't think we need to attach them to the memo, although it wouldn't hurt to share them with Mike and Dave so they have some background for situational awareness.

Hi Shanon,

Feeling any better?

Attached is a draft of the memo I put together using the talking points. Do you have any thoughts or should I just make sure Captain Zarotney is okay with it? Is it okay that this is coming from Colonel Etue? Please let me know your thoughts.

Also, I have passed on the talking points to Mike and Dave.

Subject: DRAFT Weekly Report

Hi Shanon and Sierra,

Below is a draft of this week's weekly report. With the holidays and Flint water, we haven't had an opportunity to meet so I didn't have much to include--I'm certain I'm missing some things. Though everyone is likely aware, I didn't know if you wanted to include something on the SEOC and JIC being activated. As always, please add anything I may have missed. --Tiff

Hi Jess, Jordan and Anna,

Below is our report for the upcoming period. As always, please let me know if you have any questions.

Flint Water: This week the State Emergency Operation Center was activated to address the health and safety issues related to Flint drinking water. The Joint Information Center was also activated to support the SEOC by centralizing communications and streamlining public education efforts. The JIC is currently located in Lansing, but will be moved to a location in Flint next week.

Jan. 21: The department will host an internal employee Recognition Ceremony. Press releases will be issued for troopers receiving the department's Meritorious Service Award, as well as the Trooper of the Year Award, Motor Carrier Officer of the Year Award, and Civilian of the Year Award.

Jan. 21: The MSP Recruiting and Selection Section will have recruiters at the Michigan State University Diversity Fair from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the Breslin Center.

Hi Shanon,

Captain Zarotney and I we talking this morning about how/why people don't understand the MSP's role in the Flint water issue. He would like to have something posted on Official Correspondence about the MSP's role and why we are involved. I'm not caught up on everything from yesterday and don't know if there is already a preexisting document created yesterday that can be shared/modified or if this is something I should work with Ron on to help create. Please let me know your thoughts. tb

Maybe we could record the round table discussion of Capt. Kelenske and Dr. Wells and have that available on YouTube and the Flint water website for other media and citizens to watch. It's making more information available and may help limit some media questions.

Well, that SUCKS! Haha!

It's a LONG, long story though. We activated the JIC yesterday and we were at the SEOC until after 7 last night. We started planning the round table late yesterday, so it's coming together this morning. Kaiser will be working with the post. This is just an FYI to you cause you are my person at the post! Haha! Gov. Snyder declares emergency for Genesee County

State Emergency Operations Center activated to assist with relief efforts

LANSING, Mich. – Gov. Rick Snyder today declared a state of emergency for Genesee County due to the ongoing health and safety issues caused by lead in the city of Flint's drinking water.

By declaring a state of emergency, Snyder has made available all state resources in cooperation with local response and recovery operations. The declaration authorizes the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division (MSP/EMHSD) to coordinate state efforts.

"The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we're committed to a coordinated approach with resources from state agencies to address all aspects of this situation," Snyder said. "Working in full partnership with the Flint Water Advisory Task Force, all levels of government and water quality experts, we will find both short-term and long-term solutions to ensure the health and safety of Flint residents."

In addition to the emergency declaration, Snyder activated the State Emergency Operations Center to coordinate state response and recovery activities. State agencies will report to the center to coordinate resources, assess the situation and begin providing assets to assist with local relief operations.

"Our staff recognizes the urgency of this situation and is already working closely with local officials," said Capt. Chris A. Kelenske, Deputy State Director of Emergency Management and Homeland Security and commander of the MSP/EMHSD. "We will continue to collaborate with state, city and county leaders to coordinate relief efforts, streamline communication and use all available resources to help residents."

On Jan. 4, Genesee County declared a "local state of emergency," which activated local emergency response and recovery plans. By requesting a governor's declaration, the county has determined local resources are insufficient to address the situation and state assistance is required to protect public health, safety and property to lessen or avert the threat of a crisis.

The city of Flint has been under a local emergency declaration since Dec. 14, 2015.

The SEOC is the emergency operations center for the state of Michigan. Located in Lansing, the center is overseen by the MSP/EMHSD and coordinates response and recovery efforts by state agencies and local government. The SEOC is staffed by members of state agencies and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state of Michigan.

General Talking Points

Flint Water Emergency Response

NOT INTENDED TO BE DISSEMINATED TO THE MEDIA OR PUBLIC IN THIS FORMAT

General

- Efforts are being coordinated by the State of Michigan in partnership with the City of Flint, Genesee County, and local community organizations to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint.

- We recognize the urgency of this situation and will continue to engage in full partnership to coordinate relief efforts, streamline communication, and use every resource available to help the residents of Flint.

- Right now, we are bringing all state resources to bear to protect public health and safety.

- One of the most important messages and priorities for us is making sure residents are aware of the information and free resources currently available to them. The one-stop shop for all these resources is www.michigan.gov/FlintWater.

- This entire operation is about making sure Flint residents receive the resources and information they need, and we're 100% committed to doing what needs to be done until all needs are met.

- The efforts by the State of Michigan are to supplement the efforts being done by the City of Flint and Genesee County.

- The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we are committed to a coordinated approach to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint and address all aspects of this situation.

Flint Water Resource Sites

- Five water resource sites have been established in Flint fire stations where residents can pick-up free bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and home water testing kits.

- These sites are open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and serve as a one-stop location where residents can pick-up all of the resources they need to ensure their drinking water is safe. And citizens who may need transportation can call 2-1-1 for assistance.

- We are making every effort to ensure the water resource sites are stocked with these supplies. We recognize at times that some of the sites may be running low on resources, but we are doing all that we can to meet the needs of residents.

- The locations are:
  - Fire Station #1 located at 310 East 5th St. in Flint, MI 48502
  - Fire Station #3 located at 1525 Martin Luther King Ave. in Flint, MI 48503
  - Fire Station #5 located at 3402 Western Rd. in Flint, MI 48506
  - Fire Station #6 located at 716 West Pierson Rd. in Flint, MI 48505
  - Fire Station #8 located at 202 East Atherton Rd. in Flint, MI 48507

- Filters and replacement cartridges are also available at the following locations:
  - Michigan Department of Health and Human Services office
    125 E. Union St.
    Flint, MI 48502
  - Michigan Department of Health and Human Services office
    4809 Clio Road
    Flint, MI 48504
  - Genesee County Community Action Resource Department
    2727 Lippincott
    Flint, MI 48507
  - Genesee County Community Action Resource Department
    601 N. Saginaw
    Flint, MI 48502
  - Flint City Hall
    1101 S. Saginaw St.
    Flint, MI 48502

- Visit www.michigan.gov/flintwater or call 2-1-1 for more information.

Water Response Teams

- On Jan. 12, water response teams, consisting of state personnel including MSP troopers, began going door-to-door throughout Flint neighborhoods to ensure residents have the resources they need.

- The water response teams are handing out bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and water testing kits.

- The teams will go door-to-door daily from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. until needs are met.

- If by chance a resident is not at home when the teams stop by, a flyer with information on how to receive these free water resources will be left at their residence. And calling 2-1-1- is always a great resource for citizens to learn more information.

- The state has been working with local officials to identify the needs of residents to help prioritize efforts.

- The bulk of our actions is about identifying specifically where the needs are, where the gaps in recovery are, and ensuring close coordination with the city and county on any actions.

Water Response Teams Increased January 16 through January 18

- On Saturday, January 16, water distribution efforts were expanded to more than 20 water response teams going door-to door to distribute safe water resources to the homes of Flint residents.

- These teams consisted of state personnel and American Red Cross volunteers, including approximately 250 State of Michigan employees and their family members who volunteered January 16 through January 18.

- All members of the water response teams had official credentialed badges with a State of Michigan seal hologram to be easily identified.

Resources Distributed Since January 12

- Since January 12, the water response teams have provided nearly 7,500 Flint homes with bottled water, filters, replacement cartridges and water testing kits.

- Since January 9, the following resources have been distributed to residents, both at the water resource sites and by the water response teams:
    - More than 18,500 cases of water
    - Nearly 46,000 filters
    - More than 3,200 water testing kits

- In addition to donated supplies, the State of Michigan has purchased the following resources, since January 5, which will continue to be delivered to Flint over the coming days:
    - Nearly 45,000 cases of water
    - Nearly 79,000 filters

- Nearly 19,000 water testing kits

Resources for homebound individuals

- 2-1-1 is collecting a list of individuals needing home delivery and is providing that information to the Genesee County Sheriff's Department.

- 2-1-1 will continue to monitor the needs of homebound/limited mobility residents and provide updates as needed.

Water Bills

- The City issues shut off notices and they have put a halt on all notices or disconnections.

- Shut off notices were mailed in November and December but NO disconnection of services were ever performed for nonpayment.

- No shut off notices have been mailed since the beginning of December.

- Specific inquiries regarding the payment of water bills should be referred to the City of Flint.

Filters

- When used properly water filters remove 99% of lead in water.

- Residents are urged to use filtered water for drinking, food preparation, brushing teeth and watering pets. Unfiltered water may be used for bathing and cleaning.

- The Plumbers and Pipefitters Union has agreed to provide free installation to homebound residents needing assistance.

- There is a detailed video posted on www.michigan.gov/flint that explains how to properly install a water filter cartridge.

- Water filters are also available for small businesses, in addition to Flint residents, at the water resource sites.

- One filter and one replacement cartridge are being provided per household. The filters will filter 100 gallons of water. Each filter has an indicator on it that will turn from green to red. When the indicator turns red, it needs to be replaced.

Outside Support Effort

- A lot of great efforts are already underway by many local agencies; public, private, non-profit, etc., and there has been an outpouring of support from volunteers and organizations who want to help with this effort.

- The American Red Cross, United Way, 2-1-1 and many other organizations have assisted with water resource distribution efforts and the donations management process.

- Inquiries regarding volunteers and donations are being coordinated through 2-1-1, in cooperation with the American Red Cross. Inquiries should be directed to contact 2-1-1.

- Donations of approximately 100 cases of water or less should be taken to the American Red Cross located at 1401 S. Grand Traverse in Flint.

Water Testing

- Citizens who have not received a response on water test results in Flint should contact the City at 810-787-6537 ext. 3501.

FEMA

- Governor has requested support from FEMA
    - Coordinate interagency recovery plan
    - Identify federal agencies that have programs, authorities, and technical expertise to assist
    - At this point there is not a federal declaration. FEMA is not currently sending supplies to this incident.

National Guard Mobilization

- Governor issued EO to activate Michigan National Guard
    - Will help staff water resource sites to support the distribution of bottled watered, water filters, replacement cartridges and water testing kits
    - National Guard personnel will not be going door to door with the water resource teams
    - National Guard is uniquely prepared and trained to respond quickly in emergency situations
    - First group of National Guard personnel arrived in Flint on Wednesday, January 13 to conduct assessment and get acclimated
    - The full contingent of approximately 30 personnel is due to arrive the morning of Friday, January 15

- Second time Governor has issued EO activating the National Guard
    - Last time was for the Duck Lake Fire in Luce County in May, 2012
- Per Michigan Emergency Management Plan, the Michigan State Police Director or her designee is responsible for coordinating all state efforts, including the Michigan National Guard
- Activation of the Michigan National Guard will enable volunteers from the American Red Cross, who have been staffing the water resource sites, to join the water distribution teams

Request for Presidential Declaration

- Governor has requested that the President declare both an emergency and an expedited major disaster for Genesee County due to the water emergency in Flint.
    - Request includes supplementary federal aid in form of Individual Assistance and Public Assistance to help eligible residents.
        - Individual Assistance can include grants for temporary housing and home repairs, low-cost loans to cover uninsured property losses and other programs to help people and businesses recover.
        - Public Assistance helps cover some of costs incurred by state and local governments due to damage to public facilities and infrastructure.

- Request will be reviewed by FEMA, which will advise the President as to whether an emergency and major disaster declaration should be granted. The President has ultimate decision-making authority on whether to provide federal assistance.

Attorney General Investigation

- Michigan Attorney General's office has launched an investigation to determine what, if any, Michigan laws were violated in the process that resulted in lead contamination in Flint.

Emergency Declaration Approved

- President Barack Obama declared a federal emergency in Flint to provide resources to help provide residents access to safe, clean water.

- This emergency assistance is to provide water, water filters, water filter cartridges, water test kits, and other necessary related items for a period of no more than 90 days for Genesee County.

- Under the Stafford Act, resources totaling $5 million can be used for federal emergencies. The state is required to match 25 percent.
    - The 25 percent match is an addition to the $5 million.

- If the $5 million is exhausted, FEMA can notify Congress about additional funding.

- The Department of Homeland Security, Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), is authorized to provide appropriate assistance for required emergency measures, authorized under Title V of the Stafford Act, to save lives and to protect property and public health and safety, or to lessen or avert the threat of a catastrophe in the designated area. Specifically, FEMA is authorized to provide emergency protective measures (Category B), limited to direct federal assistance, under the Public Assistance program at 75 percent federal funding.

Disaster Declaration

- Disaster declaration was denied based on the legal requirement that under Stafford Act disaster relief is available only for natural events, fires, floods, or explosions.
- The state is actively reviewing the process for appealing the disaster declaration denial.

Other

- We're working as fast as we can to identify what is being done already and what still needs to be done.

- Water is being distributed primarily in bottles rather than jugs. The reason for this is that the donations that have been received are largely comprised of bottled water. Requests for water in jugs have been made when donors have asked about needs.

- The state recognizes that offering recycling options for empty water bottles is a priority. Measures will be put in place soon to provide for recycling opportunities.

- Legionnaires disease related inquiries will not be handled by the JIC. Inquiries should be directed to DHHS.

- Per the Michigan Department of Education, the state is not involved in the water provided to the Flint Schools. Any questions related to this topic should be referred to Flint Schools.

- Governor has asked the Receivership Transition Advisory Board to transfer the powers and authority currently vested in the city administrator to the mayor. Any inquiries related to this should be referred to the Governor's office.

- For non-Flint residents who want to test their water for lead – they can purchase a testing kit from DEQ for $18 – details follow:

- Anyone in Michigan who wants to test their water for lead can call the State Drinking Water Lab at 517-335-8184.
- The lead testing kit costs $18, which includes the sample bottle and instructions shipped to your home as well as the lab test. It does not include the cost of shipping your filled sample bottle back to the lab.
- Depending on the lab workload, results are typically available within 1-2 weeks.
- Your results will include information about the EPA's lead recommendations as well as contact information for your local health department, which can help you interpret your results further, if needed.

State Emergency Operations Center

- On January 5, the State Emergency Operations Center was activated and continues to be staffed by members of state agencies and other partners.

State Emergency Relief

- State Emergency Relief funding is available to qualified households to replace damaged water heaters.

General Talking Points

Flint Water Emergency Response

General

- Efforts are being coordinated by the State of Michigan in partnership with the City of Flint, Genesee County, and local community organizations to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint.

- We recognize the urgency of this situation and will continue to engage in full partnership to coordinate relief efforts, streamline communication, and use every resource available to help the residents of Flint.

- Right now, we are bringing all state resources to bear to protect public health and safety.

- One of the most important messages and priorities for us is making sure residents are aware of the information and free resources currently available to them. The one-stop shop for all these resources is www.michigan.gov/FlintWater.

- This entire operation is about making sure Flint residents receive the resources and information they need, and we're 100% committed to doing what needs to be done until all needs are met.

- The efforts by the State of Michigan are to supplement the efforts being done by the City of Flint and Genesee County.

- The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we are committed to a coordinated approach to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint and address all aspects of this situation.

Flint Water Resource Sites

- Five water resource sites have been established in Flint fire stations where residents can pick-up free bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and home water testing kits.

- These sites are open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and serve as a one-stop location where residents can pick-up all of the resources they need to ensure their drinking water is safe. And citizens who may need transportation can call 2-1-1 for assistance.

- We are making every effort to ensure the water resource sites are stocked with these supplies. We recognize at times that some of the sites may be running low on resources, but we are doing all that we can to meet the needs of residents.

- The locations are:
  - Fire Station #1 located at 310 East 5th St. in Flint, MI 48502
  - Fire Station #3 located at 1525 Martin Luther King Ave. in Flint, MI 48503
  - Fire Station #5 located at 3402 Western Rd. in Flint, MI 48506
  - Fire Station #6 located at 716 West Pierson Rd. in Flint, MI 48505
  - Fire Station #8 located at 202 East Atherton Rd. in Flint, MI 48507

- Filters and replacement cartridges are also available at the following locations:
  - Michigan Department of Health and Human Services office
    125 E. Union St.
    Flint, MI 48502
  - Michigan Department of Health and Human Services office
    4809 Clio Road
    Flint, MI 48504
  - Genesee County Community Action Resource Department
    2727 Lippincott
    Flint, MI 48507
  - Genesee County Community Action Resource Department
    601 N. Saginaw
    Flint, MI 48502
  - Flint City Hall
    1101 S. Saginaw St.
    Flint, MI 48502

- Visit www.michigan.gov/flintwater or call 2-1-1 for more information.

Water Response Teams

- On Jan. 12, water response teams, consisting of state personnel including MSP troopers, began going door-to-door throughout Flint neighborhoods to ensure residents have the resources they need.

- The water response teams are handing out bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and water testing kits.

- The teams will go door-to-door daily from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. until needs are met.

- If by chance a resident is not at home when the teams stop by, a flyer with information on how to receive these free water resources will be left at their residence. And calling 2-1-1- is always a great resource for citizens to learn more information.

- The state has been working with local officials to identify the needs of residents to help prioritize efforts.

- The bulk of our actions is about identifying specifically where the needs are, where the gaps in recovery are, and ensuring close coordination with the city and county on any actions.

Resources for homebound individuals

- 2-1-1 is collecting a list of individuals needing home delivery and is providing that information to the Genesee County Sheriff's Department.

- 2-1-1 will continue to monitor the needs of homebound/limited mobility residents and provide updates as needed.

Filters

- When used properly water filters remove 99% of lead in water.

- Residents are urged to use filtered water for drinking, food preparation, brushing teeth and watering pets. Unfiltered water may be used for bathing and cleaning.

- The Plumbers and Pipefitters Union has agreed to provide free installation to homebound residents needing assistance.

- There is a detailed video posted on www.michigan.gov/flint that explains how to properly install a water filter cartridge.

Outside Support Effort

- A lot of great efforts are already underway by many local agencies; public, private, non-profit, etc., and there has been an outpouring of support from volunteers and organizations who want to help with this effort.

UD-040 (10/02)
MEMORANDUM

STATE OF MICHIGAN
DEPARTMENT OF STATE POLICE

DATE: January 8, 2016

TO: Department Members

FROM: Col. Kriste Kibbey Etue, Director

SUBJECT: Activation of State Emergency Operations Center

On January 5, Gov. Rick Snyder declared a state of emergency for Genesee County due to the ongoing health and safety issues caused by lead in the city of Flint's drinking water. By declaring a state of emergency, Governor Snyder has made available all state resources in cooperation with local response and recovery operations.

The declaration authorizes the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division (MSP/EMHSD) to coordinate state efforts. In addition, Governor Snyder activated the State Emergency Operations Center (SEOC) to coordinate the action's of state departments in the state's response and recovery efforts.

The SEOC is the emergency operations center for the state of Michigan and is overseen by the MSP/EMHSD. The SEOC is supported by staff from MSP/EMHSD and staffed by members of state agencies and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state of Michigan.

On January 6, a State of Michigan Joint Information Center (JIC) was also established to lead the state's messaging and information response in support of the SEOC and in coordination with the Genesee County Emergency Operations Center and the City of Flint.

Going forward, to better coordinate the health and safety of the residents of Flint and to ensure they are aware of and have access to the resources available within their community, the SEOC will serve as a central point of coordination between the local and state response efforts.

The state of Michigan is working in full partnership with the Flint Water Advisory Task Force, all levels of government and water quality experts, to find both short-term and long-term solutions to ensure the health and safety of Flint residents.

QUESTIONS

- YouTube videos—need an update

- The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we are committed to a coordinated approach to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint and address all aspects of this situation.

- Efforts are being coordinated by the State of Michigan in partnership with the City of Flint, Genesee County, and local community organizations. This is now a coordinated effort to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint.

- We recognize the urgency of this situation and will continue to engage in full partnership to coordinate relief efforts, streamline communication, and use every resource available to help the residents of Flint.

- The efforts by the State of Michigan is to supplement the efforts being done by the City of Flint and Genesee County. If needed, the Federal Emergency Management Agency will help supplement state efforts to ensure city of Flint residents have the water resources they need.

- Last week, the State Emergency Operations Center was activated and is staffed by members of state agencies and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state.

- Right now, we are bringing all state resources to bare to protect public health and safety.

- Monday, we established water resource sites at the five fire stations across the city to serve as a one-stop location where residents can pick-up all of the resources they need to ensure their drinking water is safe, including free bottled water, water filters, water filter replacement cartridges, and free household lead testing kits.

- The hours of the resource sites have been extended until 9 p.m. daily, rather than 4 p.m. as initially scheduled. This is to help make the process of picking up water resources as convenient as possible for Flint residents. And citizens who may need transportation can call 2-1-1 for assistance.

- One of our immediate objectives is to make sure every household in Flint has a water filter. When used properly water filters remove 99% of lead in water.

- Beginning on Tuesday we will have water resource teams, consisting of state personnel including MSP troopers who will be going door-to-door throughout Flint neighborhoods to ensure residents have the resources they need. The water resource teams will be handing out bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and water testing kits.

- If by chance a resident is not at home when the teams stop by, a flyer with information on how to receive these free water resources will be left at their residence. And calling 2-1-1- is always a great resource for citizens to learn more information.

- The bulk of our actions continue to be identifying where specific resource needs are, where the gaps in recovery are, and ensuring we are coordinating closely with the city and county on any actions. This will allow us to target our actions and ensure we are not duplicating efforts.

- A lot of great efforts are already underway by many local agencies; public, private, non-profit, etc., but we need to marshal all these efforts and ensure they are coordinated to maximize our effectiveness.

- I would especially like to thank The American Red Cross, United Way, 2-1-1 and the many other organizations that have assisted with water resource distribution. We have also received an outpouring of support from volunteers and donors to help with this effort.

- We're working as fast as we can to identify what is being done already and what still needs to be done.

- One of the most important messages and priorities for us is making sure residents are aware of the information and free resources currently available to them. The one-stop shop for all these resources is www.michigan.gov/FlintWater.

- This entire operation is about making sure Flint residents receive the resources and information they need, and we're 100% committed to doing what needs to be done until all needs are met.

- Inventory being done now for resources distributed at water sites provided by local EOC.

Spl/F/Lt. David Kaiser
Flint Water Resource Sites Bullet Points

Good afternoon, I am Spl/F/Lt. David Kaiser with the Michigan State Police. I am assigned to the MSP Third District Headquarters, which serves the City of Flint.

The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we are committed to a coordinated approach to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint and address all aspects of this situation.

I'd like to briefly explain the role of the Michigan State Police during this response.

Since Tuesday, the State Emergency Operations Center has been activated and is staffed by members of state agencies and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state.

Right now, we are bringing all state resources to bare to protect public health and safety.

Yesterday, we established water resource sites at the five fire stations across the city to serve as a one-stop location where residents can pick-up all of the resources they need to ensure their drinking water is safe, including bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges and water testing kits.

The hours of the resource sites have been extended until 9 p.m. daily, rather than 4 p.m. as initially scheduled. This is to help make the process of picking up water resources as convenient as possible for Flint residents. And citizens who may need transportation can call 2-1-1 for assistance.

Resources available at the sites include free bottled water, water filters, water filter replacement cartridges, filtered water pitchers, and free household lead testing kits.

One of our immediate objectives is to make sure every household in Flint has a water filter. When used properly water filters remove 99% of lead in water.

Further, beginning on Tuesday we will have water resource teams, consisting of one trooper and other state personnel, who will be going door-to-door throughout Flint neighborhoods to ensure residents have the resources they need. The water resource teams will be handing out bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and water testing kits. If by chance a resident is not at home when the teams stop by, a flyer with information on how to receive these free water resources will be left at their residence. And calling 2-1-1- is always a great resource for citizens to learn more information.

The bulk of our actions continue to be identifying where specific resource needs are, where the gaps in recovery are, and ensuring we are coordinating closely with the city and county on any actions. This will allow us to target our actions and ensure we are not duplicating efforts.

A lot of great efforts are already underway by many local agencies; public, private, non-profit, etc., but we need to marshal all these efforts and ensure they are coordinated to maximize our effectiveness.

We're working as fast as we can to identify what is being done already and what still needs to be done.

One of the most important messages and priorities for us is making sure residents are aware of the information and free resources currently available to them. The one-stop shop for all these resources is www.michigan.gov/FlintWater.

This entire operation is about making sure Flint residents receive the resources and information they need, and we're 100% committed to doing what needs to be done until all needs are met.

Thank you.

General Talking Points

Flint Water Emergency Response

General

- Efforts are being coordinated by the State of Michigan in partnership with the City of Flint, Genesee County, and local community organizations to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint.
- We recognize the urgency of this situation and will continue to engage in full partnership to coordinate relief efforts, streamline communication, and use every resource available to help the residents of Flint.
- Right now, we are bringing all state resources to bare to protect public health and safety.
- One of the most important messages and priorities for us is making sure residents are aware of the information and free resources currently available to them. The one-stop shop for all these resources is www.michigan.gov/FlintWater.

Water Response Teams

- On Jan. 12, water response teams, consisting of state personnel including MSP troopers, began going door-to-door throughout Flint neighborhoods to ensure residents have the resources they need.

- The water response teams are handing out bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and water testing kits.

- The teams will go door-to-door daily from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. until needs are met.

- If by chance a resident is not at home when the teams stop by, a flyer with information on how to receive these free water resources will be left at their residence. And calling 2-1-1- is always a great resource for citizens to learn more information.

- The state has been working with local officials to identify the needs of residents to help prioritize efforts.

- The bulk of action is about identifying specifically where the needs are, where the gaps in recovery are, and ensuring close coordination with the city and county on any actions.

Resources for homebound individuals

- 2-1-1 is collecting a list of individuals needing home delivery and is providing that information to the Genesee County Sheriff's Department.
- 2-1-1 will continue to monitor the needs of homebound/limited mobility residents and provide updates as needed.

Filters

- When used properly water filters remove 99% of lead in water.
- Residents are urged to use filtered water for drinking, food preparation, brushing teeth and watering pets. Unfiltered water may be used for bathing and cleaning.
- The Plumbers and Pipefitters Union has agreed to provide free installation to homebound residents needing assistance.
- There is a detailed video posted on www.michigan.gov/flint that explains how to properly install a water filter cartridge.

Outside Support Effort

- A lot of great efforts are already underway by many local agencies; public, private, non-profit, etc, and there has been an outpouring of support from volunteers and organizations who want to help with this effort.
- The American Red Cross, United Way, 2-1-1 and many other organizations have assisted with water resource distribution efforts and the donations management process.
- Individuals looking to volunteer or donate water should call 2-1-1.

Other

- We're working as fast as we can to identify what is being done already and what still needs to be done.

FLINT WATER RESPONSE TEAM

LEAD IN FLINT WATER

GENERAL INFORMATION

- Lead is hard to avoid completely. It can be found in water pipes and brass water faucets, old paint, in dirt, at some job sites, and in metal used for some hobbies.
- The amount of lead found in some Flint homes' drinking water could affect kids' health.
  - Even small amounts of lead can harm kids' health because they are still growing.
  - Adults are less likely to be harmed by the levels found in the water.
- Filter your drinking water using a National Sanitation Foundation (NSF)-approved filter.
  - You can receive a free a NSF-approved filter if you use City of Flint water.
  - Call 211 to find out where you can pick up a free water filter.
- Some filters can remove up to 99 percent of the lead in water when used properly. To be sure your filter is removing as much lead as it can, carefully follow the instructions that came with it.
  - Run only cold water through the filter.
  - Change the filter cartridge as often as you the instructions explain.
- Even after changes to the water system, it may take a while before lead levels in your home's water drop.

There are a number of steps you can take to keep yourself and your family healthy. Use the tips below to learn more about how to stay healthy:

LEAD IN WATER

Although your water may be a different color sometimes, it is not caused by lead. It's important to remember:

- You can't see, smell, or taste lead in water.
- Lead won't change the color of your water.
- The only way to know what your home's lead levels are is by having your water tested.

LEAD IN BLOOD

- If your child lives in Flint or goes to school or childcare in the City of Flint, they should be tested for lead poisoning.
- You should contact your doctor about testing.
- Testing is available for free at the Genesee County Health Department. Call 211 if you need help getting there.
- If you are pregnant or nursing, and you have tested negative for lead poisoning, it safe to breastfeed.
- If you are pregnant or nursing and have tested positive for lead poisoning, talk to your doctor about breastfeeding.

TIPS TO KEEP YOUR HOME SAFE FROM LEAD

WATER FILTERS

- Get your water tested. It's free. Call 810-787-6537.
- Use a water filter. Call 2-1-1 for a free filter.
- If you do not have a water filter, use bottled water for drinking and mixing formula.
- Use cold, filtered water for cooking.
- Wash fruits and vegetables with filtered water.
- If you must use unfiltered water, run the water for at least five minutes before you use it. To save time and water in the future, it's a good idea to fill up as many containers as you can once you've run your water for five minutes.

CLEANING

- Wash dishes, bottles, toys, and pacifiers with unfiltered soapy water and dry before use.
- Use door mats. Take your shoes off when indoors.
- It is safe to use unfiltered tap water to mop floors and wipe down countertops.
- Vacuuming carpets may pull more lead dust to the surface. Use a non-motorized sweeper to clean carpets.
- Clean windowsills and play areas often with paper towels and soapy water.
- It is safe to wash clothes in your washer and dryer.

FLINT WATER RESPONSE TEAM www.michigan.gov/flintwater

TIPS TO KEEP YOUR HOME SAFE FROM LEAD

IN THE BATHROOM

- Use filtered tap water to brush your kids' teeth.
- Adults can use unfiltered tap water to brush their teeth.
- You can use unfiltered tap water to shower or bathe, but don't let kids drink the water when they play in the tub.
- Studies done by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention show that parents can continue bathing their children in the tub but bath time should be used for bathing only, rather than allowing children to play in the water for a long time.
- Lead will not cause rashes or other skin problems. However, if chlorine levels or other cleaners are high in the water, it may cause itchy or dry skin (similar to what can happen when you swim in a pool).

CARING FOR PETS

- Use filtered tap water for your family pets' water bowls.

OTHER SOURCES OF LEAD IN YOUR HOME

LEAD PAINT

- Homes built before 1978 likely have lead paint, both inside and outside.
- Old paint is the most common way that kids are exposed to lead.

DIRT

- If you live in the city, there may be lead in the dirt outside your home.
- Before 1996, gas and the exhaust from cars contained lead. More lead will be found in dirt in busy traffic areas.

DUST

- The dust in your home can have tiny amounts of lead from paint and dirt.

HOBBIES AND JOBS

- Solder, fishing sinkers, bullets, and stained glass framing materials are some items that may contain lead. You could also track home lead dust from your job site.

Spl/F/Lt. David Kaiser
Flint Water Resource Sites Bullet Points

Good afternoon, I am Spl/F/Lt. David Kaiser with the Michigan State Police. I am assigned to the MSP Third District Headquarters, which serves the City of Flint.

The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we are committed to a coordinated approach to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint and address all aspects of this situation.

I'd like to briefly explain the role of the Michigan State Police during this response.

Since Tuesday, the State Emergency Operations Center has been activated and is staffed by members of state agencies and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state.

Right now, we are bringing all state resources to bare to protect public health and safety.

Yesterday, we established water resource sites at the five fire stations across the city to serve as a one-stop location where residents can pick-up all of the resources they need to ensure their drinking water is safe, including bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges and water testing kits.

The hours of the resource sites have been extended until 9 p.m. daily, rather than 4 p.m. as initially scheduled. This is to help make the process of picking up water resources as convenient as possible for Flint residents. And citizens who may need transportation can call 2-1-1 for assistance.

Resources available at the sites include free bottled water, water filters, water filter replacement cartridges, filtered water pitchers, and free household lead testing kits.

One of our immediate objectives is to make sure every household in Flint has a water filter. When used properly water filters remove 99% of lead in water.

Further, beginning on Tuesday we will have water resource teams, consisting of one trooper and other state personnel, who will be going door-to-door throughout Flint neighborhoods to ensure residents have the resources they need. The water resource teams will be handing out bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and water testing kits. If by chance a resident is not at home when the teams stop by, a flyer with information on how to receive these free water resources will be left at their residence. And calling 2-1-1- is always a great resource for citizens to learn more information.

The bulk of our actions continue to be identifying where specific resource needs are, where the gaps in recovery are, and ensuring we are coordinating closely with the city and county on any actions. This will allow us to target our actions and ensure we are not duplicating efforts.

A lot of great efforts are already underway by many local agencies; public, private, non-profit, etc., but we need to marshal all these efforts and ensure they are coordinated to maximize our effectiveness.

We're working as fast as we can to identify what is being done already and what still needs to be done.

One of the most important messages and priorities for us is making sure residents are aware of the information and free resources currently available to them. The one-stop shop for all these resources is www.michigan.gov/FlintWater.

This entire operation is about making sure Flint residents receive the resources and information they need, and we're 100% committed to doing what needs to be done until all needs are met.

Thank you.

Talking Points – Capt. Kelenske
Media roundtable, January 7, 2016

Good afternoon, I am Sp/F/Lt. David Kaiser with the Michigan State Police. I am assigned to the MSP Third District Headquarters, which serves the city of Flint.

The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we are committed to this coordinated approach with state and local resources to address all aspects of this situation.

I'd like to briefly explain the role of the Michigan State Police.

When Governor Snyder declared a state of emergency making available all state resources in cooperation with local response and recovery operation, the declaration activated the State Emergency Operations Center—or SEOC—authorizing the Michigan State Police Emergency Management Homeland Security Division to coordinate the state's response efforts.

The SEOC is the emergency operations center for the State of Michigan and is staffed by members of state agencies and other and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state.

Right now, we are bringing all state resources to bare to protect public health and safety.

Going forward, to better coordinate the health and safety of the residents of Flint and to ensure they are aware of and have access to the resources available within their community, the State Emergency Operations Center will serve as a central point of coordination between the local and state response efforts.

The bulk of our actions are about identifying specifically where the needs are, where the gaps in recovery are, and ensuring we are coordinating closely with the city and county on any actions. This will allow us to target our actions and ensure we are not duplicating efforts.

A lot of great efforts are already underway by many local agencies; public, private, non-profit, etc., but we need to marshal all these efforts and ensure they are coordinated to maximize our effectiveness.

Right now the bulk of our actions are about identifying specifically where the needs are, where the gaps in recovery are, and ensuring we are coordinating closely with the city and county on any actions. This will allow us to target our actions and ensure we are not duplicating efforts.

One of the most important messages and priorities for us is making sure residents are aware of the resources and measures currently available to them. The one-stop shop for all these resources is www.michigan.gov/FlintWater.

These resources include water filters, water pitchers, and free household lead testing. One of our immediate objectives is to make sure every household in Flint has a water filter. When used properly water filters remove 99% of lead in water.

In fact, we have teams scheduled to be on the ground Tuesday....

We're working as fast as we can to identify what is being done already and what still needs to be done.

One of our major priorities is GIS mapping; we're also working to get a handle on how bottled water is being distributed. Our Third District Emergency Manager has been engaged with local officials for the last couple of months. I have deployed additional MSP personnel to the county EOC to help with coordination there.

I want to stress that this entire operation is about making sure Flint residents receive the resources and information they need, and we're 100% committed to doing what needs to be done.

If asked:

Our focus is on finding solutions. Others are looking into previous actions, but our job is to help residents today.

I'm aware you had the opportunity today to ask the Governor some of these questions, again, this operation is focused on moving forward and finding solutions, and I'm not the appropriate person to speak to past actions.

Flint, MI 48506

Fire Station #6
716 West Pierson Rd.
Flint, MI 48505

Fire Station #8
202 East Atherton Rd.
Flint, MI 48507

"The water resource sites serve as a one-stop location where residents can pick-up all of the resources they need to ensure their drinking water is safe, including bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges and water testing kits," said Capt. Chris Kelenske, Deputy State Director of Emergency Management and Homeland Security and commander of the Michigan State Police Emergency Management & Homeland Security Division. "The state continues to work in coordination with local officials to ensure the daily needs of residents are met."

MORE

Water filters and replacement cartridges continue to be available Monday through Friday, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. at the following locations:

Michigan Department of Health and Human Services office
125 E. Union St.

Talking Points

Flint Water Emergency Response

State of Emergency Declaration

- On Jan. 5, Gov. Rick Snyder declared a state of emergency for Genesee County due to the ongoing health and safety issues caused by lead in the city of Flint's drinking water.

- By declaring a state of emergency, Snyder has made available all state resources in cooperation with local response and recovery operations.

- The declaration authorizes the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division (MSP/EMHSD) to coordinate state efforts.

- In addition to the emergency declaration, Snyder activated the State Emergency Operations Center to coordinate state departments, the state's response, resources, and relief and recovery activities.

- The SEOC is the emergency operations center for the state of Michigan. Located in Lansing, the center is overseen by the MSP/EMHSD and coordinates response and recovery efforts by state agencies and local government. The SEOC is staffed by members of state agencies and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state of Michigan.

- On Jan. 6, the Joint Information Center was opened to lead the state's messaging and information response in coordination with the local Emergency Operations Center, Genesee County, and the City of Flint.

- The state of Michigan is working in full partnership with the Flint Water Advisory Task Force, all levels of government and water quality experts, to find both short-term and long-term solutions to ensure the health and safety of Flint residents.

Background

- In response to elevated lead levels found in drinking water in the city of Flint, the state of Michigan is collaborating with local government, and water and health experts to protect the health of residents.

- On Oct. 2, 2015, Gov. Snyder released a comprehensive action plan to address elevated blood lead levels and lead rates in drinking water in the city of Flint. This plan included the following action steps:

    - Test Flint public schools drinking water, with testing also available at no cost to any other school in Flint.
    - Offer free water testing to Flint residents.
    - Provide free water filters to residents.
    - Expanded health exposure testing of individual homes.
    - Accelerate corrosion controls in the Flint drinking water system.
    - Accelerate water system improvements to address replacing lead service lines.
    - Expedite the completion of the Karegnondi Water Authority pipeline.
    - Expand a Safe Drinking Water Technical Advisory Committee.
    - Named Dr. Eden Wells, chief medical executive for the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services, as the Flint drinking water public health adviser.
    - Boosted a comprehensive lead education program to make sure residents have detailed information about how to protect themselves and their homes.

- On Oct. 16, 2015, the city of Flint reconnected with the Great Lakes Water Authority as the source of the city's drinking water until the Karegnondi Water Authority pipeline is completed.

- On Oct. 21, 2015, Gov. Snyder announced the creation of the independent Flint Water Advisory Task Force charged with reviewing actions regarding water use and testing in Flint and offer recommendations for future guidelines to protect the health and safety of all state residents.

- The city of Flint declared a local emergency on Dec. 14, 2015, and partially opened their Emergency Operations Center.

- On Jan. 4, Genesee County declared a "local state of emergency," which activated local emergency response and recovery plans, and requested a governor's emergency declaration.

Next Steps

- As a result of the state of emergency declaration and the activation of the State Emergency Operations Center, the Joint Information Center will be coordinating the state's public information response and collaborating with the local Emergency Operations Center.

- Going forward, to better coordinate the health and safety of the residents of Flint and to ensure they are aware of and have access to the resources available within their community, the State Emergency Operations Center will serve as a central point of coordination between the local and state response efforts.

Frequently Asked Questions

Flint Water Situation and Declaration Process

What is a local state of emergency?

- The chief executive official of a community, like a mayor or county board chair, can declare a "local state of emergency" during an emergency or disaster. A local declaration enables a community to activate its emergency operations plans and administer local aid and assistance. Directives may be issued too.

- A local emergency declaration is not an automatic call for state or federal assistance. A local declaration is a mechanism to cope with an emergency or disaster.

- A local declaration typically complements the activation of a county's or a municipality's emergency operations center and public information operations.

Why does Flint depend on Genesee County for emergency declarations?

- The city of Flint has opted to be incorporated into the Genesee County Emergency Management program. The city has an emergency support plan that complements Genesee County's emergency operations plan.

- When the city of Flint exhausts its resources during an incident, they may call upon Genesee County for resources. It's a mutual agreement where both help each other out when it's needed most.

- The city of Flint's Fire Chief and Genesee County's Emergency Management Coordinator are designated as the officials to manage an emergency situation.

What is a Governor's declaration?

- When a designated Michigan Emergency Management Act program exhausts its resources during an emergency or disaster, they may request specific resources from the state of Michigan. Resources include contracts, equipment and personnel.

- All requests for a governor's declaration are submitted to the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division, which reviews the request and provides a recommendation to the Governor's Office. The Governor may approve or deny the request.

- The Governor can declare a "state of disaster" or "state of emergency" that makes available all state resources in cooperation with local response and recovery operations.

What state resources are available under a Governor's declaration?

- The Governor may provide state resources, like contracts, equipment, and personnel, to support and assist during the emergency or disaster.

- For the situation in Flint, state resources were deployed even before the disaster declaration. For example, the Michigan Legislature provided $9.35 million to lessen the threat of a catastrophe by reconnecting the city water to the Detroit Water and Sewer System. Funding was also provided for lead testing, case management for children with elevated blood levels, and water filters.

What is a Presidential declaration?

- When a state exhausts its resources during an emergency or disaster, a Governor may request assistance through the Stafford Act. Requests from Michigan are submitted to the President through the Federal Emergency Management Agency's Region V Office in Chicago.

- FEMA reviews all requests and provides a recommendation to the President. Ultimately, the President decides whether to make an emergency or major disaster declaration.

Is a Presidential declaration possible for the Flint water situation?

- A Presidential declaration requires a state to prove the incident is beyond the capabilities and resources of both local and state response and recovery efforts.

- A Presidential major disaster declaration provides long-term recovery resources after an emergency or disaster. Federal law and regulations define a major disaster as being any natural catastrophe, any fire, flood or explosion.

- A Presidential emergency declaration provides supplemental aide during an incident. Federal law outlines an emergency where federal assistance is needed to supplement state and local efforts and capabilities to save lives and to protect public health and safety, or to lessen or avert the threat of a catastrophe. Up to $5 million in assistance is available. Amounts over that dollar figure require notification to Congress.

Will the Governor request a Presidential Declaration under the Stafford Act?

- All options are being examined for assistance, such as through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (Community Development Block Grants), the Center for Disease Control and Prevention, the Environmental Protection Agency, or legislative action. The Stafford Act is one mechanism to obtain assistance.

State of Michigan activates Joint Information Center in response to Flint water concerns

LANSING, Mich. – Today the State of Michigan activated its Joint Information Center (JIC) in an effort to coordinate public information in support of the state's efforts regarding the health and safety issues caused by lead in the city of Flint's drinking water. The JIC will serve as the sole source of official information to the news media.

The JIC is currently operational at the Michigan State Police Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division in Lansing and is staffed by public information officers (PIO) from several state agencies.

State officials have been in contact with city and county officials and anticipate establishing a JIC in the city of Flint to be co-located and staffed in partnership with local and state agencies by the end of the week.

The JIC was activated in response to the state of emergency declared by Gov. Rick Snyder on Tuesday, Jan. 5, which made available all state resources in cooperation with local response and recovery operations.

In addition to the emergency declaration, Snyder activated the State Emergency Operations Center to coordinate state response and recovery activities. State agencies will report to the center to coordinate resources, assess the situation and begin providing assets to assist with local relief operations.

The SEOC is the emergency operations center for the state of Michigan. Located in Lansing, the center is overseen by the MSP/EMHSD and coordinates response and recovery efforts by state agencies and local government. The SEOC is staffed by members of state agencies and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state of Michigan.

Public information regarding water filters, is available online at www.michiga.gov/flintwater.

Gov. Snyder declares emergency for Genesee County

State Emergency Operations Center activated to assist with relief efforts

LANSING, Mich. – Gov. Rick Snyder today declared a state of emergency for Genesee County due to the ongoing health and safety issues caused by lead in the city of Flint's drinking water.

By declaring a state of emergency, Snyder has made available all state resources in cooperation with local response and recovery operations. The declaration authorizes the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division (MSP/EMHSD) to coordinate state efforts.

"The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we're committed to a coordinated approach with resources from state agencies to address all aspects of this situation," Snyder said. "Working in full partnership with the Flint Water Advisory Task Force, all levels of government and water quality experts, we will find both short-term and long-term solutions to ensure the health and safety of Flint residents."

In addition to the emergency declaration, Snyder activated the State Emergency Operations Center to coordinate state response and recovery activities. State agencies will report to the center to coordinate resources, assess the situation and begin providing assets to assist with local relief operations.

"Our staff recognizes the urgency of this situation and is already working closely with local officials," said Capt. Chris A. Kelenske, Deputy State Director of Emergency Management and Homeland Security and commander of the MSP/EMHSD. "We will continue to collaborate with state, city and county leaders to coordinate relief efforts, streamline communication and use all available resources to help residents."

On Jan. 4, Genesee County declared a "local state of emergency," which activated local emergency response and recovery plans. By requesting a governor's declaration, the county has determined local resources are insufficient to address the situation and state assistance is required to protect public health, safety and property to lessen or avert the threat of a crisis.

The city of Flint has been under a local emergency declaration since Dec. 14, 2015.

The SEOC is the emergency operations center for the state of Michigan. Located in Lansing, the center is overseen by the MSP/EMHSD and coordinates response and recovery efforts by state agencies and local government. The SEOC is staffed by members of state agencies and other partners for decision making and information coordination during disasters or emergencies in the state of Michigan.

ALL MEDIA INQUIRIES ARE BEING HANDLED BY THE JOINT INFORMATION CENTER AT 888-EMD-TODAY (888-363-8632) or JICNews@michigan.gov.

General Talking Points

Flint Water Emergency Response

NOT INTENDED TO BE DISSEMINATED TO THE MEDIA OR PUBLIC IN THIS FORMAT

General

- Response efforts continue to be coordinated by the State of Michigan in partnership with the City of Flint, Genesee County, and local community organizations to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint.
- We recognize the urgency of this situation and will continue to engage in full partnership to coordinate relief efforts, streamline communication, and use every resource available to help the residents of Flint.
- The health and welfare of Flint residents is a top priority and we are committed to a coordinated approach to provide a full set of water resources to the residents of Flint and address all aspects of this situation.

Water Resource Sites

- The five water resource sites located at the Flint fire stations continue to be where residents can pick-up free bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and home water testing kits. These sites are open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Our primary goal is ensuring that these sites remain fully stocked with supplies.

Water Response Teams

- Since Tuesday, water response teams have been going door-to-door to distribute supplies, including bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges, and water testing kits.
- We initially started with four teams and this effort continues to expand with more personnel going door-to-door.
- These teams are comprised of state of Michigan employees, Genesee County personnel and volunteers from the American Red Cross.

- Since Tuesday, the water response teams have visited more than 11,300 homes. The goal is to visit approximately 29,000 homes within the city that have been identified as occupied using GIS mapping. This updated number more accurately reflects the occupied homes to ensure teams are more effectively reaching residents.

State of Michigan Volunteers

- Over the course of the holiday weekend, approximately 300 state employees and their family members are volunteering to help increase door to door efforts.

National Guard Mobilization

- On Tuesday, Jan. 12, Governor Snyder issued an Executive Order to activate Michigan National Guard.
- On Wednesday, a small number of National Guard personnel were on site to assess the situation.
- Today, the full contingent of more than 30 personnel are on site staffing the water resource sites to support the distribution of bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges and water testing kits.
- At this time, the National Guard will not be going door to door with the water response teams. However, the activation of the National Guard will enable volunteers from the American Red Cross, who have been staffing the water resource sites, to join the water response teams.
- The Michigan National Guard has dedicated more personnel to assist with distribution efforts at the five water resource sites.
- Beginning January 18, approximately 70 National Guard members will be handing out resources at the fire stations, which is more than double the current commitment.

Logistics to Deploy Resources

- We are currently in the process of establishing a new warehouse location that is a larger facility to provide the necessary space and access needs to load and unload trucks. The new warehouse is expected to be operation beginning on Saturday, which will replace the GCARD warehouse that has been used thus far.
- We are utilizing the expertise of the American Red Cross to assist with inventory and warehousing of supplies in order to maximize efficiency. An American Red Cross logistics planner, who is an expert in disaster logistics, has arrived from Washington, DC to assist in streamlining the inventory and distribution process.

FEMA Interagency Recovery Plan

- On Wednesday, Jan. 13, Governor Snyder requested support from FEMA to help coordinate an interagency recovery plan and identify federal agencies that have programs, authorities, and technical expertise to assist Flint.
- The federal agencies may include the Department of Health and Human Services, Environmental Protection Agency, Department of Housing and Urban Development, and Army Corps of Engineers.

Request for Presidential Declaration

- On Thursday, Jan. 14, Governor Snyder requested the President to declare both an emergency and an expedited major disaster for Genesee County. This request includes supplementary federal aid in the form of Individual Assistance and Public Assistance to help eligible residents.
    - Individual Assistance can include grants for temporary housing and home repairs, low-cost loans to cover uninsured property losses and other programs to help people and businesses recover.
    - Public Assistance helps cover some of the costs incurred by state and local governments due to damage to public facilities and infrastructure.
- The request will be reviewed by FEMA, which will advise the President as to whether an emergency and major disaster declaration should be granted. The President has ultimate decision-making authority on whether to provide federal assistance.
- We do not have an estimated timeline of when a decision will be made.

Water Response Teams Increased January 16 through January 18

- On Saturday, January 16, water distribution efforts were expanded to more than 20 water response teams going door-to door to distribute safe water resources to the homes of Flint residents.
- These teams consisted of state personnel and American Red Cross volunteers, including approximately 300 State of Michigan employees and their family members who volunteered January 16 through January 18.
- All members of the water response teams had official credentialed badges with a State of Michigan seal hologram to be easily identified.

Resources Distributed and Purchased

- Since January 12, the water response teams have provided more than 11,300 Flint homes with bottled water, filters, replacement cartridges, and water testing kits.

- Since January 9, the following resources have been distributed to residents, both at the water resource sites and by the water response teams, in addition to donations:
    - Nearly 20,900 cases of water
    - Nearly 48,000 filters
    - More than 3,300 water testing kits

- The State of Michigan has purchased the following resources, since January 5, which will continue to be delivered to Flint over the coming days:
    - Nearly 57,500 cases of water
    - More than 108,500 filters
    - Nearly 29,000 water testing kits

Emergency Declaration Approved

- President Barack Obama declared a federal emergency in Flint to provide resources to help provide residents access to safe, clean water.

- This emergency assistance is to provide water, water filters, water filter cartridges, water test kits, and other necessary related items for a period of no more than 90 days for Genesee County.

- Under the Stafford Act, resources totaling $5 million can be used for federal emergencies. The state is required to match 25 percent.
    - The 25 percent match is an addition to the $5 million.
    - If the $5 million is exhausted, FEMA can notify Congress about additional funding.

- The Department of Homeland Security, Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), is authorized to provide appropriate assistance for required emergency measures, authorized under Title V of the Stafford Act, to save lives and to protect property and public health and safety, or to lessen or avert the threat of a catastrophe in the designated area. Specifically, FEMA is authorized to provide emergency protective measures (Category B), limited to direct federal assistance, under the Public Assistance program at 75 percent federal funding.

Disaster Declaration

- Disaster declaration was denied based on the legal requirement that under Stafford Act disaster relief is available only for natural events, fires, floods, or explosions.
- The state is actively reviewing the process for appealing the disaster declaration denial.

Water Response Teams Visit More Than ### Homes Today

State Continues To Provide Water Resources in Flint

FLINT, Mich. – Water response teams continued their door-to-door efforts, today visiting another #### homes providing free bottled water, filters, water replacement cartridges and water testing kits. 144

In addition to bottled water, filters and replacement cartridges, Flint residents who are concerned about their water can obtain free water testing kits. The kits can be picked up and dropped off at any of the five water resources sites.

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality reports that since implementation of residential monitoring, water sampling reports are as follows through Jan. 22, 2016:

- 1,186 total Residential Samples reported
  - 1,099 samples at or below the Action Level of 15 ppb (92.7%)
  - 966 samples at or below 5 ppb (81.5%)
  - 87 samples exceed the Action Level of 15 ppb (7.3%)

"While water testing results are trending in the right direction, there are still areas of concern," stated Keith Creagh, Director of the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality. "We are in the process of establishing a formal sampling protocol that will be representative of the entire distribution system and we will revisit these sites routinely to establish a baseline and conduct trend analysis."

The units in the reports are expressed in milligrams per liter (mg/L), also known as parts per million (ppm). In order to convert to parts per billion, multiply the result by 1,000. For example, a result of 0.004 (mg/L) would equal 4 parts per billion (ppb).

Creagh continued, "We recognize not all the samples within the program may be sampling points recognized as Tier 1 sampling sites under the lead and copper rule. The reason we are collecting this data is because we are trying to get an overall assessment of the water system and to identify potential areas of concern."

MORE

Water resource sites where residents can obtain free bottled water, filters, replacement cartridges and water testing kits remain open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and are located at:

Demand Increases at Water Resource Sites

Over 300 volunteers help in visiting over 13,000 homes today

FLINT, Mich. – The city's five water resource sites experienced an increased demand in bottled water today, distributing over 300 pallets of water in seven hours, making it the busiest day of operation yet.

In addition to this activity, water response teams also continued their door-to-door efforts, today visiting 13,684 homes providing free bottled water, filters, water replacement cartridges and water testing kits. The teams are composed of city, county and state personnel, American Red Cross and volunteers, as well as National Guard Soldiers and Airmen. More than 300 volunteers took part in today's activities.

Since Jan. 9, 2016, the following resources have been distributed to residents, both at the water resource sites and by water response teams:

- 148,866 cases of water
- 86,843 water filters
- 25,586 water testing kits

While the state continues to increase the amount of water it is purchasing and providing, this increased demand provides some logistical challenges. In order to ensure supply keeps pace with demand, residents are reminded the general guideline is one case of bottled water per household per day.

As part of the distribution process, residents seeking water filters and replacement cartridges are asked to share their address. This data is being collected and mapped in real-time to assist with long-term recovery and help water response teams know where to focus their door-to-door efforts. It is important to note that no resident will be denied resources if an address is not provided, and a photo identification is not required.

State Partners Again with MSU Student Athletes in Flint to Help With Recycling and Water Distribution Efforts

Recycling Site Open Saturday, Feb. 20, from Noon to 4 p.m.

Flint, Mich. – Student athletes from Michigan State University will once again partner with Schupan Recycling, Republic Services and the Michigan Community Service Commission (MCSC) to aid in recycling and water distribution efforts in Flint on Saturday, Feb. 20. These efforts will include collection of empty water bottles, distribution of recycling bags and information on how to participate in curbside recycling.

Recycling collection and water distribution will take place Saturday from noon to 4 p.m. in the parking lot of the Northwest Shopping Center, 2629 West Pierson Road, Flint, MI 48504 (corner of Clio Road and W. Pierson Road).

"Our first recycling event was so successful that the MSU students wanted to come back and help again," said Ginna Holmes, executive director of MCSC. "We are grateful for their contributions, as well as the contributions of Schupan and Republic for donating their recycling services and expertise."

Residents are asked to bring their empty water bottles to this location. Schupan Recycling will collect the bottles to process for turning into new products. Residents can also sign-up for curbside recycling from Republic Services.

Daily water distribution is ongoing at fire stations 1, 3, 5, 6 and 8. When picking up water, residents will be given a recyclable bag, donated by Petoskey Plastics, and instructions on how to recycle their water bottles either curbside or at a Schupan Recycling trailer location.

Recycling trailers are located at fire stations 1, 5 and 8, along with 3008 Airpark Drive S (Comcast) and 4119 North Saginaw (Empowerment Village).

Media is invited to attend the Saturday event.

Michigan.gov/flintwater has key information in American Sign Language and four other languages

Flint, Mich. – To ensure all communities in Flint have the information they need, the State of Michigan continues to add to its inventory of communication materials. Key informational materials related to the Flint water crisis are available in Spanish, Mandarin Chinese, Arabic and Hmong, as well as American Sign Language (ASL).

"It is vital that all Flint residents, regardless of their native language, have access to the information and resources they need during this emergency," said Governor Rick Snyder.

The Michigan School for the Deaf is located in Flint, and the area is home to a large population of individuals who are deaf. The State is working on making critical information available in American Sign Language, including this video.

"Flint is home to a number of individuals who may not be proficient in English, including a significant community of people who use American Sign Language," said Agustin Arbulu, Director of the Michigan Department of Civil Rights. "It is critical that they have access to the same important information we're providing to everyone, in a form they can understand."

After consulting with community leaders and the Michigan Department of Civil Rights, the state worked with certified translators to have key documents translated to ensure important information is available to those with no or limited English comprehension.

Translated documents are available in the "Alternative Language Resources: Español - 中文 - عربي" area of www.michigan.gov/flintwater. Further, our federal partners have resources available in Spanish, traditional Chinese, simple Chinese, Vietnamese, and Korean available at www.epa.gov/flint.

For additional information related to the response in Flint, visit www.michigan.gov/flintwater.

Hi Annette,

Will you be on the 4pm VOAD call this afternoon? I had a contact from the TSA at Dulles that they did an employee drive for water but need to find transportation for it to MI...that sounded similar to what you did in Haiti. I didn't know if you were supporting anything like that for Flint?

Jeannie,

As I read through the email chain, it seems their main question wasn't answered – that being, can FEMA transport it as an in kind donation? We don't have any transportation that I'm aware of for picking up donations. That doesn't seem so much like anything ALAN would do, but perhaps there's another VOAD partner with a truck/semi coming from east to west? I don't know, what do you think? Otherwise, the only question is palleted vs. non-palleted.

Thank you for reaching out to us. I have a few recommendations that may help with your efforts to help people in Flint, MI.

At the bottom, I have some links with information about donations, including guidelines for donating water that should be helpful. If you have not seen this information, please review as it can help keep your offers from being congested with other offers and help minimize any frustration you may run into.

It seems you may run into one potential problem with transporting water to MI. We have seen earlier instances where donations were turned away for lack of transportation. There is an organization called the American Logistics Aid Network (ALAN) that might be able to help you. ALAN often coordinates pro-bono logistics support for donors and voluntary organizations serving people. You can reach them at www.alanaid.org or call Kathy Fulton at 863.668.4238.

A good point of contact for handling donations in the state is Tom Weber (contact below). The state has primary authority over the management of donations.

Nulise,

First I'd like to thank you for your assistance in guiding us in the right direction. As I previously mentioned my team at TSA Dulles feels compelled to assist the citizens of Flint Michigan that are affected by this contaminated water disaster. We are trying to Get a Workplace Donation Campaign put together but before we present it to our Federal Security Director for approval we wanted make sure that we researched our options. We would like to donate water to the Food Bank of Eastern Michigan. Our team is ready to donate over 100 cases of bottled water. Our only logistical problem is actually getting the water to Michigan from Virginia. I would like to know if there is a possibility that TSA could collaborate with FEMA in getting in-kind donation to Michigan.

Any assistance you can offer us would be greatly appreciated.

> I think the most significant immediate negative impact will be the economic effects of such things as decreased property values, lost business activity (new businesses will not move to Flint and existing businesses that rely on clean water like restaurants will be hurt), lost employment, population loss (renters will leave the city). Residents and businesses are also having to pay extra for bottled water, so the extra spending on water will take away from other spending. It is relatively easy for residents to move some of their economic/spending activity outside the city, so the Flint economy will be hurt. These impacts will create an economic downturn in Flint. In terms of personal income losses, a three to four percent loss in nominal personal income in the City of Flint seems reasonable, which would equal a negative impact of $85 million to $115 million per year in lost economic activity. Long-term there would be the cost of a new water system, which would have a significant cost. Direct health related costs would be on top of this estimate.

This is a very rough estimate. I would need a lot more time and a lot more information/data to develop a more thorough estimate.

Importance: High

Good afternoon.
The Michigan Department of Talent and Economic Development (MTED) is comprised of the Michigan State Housing and Development Authority (MSHDA), Michigan Economic Development Corporation (MEDC) and the Talent Investment Agency (TIA).

Our combined efforts are focused on short and long-term assistance to the City of Flint and/or Genesee County through various grants and potential infrastructure assistance. MSHDA has identified allowable funds to assist residents with MSHDA-backed mortgages and the purchase of water/water filters for low income households. MEDC is focused on infrastructure development and qualifying funds for this purpose.

Based on available sources, MTED has assessed potential impacts to the economy of Flint resulting from the water crisis. We developed the attached analysis that looked at 4 potential long term costs associated with certain blood lead levels, which are:

- Lifetime earnings loss total
- Lead Health Care Treatment Costs
- ADHD Treatment Costs
- Special Education Costs

This analysis was based on a study by the University of Michigan Risk Science Center and the Michigan Network for Children's Environmental Health. The study, linked below, cited studies that showed the direct correlation in loss of IQ with elevated lead levels. This loss of IQ was directly correlated to loss of lifetime income potential, as well as costs for treatment, costs for special education, and ADHD treatment for cohorts under 5 years old.

The excel chart uses the findings from this study and applies it to Flint's population of 0-5 year olds. We're not sure what number to use in the field labeled "estimated percent of population impacted", but it's saved at 6% of 0-5 year olds impacted. Depending on the lead levels, the lifetime earnings loss ranges from $33 Million to over $89 Million if 6% of 0-5 year olds were impacted. The % of population can be changed for each blood lead level to get the impact.

http://www.riskscience.umich.edu/wp-content/uploads/2013/12/Economic-Impact-of-Lead-in-Michigan-Web.pdf

Again, this analysis is based on the study linked above. If the findings and methodology of the study aren't acceptable, then the attached Excel calculations shouldn't be used. Also, we have not reached out to UM to see if any of their assumptions have changed since this was done in 2014 or if our correlations and methodology are acceptable. With additional time, we would confirm our method with the UM team.

With input from the Department of Treasury, we assessed that the most significant immediate negative impact will be the economic effects of such things as decreased property values, lost business activity (new businesses will not move to Flint and existing businesses that rely on clean water like restaurants will be hurt), lost employment, population loss (renters will leave the city). Residents and businesses are also having to pay extra for bottled water, so the extra spending on water will take away from other spending. It is relatively easy for residents to move some of their economic/spending activity outside the city, so the Flint economy will be hurt. These impacts will create an economic downturn in Flint. In terms of personal income losses, a three to four percent loss in nominal personal income in the City of Flint seems reasonable, which would equal a negative impact of $85 million to $115 million per year in lost economic activity. Long-term there would be the cost of a new water system, which would have a significant cost. Direct health related costs would be on top of this estimate.

This is a very rough estimate. With additional time and information/data, we can develop a more thorough estimate.

Subject: Flint water crisis impacts

Good morning all,

We are preparing the draft of the letter from the governor to the president to request assistance. We are attempting to send this as quickly as humanly possible.

What we need from each agency is a complete but as brief as possible summary of the impacts to the people and economy of Flint resulting from the water crisis, prepared by the best qualified person in your agency.

This would include quantification of past, current, and future or potential future impacts including:

Health
Economic
Insurance (is there any coverage on the part of individuals, or the city or state that might help to cover damages?)
Contributions of voluntary agencies
Environmental; and Infrastructure

There will be an opportunity to review the entire draft as it is pieced together, to make sure we are including every potential impact that will help to describe the severity of this crisis to the City of Flint and State of Michigan.

If there's any chance of getting summaries by the end of today (let me know what the minimum timeline is that you need), that would be great.

Thanks very much for your assistance,

Hi Chrissy,

Do you have the number of either cases or pallets you're distributing to each point weekly? That is information we're attempting to track regularly (daily actually, but weekly would be good).

We're also trying to assess to the extent possible the overall community burn rate for water so as to establish the amount of water we'll be asking from FEMA before their deployment ends in April.

Thanks!

Hi Tom,

Catholic Charities is currently distributing water only at:
Center for Hope 517 E. Fifth Ave, Monday through Friday from 9:30am -4 pm
North End Soup Kitchen 735 E. Stewart Ave, Sunday through Saturday from 11:30am – 5pm

Through our donors we've been able to supply water distributions each Saturday at Greater Holy Temple Church of Christ, 6702 N. Dort Hwy.
We're also supplying water distribution efforts, as requested, at Antioch Baptist Church, 1083 E. Stewart Ave.

We have two other churches lined up as available to store and distribute as necessary, Woodside Church at 1509 E. Court St. and Calvary Community Church at 1201 W. 12th St.

Our South Flint Soup Kitchen, at Lincoln Park United Methodist (3410 Fenton Rd.), is also distributing. They've told us they're being supplied with water by the Red Cross.

If there's any other information I can provide, please let me know!

Thanks,

HI Lynne, Just curious, do we know how expensive that study will be? That would be an impact that I think we could usefully convey, if it's shareable within a document to FEMA. It would also establish the many broad based activities, in terms of both response and recovery that the state is undertaking.

Good afternoon, Zachary.
I spoke with our experts and it does not appear that we would have a more linear and/or current economic assessment than previously provided. We are in the process of drafting criteria and identifying a partner that can conduct a thorough economic analysis for Flint and the surrounding area, unfortunately...we just do not have this data as yet. I'm not sure if Treasury would have any additional information that can be shared.

Best,
Lynne

- Paragraph 3: need attribution of this turnover rate. That's astounding.
- Paragraph 4: need to make it more direct. E.g., Lead impacts young children. In this regard, Flint is especially vulnerable...
- Effectivity?
- "The broad impact...needs to be reworded...given some examples
- Whole community...can we give some statistics from Food Bank and Catholic Charities?
- Agencies incurring costs...need to include City of Flint
- I wouldn't mention the slowing, only the projection of what we still need to accomplish.
- I would also mention in addition to the various agency teams, the NGO teams and volunteers (plumbers union/Team Rubicon/ARC, etc, etc) that are working daily.
- I would remove the reference to political strains.
- Clarify, "Michigan and its political subdivisions.."
- Business bullet, mid paragraph, perhaps reword to "...those serving food, continue to incur..."
- Can any of the tasks mentioned in those bullet points be quantified? I'd send an email to each SEMC with paragraphs related to them and ask if they can provide quantification...or perhaps you have it in sit reps?
- Response to this disaster "is a long term community effort"
- "I understand..." not sure I'd include that, almost comes off as tacit agreement.
- I think there should be a summary of extra state appropriations already approved and under consideration and the broad range of impacts they target.

Hi Tom-

I was wondering if you were part of the planning team for the piping project for homes in Flint. We have been in connection with the Community Foundation of Greater Flint and they said their focus was on the long-term planning and putting in new pipes in homes/housing complexes. We believe that is an area Good360 could assist in because of who some of our largest corporate partners all. We have already begun initial discussions and were introduced to a Michigan company that would like to donate cash to help cover some of the costs for delivering products were the piping project. We are still waiting for an update from our other contact about the piping project, but I thought I would reach out to you and see if there was any information you could share that we could forward to this potential donor.

Flint paid highest rate in U.S. for water
Detroit Free Press
Michigan: Flint residents paid the highest water rates in America even as their water was tainted with lead, according to a national study released Tuesday by the public interest group Food and Water Watch. A survey of the 500 largest water systems in the country, conducted last year, found that on average, Flint residents paid about $864 a year for water service, nearly double the national average and about three-and-a-half times as much as Detroiters pay. The figure is based on an annual household consumption of 60,000 gallons. "It far exceeds what the United Nations designates as affordable for water and sewer service," said Mary Grant, one of the study's authors. The United Nations recommends that water and sewer service shouldn't exceed 3% of a household income. In Flint, the charges totaled about 7%, Grant said. A Flint lawyer who sued to reduce the rates says they are high in part because city officials and state-appointed emergency managers have tapped water and sewer money for other needs.

Woman Becomes 4th Case of Zika Virus in Illinois
(NBC)
Illinois: A fourth case of the Zika virus has been reported in Illinois, the Illinois Department of Public Health said in a statement on its website. IDPH told NBC Chicago a woman who is not pregnant has the virus. Further details about her age or her travel history were not disclosed. Most people exposed to Zika, a tropical virus spread by mosquitoes, suffer only mild symptoms. But the risk is far greater for pregnant women because of a possible link to a birth defect and neurological problems.

FDA Issues New Blood Donation Recommendations; WHO Evaluating New Forms Of Mosquito Control
(ABC News)
Global: The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) issued recommendations Tuesday to safeguard the donated blood supply during the Zika virus outbreak. The agency is recommending that those at risk of having been infected with the Zika virus should not donate blood for four weeks. These include those who have had Zika virus symptoms or sexual contact with people who have traveled to countries known to have ongoing transmissions. Additionally, the FDA recommends that no blood be used from areas where there is active transmission of the virus. No transmissions of the virus between mosquito and human have been reported in the U.S. In a new report, officials from the World Health Organization (WHO) said they are looking into new forms of mosquito control, including "a genetically modified prototype mosquito." The WHO Vector Control Advisory Group is evaluating new tools in an effort to kill the insects that spread the Zika virus. In addition to GMO mosquitoes, the group is also looking at sterilizing a male mosquitoes using a low dose of radiation. Additionally, a bacteria called "Wolbachia" could be used to stop mosquito eggs from hatching. The bacteria is not infectious to humans or other mammals.

Three Arrested In Connection To Reported Shooting At Cleveland Clothing Store
(Cleveland News)

Cleveland, Ohio: Cleveland police arrested three people following a shooting Monday at a Krush Clothing store in the Warehouse District. Officers were called to the store Monday at about 7:00 p.m. local time for reports of gunfire and police were told that a shooter was possibly inside the store. Police shut down nearly all of West 9th Street for over two hours and warned passersby to avoid the area. A SWAT team and a K-9 unit searched store, but didn't find any suspects; no one was hurt. The suspects haven't been formally charged in the incident at a Krush Clothing store on the 1300 block of West 9th Street, a Cleveland police spokeswoman said. Police caught a male with a backpack full of money near the scene although it is not clear if the cash was taken from the clothing store. Detectives seized one gun from the store and another gun from a vehicle. The police department's Gang Impact Unit is continuing to investigate.

MDHHS Statement

LANSING, Mich. – Please see the following statement from Michigan Department of Health and Human Services Chief Deputy Director Tim Becker:

"Over the weekend, Director Nick Lyon had an accident at Boyne Mountain while spending time with his family, and is currently in the hospital awaiting shoulder surgery later this week. He is doing well and we expect him back within the coming weeks once he has had time to heal and recover. Director Lyon had driven to Boyne Friday evening to meet his family and was injured on Saturday.

"Until his return, I will be working closely with our leadership team to lead all department matters, including this week's budget presentations. I have been actively involved in all department priorities, particularly our department efforts in Flint, so there will be continuity in all focus areas. Please join us in wishing Director Lyon a quick and healthy recovery."

NOTEWORTHY EVENTS: Nothing significant to report.

SIGNIFICANT WEATHER (NWS, SPC):

- Today: A storm system which produced a wintry mix of snow and precipitation in the last 48 hours has moved out of the region towards the northeast. All winter weather advisories and winter storm warnings across Region V have expired. A low pressure system will continue to move in a northeasterly direction across the Lower Mississippi and Ohio Valleys this afternoon, bringing light freezing rain and snow to parts of southern Illinois and Ohio.
- Extended Outlook: Over the next 48 hours, up to six inches of lake effect snow is forecast for northwest Lower and eastern Upper Michigan. Precipitation (about tenth of an inch) is anticipated across various parts of the region, with the southern-most corner of Illinois receiving up to .25 inches. Temperatures are expected to moderate by the end of the week.

HYDROLOGIC CONDITIONS (AHPS): Flood Warnings remain in effect along the Kaskaskia River in Clinton County, IL, due to heavy rains. Additionally, a Flood Warning is active along the Des Plains River at Riverside, IL, due to an ice jam. No significant impacts have been reported or are expected at this time.

FIRE CONDITIONS (SPC): Nothing significant to report.

NATIONAL TERRORISM ADVISORY SYSTEM (DHS): Bulletin (12/16/2015 – 06/16/2016)

NOTEWORTHY EVENTS: Nothing significant to report.

SIGNIFICANT WEATHER (NWS, SPC): Mixed precipitation will continue to affect southern and eastern Ohio this morning. Winter Weather Advisories and Winter Storm Warnings remain active until this afternoon across much of the state, where an additional 2 to 6+ inches of snow was expected to fall. In far southern Ohio, Areal Flood Watches are also active. Heavy rains coupled with snow melt was expected to cause small creeks, streams and ditches to rise, possibly leading to flooding of some low lying areas. Across western and southern Illinois, mixed precipitation is forecast to continue this morning. Winter Weather Advisories there are advising of the possibility of up to 1 inch of snow and a light glazing of ice (<.10"). No significant weather is forecast for tomorrow, while on Thursday, up to a .25 inch of precipitations could bring some light icing across small parts of northeastern Minnesota, north-central Wisconsin and northern Michigan. Travel conditions could be affected there.

HYDROLOGIC CONDITIONS (AHPS): Flood Warnings remain in effect along the Kaskaskia River in Clinton County due to heavy rains. There is an additional Flood Warning active along the Des Plains River at Riverside due to an ice jam. No significant impacts have been reported or are expected at this time.

FIRE CONDITIONS (SPC): Nothing significant to report.

Icy road conditions are blamed for multiple accidents along stretches of I-94 in Michigan
(Associated Press)
Chelsea, MI: Icy road conditions are blamed for multiple accidents along stretches of Interstate 94 in Michigan. The Ann Arbor News reports about 10 vehicles were involved in crashes Monday morning on eastbound and westbound I-94 in the Chelsea area, leading to traffic being shut down in both directions. Huron Valley Ambulance spokeswoman Joyce Williams says one person was injured. Icy roads conditions were reported throughout Washtenaw County. In the Battle Creek area, a five-vehicle crash Monday morning closed westbound I-94. Police say it appears a car entering the freeway lost control and hit a semi-truck. The Battle Creek enquirer reports the driver of the car was taken to a hospital for treatment. The crash was one of several in the area. Snow and cold temperatures left roads slippery.

PUBLIC HEALTH & SAFETY

Records show the water system serving Sebring isn't the only one that failed to notify Ohioans about lead-tainted drinking water within prescribed timeframes after testing
(Associated Press)
Columbus, OH: Records show the water system serving Sebring in northeast Ohio isn't the only one that failed to notify people about lead-tainted drinking water within prescribed timeframes after testing. The Columbus Dispatch reports Ohio Environmental Protection Agency records show 10 of the 14 systems that had advisories for lead contamination in effect last week had missed the mark. An Ohio EPA spokeswoman says all except Sebring did notify customers about excessive levels, but some didn't do so within the required 30 or 60 days and were given notices of violation. The Dispatch says in most cases, the EPA didn't issue violations until last week. The EPA says Sebring officials failed to notify all water users about high lead levels detected in some homes last summer. Most residents learned in January.

Gov. Snyder requests expanded Medicaid services for Flint residents
(WXYZ)
Lansing, MI: Michigan Gov. Rick Snyder is asking the federal government to expand Medicaid services to residents of Flint. According to a release issued on Sunday, Snyder wants Medicaid expansion for those up to age 21 and pregnant woman who are served from the Flint water system. "Children, teens and young adults exposed to lead need more coverage to get testing and the treatment they need," Snyder said. "Expanding these services and lead abatement efforts will mitigate the risks of lead exposure and result in better identifying any long-term health challenges, including behavioral issues." In a letter to Victoria Wachino, director f the Center for Medicare and Medicaid services, Snyder said the waiver request has three items. The first is to expand Medicaid eligibility, the second is to use targeted case management services to coordinate benefits and resources, and finally "provide a mechanism for expanded lead abatement activities in the impacted area. According to the press release, coverage is available to everyone of all incomes, but individuals with income over 400 percent of the poverty level will have the option to buy into a program for full Medicaid benefits.

ENVIRONMENTAL

Cleanup of coal slurry discharge underway
(The Southern Illinoisan)
Galatia, IL: A cleanup of a coal slurry discharge at an American Coal Co. mine in Galatia that entered a creek and forced an evacuation of one home is underway, company and state officials said. "Upon discovering the slurry leak, AmCoal promptly ensured the pump was turned off, reported the incident to appropriate governmental authorities, and took further action to assess and fix the leak, and to contain and clean up any affected area," the company said in a written statement. The company said a mixture of water, rock and coal escaped and entered Bethel Creek. Illinois EPA spokeswoman Kim Biggs said the state is waiting on test results to determine the chemical makeup of the mixture but at this time it is not considered a health safety risk. "We don't believe there are any health concerns," she said. The cause of the leak has not been determined, she said. Cleanup of the affected area, about 3.8 miles of Bethel Creek, has been ongoing around the clock since the leak was discovered, she said.

LAW ENFORCEMENT & NATIONAL SECURITY

Mich Tech prof developing drone to catch other drones
(Detroit News)
Detroit, MI: Interest in drones is soaring and experts predict their use will only skyrocket. But what happens when the unmanned aerial vehicles go rogue or enter restricted airspace? A Michigan Technological University professor is working on a way for agencies to safely take down runaway flying machines should they threaten air traffic, military bases, government buildings or sporting events. "I envision this technology being used by law enforcement to provide security and counter rouge drones," said Mohammad Rastgaar-Aagah, an associate professor with Michigan Tech's Mechanical Engineering Department in Houghton. "The system we're developing will quickly capture a drone and remove it from an area so it's no longer a threat to anyone's safety." Rastgaar's system involves a drone that can shoot a net at other unmanned aircraft and haul them in. He likens using the unmanned aircraft to catch other drones to falconry, the sport where falcons or other birds of prey are trained to hunt.

ENERGY & CRITICAL INFRASTRUCTURE

Xcel open to closing nuclear plant early (Prairie Business Magazine)
Red Wing, MN: Xcel Energy is awaiting word from the Minnesota Public Utilities Commission to proceed with an 18-month study on the future of Prairie Island nuclear plant and the economics of potentially shutting down the two-reactor facility before its operating license expires in 2034. Though Xcel Energy believes the plant is a cost-effective part of its goal to reduce carbon dioxide emissions, the utility company is open to analyzing options for early decommissioning in response to higher-than-expected capital expenditures forecasted in the next two decades, according to a Jan. 29 filing with the PUC. "The Prairie Island plant provides good economic value to our customers, which we just detailed in our latest filing to the Minnesota Public Utilities Commission," according to an email statement Friday by Prairie Island Site Vice President Kevin Davison. "We look forward to working with the commission, local communities and other stakeholders to illustrate the value the plant brings to Red Wing, the state of Minnesota and electric customers across the upper Midwest." The filing, a supplement to Xcel Energy's 2016-2030 Upper Midwest Resource Plan, states the company anticipates a $175 million increase in expenditures in the next five years over what was predicted in 2012, as well as increases of $600 million to $900 million from 2021 through 2034. The driving costs are attributed to new requirements following the 2011 Diiachi nuclear disaster at Fukushima, Japan, and a general increase in regulations by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission. However, the increases are largely offset by lower-than-predicted operating and maintenance costs for the plant, Xcel Energy noted. The company expects to spend $1 billion less in fixed costs at Prairie Island through 2034. A decision on the plant's future could be reached as early as 2018 should the company move forward with its analysis. Retiring the plant early would require an additional seven years of shutdown and decommissioning planning, including steps to make up for the loss of energy generation, Xcel Energy says.

TECHNOLOGY AND CYBERSECURITY

Comcast Service Restored After Outages Sweep Country

(Associated Press)
National: Thousands of Comcast customers around the country lost Internet and television service Monday morning, according to DownDetector.com, which monitors telecommunications outages. Most services were restored by 1:30 p.m. EST, according to Comcast. "We have repaired the temporary network interruption that impacted some of our services this morning. Our engineers continue to work on this issue and almost all services have already been restored. We apologize for any inconvenience this has caused our customers," the company said in a statement Monday afternoon. DownDetector's map shows Comcast outages peaked at 17,033 around 11:30 a.m. EST. Outages have been reported in cities across the U.S., including Chicago, Houston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, New York, Boston, Hartford and Washington, D.C. Comcast — the parent company of NBCUniversal — offers phone, Internet and TV service in 40 states and Washington, D.C.

Russian Hackers Spying On Your Linux PC Using Sophisticated Malware "Fysbis"
(TechWorm)
National: A new malware family known as Fysbis (or Linux.BackDoor.Fysbis) is aiming Linux machines by setting up a backdoor that allows the malware's author to snoop on victims and perform further attacks. Fybis showed its first signs in November 2014. However, the security researchers from Palo Alto Networks only recently have been able to understand who is behind the danger and how this threat works. Researchers after carrying out a detailed inquiry guess that this is not your run-of-the-mill malware that affects computers for the criminals' monetary gain (adware, Bitcoin mining, banking operations), but a much more sophisticated threat, that's only used in cyber-espionage campaigns. However, you are probably safe, if you are a regular Linux user that enjoys playing games on Steam. While on the other hand, if you work in big multi-national corporations or are a government employee and take care of the highly-sensitive Linux servers, data centers, then you should expect at one point or another to come across Fysbis on your machines. According to Palo Alto researchers, this malware family was developed by none other than the infamous APT 28 cyber-espionage group, also known under the names of Sofacy or Sednit. This group is a fairly well known cyber espionage group believed to have ties to Russia. Their targets have spanned all across the world, with a focus on government, non-profits, defense organizations and various Eastern European governments. There have been numerous reports on their activities, to the extent that a Wikipedia entry has even been created for them. Most high-profile targets of its short list includes NATO, the Dutch Air Safety Board, the Electronic Frontier Foundation, the Polish government, and many financial institutions and banks.

Hi Tom,

Sounds like good stuff, and I knew you had explained a lot of this before. The Community Partners group meets on Thursdays at 3pm at the Food Bank in Flint. At this point it's about 75-100 community agency and faith based institution leaders who gather to discuss long term planning for the crisis. If you're available, it might be helpful just to attend and provide the same kind of information as in your email. That would probably help quite a few people understand how a call center works.

There's also a communications working group, and they might want to connect with you directly too.

Tom,

I'd be happy to sit down and talk through our call handling process and explore how we could improve call handling with Flint. Let me know when would be a good time to meet. I'm in Kalamazoo all day Wednesday for a training on veteran services, but my schedule for the rest of the week is pretty flexible.

From the 2-1-1 side most of the concerns about our response appear to be based on perceptions and the expectations of non-residents. But in a situation with as much attention as Flint, perception and managing expectations is critical. I'm asking anyone who hears a 2-1-1 complaint to send it directly to me, along with the caller's phone number and approximate date/time they called so we can research if there was a problem and address it.

We've received a number of anecdotal complaints, but very little hard evidence. For example, the day after the governor's state of the state address we received several complaints through the governor's office that callers had waited 30-45 minutes to get an answer during the night shift, but when we checked our call records the longest wait in the entire state was 14 minutes and the longest for anyone calling specifically about Flint was less than 3 minutes.

For the past two weeks the average wait time for Flint Water callers has been around 3 – 3.5 minutes. We set up our system to give priority to Flint calls, which does mean other callers, including callers from Flint who don't choose the Flint Water prompt at the beginning of calls may experience a longer wait time, depending on overall demand. If the wait time exceeds five minutes, 2-1-1 offers a call-back feature that allows a caller to hang up while keeping their place in line, then have the first available 2-1-1 agent contact them. The average call-back time in February was less than 30 minutes for all callers. Of course, these are averages, so individual callers may have experienced significantly longer wait times. The Technology Manager Michigan 2-1-1 shares with our SW Michigan partner is programming a new report that will include the longest wait time for any caller, so we look at why they experienced the delay and see what we can do to address shorten the time in the future.

Let me know when and where you'd like to meet.

Hi Tom,

The issue of 2-1-1 calls came up at Thursday's meeting. There is a perception out there that the hold times are still very long. United Way did a good job of explaining how calls are handled by multiple centers, but I wondered if it might be helpful if you could come to a meeting and talk more about how that works? There seemed to be a fair amount of concern over it. I'm not sure how much of it was old issues vs. rumors vs. actual current long waits.

As far as I know, the only concern on the part of the group would be that preliminary plans or statements would be attributed, whereas it is intended to be a "safe space" where all parties can voice their concerns. Still, having the JIC there to help with messaging or crisis communications would be invaluable. I was not aware the Guard had been there at the JICs request. Their involvement is very helpful when they're there.

All are free to invite anyone considered a stakeholder, so I think having you there would be critically helpful.

The meetings are each Thursday at 3pm at the Food Bank. (ARC became too small). The address is 2300 Lapeer, but the entrance to the parking is off Howard right after you cross the railroad tracks.

Hi Tom,

We would love to have access to this group. When we inquired about becoming involved a couple of weeks ago, we received a lukewarm response from ARC. Upon second inquiry, they allowed us to send one representative who received no more than five minutes to talk. At the time, we sent a National Guard representative to specifically address the continuing rumors that we were requiring ID at the PODs and that undocumented workers faced deportation.

Please advise where and when the meeting is and we will assign someone to attend on behalf of the JIC.

Thank you,

Good morning,

As the State Voluntary Agency Liaison I attend the Community Partners meeting in Flint each Thursday. This will essentially transition into the Long Term Recovery Group, but they work on current response issues as well. I've attached the roster from the most recent meeting. You can see that this is a very heavily attended meeting by many key players and a large number of very involved groups ranging from the food bank to many different health oriented agencies.

The group has divided into six workgroups focusing on different areas. One of those, and it is well attended, is the communications group.

I'm hoping we could have a regular attendee from the JIC at these community partner meetings (and possibly as an ex officio member of the communications working group) as a really large number of communications related issues come up at these meetings. Please let me know if there's any way we could have a JIC liaison for this group.

Thanks very much,

Good morning,

As the State Voluntary Agency Liaison I attend the Community Partners meeting in Flint each Thursday. This will essentially transition into the Long Term Recovery Group, but they work on current response issues as well. I've attached the roster from the most recent meeting. You can see that this is a very heavily attended meeting by many key players and a large number of very involved groups ranging from the food bank to many different health oriented agencies.

The group has divided into six workgroups focusing on different areas. One of those, and it is well attended, is the communications group.

I'm hoping we could have a regular attendee from the JIC at these community partner meetings (and possibly as an ex officio member of the communications working group) as a really large number of communications related issues come up at these meetings. Please let me know if there's any way we could have a JIC liaison for this group.

Thanks very much,

Eh, you don't know what you don't know. Unfortunately, I find that a lot when dealing with so many different federal and state agencies! Especially since Detroit was my first large scale disaster. The long term recovery really struggles there because it was in the news for such a short period of time. If it was still eligible, I think that would be an amazing win for the people of Detroit!

Hi Maggie,

I'm curious, how far into a disaster declaration can these funds be requested? I continue to work with Detroit on recovery from the floods of 2014. There remain many unmet needs. We had a major disaster declaration for that one. I just wonder if it would still be possible to request funds for that disaster?

Hi Maggie,

We'd be happy to attend any meetings as needed in Flint. At this time, unless Captain assigns anyone else, it would be me, Brianna and Jason from FEMA.

Thanks, also, here were the questions Jeannie had posed if you're able to get a moment to find answers. Thanks again, and it was a great meeting. We're excited!

1. Is there a one-pager on the requirements to become an Employer of Record?
2. What are the duties of the Employer of Record? Could they ALSO be on-sight management?
3. Will the formula funds supplement the grant or do they contribute to the total asked for?
4. What kind of employee requirements can be imposed? Background check? Age? Physical ability?
5. What level of involvement does the employer of record have to the case workers?
6. Is there a list of past employer of records (ie. Missouri)

Thanks again,

Cap, Here are our notes from the meeting with Maggie. In summary:

With declaration, feds can turn this around in as little as 48 hours once submitted
With 200 jobs, looking at approx. $15M potential
Can be supplemented with additional later
Need to identify at least one Employer of Record (CCC/Seed?)
Additional EORs can approach MI Workforce Development for funds/employees as needed.
There are interim funds available at the state level to get individuals started a little sooner.
This is dependent on job openings/descriptions being ready. (We are working on this with FEMA based on COAs and the list we submitted last week with the conceptual list of jobs.

PS.

Sean is working on getting me his comments (and I assume at least Natasha's as well) on the COAs. If you have any comments over the weekend Zach and I will work on incorporating those. I'm thinking we could make our presentation to you of the preferred options on Monday (all that attended the meeting would like to present it to you). If that seems reasonable to you?

Good morning Tom,

I had been involved in a call back a month or so ago when GM was offering vehicles for the Flint water crisis support. I have been working with the 7th Day Adventists on warehousing (one of their national missions is to assist with warehousing in times of disaster), and we were discussing needs for more open warehouse space (open interiors/loading docks) than what the state is currently running, and we wondered if any GM buildings that are currently not in service might be suitable for that type of use.

I just wanted to pass this by you and get your thoughts if that's anything that might exist in or near to Flint.

Thanks very much for your consideration.

Thanks Sheryl!

Bill, last week, the White House Office of Public Engagement called me to ask about a contact with the Governor's Office of Community and Faith Based Initiatives. They've been receiving calls from various faith based groups with respect to the Flint water crisis, and she asked for the contact at the state. I wasn't familiar with that office until she asked.

In addition to state planning in EMHSD, I am also the State Voluntary Agency Liaison for emergency management (basically a counterpart to FEMA VALs who work with Voluntary Organizations Active in Disaster). So while I do work with faith based organizations in emergency management, there were some contacts the White House was collecting that I think they felt were more appropriate to the Governor's office and not specifically emergency management related.

So, having said all that, please let me know if you're the appropriate person, and I could get you in touch with the Office of Public Engagement.

Good evening Stephanie,

I've been asked as part of the Flint water crisis response to identify the state's office of Community and Faith Based Initiatives. After searching departmental websites, I came across your office. Am I in the right place? Some federal level agencies are looking for the office and a place to refer faith based organizations that want to help in Flint. Is that something your office would participate in in any way?

Sean,

Attached are the COAs. In addition to the one we discussed Tuesday that seemed to be the preferred. There are several other COAs to reflect the HUB/Sub Hub concept as well as a concept to supplement the Food Bank's operations. That was one created the second day so has not been reviewed by the FB as of yet. Also, COA 4 is about filter cartridge distribution and so is not necessarily supplanting, but rather supplementing what we do with water distribution.

Let me know your thoughts.

Thank you for making the 'introductions'. I believe that this RRT needs to be ironed out ASAP. It is quickly spiraling out of control and we need to get in front of it if these deliveries are to continue beyond Sunday (1/31/16). Let me know how we can get this plan created and implemented.

In an effort to keep you updated on state and federal efforts in support of the people of Flint, we offer this Snapshot of how we are working across the state and federal governments to mobilize the capabilities and resources of existing programs. We hope you find the information beneficial.

Please let us know if you have any questions.

Responding to the Flint Water Crisis: Federal, State, County and City Partners February 10, 2016 Update

Federal agencies continue to work with state and local officials to respond to the Flint, Michigan, water crisis. Some 70 representatives from Federal agencies are co-located with state and local partners in Flint.

All levels of government are focusing their capabilities and resources on helping Flint residents recover from the water crisis. The community has shown great resilience and fortitude as it has confronted these essentially unprecedented circumstances and carried on despite the challenges.

For Flint Residents

For your questions about safe water Email flintwater@epa.gov, or call EPA's free hotline: 800-426-4791, English, español and other languages.

To get your water tested for free Email flintwater@cityofflint.com or call the Flint Water Plant: 810-787-6537

To get your blood tested or ask about skin rashes Call your primary care provider, or call 2-1-1

Odor If you're worried about the smell of your water: Call 810-787-6537

Crisis Counseling and Support: Call (800) 985-5990 or text TalkWithUs to 66746

Business Recover Center: Call (800)659-2

Actions

Water Quality

To address immediate needs, government partners are working to provide safe drinking water for all Flint residents, by:

- Conducting water testing in Flint homes; more than 1,000 samples from 150 home have been collected so far
- Providing lead-removal faucet filters and replacement cartridges, to reduce lead levels in the tap water; water filters have been installed in all 2,350 privately owned homes that are overseen by HUD,
- Inspecting home drinking water systems for lead; the State of Michigan is scheduled to begin regular sampling (every two weeks) to monitor the city's water system.
- Distributing water bottles and water filters to home-delivered meal recipients,
- Showing residents how to clean accumulated debris from their home faucets, hot water heaters, and whole-house water filtration systems,
- Helping seniors and the disabled community install their water filters, and

As of today, FEMA and the State of Michigan have distributed nearly two million liters of water (1,913,982 liters) and FEMA has distributed 127,764 water filter replacement cartridges, plus 40,000 faucet and pitcher filters. Additional water contributions have come from private organizations and individuals across the country.
CDC and EPA are visiting homes with high lead levels or skin rash complaints to investigate and help ensure that Flint's water supply is as safe as possible.
EPA is working to understand the extent of lead contamination in the city's water supply by collecting drinking water samples from Flint homeowners and testing the city's water distribution system. EPA continues to post Flint sampling results by location on an interactive map at www.epa.gov/flint . The Agency has also established a hotline (800-426-4791) and an email address (flintwater@epa.gov) so that Flint residents can find results of water testing. The hotline provides immediate telephone translations into multiple languages.

Community Impact
Government partners are also looking further down the road to address the longer-term issues that are likely to arise.

A Strike Team for High Lead Homes will soon begin visiting homes with the highest lead levels to gather follow-up samples and provide information to residents.
HHS is working with the city, county, and state to ensure that children under 6 have the opportunity to have their blood sampled and analyzed for lead levels.
U.S. Public Health Service Commissioned Corps officers assisted the county health department in clearing a backlog of blood lead level screening results. The Federal team cataloged results of almost 800 finger-prick blood tests and packaged letters to parents providing test results and educational materials.
Government partners are also helping Flint officials tap into existing government funds to help address lead contamination in water and follow-up challenges.

- TANF: Help low-income families with children travel to testing and water distribution sites, by using USDA's TANF funds to buy bottled water and gas cards/bus passes to reach testing sites. TANF is USDA's Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program.
- Food: Flint schools can use certain USDA funds to buy foods high in Vitamin C, calcium and iron; these foods help block lead from getting into the blood; these foods are also being identified das important for the Flint food bank, which then distributes them to soup kitchens and food pantries as well as to other local agencies involved in food delivery.

- WIC: Participants in the WIC program can use their WIC vouchers to buy ready-to-feed infant formula, which does not need to be mixed with water, WIC is USDA's Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children.
- Food at Schools: Flint schools can use certain USDA funds to purchase foods high in Vitamin C, calcium, and iron that help block lead from getting into the blood,
- Mental Health: Flint children and families who experience emotional distress can call (800) 985-5990 or text TalkWithUs to 66746 to talk to a trained crisis counselor.
- Small Business Loans: Flint business owners affected by lead contamination can apply for Small Business Association (SBA) economic injury loans. SBA will open a Business Recovery Center in Flint to administer the loans on February 10.
- Homebuyers: Responding to concerns that homebuyers in Flint cannot secure Federal Housing Administration (FHA)-insured loans, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) posted guidance on its website reiterating that FHA-insured loans can be made to eligible borrowers in the impacted area provided that a sufficient supply of safe and potable water is available through the installation of an eligible water purification system.

Federal Partners

As this is primarily a public health crisis, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) was designated as the lead federal agency responsible for coordinating the federal response and recovery efforts. HHS has joined together with other federal, state and local partners to mobilize and strengthen existing programs. They are working to identify the size and scope of the water problem and to identify and carry out actions that will improve health and decrease the impact of exposure to lead.

Federal partners include the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Small Business Administration (SBA), Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), Department of Education (DoEd) and the Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Father,

Below are dates that Kinga is suggesting for a visit from the Spaniards. I did ask her to confirm that they will be delivering the sketches with communion rails next week, as her email makes that seem a bit iffy.

Hello Tom –

I checked with Madrid and the soonest we can be there is either March 16 or 17. March 17 would be best. If not, we could also do the 18th.
I can come earlier but people from Madrid also want to attend so this is the earliest we can all coordinate.

We will have the drawings with the communion rails and hopefully a somewhat expanded presentation.

Please let me know if this might work.

Lent is here. :)

Thank you!

Hi Kinga,

We look forward to the drawings. Are you planning a visit with Fr. Mark? I think we could tie the two together if you're coming to see him and his group. I think Father is leaning Granda's way, but no decision. February or April would work. I suspect sooner would be better. For my part, I am heavily involved in the Flint water crisis at my state police job, so my availability is becoming more limited and random, but I'd do my best to be part of any meeting. While hopefully things on the Flint front will have calmed down by April, I also have two or three work trips in April. So...February might be best, or very early March. But if you have something planned with Fr. Mark, we could try to be available in the same time frame.

Happy Pachki Day!

In general, you mentioned that two other designers are still competing for the project. Is it still the case? Have any decision been made?

Any updates would be most welcome.

I did not send it from the computer but from a mobile device and sometimes PDF's do not attach properly on those, for some reason.

Tomorrow I am meeting with GST Works, our boots on the ground in workforce development/talent enhancement. The message below gives an outline of what we will cover. We are moving forward with a grant proposal, but do not have specific amount yet. We are looking at your outline and hope to incorporate most if not all. I'm sure the question will be asked about your involvement.

I think that tomorrow's meeting will not be beneficial for any of you to attend. But, as we move forward (and I believe it will be fast paced), your presence and expertise will be needed.

Would you please forward to Jeannie Moran. I do not have her contact info.

Subject: Tomorrow's meeting

- The plan for tomorrow will include
    - review of NDWG, and how it fits into what is happening today in Flint.
        - TEGL 2-15, attached
        - Roles of WDA, GST Works
        - Role of others (MSP/FEMA)
    - Strategies to expend other WIOA funds for this purpose (Formula and NEG)
        - Youth work experience
        - Identifying DW, especially LTU
            - Barriers to identifying
        - how can WDA support GST
    - Outreach activities to highlight GST involvement

- Moving forward.

I have attached documents that will be helpful throughout the discussion. Please share with your staff. The morning should be interactive discussion that will produce strategies for immediate action. (and I am sure you will be seeing more of me in the near future)

Thank you! I look forward to working with you.

Cap,

For the appeal, the County has been working with Penny. There is still some detail they're working on but have promised it this week.

For the City, Penny has still not heard from Natasha Henderson. Sean Kammer will be here with us in another all day planning meeting. I don't know if you want to speak with him when you have a chance or if you have someone else to call. BJ and I will certainly mention to him that we are still needing those numbers for the appeal this week.

Thursday is the larger group. I am attending those as often as able. Tuesday is one of the six break out groups. I'm in the resource meeting. The one listed there at ARC is the group's developing leadership. It is community based, so I am not attending that, but Dave is keeping me posted on its progress/development.

My first thought is Red Cross or united way but I'd have to check on that. And yes, this team or Lynn Feldpausch is the agency's emergency management coordinator in the emergency operations center.

We may have opportunity to use other funds and create shorter work experience immediately. That is also on the agenda for tomorrow.

Hi Lindsay,

Yes, I've been letting them know. I'll be sitting on that subcommittee too. I believe they'll be meeting on Tuesday mornings, but that hasn't been confirmed yet. I also copied Brianna Briggs and Zach Baker here who are also assisting with long term planning and VAL activities.

Had you been contacted by the Food Bank yet? I have mentioned you to her a few times because their equipment has really been strained with all the additional water shipments.

Thanks Jeannie!

Appreciate the update. We are currently working with Catholic Charities and have had a few conversations with American Red Cross.

Tom - I know that the Community Partners were going to start to break into different committees and just want to make sure any committee working on distribution is aware of Good360 as we work to provide the right needs at the right time. We have a number of partners interested in assisting with donated or deeply discounted goods and hope to work with the players on the ground to get them what they need. We are also very conscious of not sending in unneeded or unwanted goods, which is why we work to be the conduit between nonprofits and our corporate partners.

I'd be happy to jump on a call sometime if you have any questions.

Hi Regina-

I believe Katie said you were taking over from her as FEMA VAL this week. I just wanted to reach out to say that Good360 would like to be connected and do whatever we can to assist in the ongoing efforts. We would also like to connect some local partners we are working with that have not connected yet with the 'Community Partners' group, if you can give me any information on the date, time and place. One of our partners, Mission of Hope has been working diligently in an area with mostly Section 8 housing and because of an appearance on the Rachel Maddow Show, he has received a bunch of support of both water and cash. I think it would be great if he Pastor Bobby's team could join the group.

We have also connected with the 2-1-1 center and are currently looking at options for a few of their needs.

Thanks,

I don't have any contact information for those partners below – we just do know that they are out there and have not yet been looped into coordinated efforts.

However, I did receive a list of new partners this evening from the Michigan Department of Civil Rights. I asked them to take a look at the list I sent you the other day and identify additional partners that they know of that I may have missed. I was informed that this list consists of agencies the MI Dept of Civil Rights has read about that have contributed to relief efforts, or who have considerable inroads to segments of the community. I have not scrubbed it to very that all are nonprofits, but wanted to send along to you. I will also be sharing this with the local partners to conduct outreach and bring these folks to the table. I'm not sure if anyone has reached out to them yet, so just an fyi that they won't necessarily be familiar with coordinated partner efforts when you do your outreach. We'll work on this over the next few days!

Thanks,
Katie

Good afternoon,

I'll pose this to a smaller group for feedback. I think the meetings went well yesterday. With the beginning of a small resources planning work group on Tuesday, I wanted to see where people were at with the Water Operations Task Force that met Tuesday and Thursday at 1. We are still working on the plan on the state's side, and I think that meeting was helping from a more operational standpoint also. It might not need to be as large as it was Thursday. I also wondered if it might make sense to move it to Tuesday before or after the Resource workgroup meeting as the partners might be more or less similar groups.

Also, with the length of the Thursday 3pm, it might be easier to have the two shorter meetings together.

Thoughts? Thanks for your consideration.

Who should be in that meeting? I think me (just as point of connection), operations and logistics. Anyone else? GIS? DOC? Richard?

Also attached is a standard form they use for donated services. I don't know if there would be a more detailed MOU or agreement than this or not, but Ray would be able to tell us more tomorrow.

Appreciate the update. We are currently working with Catholic Charities and have had a few conversations with American Red Cross.

Tom - I know that the Community Partners were going to start to break into different committees and just want to make sure any committee working on distribution is aware of Good360 as we work to provide the right needs at the right time. We have a number of partners interested in assisting with donated or deeply discounted goods and hope to work with the players on the ground to get them what they need. It's sponsored by the North Flint Food & Aquaponics Cooperative and indicates it is a planning session on the start of a grocery store (Economic Development). Will state send a representative? USDA has indicated they will not attend, but will serve in an advisory role.

Tom,

So nice to speak with you today. I have attached our standard agreement template. As I mentioned, don't be scared by the needs list. I am sure some of the items will not be needed and others we will try to have donated. We will make every effort to keep costs at a minimum.

I will work with my local coordinators to put together a management team. As requested, I will look into possible donated warehouse space.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or concerns. I look forward to collaborating with you.

Hi Charlene,

Jeannie was able to give me your email address to get a discussion going on warehousing support for the Flint water crisis. I'm the State VAL, and we're definitely open to support on the warehousing end of things! A few of the items that are on our list of questions would include:

- Potential commitment to warehouse management for an overflow space
- Length of potential commitment (Suggest, one year?)
- Requirements if committed: Only palletized parcels, or willingness to sort and palletize?
- Capacity of local volunteers and potential managers
- Plan/requirements for on-site training of a local team
- If only staffing option is to bring in a trained team from outside the area, what are the requirements (ie. volunteer housing)?

- Equipment needs/requirements

Again, thanks so much for your interest. I look forward to speaking with you very soon!

I have a Monday morning weekly activities meeting at 11am. Since I have been gone this last week can you both provide me with what you and your staff have been working on? Sounds like we are all still locked heavily into Flint, so just a couple/few bullets would be great.
Thanks,

Hi Maria,

Thanks very much for reaching out. I will keep in the loop with you and Vicki. I am in a couple of community meetings in Flint each week that Vicki and Chrissy are both involved in, so I am able to keep updated on their work pretty regularly.

Currently, Catholic Charities is engaging with the larger community partners group that meets Thursdays at 3pm. They are also one of the larger water distribution agencies in the community.

The need for ongoing case management for people will be very substantial both in terms of mental and physical health. At this time, the classical Disaster Case Management doesn't appear to be a big slice of this since there is no IA involved in the Emergency declaration. The federal response though is two pronged though, so I don't know, at least yet, how that might change the response. On the FEMA side, it's a pretty limited and focused response.

I would definitely encourage you to keep looped in with Chrissy and Vicki, and if you're finding that there might be a DCM role, please let me know. I just haven't heard anything in that regard so far. Likewise, if I start hearing that there's opportunity for DCM (or other types of case management), I'll definitely keep you and Vicki in the loop on that.

Thanks so much for reaching out to us!

Hi Tom,
Allow me to introduce myself, I head up disaster operations for Catholic Charities USA in our national office. As I am sure you are aware, Our local Catholic Charities Agency, is very engaged in providing services to the residents of Flint. (CEO is Vicky Schultz)
Our FEMA Val in DC Phil Shaw, conveyed that FEMA and the State of Michigan are interested in exploring DCM, and that Catholic Charities was discussed as a possibility. I had an operational call this morning with our CEO Vicky Schultz on a variety of issues and asked if anyone in Michigan had approached her on exploring a role in DCM. They have not. I am writing to see how to make this connection between the State and Ms. Schultz. Please advise me on the best way to do so.

Thank you in advance for your assistance, and thank you for your service!

Thanks for reaching out. I'm passing along your inquiry below to the State VAL, Tom Weber. At this time it's a bit unknown as to what may or may not be needed for DCM. The VAL engagement will be short term under this Emergency Declaration, so I want to make sure you and Tom connect to discuss future needs they may have.

On a side note, I will be demobing on Monday and Jeannie is here now to replace me. I've cc'd her as well.

Hope all is well,

Maggie,

Good morning! Attached is a draft of the overall idea of what we're thinking. We are more than happy to develop the details further, but wanted to be able to give you an idea of what we're looking for right now.

Please don't hesitate to let me know if you have any questions or need anything else to move on this.

Thanks for all your help!

I figured I would include more people in this conversation. At this point, Charlene, National Director for the Adventists, is engaging at the SEOC and FEMA level. And her questions relate to donations and warehouse management. I am handing this off to the group to help her engage, please. See the notes below.

I spoke with Charlene just a bit ago (thank you Charlene!). She is going to reach out to the local Adventist leadership today, as well as reaching out to the FEMA VAL (Regina). I want to highlight some points to address from the conversation. Charlene, please feel free to correct any errors or misinterpretations!

- Obviously, the Adventists will need to be asked to assist, formally, and some sort of MOU will be needed or confirmed if it comes through an existing relationship (e.g.: FEMA)
- Their focus is truly donations management. They are not merely a warehouse staffing source, but that is part of the overall picture and scope for their organization to address. In order to assist, Charlene is asking for the specifics on the warehousing and who she can speak with that could answer some questions (I am not part of that level of detail). Brianna or Tom, who would she speak with for the details of the big picture (warehouses, donations, etc.)?

- Moreover, at what point would she and the Adventists engage as part of this support, should a formal ask is made?
- Charlene can be contacted at:

I hope this helps!

Hi Charlene,

We're looking forward to discussing options with you! I've copied Chad Veeser who also works with volunteers, and Brianna Briggs, who's working with me on long term recovery planning. I'm going to be out much of today, but Chad was going to give you a call to discuss warehousing assistance, particularly with an old Kroger store we just signed a lease on. I believe it's about 75k square feet.

Hi Charlene,

Jeannie was able to give me your email address to get a discussion going on warehousing support for the Flint water crisis. I'm the State VAL, and we're definitely open to support on the warehousing end of things! A few of the items that are on our list of questions would include:

- Potential commitment to warehouse management for an overflow space
- Length of potential commitment (Suggest, one year?)
- Requirements if committed: Only palletized parcels, or willingness to sort and palletize?
- Capacity of local volunteers and potential managers
- Plan/requirements for on-site training of a local team
- If only staffing option is to bring in a trained team from outside the area, what are the requirements (ie. volunteer housing)?
- Equipment needs/requirements

Again, thanks so much for your interest. I look forward to speaking with you very soon!

Otherwise, we risk every "celebrity" thinking they will get special treatment.

Tom,

So nice to speak with you today. I have attached our standard agreement template. As I mentioned, don't be scared by the needs list. I am sure some of the items will not be needed and others we will try to have donated. We will make every effort to keep costs at a minimum.

I will work with my local coordinators to put together a management team. As requested, I will look into possible donated warehouse space.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or concerns. I look forward to collaborating with you.

Hi Charlene,

We're looking forward to discussing options with you! I've copied Chad Veeser who also works with volunteers, and Brianna Briggs, who's working with me on long term recovery planning. I'm going to be out much of today, but Chad was going to give you a call to discuss warehousing assistance, particularly with an old Kroger store we just signed a lease on. I believe it's about 75k square feet.

Please let me know if you need anything from me. Thanks!

Hi Charlene,

Jeannie was able to give me your email address to get a discussion going on warehousing support for the Flint water crisis. I'm the State VAL, and we're definitely open to support on the warehousing end of things! A few of the items that are on our list of questions would include:

- Potential commitment to warehouse management for an overflow space
- Length of potential commitment (Suggest, one year?)
- Requirements if committed: Only palletized parcels, or willingness to sort and palletize?
- Capacity of local volunteers and potential managers
- Plan/requirements for on-site training of a local team
- If only staffing option is to bring in a trained team from outside the area, what are the requirements (ie. volunteer housing)?
- Equipment needs/requirements

Again, thanks so much for your interest. I look forward to speaking with you very soon!

Tom,

So nice to speak with you today. I have attached our standard agreement template. As I mentioned, don't be scared by the needs list. I am sure some of the items will not be needed and others we will try to have donated. We will make every effort to keep costs at a minimum.

I will work with my local coordinators to put together a management team. As requested, I will look into possible donated warehouse space.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or concerns. I look forward to collaborating with you.

I'd suggest holding off on that information because (1) it might be too busy for a map we've only socialized once before, and (2) the main goal is getting more of those locations up there (food bank, catholic charities, etc.). Just a suggestion, for now.

Great talking with you.

Dear Mr. Drake,

Your offer of assistance came to me through our Logistics branch. Thank you for your interest! I'm working on a long term plan for filters and cartridges. It certainly seems ideal if UPS is interested in assisting with our logistics. Is there a good time to connect to discuss what your thoughts are on how that might look?

Thanks Lynne. We don't have a date certain, but we would be looking for a pretty quick time frame in general. Though there may be others, initially were going to be needing warehousing support.

Lynn, I'm writing to introduce you to Jason Gamble, FEMA Operations Chief, and Brianna Briggs who is working on some long term plans with me for the Flint water crisis. They are looking at the possibilities/logistics of putting in place some hiring processes/plans for additional workforce that may be needed in Flint to help in the ongoing response and resourcing of commodities to the community. I wanted to make the introduction as I think you'd be the right person to get us in touch with the talent and unemployment side of MTED.

Thanks, and please let me know if you have any questions or needs.

Group,

I worked on both plans, unfortunately, my brain wasn't getting very far with the filter distribution. My personal feeling based on observations is that filter distribution should continue as it is with the exception of providing them in bulk to Catholic Charities and Food Bank and any other groups that would like to distribute them.

A communication I received from Sean Kammer (with the mayor copied) was that they want all resources to be available at all PODs and Hubs.

I started to take POD detail out of the Word draft and put it into an Excel draft. That might be less confusing and allows for more detail on each POD or hub (and I included the warehouses).

My apologies for having to leave, but I'll be back asap.

I don't know if any of you had emailed me comments or bullets, but I didn't receive them, as would be expected given the email system's peculiarities the last few days. Hopefully you all receive this.

The Flint IAP was one the City prepared in December. I had forgotten about it, and I included I think the pertinent distribution points that are listed within it.

Hi Charlene,

Jeannie was able to give me your email address to get a discussion going on warehousing support for the Flint water crisis. I'm the State VAL, and we're definitely open to support on the warehousing end of things! A few of the items that are on our list of questions would include:

- Potential commitment to warehouse management for an overflow space
- Length of potential commitment (Suggest, one year?)
- Requirements if committed: Only palletized parcels, or willingness to sort and palletize?
- Capacity of local volunteers and potential managers
- Plan/requirements for on-site training of a local team
- If only staffing option is to bring in a trained team from outside the area, what are the requirements (ie. volunteer housing)?
- Equipment needs/requirements

Again, thanks so much for your interest. I look forward to speaking with you very soon!

Paulette,

Thanks so much for your engagement with this. All the help and advice is truly appreciated! I've also copied Brianna, who was on the call with me last night. I'll be out of the office much of tomorrow, and Brianna may be able to assist with any immediate concerns.

1. For faith organizations, if they have a local presence, the Thursday 3-5pm meetings would be ideal. This group has been growing, and so this week, the location will be moving to a larger venue. We think UofM-Flint, but that isn't verified yet. I can make sure you get the information as soon as we have it. A sample verbiage would be: "Community Partners Water Crisis Response in Flint meets each Thursday from 3pm to 5pm at the XXYYZZ, Address. This is a broad based coalition of community partners, faith based organizations, food banks, schools, health coalitions and advocacy groups. The focus is on coordination and communication among partners in response to the Flint water crisis. The group is rapidly expanding and focusing on long term recovery strategies."

2. I'm working on a contact for Community and Faith Based Initiatives. As far as some standard text for them and/or celebrities to use, those look good, with just a few minor edits:

3. I'm checking with the JIC on the best contact at the state for celebrities and should have an answer for you early tomorrow. Of course, providing them the information below too will be great, as I'm sure many of them are interested in going direct with the community.

- Volunteer in Flint: http://www.flintvolunteer.com/volunteer-opportunities.html
- Volunteer in MI: http://www.redcross.org/local/mi/volunteer
- More unusual ways to donate such as Plumbers & Pipefitters and the UAW, please contact the : not sure who they would contact, local EOC?
- There are many other organizations and faith based communities supporting Flint. If you have a favorite charity, you may check with them to see if they or a local partner are active in supporting Flint.

If you identify a problem in Flint:
- Individuals can relay specific unmet needs directly to local emergency management by dialing 211, more information here: http://www.centralmichigan211.org/
- Organizations can join the local Community Partners Water Crisis Response meeting in Flint every Thursday from 3-5pm to meet up with NGO's and representatives from the government. Location TBD??

Tom,

Thank you so much for taking the time to chat with me last night. I wanted to follow up on a few items so that people can help in the most productive ways possible. If it's possible to answer these questions below and make some basic edits, we'll have a lot of responses. That is wonderful, but also good incentive to make sure I organize it on the front end and direct people to the right place.

1. As incoming If faith organizations reach out with concerns, what is the best way we can direct them? I assume the community meeting on Thursdays from 3p - 5p and the dial 211 process are best. Do you have language and specifics on those? See draft below.

2. We'd like to send a "how you can help" email to national faith organizations. See draft below. I think it would be great to make sure we coordinate this with the Michigan Governor's Office of Community and Faith-Based Initiatives (OCFBI). We cannot find a POC on any websites, can we get a POC for the OCFBI? Any language we can circulate on "how to help" I've got an example below so that you can edit.

3. Does someone on the state level external affairs team want to be a regular POC for celebrities that want to help? If not, we will send the celebrities that reach out to us general info including "how to help" links, etc. that we will circulate to faith orgs

Very basic list/draft for your input/edits:

Hey P,

Sorry for the delay! I meant to send you this information earlier, but the days here go very quickly!

There is a Community Partners Water Crisis Response meeting in Flint every Thursday from 3-5pm. In the past, it's been held at the Red Cross facility, but the group is getting a bit too large for that location, so they plan to pick a new place for the meeting on 2/4. I will ensure that you are provided with the meeting location after it has been determined.

You used the terminology "Town Hall" which isn't what happens at this weekly meeting. They're run by a network of NGOs who are actively responding to the disaster, and typically focus on current activities and forward planning by the community partners and stakeholders. While there are usually government folks in the room, it's truly a meeting led and supported by community partners. I remember you mentioning that there are faith-based contacts who are interested in coordinating with existing efforts, and I think this meeting would be a great place to start that.

As I mentioned on the call, the role of the FEMA VALs (Phil and I) is very limited compared to other disasters. This is very much a commodities operation, and we're supporting our state counterparts. I sang the praises of our State VAL here, Tom Weber, and I meant it. He's very, very strong.

If you have any future questions about FEMA's involvement/role here in Michigan, our FCO is David Samaniego. He's very accessible and knowledgeable about the bigger picture. His contact information: david.samaniego@fema.dhs.gov

I'm glad to hear all is well over there, despite the poor snow response. They really need me back, eh? Seriously, those were my glory days shoveling out seniors! Also, I'm sure you are continuing to be a rock star! Don't be so hard on yourself!

All the best,
Jeannie

Awesome to hear your voice on the phone, and thank you for the input. Very relieved people like you and Phil are working on Flint.
When you get a moment, will you send the weekly town hall info? A few people are interested in going.

I hope you are thriving in Chicago and with your man. So many huge life changes for you, but I'm certain you've taken it all in stride. You are very resilient and good at finding fun wherever you go.

Things here are good. I love work and being a mom although I am deeply exhausted by the end of every the week and feel like I'm not doing anything quite as well as I'd like. That's sort of the deal and its definitely worth it.

Good evening Stephanie,

I've been asked as part of the Flint water crisis response to identify the state's office of Community and Faith Based Initiatives. After searching departmental websites, I came across your office. Am I in the right place? Some federal level agencies are looking for the office and a place to refer faith based organizations that want to help in Flint. Is that something your office would participate in in any way?

Thank you Sean, these are great catches, and they definitely need to be included. Do you know if these locations, or which of them, might have pallet jacks and forklifts?

On MTA, yes, they were included in our conceptual idea, but I do need to reach out to them to include them in the planning.

Regarding educational materials, workshops, and other info, that would be great information and opportunities to have. It would, of course, need some additional planning, but, especially with churches and community centers, these would be offerings that may be very easy to provide. At least space could be provided, if not volunteers as well.

Thanks again for the feedback. It's great, and I definitely will include it all, and we can have further conversations within the group.

On a side note, if we have individuals or groups that would like to reach out to the city directly in terms of volunteer efforts or donations, would you be the proper contact, or is there another I should provide their information to?

Hi Tom,

I have been going over this Distribution Hub Sites Action Plan and I have a few items to address.

1. On January 4th, the City Submitted an Incident Action Plan to Genesee County. This plan detailed immediate response and long term solution efforts that will be needed to resolve the water crisis. Since that time, I have not seen the State attempt to implement any of those items except upon my insistence. This plan names several distribution sites that are not listed in this document. These are the Brennan Center, Hasselbring Community Center, and the Berston Field House. each of these sites are currently running an efficient operation distributing water and they have been resupplied weekly by the UAW. It will be an easy process to transition them into full time Distribution Centers as we already have Red Cross volunteers at some of them. I am hoping you will consider adding them in this plan.

I hope to see the logistical criteria for future Water Resource Centers at the Thursday meeting. I would like to determine if these centers comply with said criteria.

2. Berston Field House currently has significant storage space for water. It could be used to supply the 'sub hubs' mentioned in the document in Ward 3.

3. The document does not include City Hall as a distribution site. City Hall has been distributing filters and testing kits since October and is currently staffed with volunteers trained to use the ESRI software in order to track distribution efforts. City hall should also be included. It is important that the City be included in conversations regarding distribution efforts.

4. Is MTA still included in distribution efforts? They had been delivering relief items to people's homes and had even requested that the central transfer station be listed as a distribution point. It is important that mobile distribution keep MTA in the loop.

5. Has any thought been given to providing educational materials, workshops on how to sample your water for testing, or nutrition information/assistance at these proposed hubs? I prefer that these centers be equipped with information, items, and personnel to comprehensively address the issues associated with the water crisis. It's important we do all we can.

I hope to discuss these items further at the Thursday meeting. I have attached the incident action plan for your convenience.

Once again, thank you for your time,

Good afternoon Sean,

Please accept my apologies for not reaching out sooner. Perhaps Chris has already invited you, but we are meeting with Concerned Pastors, the county, Catholic Charities, Red Cross, the Food Bank, and hopefully you and GCCARD as well to work on a plan directed at how to meet distribution needs on an ongoing basis, especially the involvement of several churches which have expressed interest in being "hubs" for distribution.

Would you be available tomorrow, Tuesday, at 9:30am to meet at the Red Cross?

Thank you Sean, these are great catches, and they definitely need to be included. Do you know if these locations, or which of them, might have pallet jacks and forklifts?

On MTA, yes, they were included in our conceptual idea, but I do need to reach out to them to include them in the planning.

Regarding educational materials, workshops, and other info, that would be great information and opportunities to have. It would, of course, need some additional planning, but, especially with churches and community centers, these would be offerings that may be very easy to provide. At least space could be provided, if not volunteers as well.

Thanks again for the feedback. It's great, and I definitely will include it all, and we can have further conversations within the group.

On a side note, if we have individuals or groups that would like to reach out to the city directly in terms of volunteer efforts or donations, would you be the proper contact, or is there another I should provide their information to?

Lynn, I'm writing to introduce you to Jason Gamble, FEMA Operations Chief, and Brianna Briggs who is working on some long term plans with me for the Flint water crisis. They are looking at the possibilities/logistics of putting in place some hiring processes/plans for additional workforce that may be needed in Flint to help in the ongoing response and resourcing of commodities to the community. I wanted to make the introduction as I think you'd be the right person to get us in touch with the talent and unemployment side of MTED.

Thanks, and please let me know if you have any questions or needs.

Good evening Peter,

Actually, good morning. My apologies for not getting this out sooner.

Becky Wilson gave us your contact, and I know you've been at the community partners meeting on Thursday.

If by any chance you're available, a task force is meeting at the Red Cross at 9:30am to discuss state supported water distribution hubs throughout Flint. We'd be happy if you could join us. If not, and I understand what short notice this is! I'd like to discuss the plan with you if you're available at some point later on.

Below you'll see I'm thinking if we had a map that shows wards, existing pods, and the church pods from the Excel spreadsheet attached, we'd be in good shape for tomorrow. A presentation size map would be ideal so we can have people mark on it.

Points I think it would be helpful to have on a map tomorrow:

Wards
Existing pods
Existing church distribution points (I am attaching the excel spreadsheet with that data as Matt didn't think we had it yet).
Other community distribution points (Food Bank/Catholic Charities). I'm working on obtaining this, but I don't think we have it yet.

So it may just be the first two and possibly the addition of the attached churches.

Ray,
I spoke with Tom Weber (MSP planner) (cc'd) today and he is having a planning meeting tomorrow at the Red Cross in Flint. It starts at 0930 to go over the transition from the Guard to NGOs. He was hoping you could make the meeting to assist in the exit strategy.

Pastor Ellison, Harris, and Overton,

Below is a list of churches that have volunteered to be Church Distribution Hubs. I had direct contact with the pastors and their point of contacts. I have also conducted site assessments at their facilities.
It was conveyed to them that this initial plan was a collaborative effort, and may change with input from all parties involved.
It was discussed, and agreed that the HUB churches would network with the surrounding churches, and set up their own agreed upon distribution schedule. It was requested that the HUB church provide a list of churches that are obtaining their water from the HUB church. This list can be sent via email to Lt. Roach at Roachb@michigan.gov.
Hopefully this plan will further assist and augment our initiative of getting water to our residents more efficiently.
Request for Water

At this time the Church HUB point of contact is Lt. Roach 517-819-0841. The Church HUB will call and provide the quantity of water, and schedule the delivery time. This should be scheduled at least 24 hours in advance.

Deliveries

The deliveries will be conducted by a Mi DTMB driver, and truck. They have a pallet jack and the capability of moving pallets from their truck to a staging area. If the water needs to be transported to an upper or lower level, there needs to be people to assist off-loading.

Church Distributions

The Church Distribution HUB would be responsible to network with the surrounding churches, and set up a distribution schedule, along with amounts of water needed.

Great! I've copied Joyce and Matt to help you with logistics. There are a couple of forms and the hotel information they'll be able to help you with.

You'll be going with Zach Baker, our new State Planner, and Gary Nix, one of the other Mitigation Analysts that was hired along with you. Matt has a list of the hotels that are near the FEMA offices in Chicago. Gary will have the state vehicle.

Hi Brenna,

As you know we're getting settled into our new location in Dimondale and responding to the Flint water crisis. So, please accept my apologies for gaps in details as they occur.

Next week, there is a training in Chicago for hazard mitigation grants. We're sending two of our new employees, and if travelling that quickly into your MSP career is possible (and if we can arrange it on this end) we'd like you to attend. It's Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, with travel late Monday and coming back late Thursday.

So there are three questions, two which you can answer:

We'd have to get approval for you to travel on our end (working on that);

Would you be able to go for three+ days? And perhaps most importantly
When we travel, we pay for our hotels and meals (transportation is paid), and are reimbursed. Would hotel and meals be something you'd be able to pay for up front, and reimbursement is usually within 3-6 weeks?

Please let me or Joyce (copied on this email) know as soon as possible

Thanks for considering this!

Hey P,

Sorry for the delay! I meant to send you this information earlier, but the days here go very quickly!

There is a Community Partners Water Crisis Response meeting in Flint every Thursday from 3-5pm. In the past, it's been held at the Red Cross facility, but the group is getting a bit too large for that location, so they plan to pick a new place for the meeting on 2/4. I will ensure that you are provided with the meeting location after it has been determined.

You used the terminology "Town Hall" which isn't what happens at this weekly meeting. They're run by a network of NGOs who are actively responding to the disaster, and typically focus on current activities and forward planning by the community partners and stakeholders. While there are usually government folks in the room, it's truly a meeting led and supported by community partners. I remember you mentioning that there are faith-based contacts who are interested in coordinating with existing efforts, and I think this meeting would be a great place to start that.

As I mentioned on the call, the role of the FEMA VALs (Phil and I) is very limited compared to other disasters. This is very much a commodities operation, and we're supporting our state counterparts. I sang the praises of our State VAL here, Tom Weber, and I meant it. He's very, very strong.

If you have any future questions about FEMA's involvement/role here in Michigan, our FCO is David Samaniego. He's very accessible and knowledgeable about the bigger picture. His contact information: david.samaniego@fema.dhs.gov

I'm glad to hear all is well over there, despite the poor snow response. They really need me back, eh? Seriously, those were my glory days shoveling out seniors! Also, I'm sure you are continuing to be a rock star! Don't be so hard on yourself!

All the best,
Jeannie

When you get a moment, will you send the weekly town hall info? A few people are interested in going.

I hope you are thriving in Chicago and with your man. So many huge life changes for you, but I'm certain you've taken it all in stride. You are very resilient and good at finding fun wherever you go.

Things here are good. I love work and being a mom although I am deeply exhausted by the end of every the week and feel like I'm not doing anything quite as well as I'd like. That's sort of the deal and its definitely worth it.

Hi Charlene,

Jeannie was able to give me your email address to get a discussion going on warehousing support for the Flint water crisis. I'm the State VAL, and we're definitely open to support on the warehousing end of things! A few of the items that are on our list of questions would include:

- Potential commitment to warehouse management for an overflow space
- Length of potential commitment (Suggest, one year?)
- Requirements if committed: Only palletized parcels, or willingness to sort and palletize?
- Capacity of local volunteers and potential managers
- Plan/requirements for on-site training of a local team
- If only staffing option is to bring in a trained team from outside the area, what are the requirements (ie. volunteer housing)?
- Equipment needs/requirements

Again, thanks so much for your interest. I look forward to speaking with you very soon!

They're run by a network of NGOs who are actively responding to the disaster, and typically focus on current activities and forward planning by the community partners and stakeholders. While there are usually government folks in the room, it's truly a meeting led and supported by community partners. I remember you mentioning that there are faith-based contacts who are interested in coordinating with existing efforts, and I think this meeting would be a great place to start that.

As I mentioned on the call, the role of the FEMA VALs (Phil and I) is very limited compared to other disasters. This is very much a commodities operation, and we're supporting our state counterparts. I sang the praises of our State VAL here, Tom Weber, and I meant it. He's very, very strong.

If you have any future questions about FEMA's involvement/role here in Michigan, our FCO is David Samaniego. He's very accessible and knowledgeable about the bigger picture. His contact information: david.samaniego@fema.dhs.gov

I'm glad to hear all is well over there, despite the poor snow response. They really need me back, eh? Seriously, those were my glory days shoveling out seniors! Also, I'm sure you are continuing to be a rock star! Don't be so hard on yourself!

All the best,
Jeannie

Jeannie -

Awesome to hear your voice on the phone, and thank you for the input. Very relieved people like you and Phil are working on Flint.
When you get a moment, will you send the weekly town hall info? A few people are interested in going.

I hope you are thriving in Chicago and with your man. So many huge life changes for you, but I'm certain you've taken it all in stride. You are very resilient and good at finding fun wherever you go.

Things here are good. I love work and being a mom although I am deeply exhausted by the end of every the week and feel like I'm not doing anything quite as well as I'd like. That's sort of the deal and its definitely worth it.

All my best,

Dear Mr. Drake,

Your offer of assistance came to me through our Logistics branch. Thank you for your interest! I'm working on a long term plan for filters and cartridges. It certainly seems ideal if UPS is interested in assisting with our logistics. Is there a good time to connect to discuss what your thoughts are on how that might look?

Could someone follow up with Ray Drake from UPS? See below. Maybe they could help with filter replacement cartridge delivery during their normal routes? Or perhaps there is another way they can help but with them being active in flint we thought they might be useful to you.

Subject: Follow Up - Request for Assistance

Ray,

I appreciate speaking with you Thursday and appreciate your patience as we worked on the details related to Flint. The first issue for which we request assistance from UPS is as follows: Can UPS work with the Michigan State Police to assist in delivery of water filters to those individuals in Flint, because of age, disability or other challenges, are unable to physically visit the various resource centers throughout the City? The water filters (depending on the size of the family) need to be replaced anywhere from 1 to 3 months, so there will be an ongoing need for filters to be available and delivered. Our hope is that these deliveries can be incorporated in UPS' daily scheduled deliveries in Flint. If you can identify a contact for further information, I will connect them with a person who can provide additional detail and with which direct arrangements could be made.

In addition, I confirmed to you our understanding that Linden Nelson worked with Aquahydrate of Los Angeles, California to arrange for the donation of 5,000 cases of water to be shipped to Flint once a month for the next year. Here is some additional information on the filtration system: http://www.michigan.gov/documents/deq/2015-10-21 - Lead - Flint Water FINAL 504265 7.pdf

The attached press release that was issued on October 8th, also provides some additional background information for your reference.

On behalf of Governor Snyder, the administration, and Flint, I thank you for your consideration. To assure direct communications are maintained for the greatest efficiency possible, I have included both Harvey Hollins and Tori Sachs on this email, as they are charged with coordinating ongoing efforts and connecting people who want to help, like UPS, with the right people to facilitate the delivery of that help.

Hi Dianne

Sorry for the previous odd communication from me, I meant to send to another course instructor and accidently sent to you. However, I still need to discuss the subject course with you.

Paul Benyeda provided me your contact information.

We are very interested in hosting this class in Michigan in the next year or so. I realize the "G" version of the course was just release by EMI. Do you have other qualified instructors we could use? Would it be possible to arrange an "L" course delivery with EMI?

Maybe we can discuss after the holidays? Please let me know.

Hi BJ/Dave,

Here's the rough working draft of a Water Operations Concept Plan for going forward into long term recovery. The idea is to transition this to a community based plan for making resources available, with whatever state support is necessary, until the water system can stand on its own.

We'd like to have a meeting sometime prior to the community leaders meeting on Thursday, noonish or morning. Let me know your thoughts. I worked with Cap and FEMA to identify a list of people to invite to the working group (and POD work will have to proceed with a subgroup at a quicker pace). The list as follows; let me know your thoughts on that too.

Chris DeVriendt
Lt. BJ Roach
Red Cross
Food Bank
Catholic Charities
Concerned Pastors
Sean Kammer
Capt. Tafoya
United Way
2-1-1
Katie Halliday/Jeannie Moran, FEMA VAL
Tom Weber, State VAL and Planning Section
Brianna Briggs, SEOC Recovery Unit

Captain, if this meets with your approval, I will work on getting a coordinated review of the parties who would be key, hopefully tomorrow, including:

Local EOC (Chris DeVriendt, BJ, Ops or all?)
Red Cross
Food Bank
Catholic Charities
Concerned Pastors
Sean Kammer
Capt. Tafoya
United Way
2-1-1
FEMA VAL Myself
Brianna?
Amanda?
Tony if available

Please let me know any changes to the list that you'd recommend.

Subject: 2-1-1 Update Flint Water Response for Monday, January 25, 2016

This is the daily 2-1-1 summary on the Flint Water Response for Monday, January 25, 2016

GENERAL INFORMATION:

- ☑ Thank you to the PIOs and DHHS partners who offered to discuss the growing public perception that 2-1-1 is a state agency and how the state is promoting 2-1-1 for the response. I will work to coordinate a meeting or conference call later this week.
- There are two major public meetings this week.
    - Tuesday, January 26 at 5pm the NAACP is holding a Public Mass Meeting at University of Michigan-Flint, Northbank Center, 432 N. SAGINAW STREET, FLINT, MI 48502. The meeting will be hosted by Cornell William Brooks, national NAACP President & CEO.

- Wednesday, January 27 at 7pm MSNBC's Rachel Maddow will be hosting a broadcast town meeting at Brownell/Holmes STEM Academy, 6602 Oxley Dr., Flint. See link at http://www.mlive.com/news/flint/index.ssf/2016/01/what_to_know_about_rachel_madd.html.

- The Flint Water Plant reported it is receiving the results of lead tests and is compiling the results from up to 100 tests per day. Processing the results is labor intensive as it requires converting the lab data into parts-per-billion, then preparing letters to residents with the results.
  - Water samples submitted for testing take up to three (3) weeks to process. The department is telling the public it is a 30 day wait for results.
  - Many samples are submitted with incomplete contact information, requiring additional research to get results back to the resident.
  - Organizations distributing bottles to collect water samples report running out of bottles. Is there a contact for individuals and organizations to get additional testing sample bottles?
- There are reports that residents using the free Lifeline phones (also known as Obama phones)are having problems using the abbreviated 2-1-1 dialing code. The Michigan 2-1-1 State Office is trying to verify this. If there is a problem we will work with the Lifeline vendor to correct the issue. Anyone having difficulty reaching 2-1-1 can use the alternate toll-free number 1-844-875-9211.

CORRECTIONS AND CLARIFICATIONS

None today

CALL VOLUME:

Jennie Pollak, Central Michigan 2-1-1 Manager, was out sick today and was not able to provide a report on call volume and demand. While call numbers are not yet available, the vendor who provides the statewide call platform notified the Michigan 2-1-1 office that 85% of our incoming and outgoing lines were in use, an indicator that volume was again very high. This 85% threshold triggers close monitoring of the system by the 2-1-1 Technology Director who can turn on additional capacity if needed, ensuring that callers can still reach the 2-1-1 system. 2-1-1 continues to use the 'call-back' feature that allows caller to keep their place in the queue without holding on the line, then be contacted by the first available agent.

SPECIAL NEEDS/REQUESTS

- See above request for a contact to get sample bottles for residents to submit water for testing.
- SEOC is developing a standard form for 2-1-1 to use for water resource delivery requests. Once the format is standardized, Michigan 2-1-1 will work with one of our vendors to convert the this into an electronic form that will allow 2-1-1 agents to collect the callers needs and delivery information, then automatically send the individual requests in real-time to the contact responsible for managing deliveries.
- 2-1-1 has received several calls from individuals complaining about their interaction with National Guard members at water distribution sites. In one instance the caller, who works for the City of Flint, called the Fire Station to talk about the situation and was referred to 2-1-1. We understand there are two sides to these interactions and would like to handle them consistently and in an appropriate way. Can the SEOC or National Guard provide guidance on handling concerns about residents' interactions with responders?
- 2-1-1 has received several questions from responders asking how we handle non-English speakers, as well as deaf/hard of hearing individuals.
  - There are a few 2-1-1 agents in the state system who are fluent in Spanish and Arabic. When these staff are available calls are routed to them. Otherwise, tele-interpreter services are available 24/7/365. It usually takes under one minute to connect with an interpreter in any of 180 languages.
  - 2-1-1 handles requests from deaf and hard of hearing individuals in several ways.
    - TDD/TTY is available at every center, but very few calls come in this way
    - 7-1-1 teleinterpreter is regularly used by callers to reach 2-1-1
    - Email is widely used as it allows direct communication between the deaf/hard of hearing person and the 2-1-1 agent

- Live chat is available at most of the 2-1-1 partners which allows individuals to communicate directly and privately with a 2-1-1 agent in real-time

RUMOR CONTROL

- 2-1-1 is receiving calls from residents who are very confused and concerned about the statement from Attorney General Schuette that, "I would certainly not bathe a newborn or infant in Flint water". 2-1-1 contacted SEOC about how to respond and was informed the "Lead In Water" document . 2-1-1 agents have this document available, but it does not appear to be available on the state's web site. Can the SEOC provide a link where we can refer callers to read the document, or give Michigan 2-1-1 permission to post it at MI211.org?
    - Hearing different messages from different state officials is causing concern and confusion for the public. Can PIOs provide any guidance as to how 2-1-1 should handle questions from callers about the reliability of information from these officials?
- 2-1-1 received a report that the e-tablets being used for real-time data tracking of water resource deliveries to homes have been away due to concerns that tracking data on the needs of homebound residents is a potential violation of HIPPA. Can the SEOC verify if this is correct? If so, who is working on a HIPPA-compliant process for tracking information on the needs of homebound residents and when is it expected to be available?

UNRESOLVED

- ☐ From 1/15/16: 2-1-1 is trying to identify a resource to pick up test kits from homebound/senior residents who cannot drop off test kits at designated sites.
- ☐ From 1/18/16: Is there a timeframe for how long bottled water will be distributed? Locals are asking how long this will continue.
- ☐ From 1/18/16: One of the top questions is when will canvassers be in specific neighborhoods. Callers would like to know so they can arrange their schedules. Is this information available for 2-1-1 to share?
- ☐ From 1/18/16: Callers are asking about shower heads that can filter water for bathing. 2-1-1 continues to receive reports of rashes attributed to bathing in unfiltered water.
- ☐ From 1/20/16: Michigan 2-1-1 heard an anecdotal report today that real estate agents are reluctant to close sales in Flint because they cannot verify the any properties are free from lead contamination. Is there are state agency or partner who can give real estate agency and home inspectors information on their potential liability.
- ☐ From 1/20/16: Another rumor reported is that Legionella can be aerosolized and inhaled if people boil water on the stove or use a humidifier to humidify the air in their homes. Can a health professional verify the risk of boiling Flint water or using it in an ultrasonic/cool mist humidifier?
- ☐ 1/21/16: Calls continue to increase regarding how to recycle empty water bottles. A recycling vendor contacted 2-1-1 and was referred to United Way of Genesee County. Does the City of Flint offer recycling? If not, what are the options for people to dispose of the empty plastic bottles?

Captain,

Here is the draft water operations plan. Mr. Katarsky and I discussed going over it with you to check our direction before we start working one on one with the Red Cross and other community non profits to work on their contributions to/acceptance of the plan. We spent a fair amount of time going over it with all of FEMA on Saturday, and made quite a few additions to the original cut.

I was not able to stay later, so please let me and Tony know when you might have a chance to go over it, or if you have any comments.

Subject: real estate rumors in Flint

Lynn/Shannon/Karen,

Please let me know if this has already been addressed, or if there's anything that should be done at this time. A response to provide 2-1-1 either way would be helpful if possible.

"From 1/20/16: Michigan 2-1-1 heard an anecdotal report today that real estate agents are reluctant to close sales in Flint because they cannot verify the any properties are free from lead contamination. Is there are state agency or partner who can give real estate agency and home inspectors information on their potential liability."

Thanks very much!

I can follow up on the real estate issue with MSHDA/JIC. The others will need to be followed up by the local EOC, Red Cross, local EOC/City, Community Health, and MDEQ.

- From 1/15/16: 2-1-1 is trying to identify a resource to pick up test kits from homebound/senior residents who cannot drop off test kits at designated sites.

THIS WOULD BE SOMETHING OUT OF THE LOCAL EOC CORRECT?

- From 1/18/16: One of the top questions is, when will canvassers be in specific neighborhoods. Callers would like to know so they can arrange their schedules. Is this information available for 2-1-1 to share?

THINK WE ARE ABOUT DONE WITH THIS, SO MIGHT BE SOLVED

- From 1/18/16: Callers are asking about shower heads that can filter water for bathing. 2-1-1 continues to receive reports of rashes attributed to bathing in unfiltered water.

I DON'T KNOW WHERE THIS WOULD EVEN GO

- 1/21/16: Calls continue to increase regarding how to recycle empty water bottles. A recycling vendor contacted 2-1-1 and was referred to United Way of Genesee County. Does the City of Flint offer recycling? If not, what are the options for people to dispose of the empty plastic bottles?

IS THIS SOMETHING THE LOCAL EOC IS WORKING ON? I DID HEAR IT MENTIONED IN UPDATES ON THE BRIEFINGS

- From 1/20/16: Michigan 2-1-1 heard an anecdotal report today that real estate agents are reluctant to close sales in Flint because they cannot verify the any properties are free from lead contamination. Is there are state agency or partner who can give real estate agency and home inspectors information on their potential liability.

DO WE HAVE A STATE AGENCY THAT ADDRESSES THESE ISSUES?

- From 1/20/16: Another rumor reported is that Legionella can be aerosolized and inhaled if people boil water on the stove or use a humidifier to humidify the air in their homes. Can a health professional verify the risk of boiling Flint water or using it in an ultrasonic/cool mist humidifier?

Justin,

Attached is a map and spreadsheet of Places of Worship in Flint produced by GIS. Feel free to share with partners, or use to conduct outreach. If there's anyone else I should send this to let me know.

Please note, the dates that these locations were geocoded are listed as between 2007-2009, so there may be some inaccuracies or changes since then.

Thanks,
Katie

Tom, could you forward the most recent 211 report for Flint to plangc@michigan.gov? That's the planning section in the state emergency operations center. Thanks!

All,

Red Cross will get me comments tomorrow. For the most part I am scheduled to be off tomorrow, but if there's an urgent need please let me know. Here's the draft with changes based on our conversations today. Hopefully I've captured what needs to be captured. Again, I'm very open to comments and suggestions.

Thanks much!

Hi Tom, ref the churches- I have had contact with all on my list within the last 2 days, many of them today. We had several deliveries to them Thursday- today. Many of the churches are doing their normal Sunday distributions. All advised they are good right now. I spoke to Richard Boone, Mt. Vernon Chapel. He advised they did not need anything for tomorrow, however, the church was having a meeting tonight to discuss water distributions at their church in the evening 2 days during the week. The meeting was to decide if they would proceed with the idea, what hours and days of the week. Mr. Boone requested volunteer help if they chose to do this. Mr. Boone will call me after they decide those issues and I will put him in contact with Chad ref volunteers. Mr. Boone was very excited about that. All seemed appreciative for the supplies/water they have received. Please let me know if you have any questions. Thanks, BJ

I believe on the plan, I'm okay with getting Dave's comments by Monday.

For the ERVs, I think that's your/Ops' call?

I've attached the draft plan as it currently stands. Do you have a next step in mind?

Hi Tom,
I have reviewed this thoroughly and I have some recommendations. Is it ok with you if I flesh this out and have it to you Monday morning?
As far as Red Cross's role come Monday morning we are prepared to continue managing the Volunteer reception center and we will continue to maintain 10 ERVs to do "hot shots".
Feel free to call me if you have time,

Following are directives from Capt Kelenske that require immediate attention. If you require clarification, please let me know.

-The Local EM needs to be tasked with gathering the needed data for the appeal. We also need to get with Jamie Curtis (I can do that). We need to give specific direction for the EM to work with the city to get the numbers unless you think this is something we should just do. All will need to be provided direction on category B costs back to April 2014.

-Tom is working on the appeal but a few thoughts and I know you will have more...

We have to include the economics of Flint and Genesee similar to what we did for 4195.

-Can someone look into HR1278? This is the Omnibus Bill the 80 million came from. Andrew advised FEMA funds will not be touched and I specifically asked about the mitigation funds from 4195 and he said the funds would not touched.

Through: Ms. Janet Odeshoo, Acting Regional Administrator

Dear Mr. President:

Under the provisions of Section 401 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 5121-5207 (Stafford Act), and implemented by 44 CFR § 206.36, I request that you declare a major disaster for the State of Michigan as a result of water system problems and their associated public health impacts within the City of Flint (Genesee County), since April 2014.

The current public health emergency involves serious problems with the water quality supplied through the city's system... (Describe physical human impacts – injuries/deaths)

(Describe voluntary agency assistance provided to Flint to assist with this issue: ARC and its level of operation, Salvation Army, Southern Baptists, MIVOAD, other agencies, municipal programs/shelters, etc. Include numbers and dates – cases, persons, amounts, etc.).

(Indicate the States of Emergency declared, by whom, and for which areas.)

(Describe physical damages which have occurred, utility and service disruptions, impacts upon people, effects upon critical facilities, other emergency conditions, health and safety hazards, status of repairs/improvements and their estimated completion dates, if known.)

(Provide information on PDA findings, how/where conducted, accessibility concerns.)

General background/context:
Throughout the 20th Century, several overarching trends affected cities throughout the United States, in ways which would eventually prove to be very challenging to historical central cities—especially Flint. Through the 1920s, long-established development patterns had involved the expansion of central cities through the method of "annexation," in which outlying lands officially became part of the city and thus became supplied with urban infrastructure which allowed for more intensive development. However, as various technological advances reduced the costs of the infrastructure required to support moderate levels of development in outlying areas, many of these urban fringe areas became developed without a full need for the central city's urban infrastructure. Traditional urban transportation requirements had also been transformed by the mass-production of affordable automobiles, allowing great increases in the distances over which people could commute to work each day. These general national trends tended to then be supported and institutionalized with various laws and policies, solidifying the independent strength of "suburban" developments around each historical central city. For example, Michigan's Charter Township Act of 1947 greatly enhanced the capacity of townships to resist annexation efforts, so long as they provided a suitable level of infrastructure and services on their own. Other post-war policies included the Federal Housing Administration's support of suburban residential development, the construction of the interstate highway system which provided infrastructure to allow rapid transportation between the central and fringe sections of most major urban areas, and subsequent shifts of retail outlets (e.g. shopping malls) and employment centers (e.g. office and industrial parks) toward outlying areas where taxes were less expensive, land was more plentiful, and metro-area processes had led to suburban areas with concentrations of wealthier consumer and highly educated, specialized labor forces existed which made these suburban locations highly logical choices for new developments of these types.

Although the proliferation of suburbs had been consistent with certain kinds of democratic ideals, allowing more freedom of choice among area schools, municipalities with their own separate electoral processes and budgets and revenue systems, and various lifestyle choices associated with certain locations, there were also serious problems which these processes were creating. One was the development of segregation patterns, which had to be offset over the course of several decades with government action such as Shelley versus Kraemer (1948) and the Fair Housing Act of 1968. Urban planners worked with new principles and requirements involving equity, such as the spatial distribution of subsidized housing according to "fair share" principles, and also involving environmental justice, recognizing that some of the most heavily polluted and disaster-prone areas were tending to be those that were becoming disproportionately occupied by poorer residents and persons identified with ethnic minority groups. Many school districts shared some of the same boundaries which had divided central cities from suburbs, resulting in another set of institutional impacts which required corrective policies to adjust for, such as busing and later Schools of Choice programs.

Although it took only a couple of decades for the negative effects of these processes upon most central cities to become clear, it often took additional decades to start correcting some of their effects. Some of these have continued to this very day because of their complexity, and thus the political, economic, and organizational difficulties of addressing them effectively. Michigan has seen central city budgets shrink greatly along with declines in those municipalities' populations, land values, intensity of development, and tax revenues. A "vicious circle" has sometimes developed, in which declines of one type have gone uncorrected for enough time that related declines are caused or worsened, leading to a dilemma of how to stop such a negative cycle from continuing.

In the case of the City of Flint, it had grown rapidly during the early 20th Century and then saw its population peak in the 1960 census, at a population of nearly 200,000. From this peak, the population had dropped only slightly by 1970, but each decade thereafter saw the loss of more than 10% of the city's population. Today's population is estimated at only about 100,000—only about half of what it had been 50 years before. But despite the loss of important industrial plants and their associated jobs, most of this change in the central city was the result of a dispersion of population and resources across the broader metropolitan area, rather than from an overall metropolitan decline. Genesee County as a whole continued to have its population increase through 1980. As Flint itself lost about 37,000 persons between 1960 and 1980, Genesee County's population increased by about 76,000. Only then did the area as a whole start declining, sporadically and inconsistently, with the county sometimes registering slight population growth, alternating with periods of larger decline. These simultaneous patterns are shown in the following data table:

Flint	156,492	151,543	163,413	196,940	193,317	159,611	140,761	124,943	102,434
Genesee	211,641	227,944	270,963	374,313	445,589	450,449	430,459	436,141	425,790
ratio	73.9%	66.5%	60.3%	52.6%	43.4%	35.4%	32.7%	28.6%	24.1%

As Flint was completing its mid-20th Century boom, its population grew substantially, except during the depression decade of the 1930s. During this time, the county as a whole was also expanding, at a somewhat faster rate than the city, so the proportion of the county's population found in the central city did decline during that period. However the city's shrinking proportion within its metropolitan area did not pose much of a problem as long as both the city and the overall area were growing. By contrast, the extent of central city population loss seen after 1970 was very serious, straining the city's budget to the point where an official bankruptcy (declared in 2XXX) appeared to provide one of the clearest means to sort through the many debts and shortfalls which had accumulated. Shrinking city revenues, budgets, and services seemed over time to lead to conditions and situations which directly affected the health of its residents—alarming rises in homicide rates, deterioration of the city's housing stock, an accumulation of brownfield sites, episodes of widespread arson, and the current public health emergency involving the city's water supply.

Central cities frequently provide important services and functions for their entire metropolitan areas, but as a result of 20th Century trends, such cities often bore increasing financial burdens while doing so, as many sources of tax revenue dropped off as residents moved to suburbs and increasingly shopped and worked in those suburbs as well. Even when businesses and people remained in the central city, tax revenues often shrank when overall property values declined within an increasingly suburban and exurban metropolitan environment. According to Flint's 2013 Master Plan (page 18), the daytime weekday population of the city increases to nearly 134,000 as a result of worker and student inflows. Thus, the city regularly supports traffic and services for more than 30,000 persons beyond those who are full-time residents of the city. During major events, this number is much higher. A disproportionate number of the city's residents are in poverty. A disproportionate number of the city's residents have disabilities (functional needs).

Equally troubling, the socio-economic profile of the affected counties and local communities found at Attachment 1 shows these areas are also some of the most economically-distressed in the region and therefore least able to recover from this flood disaster on their own. For example, in Wayne County, where over 23-percent of residents live below the federal poverty level, in the hard-hit cities of Dearborn, Detroit, Highland Park, and Inkster, the poverty levels all exceed 25-percent. In the City of Highland Park, the poverty level is closer to 50-percent. Three significantly affected Wayne County communities (i.e., the cities of Detroit, Highland Park, and Inkster) have median household incomes (at $26,955, $20,298, and $28,095, respectively) that are close to one-half of the state average of $48,471. In Macomb County, the City of Warren's poverty level exceeds 17-percent and its median household income, at $44,982, also lags nearly 8-percent behind the state average. The cities of Dearborn and Dearborn Heights in Wayne County both have poverty levels exceeding the state average, and median household incomes that are less than the state average. The cities of Madison Heights and Oak Park in Oakland County also experience those same conditions. Unemployment in many of the affected communities is also high. For example, all three counties have unemployment rates (at 9.6-percent, 8.4-percent, and 11.1-percent, respectively) that exceed the state average of 7.7-percent. (Unfortunately, Michigan's unemployment rate remains one of the highest in the nation, and well above the national average of 6.2-percent.) The City of Highland Park has an unemployment rate that exceeds 23-percent, while the City of Detroit's rate exceeds 17-percent. As the table at Attachment 1 shows, several other communities particularly hard-hit by the flooding also have unemployment rates that exceed double-digits.

The following information is furnished on the nature and amount of State and local government resources that have been or will be used to alleviate the conditions of this disaster:

(Describe response actions by state and local governments. Describe any state/local Individual Assistance programs.)

In response to this flood disaster, I took appropriate action under state law and directed the execution of the Michigan Emergency Management Plan on August 13, 2014, in accordance with Section 401 of the Stafford Act. On that same date, under my authority as Governor, I also proclaimed a State of Disaster for the counties of Macomb, Oakland, and Wayne, including the local political subdivisions located therein, and directed state departments and agencies to utilize all available resources necessary to assist the aforementioned counties and local political subdivisions in responding to and recovering from this disaster. I must note that numerous state departments and agencies had already initiated response actions prior to my formal proclamation, in accordance with their assigned missions in the Michigan Emergency Management Plan. These actions included but were not limited to providing direct assistance to the affected communities and to individuals, assessing the damage and impacts to affected state facilities, infrastructure, and services under their stewardship, and taking appropriate actions to keep those affected facilities, infrastructure, and services operational.

I have determined that this incident is of such severity and magnitude that effective recovery is beyond the capabilities of the State of Michigan and the affected local governments and that supplemental federal relief assistance is necessary. I am specifically requesting activation of both Individual Assistance and Public Assistance for the affected counties specified in this request, and activation of the Hazard Mitigation Grant Program for all counties within the state. Preliminary estimates of the types and amount of Individual Assistance and Public Assistance needed under the Stafford Act are tabulated at Enclosures A and B, respectively.

Information regarding the nature and amount of state, local, and nongovernmental resources that have been or will be used to alleviate the conditions of this disaster can be found at Attachment 2, "Significant State and Local Response and Recovery Actions." Maps, weather and flood charts, and damage photographs related to this disaster can be found at Attachment 3, "Supporting Maps, Charts, and Photographs."

I certify that for this major disaster, the state and local governments will assume all applicable non-federal share of costs required by the Stafford Act. Total non-federal share expenditures are expected to equal or exceed $4,816,304, in accordance with the tables at Enclosures A and B.

I have designated Capt. Chris A. Kelenske of the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division, as the State Coordinating Officer for this request. He will work with the Federal Emergency Management Agency on recovery program implementation and may provide further information or justification on my behalf.

Sincerely,

Rick Snyder
Governor

ATTACHMENT 2 TO MAJOR DISASTER REQUEST

Significant State and Local Response and Recovery Actions

Search and Rescue. The rapid and severe flash flooding inundated numerous sections of interstate highways, major state highways, and local roadways in the metropolitan Detroit area in the hours immediately after the heavy rainfall on August 11, trapping hundreds of vehicles and motorists in the rising water. Many of these motorists sought refuge on the tops of their vehicles or on nearby high ground and had to be rescued by Michigan State Police officers, local law enforcement officers, and local fire department personnel. Michigan State Police resources were particularly valuable to the search and rescue efforts. State Police officers provided direct assistance to stranded motorists, checked the status of abandoned vehicles, and assisted local responders in blocking access to flooded roadways. In addition, divers with the Michigan State Police Underwater Recovery Unit checked more than one hundred submerged vehicles for occupants (fortunately, none were found), and the State Police Aviation Unit conducted aerial fly-overs of the impacted areas to search for additional stranded motorists and to take aerial photographic and video footage of the flood scenes. (Some of those photographs are included at Attachment 3 to provide visual documentation of the scope and magnitude of the flooding.)

Critical Facilities and Infrastructure Restoration. A number of critical facility and infrastructure emergency restoration measures were implemented in the affected counties and local communities during the response to the severe flooding. Particularly hard hit were the interstate highways and major state roadways in and around metropolitan Detroit, although roadways in all three counties were heavily impacted by the flooding. Many sections of the affected highways in and around metropolitan Detroit (including interstate highways I-75, I-94, I-96, and I-696, and Michigan highways M-10 and M-39) were inundated with flood water, trapping vehicles and motorists who could not make their way through the rapidly-deepening water. This forced the closure of these roadway sections – in some cases for several days – so that crews from the Michigan Department of Transportation, Michigan State Police, and county and local road and law enforcement agencies could oversee the removal of stranded (and generally inoperable) vehicles; assess the physical damage to and conduct safety checks of road, bridge, and related infrastructure; and initiate appropriate facility repair and restoration measures so that the closed sections of roadway could be safely reopened to the motoring public. (Refer to the road closure map found at Attachment 3.)

Repair and restoration measures included but were not limited to: conducting safety checks of and making temporary or permanent repairs to damaged structures; removing water, mud and debris from the roadway, bridges, and rights-of-way; stabilizing banks to prevent further debris flows and physical degradation; repairing signage and electronic signals, where required; repairing pumping equipment and associated facilities to ensure they are operational; and testing the repaired facilities to ensure they will allow for safe travel. In most cases, the dedicated work crews were able to reopen the damaged highway and roadway facilities within 36-48 hours. However, some of the damaged sections of roadway and bridge infrastructure will require more extensive permanent repairs which will take several weeks to several months to complete once funding is available to finance the repairs.

Uninsured damage to other local public facilities and infrastructure was significant. For example, in the City of Warren in Macomb County, the Police Department and Fire Department incurred nearly $2.8 million in uninsured damage to their police and fire vehicles and associated equipment. This includes 10 fully-equipped Fire Department vehicles and six fully-equipped Police Department vehicles requiring replacement, and another seven fire vehicles and nine police vehicles requiring major repairs. The City of Sterling Heights, also in Macomb County, had nearly $620,000 in insured public utility damage, while in St. Clair Shores, uninsured damage to public buildings and associated equipment totaled $225,000. In the City of Royal Oak in Oakland County, uninsured damage to a local high school and middle school totaled $210,000. Uninsured damage to St. John Providence Hospital in the City of Southfield in Oakland County was $200,000. Uninsured damage to Oakwood Hospital in the City of Dearborn in Wayne County exceeded $1.8 million, while in the City of Highland Park, also in Wayne County, uninsured damage to public utilities, city hall, and the community recreation center totaled in excess of $450,000. In the City of Detroit in Wayne County, uninsured damage to public buildings and equipment was over $930,000, with the majority of that total coming from damage to Police Department facilities. These are just a few instructive examples from the nearly $16.8 million in public damage that occurred in Michigan. Although temporary repair and restoration measures have been put in place in most instances to bring the damaged facilities and infrastructure in the three counties to basic operational status, almost all will still require extensive permanent repairs and restoration to bring them back to their pre-flood condition. That will not occur in a timely or comprehensive manner without federal disaster relief assistance.

Emergency Sheltering and Mass Care. Although the rapid (and unanticipated), heavy rainfall did not allow for preventive evacuations of the public in impacted areas, emergency sheltering and mass care services were required in several instances. For example, on August 11, over 400 stranded motorists had to be temporarily sheltered for the evening in the City of Warren because roadway flooding prohibited further travel and resulted in many areas being inaccessible by vehicle. (Many of these individual's vehicles were deeply submerged in flood water and would not have been able to travel anyway because of the damage to their vehicle.) Along M-10 in Wayne County, approximately 50 motorists were stranded for an extended period from the evening of August 11 through August 13 due to the deep flood water in the walled-in, lower sections of the highway. During this time, the American Red Cross provided these stranded individuals with food, water, and comfort kits until the roadway could be de-watered and reopened for travel. For six days after the flooding occurred, a small number of displaced flood survivors were sheltered and cared for at an American Red Cross shelter in Garden City in Wayne County because their homes were inaccessible and/or incurred sufficient damage to render them unsafe for occupancy. Lastly, the American Red Cross also provided cots and comfort kits to nearly two-dozen displaced residents at two apartment complexes in the cities of Detroit (Wayne County) and Troy (Oakland County) so that the residents could use other (unaffected) vacant units within the respective complexes for shelter, rather than having to be moved elsewhere to a temporary shelter facility.

I must note that these emergency sheltering and mass care figures are somewhat misleading, as we received reports that many more flood survivors were temporarily displaced because of flood damage and/or inaccessibility but sought shelter with nearby family, friends, or in unaffected area hotels and motels. As it is next to impossible to track these "unofficial" evacuations with any accuracy, it is safe to say that the number of temporarily displaced flood survivors is much higher than reported through official channels.

The American Red Cross generally led the organized emergency sheltering and mass care effort, supported by the Michigan Department of Human Services, the Salvation Army, and other community-based relief organizations.

Flood Recovery for Individuals and Families. To assist affected flood survivors in recovering from this devastating disaster, the American Red Cross teamed with the Michigan Department of Human Services, Michigan 2-1-1, the Michigan Community Service Commission, and other community-based relief organizations to establish and operate "Multi-Agency Resource Centers" (MARCs) in 10 different locations over a six-day period in the latter-half of August. (A corresponding map found at Attachment 3 shows the initial locations of these MARCs.) The Multi-Agency Resource Centers, which were visited by several thousand flood survivors, provided a location and means to disseminate information regarding flood recovery and available flood recovery assistance. Through these centers, flood survivors could connect with or be referred to agencies and organizations that could assist them in their recovery – addressing everything from filing insurance claims, to replacing food and clothing, to making repairs to damaged homes. In addition, the Multi-Agency Resource Centers also provided a clearinghouse for the distribution of flood clean-up kits, personal comfort kits, and other recovery supplies to those requiring such items. To date, over 300 referrals for behavioral health assistance have been made through the centers and other involved agencies.

In addition to the Multi-Agency Resource Centers, flood survivors also have the opportunity to request flood recovery information and/or assistance via the Internet or Michigan 2-1-1 telephone system. These options were widely disseminated to the public and the media in various information releases. For the internet options, affected individuals could register directly with the Recovery Coordination Center (discussed in "Management of Emergency Volunteers" below) operated by Michigan Voluntary Organizations Active in Disasters, at www.bit.ly/floodcleanupsemi, or they could register via a specially-designated web page (www.michigan.gov/miflood) at the Michigan State Police Emergency Management and Homeland Security web site, which provides a link to the Recovery Coordination Center registration form. Either option results in a referral for recovery assistance to one of the Michigan Voluntary Organizations Active in Disasters member organizations providing assistance through the Recovery Coordination Center.

(I must note that, although the Multi-Agency Resource Centers, Michigan 2-1-1, and the aforementioned web sites have been tremendously successful to date in identifying and addressing both short- and longer-term recovery needs of the affected flood survivors in this disaster, it is clear that even these collective efforts are not going to be sufficient to identify and address all of the unmet needs of the thousands of flood survivors. This is particularly true with regard to home rebuilding and restoration efforts to ensure safe re-occupancy of damaged structures. Because over 80-percent of the affected households in the three-county area did not have insurance in place to address the damage incurred in this flash flood, it is very likely that many will be forced to occupy their homes with potentially dangerous and/or unhealthy conditions present due to damaged electrical and mechanical systems and/or the presence of black mold or other contaminants on building materials not properly dried out and restored. Simply put, the long-term unmet needs of the flood survivors far outstrip the combined resources of the involved voluntary organizations, volunteers, and existing human service programs to remedy those needs. Clearly, federal disaster relief assistance is required to enable these flood survivors to fully recover from this devastating flood and allow them to make their dwellings safe and sanitary for re-occupancy.)

Without significant relief assistance from the federal government, these individuals will not have the resources necessary to fully repair and restore their damaged homes and mechanical systems, ensure their homes are free of mold and other health hazards, and replace damaged essential household items such as appliances, clothing, food, medications, and furniture and bedding. Without federal relief assistance, it is an almost certainty that many individuals will continue to struggle to recover and be forced to live in unhealthy conditions due to mold, contact with contaminated materials, and substandard (and likely unsafe) mechanical systems that they could not afford to have properly repaired by licensed professionals.

Management of Emergency Volunteers. To date, hundreds of emergency volunteers have been mobilized through the collective efforts of the American Red Cross, Michigan Voluntary Organizations Active in Disasters, Michigan Community Service Commission, Michigan Department of Human Services, local and state emergency management offices, and community-based organizations, to assist in the recovery from this flood disaster. In fact, volunteers have been and continue to be the lifeblood of the flood recovery effort. The aforementioned agencies and organizations have done a tremendous job in managing these volunteer resources and ensuring their timely and effective use. As I previously indicated, several Multi-Agency Resource Centers have been established and successfully operated in the affected counties to allow for the distribution of clean-up and personal comfort kits, and to facilitate the connection of those in need with the agencies and organizations that can provide recovery and relief information and/or assistance.

Central to the disaster volunteer management effort has been the establishment of a Recovery Coordination Center (RCC) to provide a means to coordinate the efforts of organizations that provide volunteer assistance to flood survivors needing help in repairing and restoring their home. The majority of the volunteers providing assistance are working under the framework of Michigan Voluntary Organizations Active in Disasters, and in coordination with state and local emergency management agencies, Michigan 2-1-1, the American Red Cross, the Michigan Department of Human Services, and other community-based organizations. The Recovery Coordination Center helps identify flood survivors requiring recovery assistance and determines the nature and scope of their recovery needs. The center provides ongoing case management for individual recovery and rebuilding/restoration efforts, ensuring that no one "falls through the cracks" and does not receive the assistance they need. Affected individuals are identified and referred to the Recovery Coordination Center by Michigan 2-1-1, local and state emergency management offices, Michigan Department of Human Services county offices, the Michigan Community Service Commission, churches and other faith-based organizations, or by involved volunteers themselves. Once a flood victim is registered with the Recovery Coordination Center, their recovery needs are referred to the appropriate agency or volunteer organization for follow-up action. Through the center, voluntary organizations can also track their recovery efforts, thus ensuring an accurate accounting of the volunteer hours spent with each flood victim. Currently, over 4,000 homeowners have requested clean-up and restoration assistance through the Recovery Coordination Center. To date, over 250 homes have been completed using volunteers coordinated through the center.

However, as I indicated earlier, even with these outstanding volunteer efforts in place the collective capabilities of volunteers can only go so far in meeting the more difficult long-term recovery needs aimed at ensuring safe and sanitary conditions in flood-damaged homes. Because of the lack of adequate insurance (less than one in five households was adequately insured) to help pay for potentially-expensive repair and restoration activities required to make home structural elements and mechanical systems safe and functional, and to fully-remove the presence of black mold and other contaminants in flood-damaged building materials, it is essential that federal disaster relief assistance be provided. Absent this assistance, affected flood survivors will, in many cases, be forced to live in potentially-dangerous and/or unsanitary conditions because they do not have the financial resources necessary to fully restore their dwellings to pre-flood condition in a timely manner – or at all.

Debris Removal to Protect Public Health and Safety. Debris management was a critically important recovery issue in the days and weeks immediately following this flood disaster. Throughout the affected counties and communities, extensive and rapid debris operations were required to clear and remove flood-damaged building materials and personal property from curbsides and roadway rights-of-way in residential and commercial areas in order to protect public health and safety and enable the continuing use of adjacent roadways, sidewalks, and fire hydrants. The wet, heavy, contaminated flood debris from tens-of-thousands of flood-damaged homes and businesses, coupled with the hot and humid weather conditions that occurred in the days that immediately followed the flood disaster, set the stage for potentially-dangerous and unsanitary conditions in these densely-populated and heavily-developed urban areas. Because of the very real potential for a public health emergency, it was necessary for the affected local communities to muster all of the private and public debris clearance and removal resources they could to ensure rapid and environmentally-compliant removal and disposal of this debris.

In that regard, the affected local jurisdictions did an exemplary job in rapidly managing this difficult and potentially life-threatening recovery issue. With the assistance of various state agencies working out of the State Emergency Operations Center, the local jurisdictions were able to identify sufficient resources to address their debris removal and disposal needs in a rapid and environmentally-compliant manner. All of the affected local communities effectively worked with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality to obtain required emergency waivers for temporary debris storage and transfer centers, and for emergency transportation of flood debris to approved landfill facilities. These debris removal efforts, however, came at a collective $7 million cost to the affected local jurisdictions in the three counties – a cost which these jurisdictions are not in a position to bear without significant cuts to other essential programs and services.

Emergency Public Information. During the first hours and days after the flash flooding occurred, the affected local jurisdictions and several Michigan state agencies undertook a comprehensive emergency public information campaign to warn residents of the health and safety risks posed by the flooding and flood-related damage, and to provide updates on recovery issues and concerns. Of particular concern initially were the health and safety risks associated with structural damage, damaged electrical and mechanical systems, and contaminated flood debris. Later, the public information focus shifted to address longer-term recovery issues such as use of licensed and reputable contractors, price-gouging, scam avoidance, and home restoration best practices. This public information campaign continues today, in both English and appropriate non-English languages, and will so for the foreseeable future until all recovery-related issues and concerns have been effectively dealt with. All appropriate media sources have been utilized in this campaign, including television, radio, print media, and web and social media sites. Although there were two incident-related deaths in the early days after the flooding, since that time this campaign has been largely successful in minimizing flood-related injuries and health and safety problems.

The Michigan United Way 2-1-1 telephone referral system has been a tremendously successful means of disseminating important recovery-related information and making referrals to agencies and organizations that can provide recovery assistance. To date, Michigan 2-1-1 has fielded nearly 10,000 calls from individuals seeking flood recovery information and/or referrals. Michigan 2-1-1 has been instrumental in connecting individuals in need with the appropriate resources to enable them to recover from this flood disaster. Despite its success, Michigan 2-1-1 also had one potential downside, that is, the large number of "abandoned" calls from callers that chose to hang up rather than utilize the call-back option when lines were busy. Telephone logs show that over 3,100 calls were abandoned between mid-August and the first week of September. This is disturbing to me because there is no way to track with certainty whether or not these individuals actually did receive the information and/or assistance they were seeking when they initially called Michigan 2-1-1. My hope is that they did, but I suspect a portion of these callers simply gave up and did not further seek recovery information and/or assistance.

(I must note that my concerns in this regard are not necessarily limited to Michigan 2-1-1. Reports received from state and local staff that participated in the Preliminary Damage Assessment indicate that a potentially large number of affected individuals may not have sought assistance due to a number of reasons, including but not limited to: a general distrust of or frustration with government; language and/or cultural barriers; technology barriers, i.e., do not regularly monitor media reports, the internet, or social media; or a lack of understanding regarding available resources and the means for accessing those resources. If federal disaster relief assistance is granted based on this request, we may find many additional individuals that may seek to apply for federal assistance – over and above those estimates developed in the Preliminary Damage Assessment.)

State Response and Recovery Assistance Efforts. Michigan's state departments and agencies and nongovernmental partner organizations have provided whatever appropriate resources they had at their avail to assist the affected counties and local jurisdictions in responding to and recovering from this flood disaster. Although the following is by no means an all-inclusive accounting of all response and recovery efforts, it does provide brief synopses of some of the more noteworthy efforts:

The Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division (MSP/EMHSD) began to monitor the incident in the early evening of August 11, after reports of flash flooding were first received from the affected local emergency management officials and the National Weather Service. Immediate communications were established with the local emergency management officials to assess the nature, scope, and magnitude of the incident and to help coordinate the provision of state resources as needed. This monitoring continued through the evening hours of August 11. When reports from the affected local jurisdictions and the Michigan Department of Transportation indicated that metropolitan Detroit interstate highways and major roadways had suffered major flooding, the MSP/EMHSD notified key staff to report to the State Emergency Operations Center (SEOC). The SEOC was in partial activation status for several hours, and then went to full activation status at 10:00 AM on August 12. Numerous departments, agencies, and nongovernmental partners responded and reported to the SEOC for duty.

The MSP/EMHSD coordinated SEOC operations at full activation status for the next 14 days, operating 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, on 12-hour shifts. On August 25, the overnight shift was terminated and the operational hours were changed to 8:00 AM till 8:00 PM. The SEOC remained on that schedule for two days, until August 27, when the hours were changed to 8:00 AM till 5:00 PM to more closely align with the Preliminary Damage Assessment operations ongoing in the three-county impact area. On September 8, the SEOC went to a weekly operational period.

Throughout the SEOC activation, the MSP/EMHSD staffed command, operations, logistics, planning, public information, mapping and technical support positions to keep the SEOC functioning at full capability and to fully support the state department/agency and nongovernmental partner representatives present in the facility. During this period, the MSP/EMHSD coordinated all resource requests received from the affected local jurisdictions, ensuring that each request was appropriately addressed in a timely manner. The MSP/EMHSD also coordinated the collection, compilation, review, analysis, synthesis, and reporting of damage and impact assessment information received from the affected jurisdictions and state departments/agencies. The MSP/EMHSD also conducted several briefings daily for local officials, state departments/agencies and nongovernmental partners, and other interested parties, to keep all stakeholders apprised of ongoing or planned activities and areas of concern. Daily incident management plans were developed by SEOC command staff to focus SEOC activities on planned incident management objectives and to ensure that state resources were being appropriately utilized to address the most pressing issues during the operational period. In addition, the MSP/EMHSD developed numerous daily written situation status reports and public information releases to keep SEOC staff, state government executive and legislative leadership, local officials, our emergency management partners, and the public informed of ongoing issues, concerns, activities, and opportunities for coordination and/or involvement.

From August 25 to September 9, the MSP/EMHSD worked closely with Federal Emergency Management Agency officials to coordinate and conduct Preliminary Damage Assessments for both Individual Assistance and Public Assistance in the three-county impact area. The MSP/EMHSD was instrumental in the set-up of and conduct of the Preliminary Damage Assessment, handling all administrative and logistical aspects of the operation from the SEOC and an on-site coordination center established at the Double Tree Inn in Dearborn. Lastly, using the assessment information and findings from the Preliminary Damage Assessment, the MSP/EMHSD provided considerable technical assistance to me and my staff in the drafting of this request letter and in compiling the supporting information found in the various Attachments and Enclosures.

In addition to the MSP/EMHSD contributions, the Michigan State Police (MSP) also deployed considerable resources during the flood response to assist local officials in controlling access to flooded areas, conducting underwater search and rescue in flooded areas, and assisting with security and traffic control as required. Early in the response, the MSP Aviation Unit also flew aerial reconnaissance and assessment missions over the affected areas to search for additional stranded motorists on flooded highways, to aid local and state officials in determining the scope and magnitude of the flooding, and to take aerial photographs and video footage of flooded areas for damage and impact assessment purposes. (Some of those photographs appear in this letter at Attachment 3.) The MSP Special Operations Division also assisted at the SEOC, and the Michigan Intelligence Operations Center (MIOC) continuously monitored the flooding conditions and sent out situational awareness bulletins on the weather and flooding to all stakeholder partners through the duration of the response and recovery.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development (MDARD) made available flood clean-up (to include sewage) guidance to affected food establishments in the three-county impact area. This guidance was provided in English, Spanish, Arabic, and Mandarin languages. In addition, the MDARD and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) Detroit District Office coordinated with various food industry associations in Michigan to assess the impact of the flooding on the food and agriculture sector and to determine appropriate follow-up measures necessary to protect public health. (Providing the clean-up guidance to food establishments was one of the necessary measures.) During this outreach process, the MDARD focused on food warehouses and retail establishments while the FDA focused on food processors and other regulated firms (e.g., drug, biologics, medical devices, etc.) within the local jurisdictions most heavily impacted by the flooding. (Those jurisdictions included but were not limited to: Warren, St. Clair Shores, and Clinton Township in Macomb County; Madison Heights, Ferndale, and Royal Oak in Oakland County; and Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, and Detroit in Wayne County.) In addition, the MDARD also reached out to the affected health departments (county and City of Detroit) who license and inspect restaurants, and with major grocery store chains and trade associations. MDARD personnel also inspected a number of gasoline stations in the affected area to determine if any had issues with flood water in their gasoline storage tanks. (One did, but the issue was satisfactorily resolved by the state inspectors.)

The Michigan Department of Community Health (MDCH) coordinated with affected local health departments regarding the provision of disaster behavioral health resources; monitored and coordinated with local hospitals and the Region 2 Health Care Coalition regarding flood-related damage and the resultant impacts on hospital operations; and worked closely with the SEOC Public Information Officer to disseminate appropriate and timely health-related information to flood survivors.

The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ) coordinated extensively with local officials involved in debris management operations to ensure compliance with federal and state environmental laws and regulations; issued timely emergency approvals of sites designated for use as temporary debris storage and transfer sites; issued other emergency authorizations and waivers where appropriate; provided technical assistance to local officials and private debris management firms regarding issues pertaining to the collection, storage, transport, and disposal of flood-related debris; assisted in the identification of supplemental debris management resources for local officials in need of such resources; and monitored flood-related impacts on local drinking water treatment plants and operations in the affected area.

The Michigan Department of Human Services (MDHS) coordinated with involved voluntary relief organizations, community-based organizations, MDHS County Offices and the Michigan Community Service Commission, Michigan 2-1-1, and other human service providers to identify, assess, and attempt to meet the recovery needs of flood survivors. The MDHS undertook a number of activities during the response and recovery phases of this disaster to meet this broad mission, including but not limited to: coordinating with the American Red Cross, Michigan Voluntary Organizations Active in Disasters, and other voluntary relief organizations to establish and operate two temporary emergency shelters, 10 Multi-Agency Resource Centers, and a Recovery Coordination Center; coordinating the distribution of thousands of clean-up and personal comfort kits; coordinating with the SEOC Public Information Officer and other public information officials regarding the dissemination of appropriate and timely recovery information using all available means (e.g., Michigan 2-1-1, web and social media sites, television, radio, etc.); registering eligible flood survivors for the limited MDHS emergency relief assistance available; coordinating the receipt and use of donated goods for the recovery effort; resolving debris management issues for volunteers providing clean-up and/or repair assistance through the Recovery Coordination Center; assisting with volunteer recruitment through the Michigan Community Service Commission and other means; procuring needed supplies for volunteer repair/clean-up teams; and addressing recovery-related issues for various functional needs populations affected by the flooding.

The Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs (MDLARA) monitored incident-related energy disruptions and energy supply issues related to the storms and flooding; monitored the operations of regulated health care facilities affected by the flooding; provided (through the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Administration – MIOSHA) worker safety information to emergency responders and workers, as appropriate; and provided (through the Bureau of Construction Codes) information to citizens in the City of Highland Park and other communities on mandated building, mechanical, electrical and plumbing inspections.

The Michigan Department of Technology, Management and Budget (MDTMB) monitored the impacts of the flooding on state owned and operated facilities and state government operations in the three-county area; assisted in obtaining needed resources for emergency operations and/or flood recovery through standing vendor contracts and/or the state's emergency procurement process; identified and procured office space and coordinated information technology installation for needed emergency facilities; and assisted in transporting recovery supplies to Multi-Agency Resource Centers and other distribution facilities.

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT), assisted by local public works and law enforcement personnel and the Michigan State Police, managed the closure of several sections of interstate and state highways in and around metropolitan Detroit that were inundated by flood water. This included several sections interstate highways I-75, I-94, I-96, and I-696, and Michigan highways M-10 and M-39. The MDOT also monitored and reported on closures of local roads and bridges by local officials; reported on the scope and magnitude of road and bridge damage in the affected counties; coordinated with the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) regarding implementation of its Emergency Relief Program; and participated in the Public Assistance Preliminary Damage Assessment for road and bridge damage.

PROCLAMATION

DECLARATION OF DISASTER

WHEREAS, Section 1 of Article V of the Michigan Constitution of 1963 vests the executive power of the state of Michigan in the Governor; and

WHEREAS, under the Emergency Management Act, Act No. 390 of the Public Acts of 1976, as amended, MCL 30.401 to 30.421, the Governor is responsible for coping with dangers to this state or the people of this state presented by a disaster or emergency or threat thereof, and may issue executive orders, proclamations, and directives having the force and effect of law to implement the Act; and

WHEREAS, under Section 3 of the Emergency Management Act, 1976 Public Act 390, MCL 30.403, the Governor shall, by executive order or proclamation, declare a state of disaster if the Governor finds that a disaster has occurred or that the threat of a disaster exists; and

WHEREAS, ~~over the course of 2014~~on April 25th 2014 the City of Flint Michigan switched to the Flint River as a water source~~ and 2015~~, ~~,~~ the deleterious effects of corrosive water struck the ~~City of Flint, Michigan's~~city's water infrastructure, causing significant leeching of lead into the water~~, causing~~ which caused extensive damage to the water system and negative health impacts to the citizens; and

Formatted: Superscript

WHEREAS, the area affected include the entire City of Flint, within the county of Genesee; and

WHEREAS, the damaged water infrastructure and leeching~~unleashing~~ of toxic lead into the city's water caused widespread ~~and severe~~ damage to public and private water infrastructure, elevated blood lead levels in humans and potentially pets, especially in the population of children and pregnant women, and causing an immediate threat to public health and safety and disrupting vital community services; and

WHEREAS, from October 1, 2015 to this date, the County of Genesee and the City of Flint have taken a number of actions to cope with the situation, including but not limited to switching back to Detroit Water and Sewerage on October 16th, declaring local states of emergency and a public health emergency, activating the disaster response and recovery aspects of their emergency operations plan, marshaling and distributing required resources on a city-wide level, and issuing emergency public information; and

WHEREAS, local resources have been insufficient to address the situation, and additional assistance from voluntary organizations and the state is required to protect public health, safety, and property, and to lessen or avert the threat of more severe and long lasting impacts to the community;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RICHARD D. SNYDER, Governor of the State of Michigan, pursuant to the Constitution of the State of Michigan and provisions of Act No. 390 of the Public Acts of 1976, as amended, do hereby proclaim that a state of disaster exists in the aforementioned county and municipality; and

FURTHER, the Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division of the Department of State Police shall coordinate and maximize all state efforts, and may call upon all state departments to utilize resources at their avail to assist in the disaster area pursuant to the Michigan Emergency Management Plan; and

FURTHER, termination of this disaster will occur at such time as the threats to public health, safety, and property caused by the disaster no longer exist and appropriate programs have been implemented to recover from the effects of this disaster, but in no case longer than February 3, 2016, unless extended as provided by Act No. 390.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Michigan this 6th day of January in the Year of Our Lord, Two Thousand and Sixteen.

RICHARD D. SNYDER
GOVERNOR

Captain,

The State Planning Unit has reviewed the IAP, and offer the following comments:

- The Incident Management Team is referred to in the document. It would be helpful to have the roster included in the document. It would also be helpful to have the roster listed in terms of a traditional ICS format, but the "function" references are workable.
- Not included in the IMT are anyone from Planning, Community & Economic Development, or Information Services. They do or could have beneficial roles in the response (documentation, CDBG, information technology logistics, and resource procurement).
- An Emergency Management Team is referenced but is not defined. It may actually be a reference to the IMT.
- The JIC and PIO "team" are referenced, but their composition and organization is unclear.
- EPA assistance with public information is mentioned. Should the state/DEQ be aware of this and communicating this to us?
- Who is "determining the total cost of damage done to the public health and infrastructure?"

- State needs to clarify with the city what any state role in replacing the whole water system may or may not include. Various funds and forgivable loans have been referenced, but the state should have (perhaps the Executive Office does have) an overall Project Manager who can coordinate all state and federal activities that are occurring.
- State should provide assistance/guidance if possible to help develop the capital improvement project for the water system
- An organization chart with contact information should be prepared by either the City or the County EM. The County EM could be serving as a coordinating/liaison role between city/county/state agencies.
- A county IAP with the City IAP as an appendix may be beneficial.
- Most of what is being requested echoes previous resources. Financial assistance is first and foremost what is being requested. Most resources (health monitoring programs) still do not have any cost projection attached. Infrastructure costs are the exception which, as noted, would need outside review for confirmation (or source of the existing estimates).

I would stress that with MSP/EMHSD, MDEQ, MCSC, MDHHS, and potentially MSHDA all providing input, the state needs a project manager for this. Which could take the form of an SEOC activation in the monitoring mode, or something less formal. But coordination is needed.

Mayor Submits Plan to Genesee County

The City of Flint took another major step in addressing the water emergency this afternoon. The Office of Mayor Karen Weaver submitted the Incident Action Plan to Genesee County Emergency Management and Homeland Security Office prior to the issue being on the agenda for the January meeting of the County Board of Commissioners. This is a necessary step in requesting additional assistance for Flint, which is confronting an Emergency while in State receivership.

The Incident Action Plan is a required document that is generated by the Incident Response Team. This team was formed after the Mayor announced a State of Emergency on December 14, 2015. The team includes department heads, City Officials and key members of the staff. The Incident Response Plan is an initial framework outlining key steps that are necessary to address the causes and effects of the lead contamination in the City's water. It includes both plans for immediate relief such as the distribution of water filters and long term solutions that seek to address the medical and infrastructural needs of the community.

"We are moving forward to ask for the assistance we need for the community. We need to take immediate action to keep the people of Flint out of harm's way and help those who have been affected by this incident," said the Mayor. The plan will be discussed at the next County Board of Commissioner's meeting on Monday, January 4th at 9am.

Here are the items that need clarification:

- Who comprises the Incident Management Team?
- Who comprised the Emergency Management Team?
- Who is "determining the total cost of damage done to the public health and infrastructure"?
- State needs to clarify with the city that they will not replace the whole water system and clarify what assistance we can provide (again)
- State should provide assistance/guidance if possible to help develop the capital improvement project for the water system
- Is there a JIC?
- There should be some kind of org chart/contact list with the IAP.

Good morning, I received a call from Chris Devriendt advising he was sending this email to me. Chris basically advised the City of Flint is handing over their IAP to the County on Monday and the County is going to ask for a Governor's declaration. I asked what resources have been used and exhausted by the City and the County as well as what resources are being asked for. Chris is caught in the middle here. The City's IAP is basically asking for millions of dollars to fix their infrastructure and asking for the 2 million they spent to make the switch back to Detroit water be forgiven. I also asked if they had GIS mapping to show which service lines are lead in the city. Chris advised the city is working with Wayne State University on those and to his knowledge no maps are available yet. He further advised maps contained in Dr. Mona's article are "locked" by the Institutional Review Board until her article is published. The city is going to request the Board to release the maps to them but that is not a given.

Once again, they are basically asking for money to fix their infrastructure problem. And, Sean Kammer is asking Chris if there is a link to MICIMS that he can share with the public. One word- clueless. Sorry , I know you will delete it if you need to send any of this info on. I will plan on being at the meeting Monday unless I hear otherwise. Please let me know your thoughts. Dear LT Roach,

This missive is to invite yourself and any other MSP EMHS personnel to the commissioners' meeting on 1/4/2016. The meeting will be held at the County Admin Building, 1101 Beach Street, Flint, MI 48502 on the 3rd floor in the Harris Auditorium at 9:00am. This is the building just south of the Sheriff's Office and the room is to your immediate left as you exit the elevator.

It is anticipated that at this meeting, the County will declare a state of emergency and quite possibly elevate it to the State level at the same time. I am attaching the City of Flint IAP, County Declaration, and Governor's request for your review and comment. I understand that this is short notice and lacking on proper protocol but I value your input and guidance.

To illustrate the dire need this situation calls for in regards to professional intervention, the City PIO just left me a message asking if there is a link to the IAP on MI CIMS that he can share with the public...

If you or your colleagues have any questions, comments, or observations feel free to share my personal cell phone number with them

Very Respectfully,

Tom,
I need to modify my time & attendance in DCDS for the PPE 01-02-16, but you have already approved it so I can't modify my time in DCDS. I spoke with Michelle and she made the changes pending your approval. The changes are:

1. Monday (12-21-15) I reported (7:30 am – 4:30 pm) for 8.0 hours regular time. Due to the Flint City meeting my actual time was (7:30 am – 5:00 pm with no lunch break) for a total of 9.5 hours regular time.
2. Tuesday (12-22-15) I reported (8:00 am – 5:00 pm) for 8.0 hours regular time. My actual time was (8:00 am – 5:00 pm with 0.5 hour lunch) for 8.5 hours regular time.
3. Wednesday (12-23-15) I reported 8.0 hours annual leave. Due to the changes on Monday and Tuesday, the actual annual leave is reduced to 6.0 hours.

Since I am on annual leave for the rest of the pay period, there will be no further changes.

Please advise Michelle of your approval via email. Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,
Joel

City & County United to Resolve Water Issue
"The County will Do Everything to Help"
Mayor Weaver is the lead spokesperson

I, along with Mayor Weaver, and officials from the City & County met this afternoon to discuss plans to resolve the water issue affecting residents in the City of Flint. The meeting was productive and all officials are on the same page.

The City of Flint and Genesee County are united in the response to the water issue. The County has pledged to provide any and all resources to Mayor Weaver as she moves forward on a plan.

Good afternoon all,

From this morning's meeting:

- EMPG supplemental guidance has went out.
- 14s and above need to take a PIO training (MSP or G290) so if you haven't please let me know.
- Flint's water issue continues to get media attention, staff from EMHSD are going over to Flint today to meet with the mayor on this issue.
- The National Terrorism Advisory system has changed. They will include a "bulletin" in an effort to increase awareness and stress vigilance.
- Thanks to all that attended Oralya's sons funeral, gave money or hours. They raised almost a grand and have more hours than they need, so you may see less hours taken from your bank.
- January 19th is still the date that we move, additional emails will be following so please plan accordingly

Thanks,
Gabe

Leadership has cleared distribution of the department's situation report.

There are also blood lead testing data for Flint that can be accessed via the Michigan.gov web page where there is a link for Flint water. The documents contain information on how many children have been tested and how many had elevated BLLs (5+). The website also contains some documents on MDEQ activities in schools.

Would Thomas Weber be the MSP point of contact for our distribution list? If so, we can add him and then he will receive the report that will be distributed today.

Hi Jennifer,

We're going to be meeting with Flint's mayor later today. I'm curious what actual statistics the county health department may have on EBLs in Flint children between the time before Flint was on its own water vs. now. And also, how many kids are actually being treated or receiving extra treatment like chelation therapy?

Are those numbers you'd be able to get a hold of fairly easily?

Also, do we know what MDHHS and/or MDEQ are doing action wise? I know the mayor wants a Stafford Act declaration, but they make it seem as though that's the only avenue for real assistance which, in the case of an infrastructure failure, is the least likely avenue.

Thanks for anything you might be able to shed light on!

FLINT, MI -- The federal government may have never recognized a man-made water crisis like Flint's as a disaster before, but asking for the assistance has been Mayor Karen Weaver's plan since before she was elected Nov. 3.

"Our city is in a crisis -- a water crisis," Weaver said. "So far, what we've had are Band-Aid fixes, (and) it's not enough ... I don't see any other option."

On Monday, Dec. 21, the mayor plans to meet with Genesee County Board of Commissioners Chairman Jamie Curtis and others involved in emergency planning to discuss the city's incident response plan, a step-by-step outline aimed at addressing the water crisis.

"Things are falling together nicely," she said Friday, Dec. 18. "(The plan) is going to say, 'We need this, this and this,' and attach numbers where we can."

The Michigan Emergency Management Act outlines the process for seeking federal disaster assistance, which starts with the local declaration of a state of emergency. In that statement, a local jurisdiction says it has sustained widespread or severe damage, injury or loss of life.

Communities that have typically been granted disaster aid have suffered from natural disasters such as severe storms, flooding and fires, but Weaver believes that Flint's disaster with lead in its water is just as devastating.

There are cases in which less-common disasters have been recognized with federal aid, including one for severe hardship to the salmon industry in Alaska in 1953, a chlorine barge accident in Louisiana in 1962 and dam failure in Colorado in 1973, according to FEMA records.

"The president can declare an emergency or major disaster for any natural or manmade event that the president determines has caused damage of such severity that it is beyond the combined capabilities of state and local governments to respond," FEMA spokesman Mark J. Peterson said in an email to The Flint Journal-MLive

"We're being positive and optimistic" with Flint's application, Weaver said.

The city's state of emergency says, "Flint children have experienced increased blood lead levels since the switch to the Flint River, and this damage to children is irreversible and can cause effects to a child's IQ ... (resulting) in learning disabilities and the need for special education and mental health services and an increase in the juvenile justice system."

Weaver has so far not assigned a dollar figure to damage done to children who drank Flint River water since April 2014, and she said this week that Flint's old water distribution system was also damaged by corrosive river water. "So that's where we are (also) going to need some help."

Although Flint City Council members have been generally supportive of Weaver seeking the disaster declaration, and the Michigan Legislative Black Caucus is supporting the request, Flint City Councilman Josh Freeman said he doesn't believe it will be granted.

"It's giving false hope to people that the problem is going to fixed" with a disaster declaration, Freeman said. "At some point we have to stop playing politics and start governing."

The councilman said state and federal officials are unlikely to send disaster relief to Flint because other parts of the county and the state have childhood blood lead levels -- from all sources -- that are similar to children in Flint.

"Maybe I'm wrong. Hopefully I'm wrong," he said.

FEMA's Web site shows 77 disaster declarations nationwide so far in 2015 and eight current disasters.

The current declarations cover damage caused by fire in California; severe storms and flooding in Wyoming; straight-line winds, flooding and severe storms on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in South Dakota; severe storms, tornadoes, straight-line winds and flooding in Texas; severe storms, tornadoes, straight-line winds and flooding in Oklahoma; severe storms, tornadoes, straight-line winds and flooding in Arkansas; and severe storms and flooding in South Carolina.

To reach the desk of President Obama, Weaver's disaster declaration must be approved by county Chairman Curtis and both officials must determine that the disaster is beyond the capabilities of the city or county to handle. Curtis has said he is "fully on board" to do whatever he can to help the city of Flint.

In Michigan, all requests for assistance are channeled through the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division. The MSP reviews requests and makes recommendations to the governor, according to Ron Leix, a spokesman for the division.

The governor has the authority to mobilize state agencies to provide assistance, and if the state cannot cope with the disaster, Gov. Rick Snyder could request assistance through FEMA.

The federal agency makes disaster recommendations to the president.

State Rep. Sheldon Neeley, D-Flint, urged Snyder to get Flint's application for help to the president as quickly as possible.

"Issuing a health emergency is the most responsible thing to do," Neeley said in a news release. "This is a public health crisis, and our children are most at-risk. A state-declared health emergency will allow the city to access federal funding."

Hello, I just received notice that the meeting and Flint is Monday at 2 PM at their EOC which is Firestation 1 located at 3:10 E. 5th St. , Flint. I also just talk to Chris DeVriendt and he advised the city still isn't asking for anything specific. It is basically we need help and they keep talking about health problems in the future for the kids. They don't get it. Apparently they did provide some spreadsheets to 'Chris reference some expenditures they've incurred. Monday ought to be interesting. Bj

Take 2:

- It would be up to the Governor to determine which, if any, declaration is appropriate.

How does this sound?

- Either "state of disaster" or "state of emergency" declaration could be appropriate. Both types of Governor's declarations provide the same assistance from the state of Michigan. Most individuals don't know there are two broadly defined types of declarations in the Michigan Emergency Management Act. It would be up to the Governor to determine which one is appropriate.

Hi Ron,

So today the legislative black caucus called on the administration to declare a state of emergency in Flint. Wondering if that could happen given the main problem in Flint has already occurred. Considering the water situation in Flint, would a request for a disaster declaration (is this the right term?) be more appropriate?

Also has MSP received anything formal in requesting a state of emergency or something like it?

Ok. You have the most relevant pages now. A few extra notes:

- I've included only the material that seemed most specifically relevant. I left out a page on Public Health Emergencies that merely had a couple of generic strategies, rather than things specific to the water problem. I included a sheet of Flint strategies for infrastructure failure, but did not include pages for other communities (e.g. Flushing Township).
- FEMA only requires a local hazard mitigation plan to address natural hazards. This is relevant if anyone asks about the limited material related to infrastructure. Additional details surely exist in local technical documents about their water infrastructure.

Coverage of the issue in the Genesee is limited/moderate, so I should have photocopied pages on your desk in about 550 seconds... ☺

Hello –

Yes, officially, Genesee County is currently covered by a FEMA-approved hazard mitigation plan, and Flint was one of the adopting participants, thus also counted as having FEMA approval.
Mitch had done the review, but would you like me to look through the document to see whether it gave any coverage to the current issues of infrastructure and public health?

(Update items from Joel)

Following is a recap of our discussions today:

- December 14, 2015 - City of Flint declared a State of Emergency citing Public Act 390
- December 15, 2015 – Tony Katarsky located the Declaration on the Blog of Dave Bondy
- The Declaration sites a "manmade disaster" by switching to the use of Flint River
- The declaration requests the Genesee County Board of Commissioners take action
- Per PA390, Genesee County would be responsible to declare a State of Emergency and seek assistance from the state if it met the requirements
    - No definitive incident period has been noted in the declaration
    - No specific requests for resources have been requested
    - No indication of disaster expenses have been noted
- This does not reflect the true purpose of PA 390
- This would not be considered for assistance from FEMA under the Stafford Act
- IF Section 19 were to be provided, the jurisdiction would receive a maximum of $100,000
- Recommendations for options include:
    - HUD/CDBG
    - CDC
    - EPA
    - Legislative Action

Hi Tom:

Yes, we are interested in helping out in this effort and have already been spreading the word via social media. I'm also reaching out to a radio show to see if we can get some air time to recruit volunteers.

Looks like the meeting for today has been canceled.

Kindly,

Annette

Hi Reuben,

I think she would, at the very least she'd help advertise it. We're trying to figure out the same here. I copied her email for you as well. Hopefully she'll be at the Volunteer Committee meeting Thursday, as will Zach and I!

Also, it's not a huge grant, but had you seen this? http://detroit.curbed.com/archives/2015/10/nicole-curtis-bernzomatic-find-your-fire.php

Hi Tom,

I remember you mentioned Annette Wright when we met a couple months ago. Do you think she would be interested in becoming involved with the muck and gut campaign with us and NwDFRP?

We are seeking to recruit additional volunteers for the campaign.

Thank you for your consideration.

Best

Reuben

Thank you so much for sharing this effort, Mary. Presently, we have not received enough water to reach out to All Hands Volunteers. But, God knows, we are so very grateful. I believe we will make this a continuous, on-going effort. Hopefully we will receive enough donated water to reach out to Reuben and All Hands Volunteers in the days and weeks ahead.

Thank you so very much, Reuben and Mary.

(If you know of people/organizations that want to donate bottled water please let us know).

Kindly,

Annette

CITY OF FLINT

INCIDENT ACTION PLAN

RETAIN THIS IMAGE
RETAIN THIS IMAGE
RETAIN THIS IMAGE

RETAIN THIS IMAGE
RETAIN THIS IMAGE
RETAIN THIS IMAGE

Objectives:

To provide short term relief and long term solutions in addressing the man-made emergency of increased lead levels in the City of Flint (the "City") water system resulting from the switch to Flint River as the City's water source as well as the threat to public health related to elevated blood lead levels in Flint residents, without interruption of the provision of public safety and other essential public services. Due to the fluidic nature of emergencies and the complexity of the City of Flint's declared emergency, this plan serves as a framework and may be altered as the emergency develops.

The Response Framework

The purpose of this plan is to organize efforts on behalf of the city to assess the extent of the City's infrastructure needs and risks to public health, provide immediate relief to those who are at risk, and establish long term solutions. In addition, the city must ascertain what immediate relief and long term solutions the City is capable of implementing based on what resources are available. For any activities that are beyond the resource capacity of the City, external sources of funding, supplies, and manpower must be sought.

There are a number of steps that must be taken in accordance with the Flint Emergency Support Operations Plan (SEOP), in order for the City to be compliant with the Genesee County Emergency Action Guidelines. These include the activation of the Incident Management Team, the Emergency Operation Center, and the sharing of essential documents with the County, including this plan. Information must also be shared by the City's Public Information Officer on a regular basis, as required by the SEOP.

This plan calls for the provision of immediate relief to those at risk in our community. Special consideration must be given to residents who belong to underserved groups, such as those who are homebound, undocumented, in poverty, etc. Additional consideration must also be given to the equitable provision of services throughout our community in order to equally protect the health and safety of every member of our community.

Implementation of this plan is to be conducted by the Incident Management Team, which will monitor the effective delivery of goods and services in order to address the conditions of the emergency.

Understanding the Issue:

October 1, 2015, the Genesee County Health Department issued a Public Health Emergency after elevated blood-lead levels were found among children in the City of Flint. This incident correlates with elevated levels of lead found in the City's drinking water after the City switched water sources in April of 2014 to the Flint River. The scope of this problem appears to be limited to Flint City Water Customers and their dependents. Public agencies from several levels of government, as well as charitable, nonprofit organizations have partnered with the City to provide immediate relief to Flint residents, including the expansion of health services, the provision of bottled water and NSF rated water filters. The city is also seeking long term infrastructure improvements to eliminate lead and other contaminants from the water system.

Gov. Rick Snyder appointed a task force to review "actions regarding water use and testing in Flint" and to make recommendations for future guidelines: Members of the state task force are Ken Sikkema of Public Sector Consultants, Chris Kolb of the Michigan Environmental Council, Dr. Matthew Davis of the University of Michigan Health System, Eric Rothstein of the Galardi Rothstein Group and Dr. Lawrence Reynolds of Mott Children's Health Center.

In an effort to halt the further escalation of this crisis, the City returned to receiving its water from the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department (DWSD) on October 16, 2015. Since that time, additional corrosion control program has started, estimating a reduction of lead levels over the next six months. In light of these efforts, concerns surrounding the quality of water and health of the residents persist to the point that Mayor Karen Weaver declared a State of Emergency on December 14, 2015 so as to resolve this crisis once and for all.

The current challenge facing the City is providing immediate relief and long term solutions of the quality of the water and health of residents while the City remains in a financially critical condition. It is hoped and expected that higher levels of government recognize this emergency as it pertains to the condition of the City's infrastructure and health of its residents, and do all things necessary to assist the City in the provision of relief and the execution of capital improvement projects that will eliminate the causes of this emergency.

Enhancing Understanding:

Information Collection

Essential Elements of Information (EEIs) can be qualified as the City's water tests containing lead results, the verification of lead water lines (both public and private), and health information. Water testing is performed by the City's water plant in cooperation with the MDEQ. The verification of lead water lines is being handled by University of Michigan Flint, who is currently digitizing the City's water line information and PSI Engineering, who is initiating the effort to verify lead lines by excavating an initial 150 residential lines. This information allows the Incident Management Team to assess the current condition of the emergency by way of determining the water quality and the condition of the water distribution infrastructure.

Information Analysis

The City has sought partners to assist in the analysis and attenuation of complex data. Wayne State University's center for Urban Studies has agreed to assist the City in its efforts to document and track lead water lines, water test results, and filter distribution with geographic information system (GIS) technology. This allows for easily updateable, digestible information to be presented to officials.

Assessment of Impacts

The City will need assistance in determining the total cost of damage done to the public health and infrastructure. As of now, only portions of this damage are visible.

PSI is providing some assistance by excavating 150 residential water lines to verify that they are comprised of lead. This is an initial step, but not enough. More resources will be needed to continue this process.

Continuous Situational Awareness

It is important that the Emergency Management Team receive continuous information regarding water testing results, lead water line numbers, and filter distribution information in order to gain a realistic and current perspective. Much of his information is currently available on the City's website (cityofflint.com) and more is added each week by the PIO team.

Actions taken in Response to the Emergency

Activation of the Incident Management Team

Upon the declaration of Emergency by Mayor Weaver, the Support Emergency Operations Plan (SEOP) was activated. The SEOP calls upon the Incident Management Team to generate the Incident Action Plan (IAP. Each member of this team serves a specific function as it relates to addressing the causes and effects of the emergency. The Emergency Management Team roster can be found in the SEOP on page 3, with a list of alternates on page 4 in case the need for succession arises.

Emergency Operations Center

The Emergency Operations Center (EOC) must be activated upon the declaration of a State of Emergency by the Mayor. This center is required by the SEOP and serves as a nerve center for the Incident Management Team. Here, emergency relief efforts are coordinated by key members of the Incident Management Team. In this case, these relief efforts consist of the distribution of water filters at

City Hall and community events, the distribution of bottled water throughout the city in conjunction with the efforts of community partners, and assisting with the circulation of water testing kits throughout the community. The EOC will also be monitoring and managing the inventory of relief supplies, such as water filters and bottled water.

According to the SEOP, the EOC must establish an incident tracking system. This system will serve as a work plan for the management of the emergency. In addition, it is essential that the IMT record water testing results, lead water line location information, and information about the distribution of water filters and bottled water all in one place so that information is readily available for the Incident Management Team. This information will also be sent out to the public and media in the form of daily regular updates by the City's PIO.

Communication

The EOC maintains a telephone system that exists to intake questions about relief efforts and to organize relief logistics. It is open from 8am to 5pm, Monday through Friday. A voicemail system and eventual email system will exist to handle requests and inquiries that occur outside of the normal operating hours. This system will be constructed by the City's IS department.

Public Awareness and Education

1. Emergency Alerts and Updates:
   The City's Public Information Officer will make available information as it relates to the emergency in the form of press releases, emails, and physical documents. Daily updates containing information on the distribution of water filters, bottled water, water testing, blood lead testing, and other relief efforts will be available on the City's website for the public to view. Information will be available at City Hall for residents.

2. Joint Information Center:
   The City's PIO will establish a joint Information Center that is organized to coordinate the efforts of multiple agencies to communicate with the public. This includes the circulation of joint press releases, public health information, educational materials, and updates relating to the State of Emergency. This committee is comprised of public information officers and public relations personnel to coordinate efforts to keep the public updated and informed. Regular updates to the media regarding events and progress will be made as news develops.

   The US EPA has offered assistance in the form of Public Information support. Additional support in this area has been provided by the Michigan State Police.

3. Education:
   Many government agencies and philanthropic organizations are already distributing information regarding the effects of lead on public health. It is important that the City assist in these efforts so vital information and knowledge is presented to all members of the community. The goal is to continue to eliminate misunderstandings and incorrect information as it relates to reducing lead in drinking water, pursuing medical help, and maintaining a healthy diet to reduce lead absorption in the body. Lead education is currently being performed by the Genesee County Health Department, the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services and Medical community at-large.

Assessment of Social Needs

In order to effectively and equitably provide immediate relief to Flint water customers, the City must take into account many of the socio-economic needs and limitations of the community. Some residents cannot get to City Hall for a water filter. Some residents do not have internet access. Literacy or a language barrier may also pose significant obstacles to the effective distribution of educational information and relief to those in need. These will be continuing challenges facing the community. At present these are the resources the City has available to mitigate some of those challenges.

Logistics

Logistics are being coordinated by the City Emergency Management Team's City's Chief Logistics Officer, who is the City Administrator. The CLO is responsible for the coordination, procurement, and transportation of goods and services, which is essential for effective implementation of the response plan.

Fixed Distribution Points

There are several locations throughout the city where residents may acquire a water filter. These locations are:

Flint City Hall
1101 South Saginaw, Flint MI 48502

Genesee County Community Action Resource Department (GCCARD)
601 North Saginaw, Flint MI 48502
and
2727 Lippencott Blvd, Flint MI 48507

Michigan Department of Health and Human Services
4809 Clio Road, Flint MI 48504
and
125 E. Union Street, Flint, MI 48502

Activation of Ward Distribution Centers

Each of the nine wards will have activated distribution centers that are primarily managed by City Council Members or their designees.

Mobile Distribution Centers

With the help of transportation agencies, like the Metro Transit Authority (MTA), meals on wheels, and GCCARD, the city can help establish mobile distribution centers and delivery systems that can provide water filters, bottled water, and nutritious foods, among other types of relief accompanied by educational materials to neighborhoods and to homes of people who experience limited mobility.

- Mass Transportation Authority-MTA bus passes: Assisting residents with bus passes to improve their mobility will increase their chances of receiving help. Transportation services will also improve residents' access to medical care.
- MTA-Your Ride mobile distribution:
    - Estimated Costs: $25 per hour to deliver water and filters to homes throughout the City.

Problem 1. Public Health Emergency

The first objective in addressing this emergency is reducing, and eventually eliminating, the danger to public health. As City water coming out of faucets continue to contain lead, and copper and other harmful contaminants exceeding government guidelines and regulations, it poses a risk to the people of our community. Preventative measures must be taken to avoid the effects of toxicosis that are difficult if not impossible to completely reverse.

As far as preventative measures are concerned, education, water filters, and bottled water must be provided to every household in the City in order to reduce the chances of lead exposure, especially to our most vulnerable members of the community. If lead exposure has occurred, resulting in elevated blood lead levels, immediate and sustained medical attention must be available to those affected. Health services must be expanded in the area to accommodate increased numbers of case loads and specialized care regarding lead poisoning and its effects.

Immediate Relief for Public Health:

1. Prevention: Education, water filters and replacement cartridges, free water testing, and bottled water must be available to everyone.
2. Access to nutritious food that reduces the risks of lead absorption by the body. The City can coordinate activities with the County Health Department

Long Term Solutions: Maintaining Public Health and Coping with Lead Exposure

1. Work closely with the Genesee County Health Department and Michigan Department of Health and Human Services in order to provide sustainable care and monitoring of children exposed to lead. This care must be available for them for several years-preferably several decades.
2. Support and education for primary care providers regarding aggressive long-term neurodevelopmental screening and testing.
3. Improved access to developmental and behavioral (DBP) specialists, pediatric psychologists, pediatric psychiatrists.
    a. Pre-emptive referral to mental health/ toxic stress screenings.
    b. Support capacity building and or incentivize recruitment to allow Genesee health system (CMH) to build this capacity which is currently needed and lacking.
4. Increase recognition and education regarding trauma informed care, social determinants of health (SDOH).
5. Expand State funded Genesee Health System (CMH) services.
    a. Infant mental health (30 day capacity)
    b. Child case management
    c. Home based services
    d. Trauma informed care- trauma focused CBT

Problem 2. Lead Contamination in the Water

Immediate Relief:

1. Education, water filters and replacement cartridges, free water testing for water customers, and bottled water must be available to everyone. Water filters can be obtained at any of the fixed distribution points throughout the City.
2. Identification and verification of lead water service lines throughout the city- both public and private.
3. Assistance to identify lead pipes within buildings and homes.

Distribution of Bottled Water:
At this point, we are directing all offers for donations to the Food Bank of Eastern Michigan. It is imperative that water be accessible to all members of the community through a variety of distribution channels. These channels are explained in the Logistics Section of this plan.

Distribution of Test Bottles:
Water testing kits can be picked up at City Hall with instructions. Test results are posted on the City's website to raise public awareness and encourage more participation.

Long term Solutions: Capital Improvements Needs
The distribution of filters, water, and food to counter the effects of lead are essential response efforts to keep people safe. However, long term solutions are required to keep people healthy, to eliminate lead from the public and private water distribution system distribution, and to provide affordable clean water. Our public infrastructure and utilities must be reliable, sustainable, and equitable in order for this community to rebound after this emergency. The following long term solutions must be implemented in order to set the City of Flint on a course for recovery. These solutions come at a heavy cost for a City that is currently in receivership. The City has experienced financial distress due to this Emergency, in addition to a two million dollar loss from switching back to DWSD. The City has diligently applied for Fiscally Distressed Cities, Villages, and Townships, Grant in order to supplement funding for capital improvement projects. It is essential that these grants be awarded in order to achieve long term solutions.

1. COMPLETE Transition to a Temporary Safe Water Source until the Completion of KWA:
   This has already occurred. On October 16, 2015, Flint returned to receiving its water from DWSD on a 9 month agreement. This agreement will expire in June 2016, when the KWA is projected to be complete. The City had to pay $2 million out of its general fund to make this switch.

2. IN PROGRESS Additional Corrosion Control added to the Water System:

This is already occurring. In early December, 2015, Flint began to add additional corrosion control to the water coming in from DWSD in attempts to rebuild the protective scale inside its pipes. This is estimated to reduce lead levels in two to six months.

3. Faucet Replacement:
   Replacement of Water faucets, and drinking fountains in the school system. It has been determined after state inspections that many sources of lead contamination in the School System's water were the faucets themselves. These faucets need to be replaced.

4. Water Line Replacement:
   Water Line Replacement to reduce antiquated infrastructure and lead service lines. These lines must be identified, verified, and replaced. Residents who are facing financial hardships must have access to assistance to cover the costs of these replacements through access to grants and (forgivable) loans made available through State and Federal agencies. The corrosion damage to public and private lines that Flint River water caused is still being determined.
   - Replacement of an estimated fifteen thousand (15,000) lead service lines at an estimated cost of three thousand dollars ($3,000) per line. Total costs forty –five million dollars ($45,000,000). This project is estimated to be one of the most cost-intensive endeavors related to ameliorating water contaminants.

5. Reimbursement of Critical Expenditures:
   Seeking reimbursement of two million dollar cost of returning to DWSD and forgiveness of Water Revolving Loan Debt from the State of Michigan.

6. KWA Capital Improvements: The City has reconnected to Detroit temporarily until a water line from Port Huron is developed. The new water line known as the KWA pipeline or Karegnondi Water Authority is expected to bring water to the City from Lake Huron by July. The current cost agreement between Flint and DWSD is for nine months, therefore it is imperative that KWA be completed as soon as possible. Assistance relating to capital improvements to expedite this process will help to achieve long term goals.

KWA Capital Improvements:	Estimated Costs:
a. Transfer Station to Dort Reservoir	$4,500,000
b. Raw water line to pump station #4	$636,000
c. Phosphoric acid feed system	$186,000
d. Alum Feed system	$40,000
e. Post filtration system	$387,289

f.	SCADA Upgrades	$424,000
g.	Sewer Relining	$100,000
	Total	$6,273,289

Ancillary Considerations: Public Safety during an Emergency

During a time of emergency public safety agencies need to be prepared to respond to threats to public safety and critical infrastructure. The City is facing a man-made emergency that is threatening the public health. Resentment and hostility toward local institutions and municipal government is at a significant level.

Critical infrastructure should be safeguarded if the need arises. This includes increasing security at City Hall to reduce potential for public safety risks. In the case of credible threats to public infrastructure, it may be required to hire private security company for first line of defense. Private Security is lower cost, thereby making it the first option. The minimum response is acted upon first, elevating only if the need arises. Credible or imminent threats of damage or destruction to critical infrastructure requires an elevated response. Such needs may require over-time police officers to address critical situations. Mutual aid from surrounding communities can be requested if Flint public safety is overextended.

Implementation:

Community Partners

Financial limitations of the city persist while it confronts this emergency. Many community partners have offered their assistance to perform various needed functions. The city is heavily reliant on the assistance that government agencies and nonprofit organizations have provided.

The Mott Foundation

The Mott Foundation has provided financial assistance, especially in their generous contribution of $4 million. In addition, the Mott Foundation has recently pledged an additional

United Way

The Genesee County United Way has provided significant financial assistance in the way of purchasing and helping to distribute water filters since the public health emergency began on October 1st, 2015.

Genesee County Community Action Resources Department (GCCARD)

GCCARD is organized to fight poverty and has been a primary partner in the distribution of water filters. It has also regularly supported the city with the logistics and availability of water filters at City Hall.

Genesee County Health Department

Has provided educational information to Flint Water customers

Genesee County Board of Commissioners
The Board of Commissioners have pledged their support to help Flint seek solutions to this crisis. The Board has already assisted in making health and nutrition information available to the public.

Assistance from Wayne State University
Wayne State University's Center for Urban Studies will be providing technical GIS support to assist in the documentation of emergency relief efforts.

The US Environmental Protection Agency
Region 5 EPA has offered assistance with Public Information distribution during the emergency.

Outside Help is still needed...

The City of Flint is forever thankful to our community partners who have given so much to help so many people. However the magnitude of this emergency calls for more resources that are beyond the capacity of the combined local organizations and government agencies. Long term solutions will require a heavy investment in health care and capital improvement projects to upgrade the city's antiquated water distribution system.

- Help with Immediate Relief in terms of assuring allocative efficiency. Distribution should be equitable- assistance from other governments required to assure this.
- Reaching communities for the distribution of water filters, water, and educational materials.
- Help with Water Testing to increase participation and lead education.
- Increasing the rate of water testing
- Assistance is required to fund essential capital improvement projects to guarantee clean and safe water.

To: Commanding Officer - Emergency Management Division, Department of State Police; District #3 Emergency Management Division District Coordinator; Post #35 State Police Post Commander

On October 1, 2015 residents within the City of Flint located within Genesee County were exposed to toxic levels of lead resulting in an imminent danger to public health and safety caused by elevated lead levels in the public water distribution system due to utilizing the Flint River as a primary source of water without proper corrosion control treatment. As a result of this situation, the following conditions exist: lead toxicosis in City of Flint residents and accelerated deterioration of the City of Flint water distribution system.

Therefore, as Board of Commissioners Chairperson of Genesee County, in accordance with Section 10 of 1976 PA 390, as amended, I hereby declare that a "state of emergency" exists therein, that the response and recovery aspects of the emergency operations plan have been activated, and that local resources are being utilized to the fullest possible extent.

Flint Water Issue

NOT INTENDED TO BE DISSEMINATED TO THE MEDIA OR PUBLIC IN THIS FORMAT

Background

- In April 2014, the city of Flint moved from purchasing water from the Detroit Water and Sewer Department and began processing Flint River water. Several local and state issues surfaced and about the quality of the processed river water, including high lead levels caused by the water's corrosiveness. This caused state and local officials to go back to purchasing water from the Detroit Water and Sewer Department.
    - Water and health experts have found that the high lead levels were caused by corrosive water leaching lead particles from older water services lines. Since the initial water switch, children have been
- On Oct. 1, 2015, the Genesee County declared a "Public Health Emergency."
- On Oct. 15, 2015, Gov. Rick Snyder signed a bill (Public Act 143 of 2015) to direct funding to the city of Flint's emergency water services to reconnect the city's water supply to the Great Lakes Water Authority until the Karegnondi Water Authority pipeline is completed.
- In addition to the $6 million appropriated to reconnect Flint to the Detroit Water and Sewer System:
    - $300,000 goes to the Department of Environmental Quality's drinking water and environmental health service;
    - $1 million to provide for DEQ to test drinking water samples;
    - $1 million to enable the Department of Health and Human Services to purchase and distribute water filters to Flint residents;
    - $850,000 will aid in follow-up services for Children, including testing, investigations, and case management for those with elevated blood levels;
    - $200,000 will fund state plumbing inspections for schools and health facilities.
    - NOTE: To reconnect the city of Flint to Detroit water, the city provided $2 million the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation committed $4 million and the state of Michigan provided $6 million.
    - OVERALL TOTAL: State: $9.35 million; Local/private nonprofit: $6 million
- Dr. Karen Weaver, the new Flint Mayor, revealed her 100-day plan on Dec. 1, 2015. She is calling for a federal disaster declaration so the community can pursue federal assistance to help Flint residents during this crisis. She is working with state legislators and Congressman Dan Kildee.

- Dr. Marc Edwards, the Virginia Tech professor who has been studying Flint water issues, was recently in Flint talking about his findings. Edwards said recent samples of the water show dramatic drops in lead levels (after the switch back to Detroit water), but some homes are still showing very high levels. He said the water is still not safe to drink, adding that it may still take months to get below the safe federal standard.

- On Dec. 14, Flint Mayor Karen Weaver declared a "local state of emergency" and called for a Genesee County to declare a "local state of emergency" to support her declaration.

- On Dec. 15, The Flint Journal reported that Genesee County Board of Commissioners Chairman Jamie Curtis will hold a hearing about Flint declaration request at a meeting on Jan. 4, 2016. The Journal reported that he supported Flint's assistance request, but the city needed to follow administrative procedures. He compared the request to applying for a grant.

Disaster Declaration Sought by Local Officials

- The water situation in the city of Flint is a terrible situation for everyone involved. Every day, we expect clean and safe water to come from our taps. Steps have been taken by both state and local officials to ensure citizens have safe water at their homes.

- To date, federal, state and local government and many private nonprofit organizations have provided money, filters or staff expertise to ensure Flint residents have clean and drinkable water. Through a whole community approach, everyone is working together to bring Flint back to a state of normalcy. But remember: Normalcy won't happen overnight.

- The Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division continues to support the Genesee County Emergency Management officials and the city of Flint. We have a state police district coordinator who has been engaged with local emergency management officials since the beginning of this public health emergency.

    - IF NEEDED CLARIFICATION: Local emergency management officials are NOT the same as emergency financial managers. Please keep this in mind.

- The Michigan State Police is working with county and city officials to see how we can continue to assist Flint residents.

    - For example, we recently put area nonprofits in touch with FEMA so they can obtain water. FEMA updates its water inventory regularly and provides nonprofits about to expire water free of charge. They are only liable to shipping costs.

What is a local state of emergency?

- The chief executive official of a community, like a mayor or county board chair, can declare a "local state of emergency" during an emergency or disaster. A local declaration enables a community to activate its emergency operations plans and administer local aid and assistance. Directives may be issued too.

- A local emergency declaration is not an automatic call for state or federal assistance. It is a mechanism to cope with an emergency or disaster. It's a red flag, notifying everyone that there's a problem within the community.

- A local declaration typically complements the activation of a county or municipality's emergency operations center and public information operations.

Why does Flint depend on Genesee County for emergency declarations?

- The city of Flint has opted to be incorporated into the Genesee County Emergency Management program. The city has an emergency support plan that complements Genesee County's emergency operations plan.

- When the city of Flint exhausts its resources during an incident, they may call upon Genesee County for resources. It's a mutual agreement where both help each other out when it's needed most.

- The city of Flint's Fire Chief and Genesee County's Emergency Management Coordinator, which is the Sheriff and his designees, are designated as the emergency management officials to manage an emergency situation.

What is a Governor's declaration?

- When a designated Michigan Emergency Management Act program exhausts its resources during an emergency or disaster, they may request specific resources form the state of Michigan. Resources include contracts, equipment, staff, etc.

- All requests are submitted to the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division, which provides a recommendation to the Governor's Office. The Governor may approve or deny the request.

- If an approval is given, the Governor will declare a "state of emergency" or "state of disaster."

Is a federal disaster declaration possible?

- A federal disaster declaration is not easy to pursue with weather-related disasters. We have to manage expectations that this situation is unlikely to be eligible for federal disaster assistance through FEMA.

    - In 2014, Wisconsin Gov. Scott Walker requested a federal major disaster declaration due to a deep freeze that damaged millions of dollars in public infrastructure. The declaration was denied. His appeal was also denied.

        - The disaster declaration was denied based on the determination that federal assistance under the federal law (Stafford Act) was not necessary or appropriate under the circumstances.

        - Federal law and regulations outline a major disaster as being any natural catastrophe, any fire, flood or explosion.

    - On Jan. 10, 2014, President Obama declared an emergency existed in West Virginia after chemicals were spilled into the Elk River and affecting the water supply close to 300,000 residents.

- An emergency declaration provides relief efforts that have the purpose of alleviating the hardship and suffering caused by the emergency on the local population, or to lessen or avert the threat of a catastrophe.

- There is a $5,000,000 cap in federal assistance for an emergency.

- West Virginia later tried to obtain a presidential major disaster declaration, but was denied. FEMA said incident failed to meet the definition of a disaster.

IF ASKED: Why has the state not declared a disaster?

- The Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division has been engaged since this emerged as an emergency issue. We have been working with Genesee County officials throughout this process. At this time, the county has not requested assistance through the Michigan Emergency Management Act.

    - The city of Flint's emergency management program is a part of Genesee County's program. All requests for federal assistance should be channeled through the Genesee County Emergency Management Coordinator.

    - To date, a thorough damage assessment has not been conducted by city of Flint and Genesee County officials. Also, no specific resources have been requested.

- Because infrastructure issues are unlikely to be declared disasters through the Stafford Act, other options must be examined for assistance, like through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (Community Development Block Grants), the Center for Disease Control and Prevention, the Environmental Protection Agency, or legislative action.

Request For Governor's Emergency/Disaster Declaration

TO: Governor, State of Michigan

On January 4, 2016 pursuant to Section 10 of Act 390, P.A. 1976, as amended, I declared that a "state of emergency" exists in Genesee County due to the introduction of lead into the public water system and subsequently elevated blood lead levels exceeding governmental standards. The response and recovery aspects of the Genesee County emergency operations plan have been activated, and local resources are being utilized to the fullest extent practicable. Despite these efforts, local resources are not sufficient to cope with the situation.

Therefore, in accordance with Section 12 of Act 390, P.A. 1976, as amended, I deem this incident to be beyond the control of Genesee County and I respectfully request, for and on behalf of the citizens of Genesee County that the Governor declare a "State of Emergency/Disaster" exists therein and that consideration be given, if conditions warrant, to petitioning the President of the United States for assistance provided by Public Law 93-288, as amended. In support of this request, we will submit specific damage assessment data through official channels and in accordance with the guidance in EMD PUB-901 (Damage Assessment Handbook) within three (3) days of this disaster, unless circumstances dictate an earlier submittal as requested by the Emergency Management Division, Department of State Police. Furthermore, I understand that this request will not be acted upon without sufficient damage assessment data to substantiate the need for assistance.

Specifically, I request the following assistance:

ESF #3 / Infrastructure Systems Recovery Support Function support to include but not limited to:

- Post-incident assessments of public works and infrastructure
- Executing emergency contract support for life-sustaining services
- Providing technical assistance to include engineering expertise, construction management, contracting, and real estate services
- Providing emergency repair of damaged public infrastructure and critical infrastructure

ESF #8 support to include but not limited to:

- Assessment of public health/medical needs
- Health surveillance
- Medical care personnel
- Patient care
- Behavioral health care
- Public health and medical information
- Potable water

ESF #11 support to include but not limited to:

- Provision of nutritional assistance

Accordingly, be advised that Christopher DeVriendt, Interim Genesee County Emergency Management Manager will provide liaison and coordination with state and Federal authorities for assistance related to this disaster and in accordance with Section 14 of Act 390, P.A. 1976, as amended, he/she is directed to transmit this request to the appropriate State Police Emergency Management Division (EMD) District Coordinator by the most expeditious means.

Honorable Mayor Karen Weaver, PhD
City of Flint
1101 S. Saginaw St.
Flint, Michigan 48502

Dear Mayor Weaver:

I am aware through media reports that you have issued a "Declaration of State of Emergency" with regards to the City of Flint's ongoing water crisis. I am also aware through these same media accounts that you wish to have Genesee County issue its own "State of Emergency or Disaster" in order for the County and the City to be eligible to apply for financial assistance from the State of Michigan to address the problem.

First, be assured that I am fully on board to do whatever I can as Chairman of the Genesee County Board of Commissioners to assist the City of Flint as it continues to struggle with its emergency water situation. As you know, back on October 1st, the Genesee County Health Department issued an emergency health advisory for the residents of Flint and all users of Flint city water. That action did result in some assistance from the State of Michigan.

However, in order for all us to work cooperatively in the most expedited manner possible to more fully address these serious health concerns, it is important that you, the City Council, City Administrator, City Attorney, and others understand the procedures that must be followed.

Under the County's formally adopted Emergency Action Guidelines, specifically paragraph 7 of those guidelines, and in accordance with Public Act 390 of 1976, once the City of Flint presents us its declared state of emergency document, it is my duty as the County Board Chair to consult with the County's Emergency Management Coordinator, Sheriff Robert Pickell, and the Michigan State Police Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division for District 3, Lt. BJ Roach. Upon such consultation and review of the City's declaration of emergency and upon determining that the situation is beyond the capabilities of the County to handle, I, as the County Board Chair, may then declare a "State of Emergency" and request assistance from the State of Michigan and a Governor's Declaration.

So to that end, I look forward to receiving your declaration of emergency so that we may all move forward in addressing this very real threat to the health, safety, and welfare of our community.

Sincerely,

Jamie W. Curtis, Chairperson
Genesee County Board of Commissioners

C: Natasha Henderson, City Administrator

December 2014

Fact Sheet

Emergency or Disaster Declaration Process

The Michigan Emergency Management Act (Public Act 390 of 1976, as amended) outlines the emergency management process for the state of Michigan. If an incident exhausts state resources, the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 USC §§ 5121-5207) establishes the process for requesting and obtaining a presidential disaster declaration and assistance from the federal government.

STEP BY STEP: Emergency or Disaster Declaration Process

1. Disasters are first and foremost local events. Most disasters are handled by local government with minimal or no state assistance. At the onset of a disaster or emergency, local emergency responders, joined by volunteers and the private sector, are the first to be involved.

2. A local jurisdiction may declare a "Local State of Emergency" exists when they have sustained widespread or severe damage, injury or loss of life or property. A local declaration ensures the response and recovery aspects of the emergency operations plan have been activated, and local resources are being utilized to the fullest extent possible. Authorities may authorize local aid and assistance.

3. If recovery efforts are beyond the ability of local government, the community may turn to the state to request assistance. All requests for assistance are channeled through the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division.

4. The Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division reviews specific requests for state assistance and makes recommendations to the Governor's Office. The Governor's authority, granted by the Michigan Emergency Management Act, may include mobilizing state government agencies to provide necessary support and assistance to local authorities under a "State of Emergency" or "State of Disaster" declaration.

5. If state and local government resources are unable to cope with the emergency or disaster, the Governor may request assistance through the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS), Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), Region V Office in Chicago.

6. At the request of the Governor, FEMA may conduct a Preliminary Damage Assessment (PDA) in cooperation with state and local emergency management officials. The results of the PDA will be reviewed by state officials and the Governor's Office and used as a basis for determining whether to request federal financial assistance.

7. Should the state request federal disaster assistance, FEMA will review the request and make a recommendation to the president, who will make the final determination on any disaster aid to be provided to the state. The goal of disaster assistance is not to make individuals, businesses or government entities whole again, but to restore the community to a level that meets expected health and safety considerations.

> - Who is "determining the total cost of damage done to the public health and infrastructure?"

- State needs to clarify with the city what any state role in replacing the whole water system may or may not include. Various funds and forgivable loans have been referenced, but the state should have (perhaps the Executive Office does have) an overall Project Manager who can coordinate all state and federal activities that are occurring.
- State should provide assistance/guidance if possible to help develop the capital improvement project for the water system
- An organization chart with contact information should be prepared by either the City or the County EM. The County EM could be serving as a coordinating/liaison role between city/county/state agencies.
- A county IAP with the City IAP as an appendix may be beneficial.
- Most of what is being requested echoes previous resources. Financial assistance is first and foremost what is being requested. Most resources (health monitoring programs) still do not have any cost projection attached. Infrastructure costs are the exception which, as noted, would need outside review for confirmation (or source of the existing estimates).

I would stress that with MSP/EMHSD, MDEQ, MCSC, MDHHS, and potentially MSHDA all providing input, the state needs a project manager for this. Which could take the form of an SEOC activation in the monitoring mode, or something less formal. But coordination is needed.

Mayor Submits Plan to Genesee County

The City of Flint took another major step in addressing the water emergency this afternoon. The Office of Mayor Karen Weaver submitted the Incident Action Plan to Genesee County Emergency Management and Homeland Security Office prior to the issue being on the agenda for the January meeting of the County Board of Commissioners. This is a necessary step in requesting additional assistance for Flint, which is confronting an Emergency while in State receivership.

The Incident Action Plan is a required document that is generated by the Incident Response Team. This team was formed after the Mayor announced a State of Emergency on December 14, 2015. The team includes department heads, City Officials and key members of the staff. The Incident Response Plan is an initial framework outlining key steps that are necessary to address the causes and effects of the lead contamination in the City's water. It includes both plans for immediate relief such as the distribution of water filters and long term solutions that seek to address the medical and infrastructural needs of the community.

"We are moving forward to ask for the assistance we need for the community. We need to take immediate action to keep the people of Flint out of harm's way and help those who have been affected by this incident," said the Mayor. The plan will be discussed at the next County Board of Commissioner's meeting on Monday, January 4th at 9am.

Here are the items that need clarification:

- Who comprises the Incident Management Team?
- Who comprised the Emergency Management Team?
- Who is "determining the total cost of damage done to the public health and infrastructure"?
- State needs to clarify with the city that they will not replace the whole water system and clarify what assistance we can provide (again)
- State should provide assistance/guidance if possible to help develop the capital improvement project for the water system
- Is there a JIC?
- There should be some kind of org chart/contact list with the IAP.

Good morning, I received a call from Chris Devriendt advising he was sending this email to me. Chris basically advised the City of Flint is handing over their IAP to the County on Monday and the County is going to ask for a Governor's declaration. I asked what resources have been used and exhausted by the City and the County as well as what resources are being asked for. Chris is caught in the middle here. The City's IAP is basically asking for millions of dollars to fix their infrastructure and asking for the 2 million they spent to make the switch back to Detroit water be forgiven. I also asked if they had GIS mapping to show which service lines are lead in the city. Chris advised the city is working with Wayne State University on those and to his knowledge no maps are available yet. He further advised maps contained in Dr. Mona's article are "locked" by the Institutional Review Board until her article is published. The city is going to request the Board to release the maps to them but that is not a given.

Once again, they are basically asking for money to fix their infrastructure problem. And, Sean Kammer is asking Chris if there is a link to MICIMS that he can share with the public. One word- clueless. Sorry , I know you will delete it if you need to send any of this info on. I will plan on being at the meeting Monday unless I hear otherwise. Please let me know your thoughts. Dear LT Roach,

This missive is to invite yourself and any other MSP EMHS personnel to the commissioners' meeting on 1/4/2016. The meeting will be held at the County Admin Building, 1101 Beach Street, Flint, MI 48502 on the 3rd floor in the Harris Auditorium at 9:00am. This is the building just south of the Sheriff's Office and the room is to your immediate left as you exit the elevator.

It is anticipated that at this meeting, the County will declare a state of emergency and quite possibly elevate it to the State level at the same time. I am attaching the City of Flint IAP, County Declaration, and Governor's request for your review and comment. I understand that this is short notice and lacking on proper protocol but I value your input and guidance.

To illustrate the dire need this situation calls for in regards to professional intervention, the City PIO just left me a message asking if there is a link to the IAP on MI CIMS that he can share with the public...

If you or your colleagues have any questions, comments, or observations feel free to share my personal cell phone number with them

Very Respectfully,

Tom,
I need to modify my time & attendance in DCDS for the PPE 01-02-16, but you have already approved it so I can't modify my time in DCDS. I spoke with Michelle and she made the changes pending your approval. The changes are:

1. Monday (12-21-15) I reported (7:30 am – 4:30 pm) for 8.0 hours regular time. Due to the Flint City meeting my actual time was (7:30 am – 5:00 pm with no lunch break) for a total of 9.5 hours regular time.
2. Tuesday (12-22-15) I reported (8:00 am – 5:00 pm) for 8.0 hours regular time. My actual time was (8:00 am – 5:00 pm with 0.5 hour lunch) for 8.5 hours regular time.
3. Wednesday (12-23-15) I reported 8.0 hours annual leave. Due to the changes on Monday and Tuesday, the actual annual leave is reduced to 6.0 hours.

Since I am on annual leave for the rest of the pay period, there will be no further changes.

Please advise Michelle of your approval via email. Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,
Joel

Good afternoon all,

From this morning's meeting:

- EMPG supplemental guidance has went out.
- 14s and above need to take a PIO training (MSP or G290) so if you haven't please let me know.
- Flint's water issue continues to get media attention, staff from EMHSD are going over to Flint today to meet with the mayor on this issue.
- The National Terrorism Advisory system has changed. They will include a "bulletin" in an effort to increase awareness and stress vigilance.
- Thanks to all that attended Oralya's sons funeral, gave money or hours. They raised almost a grand and have more hours than they need, so you may see less hours taken from your bank.
- January 19th is still the date that we move, additional emails will be following so please plan accordingly

Thanks,
Gabe

Good Afternoon Mr. Weber,

Please see the below response from Corinne Miller and the attached most recent Situation Report. Would you like to be added to the information distribution list as the POC for MSP going forward?

Leadership has cleared distribution of the department's situation report.

There are also blood lead testing data for Flint that can be accessed via the Michigan.gov web page where there is a link for Flint water. The documents contain information on how many children have been tested and how many had elevated BLLs (5+). The website also contains some documents on MDEQ activities in schools.

Would Thomas Weber be the MSP point of contact for our distribution list? If so, we can add him and then he will receive the report that will be distributed today.

Corinne

Jen,

Linda Dykema and Corinne Miller are the leads for this incident. I have copied them so they can provide assistance to MSP. I don't know if the DHHS situation reports are cleared for release outside of the department yet. If so, we can send those to MSP weekly.

Hi Jennifer,

We're going to be meeting with Flint's mayor later today. I'm curious what actual statistics the county health department may have on EBLs in Flint children between the time before Flint was on its own water vs. now. And also, how many kids are actually being treated or receiving extra treatment like chelation therapy?

Are those numbers you'd be able to get a hold of fairly easily?

Also, do we know what MDHHS and/or MDEQ are doing action wise? I know the mayor wants a Stafford Act declaration, but they make it seem as though that's the only avenue for real assistance which, in the case of an infrastructure failure, is the least likely avenue.

Thanks for anything you might be able to shed light on!

Good afternoon all,

From this morning's meeting:

- EMPG supplemental guidance has went out.
- 14s and above need to take a PIO training (MSP or G290) so if you haven't please let me know.
- Flint's water issue continues to get media attention, staff from EMHSD are going over to Flint today to meet with the mayor on this issue.
- The National Terrorism Advisory system has changed. They will include a "bulletin" in an effort to increase awareness and stress vigilance.
- Thanks to all that attended Oralya's sons funeral, gave money or hours. They raised almost a grand and have more hours than they need, so you may see less hours taken from your bank.
- January 19th is still the date that we move, additional emails will be following so please plan accordingly

Thanks,
Gabe

FLINT, MI -- The federal government may have never recognized a man-made water crisis like Flint's as a disaster before, but asking for the assistance has been Mayor Karen Weaver's plan since before she was elected Nov. 3.

"Our city is in a crisis -- a water crisis," Weaver said. "So far, what we've had are Band-Aid fixes, (and) it's not enough ... I don't see any other option."

On Monday, Dec. 21, the mayor plans to meet with Genesee County Board of Commissioners Chairman Jamie Curtis and others involved in emergency planning to discuss the city's incident response plan, a step-by-step outline aimed at addressing the water crisis.

"Things are falling together nicely," she said Friday, Dec. 18. "(The plan) is going to say, 'We need this, this and this,' and attach numbers where we can."

The Michigan Emergency Management Act outlines the process for seeking federal disaster assistance, which starts with the local declaration of a state of emergency. In that statement, a local jurisdiction says it has sustained widespread or severe damage, injury or loss of life.

Communities that have typically been granted disaster aid have suffered from natural disasters such as severe storms, flooding and fires, but Weaver believes that Flint's disaster with lead in its water is just as devastating.

There are cases in which less-common disasters have been recognized with federal aid, including one for severe hardship to the salmon industry in Alaska in 1953, a chlorine barge accident in Louisiana in 1962 and dam failure in Colorado in 1973, according to FEMA records.

"The president can declare an emergency or major disaster for any natural or manmade event that the president determines has caused damage of such severity that it is beyond the combined capabilities of state and local governments to respond," FEMA spokesman Mark J. Peterson said in an email to The Flint Journal-MLive

"We're being positive and optimistic" with Flint's application, Weaver said.

The city's state of emergency says, "Flint children have experienced increased blood lead levels since the switch to the Flint River, and this damage to children is irreversible and can cause effects to a child's IQ ... (resulting) in learning disabilities and the need for special education and mental health services and an increase in the juvenile justice system."

Weaver has so far not assigned a dollar figure to damage done to children who drank Flint River water since April 2014, and she said this week that Flint's old water distribution system was also damaged by corrosive river water. "So that's where we are (also) going to need some help."

Although Flint City Council members have been generally supportive of Weaver seeking the disaster declaration, and the Michigan Legislative Black Caucus is supporting the request, Flint City Councilman Josh Freeman said he doesn't believe it will be granted.

"It's giving false hope to people that the problem is going to fixed" with a disaster declaration, Freeman said. "At some point we have to stop playing politics and start governing."

The councilman said state and federal officials are unlikely to send disaster relief to Flint because other parts of the county and the state have childhood blood lead levels -- from all sources -- that are similar to children in Flint.

"Maybe I'm wrong. Hopefully I'm wrong," he said.

FEMA's Web site shows 77 disaster declarations nationwide so far in 2015 and eight current disasters.

The current declarations cover damage caused by fire in California; severe storms and flooding in Wyoming; straight-line winds, flooding and severe storms on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in South Dakota; severe storms, tornadoes, straight-line winds and flooding in Texas; severe storms, tornadoes, straight-line winds and flooding in Oklahoma; severe storms, tornadoes, straight-line winds and flooding in Arkansas; and severe storms and flooding in South Carolina.

To reach the desk of President Obama, Weaver's disaster declaration must be approved by county Chairman Curtis and both officials must determine that the disaster is beyond the capabilities of the city or county to handle. Curtis has said he is "fully on board" to do whatever he can to help the city of Flint.

In Michigan, all requests for assistance are channeled through the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division. The MSP reviews requests and makes recommendations to the governor, according to Ron Leix, a spokesman for the division.

The governor has the authority to mobilize state agencies to provide assistance, and if the state cannot cope with the disaster, Gov. Rick Snyder could request assistance through FEMA.

The federal agency makes disaster recommendations to the president.

State Rep. Sheldon Neeley, D-Flint, urged Snyder to get Flint's application for help to the president as quickly as possible.

"Issuing a health emergency is the most responsible thing to do," Neeley said in a news release. "This is a public health crisis, and our children are most at-risk. A state-declared health emergency will allow the city to access federal funding."

Hello, I just received notice that the meeting and Flint is Monday at 2 PM at their EOC which is Firestation 1 located at 3:10 E. 5th St. , Flint. I also just talk to Chris DeVriendt and he advised the city still isn't asking for anything specific. It is basically we need help and they keep talking about health problems in the future for the kids. They don't get it. Apparently they did provide some spreadsheets to 'Chris reference some expenditures they've incurred. Monday ought to be interesting. Bj

Take 2:

- It would be up to the Governor to determine which, if any, declaration is appropriate.
- At this time, the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division has not received any formal requests for state assistance through the Michigan Emergency Management Act.

How does this sound?

- Either "state of disaster" or "state of emergency" declaration could be appropriate. Both types of Governor's declarations provide the same assistance from the state of Michigan. Most individuals don't know there are two broadly defined types of declarations in the Michigan Emergency Management Act. It would be up to the Governor to determine which one is appropriate.

Hi Ron,

So today the legislative black caucus called on the administration to declare a state of emergency in Flint. Wondering if that could happen given the main problem in Flint has already occurred. Considering the water situation in Flint, would a request for a disaster declaration (is this the right term?) be more appropriate?

Also has MSP received anything formal in requesting a state of emergency or something like it?

Ok. You have the most relevant pages now. A few extra notes:

- I've included only the material that seemed most specifically relevant. I left out a page on Public Health Emergencies that merely had a couple of generic strategies, rather than things specific to the water problem. I included a sheet of Flint strategies for infrastructure failure, but did not include pages for other communities (e.g. Flushing Township).
- FEMA only requires a local hazard mitigation plan to address natural hazards. This is relevant if anyone asks about the limited material related to infrastructure. Additional details surely exist in local technical documents about their water infrastructure.

Hello –

Yes, officially, Genesee County is currently covered by a FEMA-approved hazard mitigation plan, and Flint was one of the adopting participants, thus also counted as having FEMA approval.
Mitch had done the review, but would you like me to look through the document to see whether it gave any coverage to the current issues of infrastructure and public health?

Usually leave at 4, but supposed to meet with Tony before I go. He isn't back yet. If I'm not here though, I'll be in over the weekend. You could leave it on my keyboard.

Hello –

Yes, officially, Genesee County is currently covered by a FEMA-approved hazard mitigation plan, and Flint was one of the adopting participants, thus also counted as having FEMA approval.
Mitch had done the review, but would you like me to look through the document to see whether it gave any coverage to the current issues of infrastructure and public health?

(Update items from Joel)

Following is a recap of our discussions today:

- December 14, 2015 - City of Flint declared a State of Emergency citing Public Act 390
- December 15, 2015 – Tony Katarsky located the Declaration on the Blog of Dave Bondy
- The Declaration sites a "manmade disaster" by switching to the use of Flint River
- The declaration requests the Genesee County Board of Commissioners take action
- Per PA390, Genesee County would be responsible to declare a State of Emergency and seek assistance from the state if it met the requirements
    - No definitive incident period has been noted in the declaration
    - No specific requests for resources have been requested
    - No indication of disaster expenses have been noted
- This does not reflect the true purpose of PA 390
- This would not be considered for assistance from FEMA under the Stafford Act
- IF Section 19 were to be provided, the jurisdiction would receive a maximum of $100,000
- Recommendations for options include:
    - HUD/CDBG
    - CDC
    - EPA
    - Legislative Action

Yes, we are interested in helping out in this effort and have already been spreading the word via social media. I'm also reaching out to a radio show to see if we can get some air time to recruit volunteers.

Looks like the meeting for today has been canceled.

Kindly,

I remember you mentioned Annette Wright when we met a couple months ago. Do you think she would be interested in becoming involved with the muck and gut campaign with us and NwDFRP?

We are seeking to recruit additional volunteers for the campaign.

Thank you for your consideration.

Thank you so much for sharing this effort, Mary. Presently, we have not received enough water to reach out to All Hands Volunteers. But, God knows, we are so very grateful. I believe we will make this a continuous, on-going effort. Hopefully we will receive enough donated water to reach out to Reuben and All Hands Volunteers in the days and weeks ahead.

Thank you so very much, Reuben and Mary.

(If you know of people/organizations that want to donate bottled water please let us know).

Kindly,

Annette

Flint Water Lead Project

Michigan Department of Health and Human Services
Situation Report for December 29, 2015

NOTE: Contains potentially Identifiable Information- REDACT AS INDICATED
New items for the day listed first and in bold print.

Daily Briefing and Situation Report prepared by Martha Stanbury for Linda Dykema

Surveillance Indicators: People Tested 10/1/2015 to 12/18/2015: 2,182;
Children less than 6 years old ≥ 5 µg/dl since 10/1/2015: 23
Children 6 to 17 years old ≥ 5 µg/dl since 10/1/2015: 7
Adults 18 years and older ≥ 5 µg/dl since 10/1/2015: 13
Severity Indicators: Hospitalized/Discharged-1/1; Deaths- 0

DAILY ACTIVITY SUMMARY

Elevated Blood Level (EBL) Environmental Investigations – ETC Contractors, Wes Priem, Courtney Wisinski

- 12 EBL investigations completed.
- 5 EBL Reports Received.
  - 4 homes with lead dust hazards
  - 3 homes with lead in soil hazards
  - 5 homes with lead-based paint hazards
  - 2 homes with lead detected in tap water
- 6 investigations scheduled.
- 5 applications received for the Lead Safe Homes Program, 1 family enrolled.
- HHS staff will accompany contractors on investigations to confirm compliance with protocols. Scheduled for 1/6/16.

MDHHS/Genesee County Health Department (GCHD) Case Management (CM) Services – Nancy Peeler

- CM report through 12/11/15:
  - # of contacts attempted: 181 (0-5 year olds) and 11 (6-17 year olds)
  - # offered CM: 109 (0-5 year olds) and 6 (6-17 year olds)
  - # CM started: 24 (0-5 year olds) and 2 (6-17 year olds)
  - # of children receiving CM who live in Flint: 24 (0-5 year olds) and 2 (6-17 year olds)
  - # billed to Medicaid: 13 (0-5 year olds) and 1 (6-17 year olds)
  - # other disposition: 23 (0-5 year olds) and 1 (6-17 year olds)
- Third case management nurse trained 12/22/2015.
- CLPPP has sent information to the other health departments; we have not yet heard back from all of them regarding their success in reaching the families.

Epidemiology/Surveillance – Corinne Miller, Patti McKane, Martha Stanbury, Bob Scott, Jessica Cooper, Karen Lishinski

- Pending: hiring 2 epidemiologists to provide BLL surveillance support.
- Pending: Receipt and review of revised amended IRB application in support of the data use agreement with Dr. Hanna-Attisha.
- Submitted 2014 lead surveillance data by Michigan zip code in response to media requests to the MDHHS press office which will get it out to the reporters 12/30/15.

- A laboratory reported a Flint child with a BL of 23 µg/dL. This was a follow-up to a BL test in September of 27 µg/dL. GCHD has made two home visits, and the EBL home investigation has been completed where lead was found in soil and dust. The EBL contractor confirmed that the home had a water filter installed. The family applied for the MDHHS home abatement funds and has been approved, pending receipt of a copy of the deed to the home.

- Filter & Water Distribution Sheryl Thompson

- Obtaining several pallets of bottled drinking water donated by South Carolina, as well as "cans" of water that can be used for bathing, toileting, cleaning only.
- Total Distribution since October 1, 2015
    - 11,232 Water Filters
    - 229 Water Pitchers
    - 1,258 Replacement Cartridges
- GCCARD distribution at December 12, 2015 Health Fair at Bethel United Methodist Church
    - 12 Filters
    - 17 Replacement Cartridges
    - 2 PUR replacements
    - 1 Pitcher
- Between December 11 and December 14, 2015 GCCARD and DHHHS distributed:
    - 78 filters
    - 6 pitchers
    - 53 replacement filters
- Replacement filters will be distributed to all sites that previously received Zero Water Pitchers.

Communications/Information Sharing – Linda Dykema, Eden Wells

- HHS internal briefing held 12/22/15 because of upcoming holidays.
- GCHD/HHS call held 12/22/15 because of upcoming holidays.

Health Education Resources Updates - Michelle Bruneau, Emily Houk

- Aerator cleaning fact sheet approved for publication.
- Continuing to write and coordinate additions to the EBL Case Manager Binder, now known as the MDHHS Lead Safe Family Guide Book. (MB)
- Awaiting Communications Office approval on Phosphate Fact Sheet (MB)
- Pending: Filter cartridge changing fact sheet; clarifying uses of filtered/vs unfiltered water (MB)
- Pending: Lead and Nutrition fact sheet and Flint Parent Letter revisions.

Toxicology - Kory Groetsch, Lisa Quiggle

- Evaluating methods for interpretation of EBL investigation media analytical data
- Gathering information on impact of phosphate dosing on water filters.

WIC

- Letter sent 11/24 to GCHD about Ready-to-feed formula availability from WIC program

Healthcare/Providers

- Dr. Eden Wells prepared a letter to be disseminated by MDHHS and GCHE to all healthcare providers in Flint reminding them of the importance of testing children under age 6 who have potentially been exposed to flint water after April 2014.

DEQ Information - Linda Dykema as Liaison

- Water samples will be collected at Flint public high schools during the winter break as school sports schedules had precluded earlier testing.
- 9-10 private and/or charter schools have requested water testing.

CITY OF FLINT

INCIDENT ACTION PLAN

RETAIN THIS IMAGE
RETAIN THIS IMAGE
RETAIN THIS IMAGE

RETAIN THIS IMAGE
RETAIN THIS IMAGE
RETAIN THIS IMAGE

Objectives:

To provide short term relief and long term solutions in addressing the man-made emergency of increased lead levels in the City of Flint (the "City") water system resulting from the switch to Flint River as the City's water source as well as the threat to public health related to elevated blood lead levels in Flint residents, without interruption of the provision of public safety and other essential public services. Due to the fluidic nature of emergencies and the complexity of the City of Flint's declared emergency, this plan serves as a framework and may be altered as the emergency develops.

The Response Framework

The purpose of this plan is to organize efforts on behalf of the city to assess the extent of the City's infrastructure needs and risks to public health, provide immediate relief to those who are at risk, and establish long term solutions. In addition, the city must ascertain what immediate relief and long term solutions the City is capable of implementing based on what resources are available. For any activities that are beyond the resource capacity of the City, external sources of funding, supplies, and manpower must be sought.

There are a number of steps that must be taken in accordance with the Flint Emergency Support Operations Plan (SEOP), in order for the City to be compliant with the Genesee County Emergency Action Guidelines. These include the activation of the Incident Management Team, the Emergency Operation Center, and the sharing of essential documents with the County, including this plan. Information must also be shared by the City's Public Information Officer on a regular basis, as required by the SEOP.

This plan calls for the provision of immediate relief to those at risk in our community. Special consideration must be given to residents who belong to underserved groups, such as those who are homebound, undocumented, in poverty, etc. Additional consideration must also be given to the equitable provision of services throughout our community in order to equally protect the health and safety of every member of our community.

Implementation of this plan is to be conducted by the Incident Management Team, which will monitor the effective delivery of goods and services in order to address the conditions of the emergency.

Understanding the Issue:

October 1, 2015, the Genesee County Health Department issued a Public Health Emergency after elevated blood-lead levels were found among children in the City of Flint. This incident correlates with elevated levels of lead found in the City's drinking water after the City switched water sources in April of 2014 to the Flint River. The scope of this problem appears to be limited to Flint City Water Customers and their dependents. Public agencies from several levels of government, as well as charitable, nonprofit organizations have partnered with the City to provide immediate relief to Flint residents, including the expansion of health services, the provision of bottled water and NSF rated water filters. The city is also seeking long term infrastructure improvements to eliminate lead and other contaminants from the water system.

Gov. Rick Snyder appointed a task force to review "actions regarding water use and testing in Flint" and to make recommendations for future guidelines: Members of the state task force are Ken Sikkema of Public Sector Consultants, Chris Kolb of the Michigan Environmental Council, Dr. Matthew Davis of the University of Michigan Health System, Eric Rothstein of the Galardi Rothstein Group and Dr. Lawrence Reynolds of Mott Children's Health Center.

In an effort to halt the further escalation of this crisis, the City returned to receiving its water from the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department (DWSD) on October 16, 2015. Since that time, additional corrosion control program has started, estimating a reduction of lead levels over the next six months. In light of these efforts, concerns surrounding the quality of water and health of the residents persist to the point that Mayor Karen Weaver declared a State of Emergency on December 14, 2015 so as to resolve this crisis once and for all.

The current challenge facing the City is providing immediate relief and long term solutions of the quality of the water and health of residents while the City remains in a financially critical condition. It is hoped and expected that higher levels of government recognize this emergency as it pertains to the condition of the City's infrastructure and health of its residents, and do all things necessary to assist the City in the provision of relief and the execution of capital improvement projects that will eliminate the causes of this emergency.

Enhancing Understanding:

Information Collection

Essential Elements of Information (EEIs) can be qualified as the City's water tests containing lead results, the verification of lead water lines (both public and private), and health information. Water testing is performed by the City's water plant in cooperation with the MDEQ. The verification of lead water lines is being handled by University of Michigan Flint, who is currently digitizing the City's water line information and PSI Engineering, who is initiating the effort to verify lead lines by excavating an initial 150 residential lines. This information allows the Incident Management Team to assess the current condition of the emergency by way of determining the water quality and the condition of the water distribution infrastructure.

Information Analysis

The City has sought partners to assist in the analysis and attenuation of complex data. Wayne State University's center for Urban Studies has agreed to assist the City in its efforts to document and track lead water lines, water test results, and filter distribution with geographic information system (GIS) technology. This allows for easily updateable, digestible information to be presented to officials.

Assessment of Impacts

The City will need assistance in determining the total cost of damage done to the public health and infrastructure. As of now, only portions of this damage are visible.

PSI is providing some assistance by excavating 150 residential water lines to verify that they are comprised of lead. This is an initial step, but not enough. More resources will be needed to continue this process.

Continuous Situational Awareness

It is important that the Emergency Management Team receive continuous information regarding water testing results, lead water line numbers, and filter distribution information in order to gain a realistic and current perspective. Much of his information is currently available on the City's website (cityofflint.com) and more is added each week by the PIO team.

Actions taken in Response to the Emergency

Activation of the Incident Management Team

Upon the declaration of Emergency by Mayor Weaver, the Support Emergency Operations Plan (SEOP) was activated. The SEOP calls upon the Incident Management Team to generate the Incident Action Plan (IAP. Each member of this team serves a specific function as it relates to addressing the causes and effects of the emergency. The Emergency Management Team roster can be found in the SEOP on page 3, with a list of alternates on page 4 in case the need for succession arises.

Emergency Operations Center

The Emergency Operations Center (EOC) must be activated upon the declaration of a State of Emergency by the Mayor. This center is required by the SEOP and serves as a nerve center for the Incident Management Team. Here, emergency relief efforts are coordinated by key members of the Incident Management Team. In this case, these relief efforts consist of the distribution of water filters at

City Hall and community events, the distribution of bottled water throughout the city in conjunction with the efforts of community partners, and assisting with the circulation of water testing kits throughout the community. The EOC will also be monitoring and managing the inventory of relief supplies, such as water filters and bottled water.

According to the SEOP, the EOC must establish an incident tracking system. This system will serve as a work plan for the management of the emergency. In addition, it is essential that the IMT record water testing results, lead water line location information, and information about the distribution of water filters and bottled water all in one place so that information is readily available for the Incident Management Team. This information will also be sent out to the public and media in the form of daily regular updates by the City's PIO.

Communication

The EOC maintains a telephone system that exists to intake questions about relief efforts and to organize relief logistics. It is open from 8am to 5pm, Monday through Friday. A voicemail system and eventual email system will exist to handle requests and inquiries that occur outside of the normal operating hours. This system will be constructed by the City's IS department.

Public Awareness and Education

1. Emergency Alerts and Updates:
   The City's Public Information Officer will make available information as it relates to the emergency in the form of press releases, emails, and physical documents. Daily updates containing information on the distribution of water filters, bottled water, water testing, blood lead testing, and other relief efforts will be available on the City's website for the public to view. Information will be available at City Hall for residents.

2. Joint Information Center:
   The City's PIO will establish a joint Information Center that is organized to coordinate the efforts of multiple agencies to communicate with the public. This includes the circulation of joint press releases, public health information, educational materials, and updates relating to the State of Emergency. This committee is comprised of public information officers and public relations personnel to coordinate efforts to keep the public updated and informed. Regular updates to the media regarding events and progress will be made as news develops.

   The US EPA has offered assistance in the form of Public Information support. Additional support in this area has been provided by the Michigan State Police.

3. Education:
   Many government agencies and philanthropic organizations are already distributing information regarding the effects of lead on public health. It is important that the City assist in these efforts so vital information and knowledge is presented to all members of the community. The goal is to continue to eliminate misunderstandings and incorrect information as it relates to reducing lead in drinking water, pursuing medical help, and maintaining a healthy diet to reduce lead absorption in the body. Lead education is currently being performed by the Genesee County Health Department, the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services and Medical community at-large.

Assessment of Social Needs

In order to effectively and equitably provide immediate relief to Flint water customers, the City must take into account many of the socio-economic needs and limitations of the community. Some residents cannot get to City Hall for a water filter. Some residents do not have internet access. Literacy or a language barrier may also pose significant obstacles to the effective distribution of educational information and relief to those in need. These will be continuing challenges facing the community. At present these are the resources the City has available to mitigate some of those challenges.

Logistics

Logistics are being coordinated by the City Emergency Management Team's City's Chief Logistics Officer, who is the City Administrator. The CLO is responsible for the coordination, procurement, and transportation of goods and services, which is essential for effective implementation of the response plan.

Fixed Distribution Points

There are several locations throughout the city where residents may acquire a water filter. These locations are:

Flint City Hall
1101 South Saginaw, Flint MI 48502

Genesee County Community Action Resource Department (GCCARD)
601 North Saginaw, Flint MI 48502
and
2727 Lippencott Blvd, Flint MI 48507

Michigan Department of Health and Human Services
4809 Clio Road, Flint MI 48504
and
125 E. Union Street, Flint, MI 48502

Activation of Ward Distribution Centers

Each of the nine wards will have activated distribution centers that are primarily managed by City Council Members or their designees.

Flint City Council – Water Distribution Sites

WARD	COUNCILPERSON	LOCATION	ADDRESS
1	Eric Mays	Hasselbring Senior Center	1002 W. Home Avenue
2	Jackie Poplar	Joy Tabernacle Church	2505 N. Chevrolet Avenue
3	Kerry Nelson	Antioch Baptist Church	1083 E. Stewart Avenue
4	Joshua Freeman	Flint Fire Station No. 5	3402 Western Road
5	Wantwaz Davis	Doyle/Ryder Elementary School	1040 N. Saginaw Street
6	Herbert Winfrey	New Community Baptist Church	1375 Lavender Avenue
7	Monica Galloway	Brennan Community Center	1301 Pingree Avenue
8	Vicki VanBuren	Flint Southwestern Academy	1420 W. 12th Street
9	Scott Kincaid	Dort Mall Police Service Station	3600 S. Dort Highway

Mobile Distribution Centers

With the help of transportation agencies, like the Metro Transit Authority (MTA), meals on wheels, and GCCARD, the city can help establish mobile distribution centers and delivery systems that can provide water filters, bottled water, and nutritious foods, among other types of relief accompanied by educational materials to neighborhoods and to homes of people who experience limited mobility.

- Mass Transportation Authority-MTA bus passes: Assisting residents with bus passes to improve their mobility will increase their chances of receiving help. Transportation services will also improve residents' access to medical care.
- MTA-Your Ride mobile distribution:
    - Estimated Costs: $25 per hour to deliver water and filters to homes throughout the City.

Problem 1. Public Health Emergency

The first objective in addressing this emergency is reducing, and eventually eliminating, the danger to public health. As City water coming out of faucets continue to contain lead, and copper and other harmful contaminants exceeding government guidelines and regulations, it poses a risk to the people of our community. Preventative measures must be taken to avoid the effects of toxicosis that are difficult if not impossible to completely reverse.

As far as preventative measures are concerned, education, water filters, and bottled water must be provided to every household in the City in order to reduce the chances of lead exposure, especially to our most vulnerable members of the community. If lead exposure has occurred, resulting in elevated blood lead levels, immediate and sustained medical attention must be available to those affected. Health services must be expanded in the area to accommodate increased numbers of case loads and specialized care regarding lead poisoning and its effects.

Immediate Relief for Public Health:

1. Prevention: Education, water filters and replacement cartridges, free water testing, and bottled water must be available to everyone.
2. Access to nutritious food that reduces the risks of lead absorption by the body. The City can coordinate activities with the County Health Department

Long Term Solutions: Maintaining Public Health and Coping with Lead Exposure

1. Work closely with the Genesee County Health Department and Michigan Department of Health and Human Services in order to provide sustainable care and monitoring of children exposed to lead. This care must be available for them for several years-preferably several decades.
2. Support and education for primary care providers regarding aggressive long-term neurodevelopmental screening and testing.
3. Improved access to developmental and behavioral (DBP) specialists, pediatric psychologists, pediatric psychiatrists.
    a. Pre-emptive referral to mental health/ toxic stress screenings.
    b. Support capacity building and or incentivize recruitment to allow Genesee health system (CMH) to build this capacity which is currently needed and lacking.
4. Increase recognition and education regarding trauma informed care, social determinants of health (SDOH).
5. Expand State funded Genesee Health System (CMH) services.
    a. Infant mental health (30 day capacity)
    b. Child case management
    c. Home based services
    d. Trauma informed care- trauma focused CBT

Problem 2. Lead Contamination in the Water

Immediate Relief:

1. Education, water filters and replacement cartridges, free water testing for water customers, and bottled water must be available to everyone. Water filters can be obtained at any of the fixed distribution points throughout the City.
2. Identification and verification of lead water service lines throughout the city- both public and private.
3. Assistance to identify lead pipes within buildings and homes.

Distribution of Bottled Water:
At this point, we are directing all offers for donations to the Food Bank of Eastern Michigan. It is imperative that water be accessible to all members of the community through a variety of distribution channels. These channels are explained in the Logistics Section of this plan.

Distribution of Test Bottles:
Water testing kits can be picked up at City Hall with instructions. Test results are posted on the City's website to raise public awareness and encourage more participation.

Long term Solutions: Capital Improvements Needs
The distribution of filters, water, and food to counter the effects of lead are essential response efforts to keep people safe. However, long term solutions are required to keep people healthy, to eliminate lead from the public and private water distribution system distribution, and to provide affordable clean water. Our public infrastructure and utilities must be reliable, sustainable, and equitable in order for this community to rebound after this emergency. The following long term solutions must be implemented in order to set the City of Flint on a course for recovery. These solutions come at a heavy cost for a City that is currently in receivership. The City has experienced financial distress due to this Emergency, in addition to a two million dollar loss from switching back to DWSD. The City has diligently applied for Fiscally Distressed Cities, Villages, and Townships, Grant in order to supplement funding for capital improvement projects. It is essential that these grants be awarded in order to achieve long term solutions.

1. COMPLETE Transition to a Temporary Safe Water Source until the Completion of KWA:
   This has already occurred. On October 16, 2015, Flint returned to receiving its water from DWSD on a 9 month agreement. This agreement will expire in June 2016, when the KWA is projected to be complete. The City had to pay $2 million out of its general fund to make this switch.

2. IN PROGRESS Additional Corrosion Control added to the Water System:

This is already occurring. In early December, 2015, Flint began to add additional corrosion control to the water coming in from DWSD in attempts to rebuild the protective scale inside its pipes. This is estimated to reduce lead levels in two to six months.

3. Faucet Replacement:
   Replacement of Water faucets, and drinking fountains in the school system. It has been determined after state inspections that many sources of lead contamination in the School System's water were the faucets themselves. These faucets need to be replaced.

4. Water Line Replacement:
   Water Line Replacement to reduce antiquated infrastructure and lead service lines. These lines must be identified, verified, and replaced. Residents who are facing financial hardships must have access to assistance to cover the costs of these replacements through access to grants and (forgivable) loans made available through State and Federal agencies. The corrosion damage to public and private lines that Flint River water caused is still being determined.
   - Replacement of an estimated fifteen thousand (15,000) lead service lines at an estimated cost of three thousand dollars ($3,000) per line. Total costs forty –five million dollars ($45,000,000). This project is estimated to be one of the most cost-intensive endeavors related to ameliorating water contaminants.

5. Reimbursement of Critical Expenditures:
   Seeking reimbursement of two million dollar cost of returning to DWSD and forgiveness of Water Revolving Loan Debt from the State of Michigan.

6. KWA Capital Improvements: The City has reconnected to Detroit temporarily until a water line from Port Huron is developed. The new water line known as the KWA pipeline or Karegnondi Water Authority is expected to bring water to the City from Lake Huron by July. The current cost agreement between Flint and DWSD is for nine months, therefore it is imperative that KWA be completed as soon as possible. Assistance relating to capital improvements to expedite this process will help to achieve long term goals.

KWA Capital Improvements:	Estimated Costs:
a. Transfer Station to Dort Reservoir	$4,500,000
b. Raw water line to pump station #4	$636,000
c. Phosphoric acid feed system	$186,000
d. Alum Feed system	$40,000
e. Post filtration system	$387,289

f.	SCADA Upgrades	$424,000
g.	Sewer Relining	$100,000
	Total	$6,273,289

Ancillary Considerations: Public Safety during an Emergency

During a time of emergency public safety agencies need to be prepared to respond to threats to public safety and critical infrastructure. The City is facing a man-made emergency that is threatening the public health. Resentment and hostility toward local institutions and municipal government is at a significant level.

Critical infrastructure should be safeguarded if the need arises. This includes increasing security at City Hall to reduce potential for public safety risks. In the case of credible threats to public infrastructure, it may be required to hire private security company for first line of defense. Private Security is lower cost, thereby making it the first option. The minimum response is acted upon first, elevating only if the need arises. Credible or imminent threats of damage or destruction to critical infrastructure requires an elevated response. Such needs may require over-time police officers to address critical situations. Mutual aid from surrounding communities can be requested if Flint public safety is overextended.

Implementation:

Community Partners

Financial limitations of the city persist while it confronts this emergency. Many community partners have offered their assistance to perform various needed functions. The city is heavily reliant on the assistance that government agencies and nonprofit organizations have provided.

The Mott Foundation

The Mott Foundation has provided financial assistance, especially in their generous contribution of $4 million. In addition, the Mott Foundation has recently pledged an additional

United Way

The Genesee County United Way has provided significant financial assistance in the way of purchasing and helping to distribute water filters since the public health emergency began on October 1st, 2015.

Genesee County Community Action Resources Department (GCCARD)

GCCARD is organized to fight poverty and has been a primary partner in the distribution of water filters. It has also regularly supported the city with the logistics and availability of water filters at City Hall.

Genesee County Health Department

Has provided educational information to Flint Water customers

Genesee County Board of Commissioners
The Board of Commissioners have pledged their support to help Flint seek solutions to this crisis. The Board has already assisted in making health and nutrition information available to the public.

Assistance from Wayne State University
Wayne State University's Center for Urban Studies will be providing technical GIS support to assist in the documentation of emergency relief efforts.

The US Environmental Protection Agency
Region 5 EPA has offered assistance with Public Information distribution during the emergency.

Outside Help is still needed...

The City of Flint is forever thankful to our community partners who have given so much to help so many people. However the magnitude of this emergency calls for more resources that are beyond the capacity of the combined local organizations and government agencies. Long term solutions will require a heavy investment in health care and capital improvement projects to upgrade the city's antiquated water distribution system.

- Help with Immediate Relief in terms of assuring allocative efficiency. Distribution should be equitable- assistance from other governments required to assure this.
- Reaching communities for the distribution of water filters, water, and educational materials.
- Help with Water Testing to increase participation and lead education.
- Increasing the rate of water testing
- Assistance is required to fund essential capital improvement projects to guarantee clean and safe water.

Fact Sheet

Emergency or Disaster Declaration Process

The Michigan Emergency Management Act (Public Act 390 of 1976, as amended) outlines the emergency management process for the state of Michigan. If an incident exhausts state resources, the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 USC §§ 5121-5207) establishes the process for requesting and obtaining a presidential disaster declaration and assistance from the federal government.

STEP BY STEP: Emergency or Disaster Declaration Process

1. Disasters are first and foremost local events. Most disasters are handled by local government with minimal or no state assistance. At the onset of a disaster or emergency, local emergency responders, joined by volunteers and the private sector, are the first to be involved.

2. A local jurisdiction may declare a "Local State of Emergency" exists when they have sustained widespread or severe damage, injury or loss of life or property. A local declaration ensures the response and recovery aspects of the emergency operations plan have been activated, and local resources are being utilized to the fullest extent possible. Authorities may authorize local aid and assistance.

3. If recovery efforts are beyond the ability of local government, the community may turn to the state to request assistance. All requests for assistance are channeled through the Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division.

4. The Michigan State Police, Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division reviews specific requests for state assistance and makes recommendations to the Governor's Office. The Governor's authority, granted by the Michigan Emergency Management Act, may include mobilizing state government agencies to provide necessary support and assistance to local authorities under a "State of Emergency" or "State of Disaster" declaration.

5. If state and local government resources are unable to cope with the emergency or disaster, the Governor may request assistance through the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS), Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), Region V Office in Chicago.

6. At the request of the Governor, FEMA may conduct a Preliminary Damage Assessment (PDA) in cooperation with state and local emergency management officials. The results of the PDA will be reviewed by state officials and the Governor's Office and used as a basis for determining whether to request federal financial assistance.

7. Should the state request federal disaster assistance, FEMA will review the request and make a recommendation to the president, who will make the final determination on any disaster aid to be provided to the state. The goal of disaster assistance is not to make individuals, businesses or government entities whole again, but to restore the community to a level that meets expected health and safety considerations.

December 17, 2015

Honorable Mayor Karen Weaver, PhD
City of Flint
1101 S. Saginaw St.
Flint, Michigan 48502

Dear Mayor Weaver:

I am aware through media reports that you have issued a "Declaration of State of Emergency" with regards to the City of Flint's ongoing water crisis. I am also aware through these same media accounts that you wish to have Genesee County issue its own "State of Emergency or Disaster" in order for the County and the City to be eligible to apply for financial assistance from the State of Michigan to address the problem.

First, be assured that I am fully on board to do whatever I can as Chairman of the Genesee County Board of Commissioners to assist the City of Flint as it continues to struggle with its emergency water situation. As you know, back on October 1st, the Genesee County Health Department issued an emergency health advisory for the residents of Flint and all users of Flint city water. That action did result in some assistance from the State of Michigan.

However, in order for all us to work cooperatively in the most expedited manner possible to more fully address these serious health concerns, it is important that you, the City Council, City Administrator, City Attorney, and others understand the procedures that must be followed.

Under the County's formally adopted Emergency Action Guidelines, specifically paragraph 7 of those guidelines, and in accordance with Public Act 390 of 1976, once the City of Flint presents us its declared state of emergency document, it is my duty as the County Board Chair to consult with the County's Emergency Management Coordinator, Sheriff Robert Pickell, and the Michigan State Police Emergency Management and Homeland Security Division for District 3, Lt. BJ Roach. Upon such consultation and review of the City's declaration of emergency and upon determining that the situation is beyond the capabilities of the County to handle, I, as the County Board Chair, may then declare a "State of Emergency" and request assistance from the State of Michigan and a Governor's Declaration.

So to that end, I look forward to receiving your declaration of emergency so that we may all move forward in addressing this very real threat to the health, safety, and welfare of our community.

Sincerely,

Jamie W. Curtis, Chairperson
Genesee County Board of Commissioners

C: Natasha Henderson, City Administrator

FLINT WATER RESPONSE TEAM

UPDATE | SATURDAY, JANUARY 30, 2016

This daily update is being issued in order to provide the latest information regarding actions and available resources.

Governor Snyder encourages all Flint residents to get their water tested as soon as possible. If you live in Flint, please make it a priority for your family and encourage your friends and neighbors to obtain testing kits as well. The kits are available free of charge at the water resource sites within Flint fire stations.

Water testing kits are available at city hall and all Flint fire stations. Residents don't need to test their own water - simply fill up the bottle and return it to where it was obtained. Residents with questions can call United Way 2-1-1. For other questions about water testing, please visit www.mi.gov/FlintWater.

Water testing results are also posted at www.mi.gov/FlintWater

Detroit News: Feds deny Snyder's request to raise Flint WIC eligibility

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has rejected Michigan's request to increase access for Flint children ages 5 to 10 to the federal nutritional program for low-income women and children.

Governor Snyder strongly urges the federal government to reconsider this request and provide additional support for children ages 5 to 10. He says that we must draw on all resources possible and work cooperatively to meet the needs of the residents of Flint, both immediate and long-term.

Captain,
I will cc Tom on your below request. Just so we are all clear, there are no churches on that photo, just a list of commissioners and their wards that Tom is proposing to be future points of contacts for hubs. Lt. Russo assures me that the churches in Flint are covered this weekend (new distribution plan & old/original churches) Thanks.

This was given to the governor's office by a group of pastors. They need to be folded into the mix and tom should work to integrated this with what he has been working on. Some may not end up being the hub if others are already in place. Pastor Hawkins was the POC on it.

Hi Everyone,

Any donations inquiries should be directed to Janet Hunter with the Michigan Community Service Commission at hunterj8@michigan.gov. The state is coordinating all offers for donations. I am not the appropriate contact for large donations of water.

Thank you,
Katie

Thank you for making the 'introductions'. I believe that this RRT needs to be ironed out ASAP. It is quickly spiraling out of control and we need to get in front of it if these deliveries are to continue beyond Sunday (1/31/16). Let me know how we can get this plan created and implemented.

Michelle,

Just an FYI regarding this email. The plan we worked on this week is in place (see attached). The churches that Lt. Roach has been coordinating with the last couple weeks have also been addressed. Jay E. advised Lt. Roach has provided him with the churches that are still in need of water deliveries.

Can someone look into these sites to see if they need anything for Sunday and to also coordinate with long term recovery.

Lt Roach - probably handle the Sunday items if you are in and weber on LTR. Lt covey to coordinate these tasks. Thanks.

Lt. Covey,,

Attached is the Church Hub distribution plan that was coordinated this week, by pastors representing Concerned Pastors for Social Action, Lt. Roach and me. I also have GIS mapping creating a map with the church hubs and area churches.

I noticed there was a plan titled "Local Church Distribution Hubs adjunct to Fire Stations Water Sites" that had been prepared. I asked Michelle if she was aware of this other plan, and who is preparing it. Please give me a call when you can. Thanks

Catherine, thanks, this is great info to have.

And yes, the reason we ask is because FEMA programs cannot duplicate benefits. So, while FEMA would do a more in depth analysis if and when their programs are implemented, it helps at the beginning of emergencies and disasters to have a fairly reliable baseline number of how many properties are insured.

Tom,
DIFS conducted a data call of authorized Michigan insurers and asked them to provide the number of total current homeowner policies in the zip codes that you provided below.

The insurers that responded to the data call reported an aggregate number of 31,087. While we are still waiting for some additional responses, the insurers that represent the majority of the market for premium written have reported. Any additional numbers will be minimal. We did receive some inquires (from both our leadership and insurance industry groups) as to why we requested this information. Is there an answer that you can share with me at this time that I can share with them?

Also, I feel I should reiterate that a homeowner's policy insures property against risks of direct physical loss that are not specifically excluded under the policy. A homeowner's policy excludes "discharge, disbursable, seepage, migration or escape of pollutants" unless it was caused by a covered cause of loss. The situation that occurred in the City of Flint would not be a covered loss.

Let me know if you any additional questions.

Thanks.

Tom,
We will proceed with the data call. Our goal is to get something out to the insurers by COB today.
In the meantime, if you need anything else, please let me know.

Thanks Cathy, That's very helpful. We're trying to get the number for the presidential request, and we can make a call to the city, though they are usually not very precise, but we can work with that. I think going forward, any assistance we are able to get from FEMA is still going to need those numbers, so if you could go ahead with that, that would be great.

Tom,
Though DIFS does not collect policy information from insurers, we do have the ability to request from them the number of Flint homeowners policies they write by conducting a data call. Please provide me with the exact zip codes that you would like included, we will issue the call and gather the information. It is possible we could provide you with an aggregate number early next week.

I have attached a copy of the relevant pages from the City of Flint's 2014 Comprehensive Annual Financial Report (CAFR) that outlines their commercial insurance coverage. This is the last report we have on file. The City does have the 2015 CAFR posted to their website. I did review the report and it appears the coverage is the same.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Does the state have a database, or is there an easy way to find out what percent of homeowners have property insurance? And what levels of insurance a city such as Flint has itself?

Tom,
We can track complaints and/or calls from consumers with questions or issues with claim denials. However, DIFS would not have immediate access to the number of claims filed with health or property insurers relating to elevated blood lead levels.

As of today, we have received no formal complaints or consumer calls relating to elevated blood lead levels. DIFS will continue to track complaint and/or calls and I will let you know if we do.

Tom,
The Department of Insurance and Financial Services (DIFS) offers the following in response to your request for a summary of agency information relating to the water crisis in Flint:

Similar to Medicaid coverage, individuals with private health insurance would have testing and treatment covered as long as a doctor ordered the services. Anyone with questions regarding their health insurance coverage or any health insurance claims that are not approved by their health insurer can contact DIFS toll free at 1-877-999-6442 for assistance.

A homeowner's policy insures property against risks of direct physical loss that are not specifically excluded under the policy. A homeowner's policy excludes "discharge, disbursable, seepage, migration or escape of pollutants" unless it was caused by a covered cause of loss. The situation that occurred in the City of Flint would not be a covered loss.

DIFS stands ready to assist anyone who has questions regarding their health or property insurance.
Let me know if you have any questions.

Good morning all,

We are preparing the draft of the letter from the governor to the president to request assistance. We are attempting to send this as quickly as humanly possible.

What we need from each agency is a complete but as brief as possible summary of the impacts to the people and economy of Flint resulting from the water crisis, prepared by the best qualified person in your agency.

This would include quantification of past, current, and future or potential future impacts including:

Health
Economic
Insurance (is there any coverage on the part of individuals, or the city or state that might help to cover damages?)
Contributions of voluntary agencies
Environmental; and Infrastructure

There will be an opportunity to review the entire draft as it is pieced together, to make sure we are including every potential impact that will help to describe the severity of this crisis to the City of Flint and State of Michigan.

If there's any chance of getting summaries by the end of today (let me know what the minimum timeline is that you need), that would be great.

Thanks very much for your assistance,

MSP Trooper From Paw Paw Post Wins State Award
WSJM Radio
1.28.16

A Michigan State Police trooper from the Paw Paw post has received an award for her efforts to look "past the stop." Trooper Lena Wileczek is a 2015 recipient of the Corporal Samuel A. Mapes Criminal Patrol and Investigation Award. It's given to troopers who excel in patrol-generated felony arrests. Wileczek was handed the honor at a ceremony in Lansing at the MSP Training Academy Thursday. She's one of just 64 troopers to get the award this for 2015. Michigan State Police say the honor is named for Corporal Samuel Mapes, one of the MSP's early pioneers in criminal patrol who was killed during a rum running bust in 1927.

Senator Schuitmaker's Bill Eliminating Policewoman Rank Heads To Governor

WSJM Radio
1.29.16

The rank of "policewoman" is about to officially be stripped from the Michigan State Police. The state Senate gave final approval to a bill from Senator Tonya Schuitmaker of Lawton yesterday to eliminate the rank. She introduced the legislation with the backing of Michigan State Police Director, Colonel Kriste Kibbey Etue. The outdated rank was used in the days when female police officers weren't allowed to have the same standing and were paid less than their male counterparts. While that's no longer the case, the rank was still on the books. Governor Snyder is expected to sign the bill.

Dearborn Police Chief Ronald Haddad issued a statement Thursday, following the second time police killed a suspect in just over a month.

Detroit police are investigating the Dec. 23 fatal shooting of 35-year-old Kevin Matthews, of Detroit, a mentally-ill man alleged to have struggled with a police officer trying to arrest him; and state police are investigating the Wednesday shooting of 31-year-old Janet Wilson, of Detroit, who is accused of trying to hit security guards and police with her vehicle.

Both were shot multiple times.

Below is the statement from the Dearborn police chief:

The Dearborn Police Department is deeply saddened by the two officer involved fatal shooting incidents that have occurred over the past month.
Both of the officer involved shooting incidents are being independently criminally investigated by outside agencies and we are totally committed to transparency and disclosure by fully cooperating with these investigations.

Upon conclusion of the criminal investigations we will be conducting internal reviews on both of these incidents.

While we are very proud of our long history of Civil Rights advocacy as well as our history of appropriate use of force, we will closely examine all of our policies and procedures to ensure that we are employing the latest training and following national best practices in all of our responsibilities to the community.

Once we are allowed and it is appropriate to do so, we fully intend to make public disclosures regarding these incidents.

We remain committed to providing superior public safety services and appreciate the support during this most difficult time for our entire community.

FENTON, MI -- Police are warning of a possible scam involving dog licenses in the Fenton-area.

Genesee County Animal Control has received information that a person identifying themselves as an officer with the department is going to homes in the Fenton-area asking residents about dog licenses, according to a news release from the Genesee County Board of Commissioners.

The suspicious person was reported to be dressed in professional looking clothing and showed residents a lanyard with identification, according to the release. Investigators said the person is not affiliated with Animal Control.

A census of dog licenses will be done sometime after May 1. Animal Control officers will go door-to-door showing identification to residents and will also be dressed in the mandates Animal Control uniform, according to the release.

Animal Control is asking residents if someone approaches their home inquiring about licenses before May, to please call police to report the incident. Residents are also asked to call Animal Control at 810-732-1660.

Facebook messaging key in negotiations with Wyoming shooting suspect
John Tunison
MLive

1.28.16

WYOMING, MI -- Crisis negotiators used Facebook Messenger to communicate with a suspect holed up inside of a Wyoming house, wanted in connection with a fatal shooting.

"As far as I know, it's a first for us," Wyoming police Lt. Mark Easterly said about using social media to negotiate.

The 18-year-old surrendered without incident about 12:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 28, coming out of the Colrain Street SW home with his hands up and walking backward.

He was one of three teens -- a 15-year-old and 16-year-old also were arrested -- taken into custody as suspects in the fatal shooting of Isaiah Devere Blue, 17.

Blue was shot after getting off a Rapid bus at 44th Street and Division Avenue about 10:10 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 27. Three people approached Blue, who was with two others, then demanded property.

The would-be robbers then fired shots as Blue tried to run.

Police determined the suspects had been on the bus with Blue. Detectives then released Rapid surveillance video showing them, and tips began to pour in.

Easterly said investigators used the tips to identify possible suspects and were able to track the 18-year-old to Colrain Street.

8-year-old approached by man in van, told to 'get in my car'
John Tunison
MLive
1.29.16

BYRON TOWNSHIP, MI -- Police are investigating a suspicious situation after an 8-year-old girl told police she was approached by a man in a van who told her to "get in my car."

The girl screamed and started running, and the van left the area.

The girl told Kent County sheriff's deputies she was walking home from a bus stop in the area of Cutler Estates Mobile Home Park about 7:10 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 28, when a dark-colored van drove up to her.

Cutler Estates is near Division Avenue and the M-6 interchange in Byron Township.

After the man told her to "get in my car," the girl ran away. She said the van backed up and left the area in an unknown direction.

The girl told police the van had no side windows, but the only other description was dark in color.

Anyone with information about the incident can call Kent County sheriff's deputies at 632-6100 or Silent Observer at 774-2345.

STATE OF MICHIGAN
LANSING

BRIAN CALLEY
LT. GOVERNOR

THANK YOU!

Fellow employees,

Each day, more than 46,000 state of Michigan employees come to work with the confidence and commitment to make Michigan a better place to live, work and play. I appreciate the way you care about the citizens we serve, and how it is reflected in the work that you do.

As you have heard from me and the media, our reputation and trust can be severely impacted when people do not make good decisions, or use good judgment in solving problems. That principle is universal, but never more so than when public health is at stake. What happened in Flint can never be allowed to happen again anywhere in our state.

I know that you want to work in a place where employee input is valued, efforts are recognized, and teams are always striving for continuous improvement. That's why we introduced employee surveys, Bureaucracy Busters and other reinvention initiatives. We want and deserve a culture of innovation, continuous improvement and employee engagement at every level. We can never take for granted how important the people are who depend on us to do our jobs, and I am asking you not to let the situation in Flint negatively impact your motivation to excel every day.

Many of you have taken an interest in helping the citizens of Flint on your own time, and I'd like to take this opportunity to recognize and thank those who have volunteered over the last couple of weekends. You have worked tirelessly to deliver cases of bottled water, water filters, replacement cartridges and water testing kits to the families in need. I appreciate you donating your time to help our fellow Michiganders. To date, more than 37,000 homes have been visited by one of our water resource teams.

For employees who would like to further help the people of Flint, please visit www.HelpForFlint.com to learn how you can do so. For additional information and to sign up for daily updates, please visit www.mi.gov/FlintWater. I am committed to ensuring that all residents have access to safe and clean water.

Again, I'd like to express my gratitude for the work you do every day to continuously improve our state and earn the trust of those you serve. You make a real difference.

Thanks,

Governor Rick Snyder

(I sent this late last night and it did not go - sorry)

Tom and Katie,

I am sorry I was not able to be at the EOC when you arrived. The PUR donor arrived and they wanted to meet me. I wanted to personally thank them and so I ran out to the warehouse really quick.

I am in Detroit in the morning for a meeting and then come back to flint for a meeting at 1:00 and then will be able to join for the 2:30. I will be helpful to hear their ideas to begin to think of how we could support the donation and volunteer components. I am hoping we may be able to direct some of the water deliveries right to their sites. Where did you decide the location will be?

Were you able to invite any of the people we discussed? If not, I can get through to some on them very quickly in the morning.

I know you wanted to limit the number at this meeting, the first four I think would be very good additions. We can add the others in the next round. I know BJ was trying to get through to the pastors for you. This will provide some diversity to the process.

1. Jamie Curtis - Chair County Commission
2. Isiah Oliver - Vice President of Community Impact - Community Foundation, School Board
3. Chamber - Cheryl Defrain was making the contact with them - she will need to know the time
4. Dave McGee - Skillman foundation and flint representative (he has a lot of connections - he can help with making the request to the city council members, Jamie Curtis can help as well)

You had asked for feedback on the document. I thought it was a very good internal document. It had a lot of the things we had discussed at the EOC level. Thank you for sharing it and so we could provide input. Please know these ideas are provided only as suggestions.

If you are choosing to present a draft document to the group today, here are some ideas to consider.

1. Condense the document to one page that provides just an overview of your ideas.
2. Share the section you listed of what has been done to this point, verbally
3. If they are in agreement of the development of distribution sites that are spread out geographically, it would be great if you could have a map for all to see visually and pin point some locations they begin to identify. Especially the 9 areas that make up the city council representation.
4. Find ways to get them in a discussion as much as possible and so they can begin to share their ideas. New thoughts may be generated that will allow the plan to be stronger then what we have all been thinking.

You may think this is too condensed - but here is a shortened version of your plan. I know you were thinking that you wanted to get them into a dialogue at this first meeting and so you could then put a draft together with more detail and incorporating their ideas for the second meeting.

State and Federal Resources

- Warehouse site and management
- Water, Filters, Replacement Cartridges
- Trucks and drivers to transport water and products from warehouse to distribution sites
- Donation management process (needed for state match)
- Support of Recycling project
- Support of planning and communication process
- Support of engaging local and national partners and VOADS

Future Distribution of Resources

- An initial working group comprised of community stakeholders will create the initial strategies for long term distribution of water, filters, replacement cartridges and other resources.
- Develop a plan to transition from the fire stations to other locations in the city.
- Distribution sites will be determined based on geographic regions, easy access for residents, ability of site to manage the receipt and distribution of resources, and residents trust in the organization.
- The state will distribute the resources to each distribution site based on their burn rates.
- Organizations will serve as hub's of information to identify needs that exist and special populations of individuals that need assistance with accessing resources
- Transition from the Fire Stations to identified sites around the city would occur gradually.

Communication Plan

- A communications team will be created comprising of local professionals to develop communication to assist residents understand how to access resources.
- Communication will also be developed to answer questions regarding health concerns.

(I sent this late last night and it did not go - sorry)

Tom and Katie,

I am sorry I was not able to be at the EOC when you arrived. The PUR donor arrived and they wanted to meet me. I wanted to personally thank them and so I ran out to the warehouse really quick.

I am in Detroit in the morning for a meeting and then come back to flint for a meeting at 1:00 and then will be able to join for the 2:30. I will be helpful to hear their ideas to begin to think of how we could support the donation and volunteer components. I am hoping we may be able to direct some of the water deliveries right to their sites. Where did you decide the location will be?

Were you able to invite any of the people we discussed? If not, I can get through to some on them very quickly in the morning.

I know you wanted to limit the number at this meeting, the first four I think would be very good additions. We can add the others in the next round. I know BJ was trying to get through to the pastors for you. This will provide some diversity to the process.

1. Jamie Curtis - Chair County Commission
2. Isiah Oliver - Vice President of Community Impact - Community Foundation, School Board
3. Chamber - Cheryl Defrain was making the contact with them - she will need to know the time
4. Dave McGee - Skillman foundation and flint representative (he has a lot of connections - he can help with making the request to the city council members, Jamie Curtis can help as well)

You had asked for feedback on the document. I thought it was a very good internal document. It had a lot of the things we had discussed at the EOC level. Thank you for sharing it and so we could provide input. Please know these ideas are provided only as suggestions.

Welcome to iNET

Welcome to iNET, the e-newsletter of the National Disaster Interfaiths Network (NDIN).

Four federal Major Disaster Declarations have already been declared in 2016. Alabama, Missouri, Washington, and Mississippi faced severe storms, tornadoes, straight-line winds, and flooding. (By the end of 2015, 79 major disaster declarations had been declared for that year.)

As always, please keep all communities who are in long-term recovery, and their caregivers, in your prayers - and give generously to National VOAD agencies, established disaster interfaith and long-term recovery committees. Please donate or lend a volunteer hand in recovery efforts; if we can be helpful, contact our office for suggestions or reach out to your National VOAD partners!

If you have questions or comments about iNET, or if you have news that you want to submit to us, please e-mail info@n-din.org.

ard area and enter at the main entrance of the GOB (see attached parking and staff will be on site by 7:45 a.m. to greet and escort you to the new SEOC.

all learn our way around, and with new equipment. It may be necessary for us to tions of computers in the SEOC; therefore, your position may not be located in its n until early next week.

those working within the SEOC, it is important that you secure documents and files the PC's or desktops at Collins Road by saving to a memory stick or you may also nin the SEOC (Rich or Jaclyn) about saving information to the S Drive. You will most ferent PC, and we want to ensure you have the files you need to continue operations as possible.

access card for Collins Road, by Thursday night. A container will be placed near the his purpose.

be established in the SEOC and will be provided as soon as permanent locations ecommend using your cell if someone needs to contact you.

EMHSD Staff not assigned to an SEOC position on Friday, January 29

By COB Thursday night, our janitorial staff will provide blue recycle bins throughout the building – marked for "trash". Please remove all trash by 10:00 am on Friday and place in these designated bins. She will also leave an extra trash bag in your office. Place this fresh trash bag in your wastepaper basket as this will be used to pack your PC accessories for transport.

Please report to Collins Rd at your normal time on Friday, Jan 29. This will be the final day in this building.

Jeans will be permitted on Friday, Jan 29 and Monday, Feb 1, if you are NOT assigned to the SEOC.

DTMB will begin tearing down computers early Friday morning, thereby making worktime on your PC uncertain. Please accomplish tasks that need to be completed via your computer by COB Thursday.

All EMHSD Staff that are remaining at Collins Road please report to the Kitchen at 8 a.m. Friday morning for a briefing. Friday will be used to scan the entire building to ensure all items are packed and ready for transport.

As noted previously, we MUST ensure there are no paperclips, staples, etc. left in our areas. All drawers, cabinets, shelves, and floors should be double checked. Refrigerators will need to be cleaned once again; NOTHING CAN BE LEFT BEHIND except for furniture that is not being relocated to Harris Rd.

An area has been designated in the kitchen for surplus....it is hopeful that you will not have much left by now, but if you run across small items that have been missed and are intended for surplus, please put them in this area. If it is a quality, useable item, please pack it for transport.

Please ensure you have updated your voice mail message with your new phone #, noting that it will be effective on Monday, February 1. You will be able to check voicemail from Collins Rd for a very short time once we move.

Please leave your ADT access card at the desk of Pam Strobel before you leave on Friday.

You will report at your normal scheduled time to 7150 Harris Drive, Dimondale, MI on Monday, February 1. Please DO NOT come in over the weekend as the movers will be unpacking and placing items throughout the weekend.

Please park in the standard area and enter at the main entrance of the GOB (see attached parking and entrance map). Greeters will be on hand to welcome you to our new work site and find your designated workspace. Assistance will be available throughout the day to help with computers, phones, etc. if needed. A welcome mat will be on your desk indicating key items you need to be aware of. Please take a moment to look it over thoroughly.

This has been a big project for all, and we are confident you will find the new division location a welcoming and efficient area to accomplish all that you do. Be patient as we become acclimated. New phones and new workspace will take time to get accustomed to.

FROM DTMB: In an effort to reduce shipping costs and increase efficiencies with the AARP process, additional information will be required on each AARP as follows:

1. A required "yes/no" drop down has been added to capture if boxes and labels are needed to return the assets to Depot
2. "Monitors" have been split into two categories "Flat or CRT" (quantity is still needed if you are returning monitors)
3. "Printers" remains the same (quantity and models are needed if you are returning printers)
4. "Other Equipment" remains the same (this field is used when you are returning items such as "box of mice and keyboards)

Do you need boxes and/or labels?		(Required)
Monitors (Flat)	Qty
Monitors (CRT)	Qty
Printers	Qty		Model(s)
Other Equipment
Work Log

If you select "Yes" that boxes and labels are needed, the menu will expand allowing you to indicate the quantity of boxes and labels required, as well as, what device(s) the boxes and labels are for (this will in turn, allow Depot to send the correct box size).

Do you need boxes and/or labels?		Yes	(Required)
Laptop/Tablet			# Boxes needed		# Labels needed
Desktop			# Boxes needed		# Labels needed
Monitors (Flat)	Qty		# Boxes needed		# Labels needed
Monitors (CRT)	Qty		# Boxes needed		# Labels needed
Printers	Qty		# Boxes needed		# Labels needed		Model(s)
Other Equipment			# Boxes needed		# Labels needed

These changes will be available on 1/29/2016.

Reminder: If you have shipping labels that you have received for previous AARP requests for the return of assets that you did not use for the designated assets, those labels need to be destroyed.

Labels are directly associated and are specific to each AARP. If you use a label with assets that the label is not designated for there is no way to track the shipment, resulting in the agency needing to file a lost and stolen report if there is an issue with the shipment and we are unable to locate the asset.

Additionally, there are plans to relocate Depot and the physical address on the old labels will no longer be accurate.

The AARP URL is http://aarp.state.mi.us/AARP/webWelcome.aspx.

If you have any questions, please contact Chris Nelson at nelsonc12@michigan.gov or 517.241.1142.

Hey Phil-

A few other to consider sharing:

- There is a weekly community partners meeting. They meet Thursdays at 3pm (same as the NVOAD Call). If national organizations have local folks who would like to attend, they're free to do so. Moreover, this group is going to be organizing 6 sub-groups for long-term needs: (1) health, (2) mental health, (3) communication, (4) command and control, (5) education, and (6) distribution.

- Michigan VOAD is hosting weekly calls. All are welcome. The next call is scheduled for Tuesday at 2pm Eastern. (641-715-3274 Code:

Thanks!

Pre-decisional not for further distribution Brianna & Phil,

We really appreciate you being able to jump on this afternoon's National VOAD Bi-Weekly Operations Call. The full agenda is at the bottom of this email. I asked to have Flint report out first so that you can jump off the call if need be.

Some potential talking points below. Brianna, feel free to report out on anything you'd like from the state side – please do not feel like you need to stick to talking points below. These are just ideas. Just a reminder that some of the national partners on this call may not be familiar with anything going on, so starting high level about activities would be helpful.

Brianna –

- State EOC is fully activated with many state agencies represented

- Distributing water, water filters, replacement filter cartridges, water tests kits through door-to-door canvassing, POD distribution, etc

- The state has been partnering with many voluntary agencies to accomplish this mission

- Working closely with Red Cross Volunteer Reception Center to engage volunteers in this canvassing efforts

- Any additional details or statistics you may be able to provide. I usually stick to approved stats in State Press Releases. Attached is the state press release from today:

o Since Jan. 9, 2016, the following resources have been distributed to residents, both at the water resource sites and by water response teams:

o 196,456 cases of water

o 95,417 water filters

o 30,255 water testing kits

- Some of the next steps include the launching of a recycling program today at an 11:30 media event (attached media advisory)

- Working to transition distribution of commodities to local voluntary agencies; working closely with them to develop a sustainable plan and model for future distribution

Phil- attached are FEMA's internal daily talking points for questions you may get.

- Start with EM Dec overview

o On January 16, 2016, President Barack Obama declared an emergency for Genesee County in the State of Michigan, limited to Direct Federal Assistance, as a result of the emergency conditions resulting from contaminated water in the city of Flint, authorizing FEMA to support the state in its efforts to respond to the incident.

o Under this emergency declaration, FEMA is authorized to provide emergency protective measures, Category B, limited to Direct Federal Assistance, under the Public Assistance program limited to 75 percent of the total eligible costs. FEMA will, in coordination with the state, provide water, water filters, water filter cartridges, testing kits, and other necessary related items for a period of up to 90 days from the date of this declaration. We will also provide technical assistance to the state.

- Current number of commodities purchased by the state:

- As of COB January 27, 2016, the following commodities were requested by and provided to the state of Michigan in support of the response to the emergency conditions resulting from contaminated water in the city of Flint.

o 844,200 liters of water

o 102,520 water filter replacement cartridges

o 5,000-23 cup water dispenser & filtration systems (ZeroWater)

o 30,000 water filters

- HHS efforts

- On January 19, 2016, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) was designated as the lead federal agency responsible for coordinating federal government response and recovery efforts in Flint, Michigan.

- FEMA will support HHS as needed to identify and mobilize the capabilities of the rest of the federal partners – including the Small Business Administration, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Department of Agriculture (USDA), and others—that are already working to help residents in Flint.

I hope this helps! If you have any questions please reach out. I will be on the road to Flint but will monitor my BB.

Thanks,

Katie

My apologies for the late e-mail. However, I would be remiss if I did not inform everyone that I was notified this morning that Michigan Lt. Governor Brian Calley is planning on joining the meeting today to offer his support for the work this group has, and will be, doing.

Due to a rather significant agenda scheduled for today, it is our intent to start promptly at 3:00 p.m. I look forward to seeing everyone.

Hi Ray,

Thanks for the email. We have shared your contact info with the MSP logistics team who is planning for the long-term recovery solutions in Flint. They will be in contact soon and are best equipped to determine how we could possibly integrate UPS into the long-term plan. If you need anything else or have questions after speaking with them, please call me anytime at 517-775-3688.

Thank you and we look forward to working with you.

John, Tori and Harvey,

Sorry for the slow response to yesterday's email as I have been travelling and in a big Corporate meeting for the next few days.
I am confident that UPS can help with these needs.
If you could get me the contact person for the water filter cartridge delivery process initiative, I will help connect that person with the operations team in Michigan and Flint and assist with the facilitation of the planning and implementation process.
I will reach out to Tori and Harvey at first opportunity.
What are the best numbers to reach each of you at.
My contact info is found below. Please feel free to reach out to me at any time.

Subject: Follow Up - Request for Assistance

Ray,

I appreciate speaking with you Thursday and appreciate your patience as we worked on the details related to Flint. The first issue for which we request assistance from UPS is as follows: Can UPS work with the Michigan State Police to assist in delivery of water filters to those individuals in Flint, because of age, disability or other challenges, are unable to physically visit the various resource centers throughout the City? The water filters (depending on the size of the family) need to be replaced anywhere from 1 to 3 months, so there will be an ongoing need for filters to be available and delivered. Our hope is that these deliveries can be incorporated in UPS' daily scheduled deliveries in Flint. If you can identify a contact for further information, I will connect them with a person who can provide additional detail and with which direct arrangements could be made.

In addition, I confirmed to you our understanding that Linden Nelson worked with Aquahydrate of Los Angeles, California to arrange for the donation of 5,000 cases of water to be shipped to Flint once a month for the next year. Here is some additional information on the filtration system: http://www.michigan.gov/documents/deq/2015-10-21_-_Lead_-_Flint_Water_FINAL_504265_7.pdf

The attached press release that was issued on October 8th, also provides some additional background information for your reference.

On behalf of Governor Snyder, the administration, and Flint, I thank you for your consideration. To assure direct communications are maintained for the greatest efficiency possible, I have included both Harvey Hollins and Tori Sachs on this email, as they are charged with coordinating ongoing efforts and connecting people who want to help, like UPS, with the right people to facilitate the delivery of that help.

John

Subject: Follow Up - Request for Assistance

Ray,

I appreciate speaking with you Thursday and appreciate your patience as we worked on the details related to Flint. The first issue for which we request assistance from UPS is as follows: Can UPS work with the Michigan State Police to assist in delivery of water filters to those individuals in Flint, because of age, disability or other challenges, are unable to physically visit the various resource centers throughout the City? The water filters (depending on the size of the family) need to be replaced anywhere from 1 to 3 months, so there will be an ongoing need for filters to be available and delivered. Our hope is that these deliveries can be incorporated in UPS' daily scheduled deliveries in Flint. If you can identify a contact for further information, I will connect them with a person who can provide additional detail and with which direct arrangements could be made.

In addition, I confirmed to you our understanding that Linden Nelson worked with Aquahydrate of Los Angeles, California to arrange for the donation of 5,000 cases of water to be shipped to Flint once a month for the next year. Here is some additional information on the filtration system: http://www.michigan.gov/documents/deq/2015-10-21_-_Lead_-_Flint_Water_FINAL_504265_7.pdf

The attached press release that was issued on October 8th, also provides some additional background information for your reference.

On behalf of Governor Snyder, the administration, and Flint, I thank you for your consideration. To assure direct communications are maintained for the greatest efficiency possible, I have included both Harvey Hollins and Tori Sachs on this email, as they are charged with coordinating ongoing efforts and connecting people who want to help, like UPS, with the right people to facilitate the delivery of that help.

Hey Phil-

A few other to consider sharing:

- There is a weekly community partners meeting. They meet Thursdays at 3pm (same as the NVOAD Call). If national organizations have local folks who would like to attend, they're free to do so. Moreover, this group is going to be organizing 6 sub-groups for long-term needs: (1) health, (2) mental health, (3) communication, (4) command and control, (5) education, and (6) distribution.

- Michigan VOAD is hosting weekly calls. All are welcome. The next call is scheduled for Tuesday at 2pm Eastern. (641-715-3274 Code:

Pre-decisional not for further distribution Brianna & Phil,

We really appreciate you being able to jump on this afternoon's National VOAD Bi-Weekly Operations Call. The full agenda is at the bottom of this email. I asked to have Flint report out first so that you can jump off the call if need be.

Some potential talking points below. Brianna, feel free to report out on anything you'd like from the state side - please do not feel like you need to stick to talking points below. These are just ideas. Just a reminder that some of the national partners on this call may not be familiar with anything going on, so starting high level about activities would be helpful.

Brianna -

- State EOC is fully activated with many state agencies represented

- Distributing water, water filters, replacement filter cartridges, water tests kits through door-to-door canvassing, POD distribution, etc

- The state has been partnering with many voluntary agencies to accomplish this mission

- Working closely with Red Cross Volunteer Reception Center to engage volunteers in this canvassing efforts

- Any additional details or statistics you may be able to provide. I usually stick to approved stats in State Press Releases. Attached is the state press release from today:

o Since Jan. 9, 2016, the following resources have been distributed to residents, both at the water resource sites and by water response teams:

o 196,456 cases of water

o 95,417 water filters

o 30,255 water testing kits

- Some of the next steps include the launching of a recycling program today at an 11:30 media event (attached media advisory)

- Working to transition distribution of commodities to local voluntary agencies; working closely with them to develop a sustainable plan and model for future distribution

Phil- attached are FEMA's internal daily talking points for questions you may get.

- Start with EM Dec overview

o On January 16, 2016, President Barack Obama declared an emergency for Genesee County in the State of Michigan, limited to Direct Federal Assistance, as a result of the emergency conditions resulting from contaminated water in the city of Flint, authorizing FEMA to support the state in its efforts to respond to the incident.

o Under this emergency declaration, FEMA is authorized to provide emergency protective measures, Category B, limited to Direct Federal Assistance, under the Public Assistance program limited to 75 percent of the total eligible costs.

FEMA will, in coordination with the state, provide water, water filters, water filter cartridges, testing kits, and other necessary related items for a period of up to 90 days from the date of this declaration. We will also provide technical assistance to the state.

- Current number of commodities purchased by the state:

- As of COB January 27, 2016, the following commodities were requested by and provided to the state of Michigan in support of the response to the emergency conditions resulting from contaminated water in the city of Flint.

o 844,200 liters of water

o 102,520 water filter replacement cartridges

o 5,000-23 cup water dispenser & filtration systems (ZeroWater)

o 30,000 water filters

- HHS efforts

- On January 19, 2016, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) was designated as the lead federal agency responsible for coordinating federal government response and recovery efforts in Flint, Michigan.

- FEMA will support HHS as needed to identify and mobilize the capabilities of the rest of the federal partners - including the Small Business Administration, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Department of Agriculture (USDA), and others-that are already working to help residents in Flint.

I hope this helps! If you have any questions please reach out. I will be on the road to Flint but will monitor my BB.

Thanks,
Katie

REMINDER: Bi-Weekly Call Tomorrow

Dear Members and Partners,

Our next bi-weekly operations call will be held tomorrow, January 28th at 3PM EST. Our goal is to provide a platform for communication and collaboration between members and partners. Please report out unmet needs you are experiencing in relation to Flint, Michigan, Winter Storm Jonas, Texas, Mississippi, Missouri and California. Updates of your current activities can be posted to VOADNet/Yammer.

In an effort to make this call as productive as possible and foster collaboration, please report out the following:

1. Brief overview of current operations
2. Resources available
3. Unmet needs

Purpose: To promote information sharing and operational coordination among VOAD Members and Partners. Please provide information regarding where you are responding, any unmet needs and/or available resources.

Audience: Members and Partners responding or interested in responding shared unmet needs and available resources for response and recovery to the following:

- Flint, Michigan
- Winter Storm Jonas
- Texas and Mississippi tornadoes
- Midwest Floods including Missouri and Illinois
- South Carolina
- Other

Pre-decisional not for further distribution

Brianna & Phil,

We really appreciate you being able to jump on this afternoon's National VOAD Bi-Weekly Operations Call. The full agenda is at the bottom of this email. I asked to have Flint report out first so that you can jump off the call if need be.

Some potential talking points below. Brianna, feel free to report out on anything you'd like from the state side – please do not feel like you need to stick to talking points below. These are just ideas. Just a reminder that some of the national partners on this call may not be familiar with anything going on, so starting high level about activities would be helpful.

Brianna –

- State EOC is fully activated with many state agencies represented
- Distributing water, water filters, replacement filter cartridges, water tests kits through door-to-door canvassing, POD distribution, etc
- The state has been partnering with many voluntary agencies to accomplish this mission
- Working closely with Red Cross Volunteer Reception Center to engage volunteers in this canvassing efforts
- Any additional details or statistics you may be able to provide. I usually stick to approved stats in State Press Releases. Attached is the state press release from today:
    - Since Jan. 9, 2016, the following resources have been distributed to residents, both at the water resource sites and by water response teams:
    - 196,456 cases of water
    - 95,417 water filters
    - 30,255 water testing kits
- Some of the next steps include the launching of a recycling program today at an 11:30 media event (attached media advisory)
- Working to transition distribution of commodities to local voluntary agencies; working closely with them to develop a sustainable plan and model for future distribution

Phil- attached are FEMA's internal daily talking points for questions you may get.

- Start with EM Dec overview
    - On January 16, 2016, President Barack Obama declared an emergency for Genesee County in the State of Michigan, limited to Direct Federal Assistance, as a result of the emergency conditions resulting from contaminated water in the city of Flint, authorizing FEMA to support the state in its efforts to respond to the incident.
    - Under this emergency declaration, FEMA is authorized to provide emergency protective measures, Category B, limited to Direct Federal Assistance, under the Public Assistance program limited to 75 percent of the total eligible costs. FEMA will, in coordination with the state, provide water, water filters, water filter cartridges, testing kits, and other necessary related items for a period of up to 90 days from the date of this declaration. We will also provide technical assistance to the state.

- Current number of commodities purchased by the state:
  - As of COB January 27, 2016, the following commodities were requested by and provided to the state of Michigan in support of the response to the emergency conditions resulting from contaminated water in the city of Flint.
    - 844,200 liters of water
    - 102,520 water filter replacement cartridges
    - 5,000-23 cup water dispenser & filtration systems (ZeroWater)
    - 30,000 water filters
- HHS efforts
  - On January 19, 2016, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) was designated as the lead federal agency responsible for coordinating federal government response and recovery efforts in Flint, Michigan.
  - FEMA will support HHS as needed to identify and mobilize the capabilities of the rest of the federal partners – including the Small Business Administration, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and the Department of Agriculture (USDA), and others—that are already working to help residents in Flint.

I hope this helps! If you have any questions please reach out. I will be on the road to Flint but will monitor my BB.

Thanks,
Katie

Hey Calix,

I wanted to touch base as a result of a meeting we had this morning with the Center for Shared Solutions.

For background, they are the centralized resource here at the state for GIS. It's a very large group of GIS professionals with a wide range of skill sets and resources.

They asked how they could get involved and I recommended to them that they could potentially be of great benefit to you with regards to getting local resources optimized or built out that can be used to help manage infrastructure within the city long term. I know that they have standing relationships with ESRI and City Works (which I think is what the DPW is using). They could easily get representatives to the table from these vendors and start helping to build out a plan that is sustainable for the City of Flint that ensures you are getting the best from the software you have.

I don't want to push too far down this route unless you are comfortable with it. But, I think if we orchestrated a meeting with them they could really be helpful.

Please let me know your thoughts.

Hi John,

The Food Bank of Eastern Michigan was accepting donations up to 1 truck, but they are full at the moment. A new press release regarding volunteers and donations has not yet been sent out because we are still trying to figure out a good game plan for public in-kind donations. The state has been working hard on this.

The Community Partner Water Crisis Response Meeting will be tomorrow, Thursday Jan 28 from 3-5pm at the Red Cross, 1401 S Grand Traverse St, Flint, MI 48503. It would be great if The Children's Dream Center could attend. We appreciate you extending this invitation.

Thanks for confirming the call for Friday – we will get appropriate folks on the line from our end.

Best,
Katie

Katie and Wendy (and all other interested parties),

This sound great! Glad we have all connected and we look forward to supporting your efforts and the citizens of Flint as much as we can. We have accepted the water from Niagara. Please let me know your availability to talk about details around the donation and logistics. We obviously want to coordinate this with you and your teams at the right time. We are working to get some further information on the water (size of bottles, expiration dates, etc.). As soon as we have that information I will forward that on to you.

I did receive correspondence back from the Michigan VOAD stating large supplies of water to be directed to the Food Bank of Eastern Michigan in Flint. Can you verify this for me? I will be jumping on a call with them today at 5pm EST. Below is the information Mary Lloyd with the VOAD sent me.

Food Bank of Eastern Michigan
2312 LaPeer Road
Flint 48503

1. Water must be on pallets & wrapped
2. Delivery Accepted: 8am to 3pm Only
3. Dock Time Must be Scheduled before delivery at 810-239-4441

I have arranged for a call with the National VOAD Donations Management Committee for Friday at 1pm EST. We will use your number (1-800-320-4330 PIN 453936), since you may have already communicated that number out. Looking forward to the call on Friday. Any local contacts that can help with messaging or assessments/needs on the ground reports would be great for our National Members to have firsthand knowledge, so they can respond appropriately or not.

Also did either of you have the information regarding the town hall that you were wanting to pull together for the local non-profits? We wanted to pass this information on to our internal local partner in Flint. The Children's Dream Center that is receiving several loads of water today and tomorrow in addition to the 27 truckloads being offered by Niagara.

It was really great touching base with you this evening. I've passed your contact information to the State logistics lead, Wendy Galbreath, who will be reaching out to you regarding the donation offer below. You should hear from her quickly, but if you don't hear from her within 24 hours please let me know and I will follow up.

I've cc'd the MI State VAL, Tom Weber, and also my counterpart, Jeannie Moran, who will be on the ground tomorrow. Tom is on board with a conference call with the NVOAD Donations Management Committee Friday. I'd like to propose 1pm EST if that works for folks? Charlene, I know you're in Hawaii so chime in here with a more appropriate time if that doesn't work for you! We can use my conference line 1-800-320-4330 PIN 453936.

If this works for folks, I will let you coordinate with the NVOAD Donations Committee members if that's okay, and I'll coordinate to get the appropriate folks here on the line.

Thanks again for all your support!

Katie

I also sent an email to my good friend Don Bonchack at headquarters to see if he had any updates. Please let me know if you there is a need for this type of resource. Our Corporate Donor would like to make available 27 truckloads of bottled water for the effort but we don't want to send something to the area that is not needed. Thoughts?

Don,
I would like to talk with you regarding Flint, MI if you are available. We have a donor that has offered up a large supply of water (425 pallets or 27 truckloads) for the effort. I would hate for you to have to use tax-payer dollars on something that the volunteer sector could help support. The question on my end is need on the ground and warehousing operations. I have talked with Charlene Sargent trying to get a feel for things. I have also reached out to the Michigan VOAD Chair but have not heard back yet. My cell number is 405-317-2699. FLINT WATER RESPONSE TEAM

UPDATE | WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 27, 2016

This daily update is being issued in order to provide the latest information regarding actions and available resources.

In Flint today, Governor Snyder held a press conference with Mayor Karen Weaver to announce a comprehensive effort to improve health, infrastructure, and economic opportunities. The goal is to make Flint a stronger city after the water crisis.

As part of that effort, the Governor announced that one of his top aides, Flint-native Rich Baird, will lead a team with an office in the city focused on improving the quality of life.

In addition, the Governor said that Professor Marc Edwards and Dr. Mona Hanna-Attisha, from Hurley Hospital, both instrumental in bringing to light the problems of elevated blood lead levels in the city, have agreed to be part of the Flint Water Interagency Coordinating Council (FWICC).

Click here to read more about the latest updates from Flint.

Since January 9, our water resource teams have been delivering critical clean water resources:

- 186,309 cases of bottled water
- 94,301 filters
- 29,841 water testing kits

REMINDERS

- For Flint water assistance: Dial 211 or visit www.mi.gov/FlintWater

- To donate or volunteer: visit www.HelpForFlint.com
- Residents should install filters to their taps to ensure they have immediate and ongoing access to safe water. Only run cold water through the water filter and use filtered water for drinking and cooking. Monitor the cartridge on the filter and replace as needed.

WATER RESOURCE LOCATIONS
These sites are open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. with the following resources:

- Bottled water
- Water filters
- Replacement cartridges for water filters
- Water testing kits pick-up
- Drop-off location for water testing kits

It's That Time! It's Time to Move!!!

As you may be aware, the State Emergency Operation Center (SEOC) will be relocating from 4000 Collins Road, Lansing to 7150 Harris Drive, Dimondale (known as the General Office Building – GOB) on Friday, January 29, 2016.

All EMHSD staff ASSIGNED to work in the SEOC on Friday, January 29 for the Flint Water Emergency need to report to the new facility at 8 a.m.

Please park in the standard area and enter at the main entrance of the GOB (see attached parking and entrance map). EMHSD staff will be on site by 7:45 a.m. to greet and escort you to the new SEOC.

Please be patient as we all learn our way around, and with new equipment. It may be necessary for us to assign "temporarily" locations of computers in the SEOC; therefore, your position may not be located in its permanent sitting position until early next week.

It has been mentioned to those working within the SEOC, it is important that you secure documents and files you may have stored on the PC's or desktops at Collins Road by saving to a memory stick or you may also talk to the IT support within the SEOC (Rich or Jaclyn) about saving information to the S Drive. You will most likely be working on a different PC, and we want to ensure you have the files you need to continue operations with as little interruption as possible.

Please return your ADT access card for Collins Road, by Thursday night. A container will be placed near the SEOC sign in-sheet for this purpose.

New phone numbers will be established in the SEOC and will be provided as soon as permanent locations are set. Until then, we recommend using your cell if someone needs to contact you.

EMHSD Staff not assigned to an SEOC position on Friday, January 29

By COB Thursday night, our janitorial staff will provide blue recycle bins throughout the building – marked for "trash". Please remove all trash by 10:00 am on Friday and place in these designated bins. She will also leave an extra trash bag in your office. Place this fresh trash bag in your wastepaper basket as this will be used to pack your PC accessories for transport.

Please report to Collins Rd at your normal time on Friday, Jan 29. This will be the final day in this building.

Jeans will be permitted on Friday, Jan 29 and Monday, Feb 1 if you are NOT assigned to the SEOC.

DTMB will begin tearing down computers early Friday morning, thereby making worktime on your PC uncertain. Please accomplish tasks that need to be completed via your computer by COB Thursday.

All EMHSD Staff that are remaining at Collins Road please report to the Kitchen at 8 a.m. Friday morning for a briefing. Friday will be used to scan the entire building to ensure all items are packed and ready for transport.

As noted previously, we MUST ensure there are no paperclips, staples, etc. left in our areas. All drawers, cabinets, shelves, and floors should be double checked. Refrigerators will need to be cleaned once again; NOTHING CAN BE LEFT BEHIND except for furniture that is not being relocated to Harris Rd.

An area has been designated in the kitchen for surplus....it is hopeful that you will not have much left by now, but if you run across small items that have been missed and are intended for surplus, please put them in this area. If it is a quality, useable item, please pack it for transport.

Please ensure you have updated your voice mail message with your new phone #, noting that it will be effective on Monday, February 1. You will be able to check voicemail from Collins Rd for a very short time once we move.

Please leave your ADT access card at the desk of Pam Strobel before you leave on Friday.

You will report at your normal scheduled time to 7150 Harris Drive, Dimondale, MI on Monday, February 1. Please DO NOT come in over the weekend as the movers will be unpacking and placing items throughout the weekend.

Please park in the standard area and enter at the main entrance of the GOB (see attached parking and entrance map). Greeters will be on hand to welcome you to our new work site and find your designated workspace. Assistance will be available throughout the day to help with computers, phones, etc. if needed. A welcome mat will be on your desk indicating key items you need to be aware of. Please take a moment to look it over thoroughly.

This has been a big project for all, and we are confident you will find the new division location a welcoming and efficient area to accomplish all that you do. Be patient as we become acclimated. New phones and new workspace will take time to get accustomed to.

Thanks for all of your patience and hard work. It takes EVERYONE to ensure a smooth move.

If you have any questions, please contact me.

Good Morning Ken-
I was speaking with Katie Halliday, FEMA VAL, this morning to learn more about the nonprofits responding to the Flint Water Crisis, and she sent me your contact information.
Good360 provides nonprofits with corporate product donations. We are currently working with Walmart to assist in the immediate and long-term product needs of the community. Our focus is working with community-based nonprofits that create product needs lists and then we work with our corporate partners like Walmart, CVS and others to fulfill those needs.
This morning Walmart sent out a press release directing the public to our page www.good360.org/flint and we are currently collecting cash donations to cover the costs to provide our nonprofit partners with the products they need.

We are currently partnering with Catholic Charities of Shiawassee and Genesee Counties, Mission of Hope, Think Beyond The Chair and Dedicated Believers Ministries. We are looking to connect with all nonprofits on the ground to assist where we can with both immediate and long-term needs. To create your immediate product needs list, you will need to Register with Good360 online. After registration, click the DISASTER RECOVERY360 button in the top navigation, which will redirect you to a Flint Water Crisis landing page where you should then click the blue button on the left-hand side that says REGISTER FOR THIS DISASTER. The final steps are to fill out the logistics questionnaire and then create your product needs list. I have also attached a PDF with instructions.

Again, we are committed to providing the community with immediate and long-term needs, and would like to assist your efforts in any way that we can.
Please feel free to reach out with any questions. Thanks for all you do in your community!

Regards,
Lindsay Jones

Hi John,

The Food Bank of Eastern Michigan was accepting donations up to 1 truck, but they are full at the moment. A new press release regarding volunteers and donations has not yet been sent out because we are still trying to figure out a good game plan for public in-kind donations. The state has been working hard on this.

The Community Partner Water Crisis Response Meeting will be tomorrow, Thursday Jan 28 from 3-5pm at the Red Cross, 1401 S Grand Traverse St, Flint, MI 48503. It would be great if The Children's Dream Center could attend. We appreciate you extending this invitation.

Thanks for confirming the call for Friday – we will get appropriate folks on the line from our end.

Best,
Katie

Katie and Wendy (and all other interested parties),

This sound great! Glad we have all connected and we look forward to supporting your efforts and the citizens of Flint as much as we can. We have accepted the water from Niagara. Please let me know your availability to talk about details around the donation and logistics. We obviously want to coordinate this with you and your teams at the right time. We are working to get some further information on the water (size of bottles, expiration dates, etc.). As soon as we have that information I will forward that on to you.

I did receive correspondence back from the Michigan VOAD stating large supplies of water to be directed to the Food Bank of Eastern Michigan in Flint. Can you verify this for me? I will be jumping on a call with them today at 5pm EST. Below is the information Mary Lloyd with the VOAD sent me.

Food Bank of Eastern Michigan
2312 LaPeer Road
Flint 48503

1. Water must be on pallets & wrapped
2. Delivery Accepted: 8am to 3pm Only
3. Dock Time Must be Scheduled before delivery at 810-239-4441

I have arranged for a call with the National VOAD Donations Management Committee for Friday at 1pm EST. We will use your number (1-800-320-4330 PIN 453936), since you may have already communicated that number out. Looking forward to the call on Friday. Any local contacts that can help with messaging or assessments/needs on the ground reports would be great for our National Members to have firsthand knowledge, so they can respond appropriately or not.

Also did either of you have the information regarding the town hall that you were wanting to pull together for the local non-profits? We wanted to pass this information on to our internal local partner in Flint. The Children's Dream Center that is receiving several loads of water today and tomorrow in addition to the 27 truckloads being offered by Niagara.

John,

It was really great touching base with you this evening. I've passed your contact information to the State logistics lead, Wendy Galbreath, who will be reaching out to you regarding the donation offer below. You should hear from her quickly, but if you don't hear from her within 24 hours please let me know and I will follow up.

I've cc'd the MI State VAL, Tom Weber, and also my counterpart, Jeannie Moran, who will be on the ground tomorrow. Tom is on board with a conference call with the NVOAD Donations Management Committee Friday. I'd like to propose 1pm EST if that works for folks? Charlene, I know you're in Hawaii so chime in here with a more appropriate time if that doesn't work for you! We can use my conference line 1-800-320-4330 PIN 453936.

If this works for folks, I will let you coordinate with the NVOAD Donations Committee members if that's okay, and I'll coordinate to get the appropriate folks here on the line.

Thanks again for all your support!
Best,
Katie

Kathryn,
I have recently been in contact with Charlene Sargent with Adventist Community Services trying to get an update on needs on the ground in Flint, MI regarding the Water Crisis. I also sent an email to my good friend Don Bonchack at headquarters to see if he had any updates. Please let me know if you there is a need for this type of resource. Our Corporate Donor would like to make available 27 truckloads of bottled water for the effort but we don't want to send something to the area that is not needed. Thoughts?

See me email below to Don as well.

Don,
I would like to talk with you regarding Flint, MI if you are available. We have a donor that has offered up a large supply of water (425 pallets or 27 truckloads) for the effort. I would hate for you to have to use tax-payer dollars on something that the volunteer sector could help support. The question on my end is need on the ground and warehousing operations. I have talked with Charlene Sargent trying to get a feel for things. I have also reached out to the Michigan VOAD Chair but have not heard back yet. My cell number is 405-317-2699. Good Morning Ken-
I was speaking with Katie Halliday, FEMA VAL, this morning to learn more about the nonprofits responding to the Flint Water Crisis, and she sent me your contact information.
Good360 provides nonprofits with corporate product donations. We are currently working with Walmart to assist in the immediate and long-term product needs of the community. Our focus is working with community-based nonprofits that create product needs lists and then we work with our corporate partners like Walmart, CVS and others to fulfill those needs.
This morning Walmart sent out a press release directing the public to our page www.good360.org/flint and we are currently collecting cash donations to cover the costs to provide our nonprofit partners with the products they need.

We are currently partnering with Catholic Charities of Shiawassee and Genesee Counties, Mission of Hope, Think Beyond The Chair and Dedicated Believers Ministries. We are looking to connect with all nonprofits on the ground to assist where we can with both immediate and long-term needs. To create your immediate product needs list, you will need to Register with Good360 online. After registration, click the DISASTER RECOVERY360 button in the top navigation, which will redirect you to a Flint Water Crisis landing page where you should then click the blue button on the left-hand side that says REGISTER FOR THIS DISASTER. The final steps are to fill out the logistics questionnaire and then create your product needs list. I have also attached a PDF with instructions.

Again, we are committed to providing the community with immediate and long-term needs, and would like to assist your efforts in any way that we can.
Please feel free to reach out with any questions. Thanks for all you do in your community!

Regards,
Lindsay Jones

Daily call numbers would be most helpful, even if they aren't flint-specific. The more detailed call reports (w/ unmet needs and referrals) would be helpful to have on a weekly basis. Would this work for you guys?

Linda & Tom,

Thanks again for the reports yesterday. Any number data that you're able to send on a daily basis is much appreciated. However, we understand the limitations and time it takes to clean up numbers.

It would be great if reports could come to myself, Tom Weber, Richard Thelen, and my colleague Jeannie Moran (all copied here). Jeannie is the Region 5 VAL and will be on the ground working alongside me this afternoon.

Tom, if you could also add Jeannie to your daily summary distro that would be great.

Much appreciated!

The one sheet is all the calls and not only Flint calls. I have attached a spreadsheet of only Flint calls for Jan 15-22.

The 2nd spreadsheet is a report from our IVR system. When people dial 211 in Central MI they reach a menu that asks if they are calling about the Flint water to press 5 otherwise press 3. If they do not press a number or press anything but 5 they are sent to the normal zip code routing script that asks their zip code and routes them through the normal Central 2111 menu system.

Pressing 5 on the 1st menu gets you to another message that asks if you are calling about Water to press a number and if calling for Donor/Volunteer press another number. The numbers show how many people pressed which number to get to water information or donor/volunteer information.

Tom & Linda,

Thank you both so much. I understand from Linda's previous email that the one spreadsheet is ALL calls taken by the centers not only the Flint calls. This is super helpful. It would be nice to touch base just to make sure I understand how to interpret the 2nd spreadsheet.

Thanks again!

Katie and Wendy (and all other interested parties),

This sound great! Glad we have all connected and we look forward to supporting your efforts and the citizens of Flint as much as we can. We have accepted the water from Niagara. Please let me know your availability to talk about details around the donation and logistics. We obviously want to coordinate this with you and your teams at the right time. We are working to get some further information on the water (size of bottles, expiration dates, etc.). As soon as we have that information I will forward that on to you.

I did receive correspondence back from the Michigan VOAD stating large supplies of water to be directed to the Food Bank of Eastern Michigan in Flint. Can you verify this for me? I will be jumping on a call with them today at 5pm EST. Below is the information Mary Lloyd with the VOAD sent me.

Food Bank of Eastern Michigan
2312 LaPeer Road
Flint 48503

1. Water must be on pallets & wrapped
2. Delivery Accepted: 8am to 3pm Only
3. Dock Time Must be Scheduled before delivery at 810-239-4441

I have arranged for a call with the National VOAD Donations Management Committee for Friday at 1pm EST. We will use your number (1-800-320-4330 PIN 453936), since you may have already communicated that number out. Looking forward to the call on Friday. Any local contacts that can help with messaging or assessments/needs on the ground reports would be great for our National Members to have firsthand knowledge, so they can respond appropriately or not.

Also did either of you have the information regarding the town hall that you were wanting to pull together for the local non-profits? We wanted to pass this information on to our internal local partner in Flint. The Children's Dream Center that is receiving several loads of water today and tomorrow in addition to the 27 truckloads being offered by Niagara.

John,

It was really great touching base with you this evening. I've passed your contact information to the State logistics lead, Wendy Galbreath, who will be reaching out to you regarding the donation offer below. You should hear from her quickly, but if you don't hear from her within 24 hours please let me know and I will follow up.

I've cc'd the MI State VAL, Tom Weber, and also my counterpart, Jeannie Moran, who will be on the ground tomorrow. Tom is on board with a conference call with the NVOAD Donations Management Committee Friday. I'd like to propose 1pm EST if that works for folks? Charlene, I know you're in Hawaii so chime in here with a more appropriate time if that doesn't work for you! We can use my conference line 1-800-320-4330 PIN 453936.

If this works for folks, I will let you coordinate with the NVOAD Donations Committee members if that's okay, and I'll coordinate to get the appropriate folks here on the line.

Thanks again for all your support!
Best,
Katie

Kathryn,
I have recently been in contact with Charlene Sargent with Adventist Community Services trying to get an update on needs on the ground in Flint, MI regarding the Water Crisis. I also sent an email to my good friend Don Bonchack at headquarters to see if he had any updates. Please let me know if you there is a need for this type of resource. Our Corporate Donor would like to make available 27 truckloads of bottled water for the effort but we don't want to send something to the area that is not needed. Thoughts?

See me email below to Don as well.

Don,
I would like to talk with you regarding Flint, MI if you are available. We have a donor that has offered up a large supply of water (425 pallets or 27 truckloads) for the effort. I would hate for you to have to use tax-payer dollars on something that the volunteer sector could help support. The question on my end is need on the ground and warehousing operations. I have talked with Charlene Sargent trying to get a feel for things. I have also reached out to the Michigan VOAD Chair but have not heard back yet. Michigan State Police Warn Young Men of New Social Media Scam
TV 9&10
1.26.16

Here's how it works.

Troopers say someone claiming to be a woman reaches out to victims and establishes an online relationship.

The scammer then sends sexually explicit pictures and videos and asks for them in return.

The girl gets offended and her so-called "dad" becomes involved because she says she is "underage".

The father then claims to be a police offer and demands money or he'll go to a judge.

Troopers want to make it clear that this is extortion and you should never send intimate photos online.

If you think you are being scammed do not send money and contact police.

"Our advice is that; one, you never send out a picture or a video that puts you in a precarious situation of a personal nature. We also suggest that you never send money especially if it's an extorted kind of relationship, where you did this now you need to send me money." Says Grant Guzikowski of Michigan State Police

Troopers say this scam is primarily happening in the Houghton Lake area.

Body exhumed in hopes of giving 1996 victim a name
Christine Ferretti
The Detroit News
1.26.15

Highland Park — After two decades in an unmarked grave, Michigan State Police have exhumed the body of a young murder victim to extract DNA in hopes of cracking the case and giving her a name.

The woman was found fatally wounded at first light on May 20, 1996, in an alley on Cortland near the Lodge Freeway in Highland Park.

Neighbors at the time told police they'd heard a gunshot in the early morning hours prior. The woman, believed to be between the ages of 15 and 25, had suffered a gunshot wound to the throat.

Highland Park Police sought tips and reached out to the media repeatedly, but no eyewitnesses came forward, nor did potential relatives.

With no leads, the girl was ultimately laid to rest in an unmarked grave the following April as the state's "unidentified female No. 17" for 1996, says Michigan Police Detective Sgt. Sarah Krebs.

But Krebs said the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children in 2015 provided funding to have the girl exhumed from a Canton Township cemetery to obtain DNA. Her body was unearthed in October. It's now being stored with the Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office.

The DNA sampling is being processed, Krebs said, adding she's hopeful that a fresh look at the long unsolved case will generate tips.

"There has been quite a bit of activity on this case, but still no leads. Right now, we have no idea who she is," Krebs said. "She was a young girl, which makes you think somebody realized she was missing, too."

Highland Park Police Detective Kelly Dupuis has been working the case for two years along with state and federal authorities. It's an investigation she says has been "completely cold" despite the woman's clear description, unique clothing and watch.

"We haven't gotten anywhere with it," Dupuis said.

The Jane Doe was dressed in a white skirt and a T-shirt covered with yellow smiley faces and red lip prints, her naturally curly reddish-brown hair pulled into a ponytail.

She wore size eight-and-a-half black tennis shoes with white trim, and a gold-tone watch shaped like a teddy bear with a brown leather wrist strap. She had long, purple-painted fingernails and pink polish on her toes.

The girl had freckles and brown eyes, was 5-foot-3 and weighed about 190 pounds. Although the autopsy report described her as an African-American female, police say she appeared to be bi-racial or even caucasian.

Dupuis says the body was found close to the Lodge Freeway, which leads authorities to believe the woman may have been traveling along the freeway with her killer.

"I want someone to come forward if they recognize her. That's No. 1," she said. "Even if they don't know who she is, if they know something about the homicide."

The Jane Doe marks the fifth exhumation of a possible juvenile that the state has conducted since 2010 with funding from the national center.

The case could be viewed by the public for the first time in November 2013, when it was entered into the National Missing and Unidentified Persons System — or NamUs, Krebs said.

Michigan State Police have identified 45 people since they began using the database as cases have been resolved by DNA evidence, fingerprints or dental records connected to missing persons.

Michigan has 301 unidentified persons cases. About 30 of those are juveniles, Krebs said.

In two recent cases, the Michigan State Police Missing Persons Coordination Unit identified remains leading to convictions in the deaths of French artist Bilal Berreni and Detroit grandmother Evelyn Gunter.

The State Police unit includes Krebs, who is the coordinator of the missing persons side, while her colleague, Jane Wankmiller, is an analyst with human remains, dealing with unidentified cases.

Prior to forming the unit, Michigan officials were not submitting DNA evidence or actively putting cases into a database to try to connect the state's missing persons with unidentified remains, Krebs said.

Officials say there's a chance that the unknown woman's DNA could find a hit if a family reference sample is logged in the system.

In 2011, State Police and other Michigan law enforcement agencies joined forces to solicit family members and friends of Michigan's missing to gather for a free data-collection event and vigil.

The annual program, Missing in Michigan, was spearheaded by Krebs and is the first of its kind in the state — possibly the country — that commemorates missing loved ones and allows authorities and relatives to log new tips, collect DNA and update and create missing person profiles in NamUs. This year's event will take place May 14 at the Detroit Public Safety Headquarters.

"There are hundreds and hundreds of family reference DNA samples now due to the event," said Krebs.

Anyone with questions or information on the Highland Park Jane Doe case can submit them to msp-missingpersons@michigan.gov or, contact Detective Dupuis at (313) 600-9205.

Blue Alerts start Monday, warn public about suspects in police violence
WWMT TV 3
1.27.16

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (NEWSCHANNEL 3) -- You've heard of Amber Alerts and Silver Alerts, but what about Blue Alerts?

Next week the state of Michigan is launching a new alert system that will be used when there's violence against law enforcement.

If a police officer is killed or seriously injured while on the job, an alert will be sent out all over the state, including your smartphone.

This is so the public can look out for a dangerous suspect, and maybe even help to track them down.

"Certainly if anyone is willing to kill an officer, it makes that person much more dangerous in the public," said State Senator Tonya Schuitmaker, a republican from Lawton.

Senator Schuitmaker sponsored the Blue Alert legislation which is now law.

"We were able to just institute the Blue Alert in with the Silver Alert and the Amber Alert, so there was really no cost to the taxpayer," Schuitmaker said.

Here's how it works.

If an officer is killed or seriously injured on the job, Michigan State Police will be notified.

"There is an information center in Lansing that would collect this, and then distribute it out as fast as possible," said Kalamazoo County Sheriff Richard Fuller.

The alert will be blasted out to media outlets and cellphones.

The message will contain where the incident happened, a description of the suspect or suspects, and what kind of vehicle they could be in.

"Once that attack has happened, they become a different person and they know someone is going to come looking for them. That's where I want to make sure that all of our citizens understand that we need your help to locate as soon as possible so we can end the situation peacefully before anyone is hurt," Sheriff Fuller said.

When proposing the system, lawmakers took into account how a Blue Alert could have helped in recent police shootings in Michigan.

"So certainly seconds count and having more eyes and ears on the ground to capture that dangerous suspect is very important," Schuitmaker said.

Michigan is now the 25th state to adopt a Blue Alert system.

It starts up Monday, February 1.

Flint police investigate second homicide in less than 24 hours
MLive
Robert Acosta
1.26.16

FLINT, MI -- Police are investigating the city's second homicide in less than 24 hours.

Officers were called to a building in the 3200 block of North Saginaw shortly after 5 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 26 for a shooting.

Police said one adult male is dead and one suspect has been taken into custody for questioning.

Flint police responded to the scene at the intersection of Saginaw and Jamieson streets, as well as Genesee County Sheriff's deputies and Michigan State Police.

Jamieson Street is closed at Saginaw Street. The homicide is the second one in less than 24 hours and second of the year in Flint.

Police responded around 8 a.m. Tuesday morning to the 1000 block of East Boulevard Drive where they found a man that had been shot to death outside a vacant home at the intersection with Demarr Street.

Anyone with information on either homicide is asked to contact the Flint Police Department at 810-237-6800.

To remain anonymous, contact Crime Stoppers by calling 1-800-SPEAK-UP, texting CSM and your tip to CRIMES (274637) or by going online to 1800speakup.org.

Drunken man invades home of Milford cop
Laura Colvin
Hometown Life (via Detroit Free Press)
1.27.15

A Milford police officer who fell asleep on the couch while watching a movie with his wife Friday woke to find an intruder in his home in the Village of Milford.

Alexander Jay Odden, 30, who lives in an apartment on the same street, was arraigned Saturday in 52-1 District Court on charges of first degree home invasion and assault and battery.

According to Milford Police Chief Tom Lindberg, the officer's wife woke at about 12:30 p.m. and screamed when she saw a man inside her home, alerting her husband, who chased the intruder as he ran out the back door and attempted to flee, a police report stated.

The officer reportedly identified himself as a law enforcement agent and ordered the man to stop. When the man did not stop, the officer grabbed the intruder by his coat and took him to the ground as the man threw punches in an attempt to escape.

The officer, who sustained minor injuries to his right arm during the scuffle, held the man on the ground while his wife called 911. On-duty Milford police officers arrived and arrested the man.

The intruder reportedly took the officer's coat, which had been in the kitchen, but threw it on the deck in the rear of the house when he was trying to escape. Police also discovered the center console of the officer's car had been rummaged through, but nothing was missing.

The suspect, who reportedly blew a preliminary breath test of 0.14% and had a bottle of whiskey in his coat pocket, told police he was "drunk and thought he was going into a friend's house."

Lindberg said evidence indicated otherwise.

"This incident didn't have anything to do with the homeowner being a police officer," Lindberg said. "It was a random circumstance; this guy was going around the neighborhood checking for open doors. The homeowners fell asleep watching TV; had they gotten up to retire for the evening, they most certainly would have locked the doors before going to bed.

"While Milford is statistically a very safe community," he continued, "random things can happen anywhere. Make sure to lock the doors of your home and your car."

Odden was arraigned Saturday before Magistrate Joanne Faycurry at 52-1 District court, given a $15,000 bond and released on 10 percent cash surety.

According to Lindberg, Odden has prior convictions for narcotics, retail fraud and larceny in a building. None of his prior offenses occurred in Milford, but Lindberg said officers are "very familiar" with the man.

"I'm extremely disappointed in the bond that was set by the magistrate," Lindberg said. "Not so much the $15,000, but the fact that he was released on 10%.

Is LARA the proper agency to contact the Realtor's association? I assume their concern is their liability under the Lead Disclosure forms that are required.

Had a conversation with the MAR office, Kathy Feldpausch late yesterday. She has a conference call this morning with the Genesee County Board of Realtors and I'll know more about this situation later today. We conducted a survey yesterday with our MSHDA approved Lenders and the majority as stating that business as usual. Only one is sharing that they will require water testing and any unacceptable lead testing will stop the transaction from closing.

It would be great if reports could come to myself, Tom Weber, Richard Thelen, and my colleague Jeannie Moran (all copied here). Jeannie is the Region 5 VAL and will be on the ground working alongside me this afternoon.

Tom, if you could also add Jeannie to your daily summary distro that would be great.

The one sheet is all the calls and not only Flint calls. I have attached a spreadsheet of only Flint calls for Jan 15-22.

The 2nd spreadsheet is a report from our IVR system. When people dial 211 in Central MI they reach a menu that asks if they are calling about the Flint water to press 5 otherwise press 3. If they do not press a number or press anything but 5 they are sent to the normal zip code routing script that asks their zip code and routes them through the normal Central 2111 menu system.

Pressing 5 on the 1st menu gets you to another message that asks if you are calling about Water to press a number and if calling for Donor/Volunteer press another number. The numbers show how many people pressed which number to get to water information or donor/volunteer information.

The attached is the total of all documented calls (no duplicate transaction ids) in Refer for Jan 11-25th by contact center. Note: There has been no clean up of the records - being sure they were documented for the correct center, escape calls, unfinished calls etc so the numbers will change in the future if the report is run again.

Thanks again for the reports yesterday. Any number data that you're able to send on a daily basis is much appreciated. However, we understand the limitations and time it takes to clean up numbers.

It would be great if reports could come to myself, Tom Weber, Richard Thelen, and my colleague Jeannie Moran (all copied here). Jeannie is the Region 5 VAL and will be on the ground working alongside me this afternoon.

Tom, if you could also add Jeannie to your daily summary distro that would be great.

Much appreciated!

The one sheet is all the calls and not only Flint calls. I have attached a spreadsheet of only Flint calls for Jan 15-22.

The 2nd spreadsheet is a report from our IVR system. When people dial 211 in Central MI they reach a menu that asks if they are calling about the Flint water to press 5 otherwise press 3. If they do not press a number or press anything but 5 they are sent to the normal zip code routing script that asks their zip code and routes them through the normal Central 2111 menu system.

Pressing 5 on the 1st menu gets you to another message that asks if you are calling about Water to press a number and if calling for Donor/Volunteer press another number. The numbers show how many people pressed which number to get to water information or donor/volunteer information.

I have recently been in contact with Charlene Sargent with Adventist Community Services trying to get an update on needs on the ground in Flint, MI regarding the Water Crisis. I also sent an email to my good friend Don Bonchack at headquarters to see if he had any updates. Please let me know if you there is a need for this type of resource. Our Corporate Donor would like to make available 27 truckloads of bottled water for the effort but we don't want to send something to the area that is not needed. Thoughts?

Kathryn,
I have recently been in contact with Charlene Sargent with Adventist Community Services trying to get an update on needs on the ground in Flint, MI regarding the Water Crisis. I also sent an email to my good friend Don Bonchack at headquarters to see if he had any updates. Please let me know if you there is a need for this type of resource. Our Corporate Donor would like to make available 27 truckloads of bottled water for the effort but we don't want to send something to the area that is not needed. Thoughts?

See me email below to Don as well.

Thank you Mary. I will defer to MSP and I am looping them into this email.

MSP Team: MSHDA contacted 437 single family household in Flint yesterday that have a MSHDA financed mortgages to determine if they needed filters. Below is a list of 24 households that didn't have filters (pay no attention to the color differential) that would like them.

I wanted to share this list with your team before proceeding any further in order to get direction on how to best proceed. Your team was most helpful last Friday in getting the additional filters out to our two larger rental units and if you can do the same here, we would be most appreciative. If not, we are happy to deliver.

Dave:

Attached is a spreadsheet of addresses (in alpha order by street) that could be used as a starting point tomorrow. These addresses have been identified as having lead lines, but don't currently show in our records as having a filter. Unfortunately this data isn't by city section, so it won't be easy to route map these out.

I attempted to send the single maps, but even the zipped file was too big. Jim has compressed even further, so I will try resending shortly.

I apologize for the late data tonight. Hopefully going forward, things are a little more timely; although, I feel like I continue to promise that as well. ☹

Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns. I'll be leaving for the night in a few, but my cell phone s always by me, so don't hesitate to reach out.

Thanks,

Brianna

It was really great touching base with you this evening. I've passed your contact information to the State logistics lead, Wendy Galbreath, who will be reaching out to you regarding the donation offer below. You should hear from her quickly, but if you don't hear from her within 24 hours please let me know and I will follow up.

I've cc'd the MI State VAL, Tom Weber, and also my counterpart, Jeannie Moran, who will be on the ground tomorrow. Tom is on board with a conference call with the NVOAD Donations Management Committee Friday. I'd like to propose 1pm EST if that works for folks? Charlene, I know you're in Hawaii so chime in here with a more appropriate time if that doesn't work for you! We can use my conference line 1-800-320-4330 PIN

If this works for folks, I will let you coordinate with the NVOAD Donations Committee members if that's okay, and I'll coordinate to get the appropriate folks here on the line.

Thanks again for all your support!

Dear State Agency Emergency Management Coordinators:

As you are aware, the State Emergency Operation Center (SEOC) will be relocating from 4000 Collins Road, Lansing to 7150 Harris Drive, Dimondale (known as the General Office Building – GOB) on Friday, January 29, 2016.

All State Agency Emergency Management Coordinators (SEMC) currently working on the Flint Water Emergency need to report to the new facility at 8 a.m. on Friday, January 29, 2016.

Please park in the standard area and enter at the main entrance of the GOB (see attached parking and entrance map). EMHSD staff will be on site by 7:45 a.m. to greet and escort you to the new SEOC.

We ask for your patience as we all learn our way around and with new equipment. It may be necessary for us to assign "temporarily" locations of computers in the SEOC; therefore, you may not be located in your permanent sitting position until early next week.

It has been mentioned to the SEMC or alternate working within the SEOC throughout the week, it is important that you secure documents and files you may have stored on the PC's or desktops at Collins Road by saving to a memory stick or you may also talk to the IT support within the SEOC (Rich or Jaclyn) about saving information to the S Drive. You will most likely be working on a different PC, and we want to ensure you have the files you need to continue operations with as little interruption as possible. If you have manuals specific to your discipline in the current SEOC, please take those with you on Thursday and bring them to the Harris Road SEOC on Friday morning. If you are not working in the SEOC at this time and have manuals specific to your discipline, please stop by before Thursday night to retrieve them. Any materials left behind will be discarded.

Please return your ADT access card for Collins Road, by Thursday. A container will be placed near the SEOC sign in-sheet for this purpose.

New phone numbers will be established in the SEOC and will be provided as soon as permanent locations are set. Until then, we recommend using your cell if someone needs to contact you.

If you have any questions, please contact me.

Thank you,
Pam

VALs and VOAD Chairs-

On my first day back from vacation, I received deployment orders to support the Flint, Michigan water issue. I head out tomorrow. I'm looking forward to working with Tom and Ken!

As some of you may already know, Katie has recently accepted a transfer to FEMA Region I to be closer to family. She plans to send you and other partners an email soon with more details, but to that end, I'll still be your primary POC while I'm deployed. There may be a slight delay in my responses, but I'll try to minimize that if I can!

Thanks for your flexibility and partnership, everyone!

Just a quick note to let you know that I'll be out of the country starting Thursday night. I'm going to Iceland for a little vacation! If you have anything that you need from me, I can try to get it to you before I leave.

I'll be back on the 25th but if you need anything while I'm gone, Katie will be your POC. I know there's activity in some of the states, so we're around to support you!

Subject: MORE: Walmart News Release January 26, 2016

From Walmart's website – press release issued today. I'll listen in to the press conference, in case additional information is announced:

Walmart, Coca-Cola, Nestlé and PepsiCo Come Together to Provide Flint, Mich., Public Schools with Water for Students Through the End of the Year

Donations will provide up to 6.5 million bottles of water for approximately 10,000 Flint public school students. Walmart support also enables the public to make donations via online platform Good360.

Bentonville, Ark., January 26, 2016 – Walmart today announced support for the Flint, Mich., community through donations, education and online services. Walmart, Coca-Cola, Nestlé and PepsiCo will collectively donate water to meet the daily needs of over 10,000 school children for the balance of the calendar year. That translates to 176 truckloads, or up to 6.5 million bottles of water, to help with relief efforts for those affected by the water crisis in Flint.
Digital Press Kit

How Good360 is Revolutionizing Relief Efforts

In addition to the water donation, the companies are encouraging others to support the Flint community by working with Good360, where nonprofits operating in Flint are listing their needs online. Walmart and its suppliers will continue to work closely in the Flint community and are encouraging the public to get involved by visiting www.good360.org/flint to make donations that will go directly to local nonprofits serving the community.

Walmart previously helped fund Good360's disaster recovery platform through a $1 million grant announced on the 10-year anniversary of Hurricane Katrina. Walmart and Sam's Club will continue serving the community through its stores and clubs, where associates in pharmacies can share basic health tips and offer information on resources available in the community.

"The water crisis is personal to us here in Flint. Those affected include our own associates, customers and their families," said Beth Harris, store manager at Walmart, Flint, Mich. Our associates are proud to be a part of the effort to help our friends and neighbors."

"At Walmart, we take pride in using our strengths to help communities like Flint during times of crisis, as we've done around the world in times of need," said Dan Bartlett, executive vice president of Corporate Affairs for Walmart. "We're working to ensure that the children of Flint, the city's most vulnerable citizens, have access to safe water."

Walmart has already donated 14 trucks of water, or 504,000 bottles, and 1,792 water filters to the Flint community since July 2015. Coca-Cola has donated nearly 78,720 bottles of Dasani to local food banks and foundations and to approximately 40 associates living in the affected area. Nestlé Waters North America has already donated five truckloads, or more than 190,000 bottles, to Flint community organizations since October 2015. PepsiCo has donated almost 95,000 bottles of water to Flint and the families of the company's employees over the past four months.

"We are grateful for Walmart and their suppliers' support during this crisis," said Bilal Tawwab, Flint Community Schools Superintendent. "With their generous support, District students will have access to clean drinking water, and more importantly, the ability to focus on their education."

"PepsiCo believes that access to safe water is a basic human right," said Tony West, executive vice president, PepsiCo Government Affairs. "We are committed to supporting the communities where we operate, and our collective action today will allow Flint school children and their parents to focus on their education rather than where they can find clean water."

"Nestlé Waters is proud to team up with Walmart to expand our ongoing work to provide clean, safe bottled water for Flint residents," said Cameron Lorrain, plant manager for the Michigan-based Ice Mountain® and Nestlé Pure Life® brand operations. "We will continue to work in partnership with other companies, local officials and relief organizations to ensure that families in Flint have access to a steady supply of safe drinking water."

"We are committed to supporting Walmart and other groups in water relief efforts for the Flint community," said Lori George Billingsley, vice president of Community Relations, Coca-Cola North America. "This critical initiative to provide bottled water to the two Flint school districts builds on our heritage of supporting disaster relief work around the world. Over the past 19 months, we have donated bottled water, volunteer hours and supported our employees in the affected area and will continue to look for ways to help meet the community's needs."

Walmart has a long history of providing aid in times of disaster by donating emergency supplies, such as food and water, home and personal products, and by creating ways for associates and community members to locate and help one another. Over the past 10 years, Walmart and the Walmart Foundation have provided more than $50 million in cash, in addition to in kind support, in response to events such as typhoons in Mexico and the Philippines, tsunamis in Asia, floods in the U.K. and Canada, tornadoes in the U.S., Africa's Ebola epidemic and many other tragedies. Walmart and the Walmart Foundation also invested $7.2 million over the past 10 years to build community resiliency.

Walmart, Water Companies To Make Announcement Regarding Water Crisis In Flint

Fox, January 26, 2016

Walmart, Coca-Cola, Nestle and Pepsico are teaming up to help Flint. Walmart says it has a big announcement to make this afternoon.

Many of you have taken to social media wondering why the makers of the bottled water haven't donated to the people in Flint. Well, today there might be an announcement of a donation. Walmart sent out an alert it would be making a major announcement this afternoon at 12:30 at a Walmart store in Flint. It has teamed up with Coca-Cola, Nestle, and PepsiCo. We will update this story after the announcement.

Hi Lindsay,

It was nice touching base with you just now. This is such a great opportunity to resource non-profits on the ground for the short and long-term – thank you again for being so proactive with this platform! I've copied the State VAL, Tom Weber, for visibility and any needs you may want to discuss with the State of Michigan over the long term. I've also cc'd Jeannie Moran, our FEMA Region 5 VAL who will be on the ground tomorrow working with me. I will be leaving the operation next Monday, Feb 1, and Jeannie will be taking over from there.

Attached is a list of all the non-profits that have either 1) attended the weekly community partner meeting; 2) are engaged in state-led distribution efforts; or 3) have reached out to me directly to get connected to local operations. I believe I've removed all the government contacts.

This may not be all-inclusive of partners on the ground (especially local faith-based orgs), but it's the list I've been able to compile so far.

As I mentioned, I will reach out to the Red Cross to see if we can get you on a conference call during this Thursday's Community Partner Water Crisis Response Meeting to present this opportunity to all the partners together and answer any questions they may have.

Nice to e-meet you. (Thanks for the intro, Don!)

My nonprofit, Good360, meets the product needs of nonprofit with corporate product donations. A number of our donors are interested in helping with the Flint Water Crisis and so we are collecting the needs of nonprofits on the ground. We are currently working with the Catholic Charities and have connected with the local United Way and a State EM working on in-kind. Don connected me with you as someone that may know other nonprofits we should work with. We are committed to immediate and long-term needs and a banner for individuals to donate cash to deliver these needs will be up on the Walmart.com site and possibly some other Fortune 500 companies.

Would be happy to discuss further on a call or if you could make any intros that would be great!

I wanted to pass along some contacts and news articles that I think may be helpful. I've received a few local news articles today (copied below) with concerns about people with disabilities and others with access and functional needs.

If not already connected with the state, I think the following individuals/organizations would be very helpful in many ways- which may include providing advice on accessible messaging, being force multipliers for messages, providing technical assistance on how to make operational tasks more accessible and inclusive. They would be great partners to pass information to and to include in discussions of long term recovery. They can also provide on the ground information about concerns and needs of individuals with disabilities in the area.

I am more than happy to reach out. At this point, I do not know the best person to connect them with at the State. If you want to advise me on who that would be and have me make the connection, that would be great. Otherwise, feel free to pass this information along to the appropriate person.

Hi Tom,

Current messaging from Michigan Department of Health and Human Services regarding bathing:

- Parents can maintain routine bathing practices. We do recommend that bath time be used for bathing only, after which children should be taken out of the bath rather than be allowed to play in the water for extended periods of time.
- We are aware that there have been concerns related to rashes.
- If a resident has a rash that they are concerned about, we recommend they contact their primary care doctor.
- Currently, rashes are only reportable to MDHHS when there is a suspect infectious disease such as measles or chickenpox.
- MDHHS is working together with the CDC and Genesee County Health Department to ensure we're monitoring health issues that may be related to water.
- We will be building on our partnership with the local provider community to determine what additional supports and surveillance may be necessary.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Ron

Subject: 2-1-1 Update Flint Water Response for Monday, January 25, 2016

This is the daily 2-1-1 summary on the Flint Water Response for Monday, January 25, 2016

GENERAL INFORMATION:

☑ Thank you to the PIOs and DHHS partners who offered to discuss the growing public perception that 2-1-1 is a state agency and how the state is promoting 2-1-1 for the response. I will work to coordinate a meeting or conference call later this week.

- There are two major public meetings this week.
    - Tuesday, January 26 at 5pm the NAACP is holding a Public Mass Meeting at University of Michigan-Flint, Northbank Center, 432 N. SAGINAW STREET, FLINT, MI 48502. The meeting will be hosted by Cornell William Brooks, national NAACP President & CEO.
    - Wednesday, January 27 at 7pm MSNBC's Rachel Maddow will be hosting a broadcast town meeting at Brownell/Holmes STEM Academy, 6602 Oxley Dr., Flint. See link at http://www.mlive.com/news/flint/index.ssf/2016/01/what_to_know_about_rachel_madd.html.
- The Flint Water Plant reported it is receiving the results of lead tests and is compiling the results from up to 100 tests per day. Processing the results is labor intensive as it requires converting the lab data into parts-per-billion, then preparing letters to residents with the results.
    - Water samples submitted for testing take up to three (3) weeks to process. The department is telling the public it is a 30 day wait for results.
    - Many samples are submitted with incomplete contact information, requiring additional research to get results back to the resident.
    - Organizations distributing bottles to collect water samples report running out of bottles. Is there a contact for individuals and organizations to get additional testing sample bottles?
- There are reports that residents using the free Lifeline phones (also known as Obama phones)are having problems using the abbreviated 2-1-1 dialing code. The Michigan 2-1-1 State Office is trying to verify this. If there is a problem we will work with the Lifeline vendor to correct the issue. Anyone having difficulty reaching 2-1-1 can use the alternate toll-free number 1-844-875-9211.

CORRECTIONS AND CLARIFICATIONS

None today

CALL VOLUME:

Jennie Pollak, Central Michigan 2-1-1 Manager, was out sick today and was not able to provide a report on call volume and demand. While call numbers are not yet available, the vendor who provides the statewide call platform notified the Michigan 2-1-1 office that 85% of our incoming and outgoing lines were in use, an indicator that volume was again very high. This 85% threshold triggers close monitoring of the system by the 2-1-1 Technology Director who can turn on additional capacity if needed, ensuring that callers can still reach the 2-1-1 system. 2-1-1 continues to use the 'call-back' feature that allows caller to keep their place in the queue without holding on the line, then be contacted by the first available agent.

SPECIAL NEEDS/REQUESTS

- See above request for a contact to get sample bottles for residents to submit water for testing.
- SEOC is developing a standard form for 2-1-1 to use for water resource delivery requests. Once the format is standardized, Michigan 2-1-1 will work with one of our vendors to convert the this into an electronic form that will allow 2-1-1 agents to collect the callers needs and delivery information, then automatically send the individual requests in real-time to the contact responsible for managing deliveries.
- 2-1-1 has received several calls from individuals complaining about their interaction with National Guard members at water distribution sites. In one instance the caller, who works for the City of Flint, called the Fire Station to talk about the situation and was referred to 2-1-1. We understand there are two sides to these interactions and would like to handle them consistently and in an appropriate way. Can the SEOC or National Guard provide guidance on handling concerns about residents' interactions with responders?
- 2-1-1 has received several questions from responders asking how we handle non-English speakers, as well as deaf/hard of hearing individuals.
    - There are a few 2-1-1 agents in the state system who are fluent in Spanish and Arabic. When these staff are available calls are routed to them. Otherwise, tele-interpreter services are available 24/7/365. It usually takes under one minute to connect with an interpreter in any of 180 languages.
    - 2-1-1 handles requests from deaf and hard of hearing individuals in several ways.
        - TDD/TTY is available at every center, but very few calls come in this way

- 7-1-1 teleinterpreter is regularly used by callers to reach 2-1-1
- Email is widely used as it allows direct communication between the deaf/hard of hearing person and the 2-1-1 agent
- Live chat is available at most of the 2-1-1 partners which allows individuals to communicate directly and privately with a 2-1-1 agent in real-time

RUMOR CONTROL

- 2-1-1 is receiving calls from residents who are very confused and concerned about the statement from Attorney General Schuette that, "I would certainly not bathe a newborn or infant in Flint water". 2-1-1 contacted SEOC about how to respond and was informed the "Lead In Water" document . 2-1-1 agents have this document available, but it does not appear to be available on the state's web site. Can the SEOC provide a link where we can refer callers to read the document, or give Michigan 2-1-1 permission to post it at MI211.org?
    - Hearing different messages from different state officials is causing concern and confusion for the public. Can PIOs provide any guidance as to how 2-1-1 should handle questions from callers about the reliability of information from these officials?
- 2-1-1 received a report that the e-tablets being used for real-time data tracking of water resource deliveries to homes have been away due to concerns that tracking data on the needs of homebound residents is a potential violation of HIPPA. Can the SEOC verify if this is correct? If so, who is working on a HIPPA-compliant process for tracking information on the needs of homebound residents and when is it expected to be available?

UNRESOLVED

- ☐ From 1/15/16: 2-1-1 is trying to identify a resource to pick up test kits from homebound/senior residents who cannot drop off test kits at designated sites.
- ☐ From 1/18/16: Is there a timeframe for how long bottled water will be distributed? Locals are asking how long this will continue.
- ☐ From 1/18/16: One of the top questions is when will canvassers be in specific neighborhoods. Callers would like to know so they can arrange their schedules. Is this information available for 2-1-1 to share?
- ☐ From 1/18/16: Callers are asking about shower heads that can filter water for bathing. 2-1-1 continues to receive reports of rashes attributed to bathing in unfiltered water.
- ☐ From 1/20/16: Michigan 2-1-1 heard an anecdotal report today that real estate agents are reluctant to close sales in Flint because they cannot verify the any properties are free from lead contamination. Is there are state agency or partner who can give real estate agency and home inspectors information on their potential liability.
- ☐ From 1/20/16: Another rumor reported is that Legionella can be aerosolized and inhaled if people boil water on the stove or use a humidifier to humidify the air in their homes. Can a health professional verify the risk of boiling Flint water or using it in an ultrasonic/cool mist humidifier?
- ☐ 1/21/16: Calls continue to increase regarding how to recycle empty water bottles. A recycling vendor contacted 2-1-1 and was referred to United Way of Genesee County. Does the City of Flint offer recycling? If not, what are the options for people to dispose of the empty plastic bottles?

Hi Katie-

Thanks so much for jumping on a call and for this quick turn-around on the nonprofit list. I will begin to reach out to them to see if we can be of assistance. As I stated on the phone, our page consists of representative gifts, but what we deliver will be based off the product needs lists that the nonprofits on the ground provide.

Tom/Jeannie – Please feel free to reach out with any questions you may have.

Thanks again!

Pre-decisional not for further distribution

Hi Lindsay,

It was nice touching base with you just now. This is such a great opportunity to resource non-profits on the ground for the short and long-term – thank you again for being so proactive with this platform! I've copied the State VAL, Tom Weber, for visibility and any needs you may want to discuss with the State of Michigan over the long term. I've also cc'd Jeannie Moran, our FEMA Region 5 VAL who will be on the ground tomorrow working with me. I will be leaving the operation next Monday, Feb 1, and Jeannie will be taking over from there.

Attached is a list of all the non-profits that have either 1) attended the weekly community partner meeting; 2) are engaged in state-led distribution efforts; or 3) have reached out to me directly to get connected to local operations. I believe I've removed all the government contacts.

This may not be all-inclusive of partners on the ground (especially local faith-based orgs), but it's the list I've been able to compile so far.

As I mentioned, I will reach out to the Red Cross to see if we can get you on a conference call during this Thursday's Community Partner Water Crisis Response Meeting to present this opportunity to all the partners together and answer any questions they may have.

Hi Katie-

I just left you a voicemail, but am back in the office and would love to chat when you have a few minutes. In the meantime, I wanted to share a press release that Walmart put out this morning: http://www.businesswire.com/news/home/20160126005503/en/Walmart-Coca-Cola-Nestl%C3%A9-PepsiCo-Provide-Flint-Mich.

Here is the page on our site that is mentioned in the release: https://good360.org/flint-michigan/

We are partnering with nonprofits on the ground for both their immediate and long-term needs. Our current partners include Catholic Charities of Shiawassee and Genesee Counties, Mission of Hope, Think Beyond The Chair and Dedicated Believers Ministries.

It's great to e-meet you as well! Thanks for the introduction, Don. There are a number of partners working on the ground, and others on "standby". It would be great to jump on a quick call with you if you're able, just to talk a little more about how to go about this. I have contact information for a number of the local partners, but they may not necessarily be the best contacts to make decisions like this on their organizations' behalf, so I just want to make sure I connect you with the right folks. I would also hate to leave out any partners that are engaged since this is such a great opportunity, so would just like to know from you what the "limit" or "parameters" may be. Feel free to reach out whenever you get a chance.

Hi Katie-

Nice to e-meet you. (Thanks for the intro, Don!)

My nonprofit, Good360, meets the product needs of nonprofit with corporate product donations. A number of our donors are interested in helping with the Flint Water Crisis and so we are collecting the needs of nonprofits on the ground. We are currently working with the Catholic Charities and have connected with the local United Way and a State EM working on in-kind. Don connected me with you as someone that may know other nonprofits we should work with. We are committed to immediate and long-term needs and a banner for individuals to donate cash to deliver these needs will be up on the Walmart.com site and possibly some other Fortune 500 companies.

Would be happy to discuss further on a call or if you could make any intros that would be great!

Trooper of the Year is stationed at Michigan State Police Tri-City Post
MLive
By: Cole Waterman
1.22.16

A state police trooper at the Michigan State Police Tri-City Post in Williams Township has been named Trooper of the Year.

MSP Director Col. Kriste Kibbey Etue and Michigan Attorney General Bill Schuette presented the Dr. Carl A. Gerstacker Trooper of the Year Award to Trooper Michael Darrow at a special ceremony in Lansing Thursday, Jan. 21.

The Gerstacker Award recognizes the trooper or sergeant who symbolizes outstanding professional ethics, dedication to duty and a concern for giving back to their community. The late Carl A. Gerstacker, former chairman of Dow Chemical Co., created the award in 1961.

Schuette is Gerstacker's stepson.

"Trooper Darrow's exceptional work performance, leadership skills and dedication to community outreach make him an excellent choice for the Trooper of the Year Award," Etue said in a press release.

Darrow has been with the agency for 15 years. He serves as a community service trooper at the Tri-City Post, 2402 Salzburg Road, where he has taken on multiple leadership roles in work and community-related programs, and is known for his dedication to service.

Darrow is instrumental in several MSP community outreach initiatives, such as Light Up the City and the Community Action United Team In Our Neighborhood program, known as CAUTION, the press release continued.

Darrow also serves as a team leader for the Michigan Special Olympics Torch Run and oversees the new cadet program being established for the MSP Third District covering the Flint, Saginaw, and Bay City areas.

Darrow serves as an instructor for the Student Tools for Emergency Planning (STEP) program, the MSP Teaching, Educating and Mentoring (TEAM) curriculum and for the youth leadership academies for at-risk youth held at the MSP Training Academy in Lansing. He has also assisted a local law enforcement agency with organizing its leadership academy and served as an instructor and mentor for the program.

Darrow is a horse leader for the Bay County 4-H Horsemanship for Handicappers, a nonprofit organization that provides therapeutic and recreational horseback riding to children and adults with physical, emotional, mental and social challenges. He and his family own all of the horses used in the program.

In addition, Darrow helped a local recording artist Kyrsta Strickland organize a 5-on-5 basketball tournament between youth and law enforcement officers to help strengthen the relationship between the community and law enforcement. As a result of the event's success, the sponsor agreed to hold the tournament annually.

Darrow served in the U.S. Army from 1986 to 1991 and he attended Central Texas University. He hails from Mackinaw City and currently resides in Bay City with his wife.

Zylstra named Motor Carrier Officer of Year
Hillsdale Daily News
1.25.16

Michigan State Police (MSP) director Col. Kriste Kibbey Etue recently announced that MC Officer Jason Zylstra of the Jackson Post is the recipient of the 2015 Motor Carrier Officer of the Year.

The award is sponsored by the Michigan Trucking Association since 1985, recognizes the MSP motor carrier officer who symbolizes outstanding professionals ethics, dedication to duty and concern for giving back to their community.

"Officer Zylstra's reputation of outstanding work performance, commercial vehicle enforcement training, knowledge and commitment to service make him an excellent choice for the Motor Carrier Officer of the Year Award," Etue said.

Zylstra serves as a Commercial Vehicle Safety Alliance certified instructor, background investigator and a recruiter for the department. He was also a presenter at the Michigan Traffic Safety Summit last year. Additionally, he serves as a member of the temporary staff for the 20th Motor Carrier Officer Recruit School, which graduates in February.

Zylstra enlisted with the MSP in 2011, graduating as a member of the 17th Motor Carrier Officer Recruit School. He has served at the Jackson Post since graduation.

He is a 10-year combat veteran of the Army National Guard, serving in Afghanistan as a chief warrant officer two and a medivac Blackhawk helicopter pilot. During his deployment in Afghanistan, he flew over 90 missions and transported 110 patients.

He is a native of Wayland and currently lives in Lansing with his wife and their two dogs.

Michigan State Police are hosting an informational recruiting seminar for women at Schoolcraft College in Livonia on March 19.

The event is scheduled for 10 a.m. to noon at the VisTaTek auditorium, Room 550, on the campus' north end, 18600 Haggerty. Attendees are asked to arrive by 9:45 a.m. The attire is business casual. To attend, email richardsonm2@michigan.gov.

It's expected to include many of the state agency's specialty units, including the Forensic Science Division, Canine Unit, Special Investigations, Computer Crimes and Gaming Section, officials said.

To be considered, an applicant must be a United States citizen, be at least 21 years old with no felony convictions, be a Michigan resident when appointed to the academy, possess a high school diploma or G.E.D., have a good driving record and moral character, and maintain a stable credit history.

Starting salary at the beginning of the 21-week recruit school is $44,000 annually with a $7,800 raise upon completing one year, MSP said.

MSP Brings Awareness to Human Trafficking
WBKB11
By: Erika Fernandez
1.26.16

As part of human trafficking awareness month, Michigan State Police Alpena Post hosted a human trafficking presentation at the Alpena Public Library.

MSP is aiming to bring awareness to the Alpena area on human trafficking.

The presentation on monday explained what human trafficking is, how it can take place, and where it might be taking place.

Each month, dozens of girls are taken into human trafficking in the state of Michigan. Just a few weeks ago, it was reported in Traverse City, that two people were arrested on prostitution and human trafficking charges after being found at a northern Michigan hotel.

Community Service Trooper Simpson advises everyone to be aware of situations that may look unusual.

If you witness suspicious activity or if a household does not seem like a typical family home--life, report it immediately to law enforcement because it could be a case of human trafficking or even a domestic violence case.

Stay safe, don't get distracted
Three Rivers News

By: Elena Hines
1.23.16

What is distracted driving?

"Anything that takes your attention away from the task of driving," Maurice Burton, a Michigan State Police trooper of 30 years, told the Three Rivers High School student body Friday during a Positive School Climate/Safe Driving Assembly at the Performing Arts Center.

That could be visual (taking one's eyes off the roadway), manual (taking one's hands off the roadway, such as when eating a sandwich) or cognitive (when one's mind is somewhere else).

"It only takes one second to have an accident when your mind is out there," Burton said.

Distractions include being drunk, on a cell phone, texting, talking to passengers, brushing hair, reading a navigator, watching a video or tuning the radio to a different station, he explained.

Already this winter there have been several accidents, such as on I-94, where people were going too fast and not paying attention.

There is a $200 fine for the first offense of texting while driving, and Level 1 and Level 2 drivers — such as some of the high school students — are not allowed to use cell phones at all while driving.

The one sheet is all the calls and not only Flint calls. I have attached a spreadsheet of only Flint calls for Jan 15-22.

The 2nd spreadsheet is a report from our IVR system. When people dial 211 in Central MI they reach a menu that asks if they are calling about the Flint water to press 5 otherwise press 3. If they do not press a number or press anything but 5 they are sent to the normal zip code routing script that asks their zip code and routes them through the normal Central 2111 menu system.

Pressing 5 on the 1st menu gets you to another message that asks if you are calling about Water to press a number and if calling for Donor/Volunteer press another number. The numbers show how many people pressed which number to get to water information or donor/volunteer information.

Tom & Linda,

Thank you both so much. I understand from Linda's previous email that the one spreadsheet is ALL calls taken by the centers not only the Flint calls. This is super helpful. It would be nice to touch base just to make sure I understand how to interpret the 2nd spreadsheet.

Thanks again!

Hi Lindsay,

It was nice touching base with you just now. This is such a great opportunity to resource non-profits on the ground for the short and long-term – thank you again for being so proactive with this platform! I've copied the State VAL, Tom Weber, for visibility and any needs you may want to discuss with the State of Michigan over the long term. I've also cc'd Jeannie Moran, our FEMA Region 5 VAL who will be on the ground tomorrow working with me. I will be leaving the operation next Monday, Feb 1, and Jeannie will be taking over from there.

Attached is a list of all the non-profits that have either 1) attended the weekly community partner meeting; 2) are engaged in state-led distribution efforts; or 3) have reached out to me directly to get connected to local operations. I believe I've removed all the government contacts.

This may not be all-inclusive of partners on the ground (especially local faith-based orgs), but it's the list I've been able to compile so far.

As I mentioned, I will reach out to the Red Cross to see if we can get you on a conference call during this Thursday's Community Partner Water Crisis Response Meeting to present this opportunity to all the partners together and answer any questions they may have.

Nice to e-meet you. (Thanks for the intro, Don!)

My nonprofit, Good360, meets the product needs of nonprofit with corporate product donations. A number of our donors are interested in helping with the Flint Water Crisis and so we are collecting the needs of nonprofits on the ground. We are currently working with the Catholic Charities and have connected with the local United Way and a State EM working on in-kind. Don connected me with you as someone that may know other nonprofits we should work with. We are committed to immediate and long-term needs and a banner for individuals to donate cash to deliver these needs will be up on the Walmart.com site and possibly some other Fortune 500 companies.

Would be happy to discuss further on a call or if you could make any intros that would be great!

From Walmart's website – press release issued today. I'll listen in to the press conference, in case additional information is announced:

Walmart, Coca-Cola, Nestlé and PepsiCo Come Together to Provide Flint, Mich., Public Schools with Water for Students Through the End of the Year

Donations will provide up to 6.5 million bottles of water for approximately 10,000 Flint public school students. Walmart support also enables the public to make donations via online platform Good360.

Bentonville, Ark., January 26, 2016 – Walmart today announced support for the Flint, Mich., community through donations, education and online services. Walmart, Coca-Cola, Nestlé and PepsiCo will collectively donate water to meet the daily needs of over 10,000 school children for the balance of the calendar year. That translates to 176 truckloads, or up to 6.5 million bottles of water, to help with relief efforts for those affected by the water crisis in Flint.
Digital Press Kit

How Good360 is Revolutionizing Relief Efforts

In addition to the water donation, the companies are encouraging others to support the Flint community by working with Good360, where nonprofits operating in Flint are listing their needs online. Walmart and its suppliers will continue to work closely in the Flint community and are encouraging the public to get involved by visiting www.good360.org/flint to make donations that will go directly to local nonprofits serving the community.

Walmart previously helped fund Good360's disaster recovery platform through a $1 million grant announced on the 10-year anniversary of Hurricane Katrina. Walmart and Sam's Club will continue serving the community through its stores and clubs, where associates in pharmacies can share basic health tips and offer information on resources available in the community.

"The water crisis is personal to us here in Flint. Those affected include our own associates, customers and their families," said Beth Harris, store manager at Walmart, Flint, Mich. Our associates are proud to be a part of the effort to help our friends and neighbors."

"At Walmart, we take pride in using our strengths to help communities like Flint during times of crisis, as we've done around the world in times of need," said Dan Bartlett, executive vice president of Corporate Affairs for Walmart. "We're working to ensure that the children of Flint, the city's most vulnerable citizens, have access to safe water."

Walmart has already donated 14 trucks of water, or 504,000 bottles, and 1,792 water filters to the Flint community since July 2015. Coca-Cola has donated nearly 78,720 bottles of Dasani to local food banks and foundations and to approximately 40 associates living in the affected area. Nestlé Waters North America has already donated five truckloads, or more than 190,000 bottles, to Flint community organizations since October 2015. PepsiCo has donated almost 95,000 bottles of water to Flint and the families of the company's employees over the past four months.

"We are grateful for Walmart and their suppliers' support during this crisis," said Bilal Tawwab, Flint Community Schools Superintendent. "With their generous support, District students will have access to clean drinking water, and more importantly, the ability to focus on their education."

"PepsiCo believes that access to safe water is a basic human right," said Tony West, executive vice president, PepsiCo Government Affairs. "We are committed to supporting the communities where we operate, and our collective action today will allow Flint school children and their parents to focus on their education rather than where they can find clean water."

"Nestlé Waters is proud to team up with Walmart to expand our ongoing work to provide clean, safe bottled water for Flint residents," said Cameron Lorrain, plant manager for the Michigan-based Ice Mountain® and Nestlé Pure Life® brand operations. "We will continue to work in partnership with other companies, local officials and relief organizations to ensure that families in Flint have access to a steady supply of safe drinking water."

"We are committed to supporting Walmart and other groups in water relief efforts for the Flint community," said Lori George Billingsley, vice president of Community Relations, Coca-Cola North America. "This critical initiative to provide bottled water to the two Flint school districts builds on our heritage of supporting disaster relief work around the world. Over the past 19 months, we have donated bottled water, volunteer hours and supported our employees in the affected area and will continue to look for ways to help meet the community's needs."

Walmart has a long history of providing aid in times of disaster by donating emergency supplies, such as food and water, home and personal products, and by creating ways for associates and community members to locate and help one another. Over the past 10 years, Walmart and the Walmart Foundation have provided more than $50 million in cash, in addition to in kind support, in response to events such as typhoons in Mexico and the Philippines, tsunamis in Asia, floods in the U.K. and Canada, tornadoes in the U.S., Africa's Ebola epidemic and many other tragedies. Walmart and the Walmart Foundation also invested $7.2 million over the past 10 years to build community resiliency.

Walmart, Water Companies To Make Announcement Regarding Water Crisis In Flint

Fox, January 26, 2016

Walmart, Coca-Cola, Nestle and Pepsico are teaming up to help Flint. Walmart says it has a big announcement to make this afternoon.

Many of you have taken to social media wondering why the makers of the bottled water haven't donated to the people in Flint. Well, today there might be an announcement of a donation. Walmart sent out an alert it would be making a major announcement this afternoon at 12:30 at a Walmart store in Flint. It has teamed up with Coca-Cola, Nestle, and PepsiCo. We will update this story after the announcement.

Attachments: flint info jan15-22.xlsx

The one sheet is all the calls and not only Flint calls. I have attached a spreadsheet of only Flint calls for Jan 15-22.

The 2nd spreadsheet is a report from our IVR system. When people dial 211 in Central MI they reach a menu that asks if they are calling about the Flint water to press 5 otherwise press 3. If they do not press a number or press anything but 5 they are sent to the normal zip code routing script that asks their zip code and routes them through the normal Central 2111 menu system.

Pressing 5 on the 1st menu gets you to another message that asks if you are calling about Water to press a number and if calling for Donor/Volunteer press another number. The numbers show how many people pressed which number to get to water information or donor/volunteer information.

Tom & Linda,

Thank you both so much. I understand from Linda's previous email that the one spreadsheet is ALL calls taken by the centers not only the Flint calls. This is super helpful. It would be nice to touch base just to make sure I understand how to interpret the 2nd spreadsheet.

Thanks again!

Planning Information Exchange (PIE) Webinar

Adapting Urban Vacant Land to Mitigate Hazards

February 26, 2016
12:00pm - 1:00pm CT
(begins 1pm ET, 11am MT, 10am PT)

Free Registration!

In cooperation with the American Planning Association (APA), the Association of State Floodplain Managers (ASFPM) presents the third Planning Information Exchange (PIE) webinar. PIE is a free eight-part quarterly webinar series focusing on tools, best practices, and strategies on the role of hazard mitigation planning and its connections with recovery planning and preparedness.

PRESENTERS

Dara O'Byrne	Erin Kelly	Jenny Guillaume
Detroit Future City	Detroit Future City	City of Baltimore, MD

The fifth part in the series involves discussions with the Deputy Director for Land Use and Policy for the Detroit Future City (DFC) Implementation Office in Detroit, MI, Dara O'Byrne, Manager of Innovative Landscapes for the Detroit Future City (DFC) Implementation Office in Detroit, MI, Erin Kelly, and Jenny Guillaume, an Environmental Planner and Growing Green Initiative Coordinator in Baltimore, MD. Dara is working on reforming policy and regulations in Detroit, with a focus on land use. Erin has worked on initiatives focused on the partnered implementation of green infrastructure and land stewardship, as well as continued advocacy for a people and resource sensitive approach to building removal activities. And Jenny focuses on developing sustainable greening strategies for vacant lots and coordinating City agencies, non-profit partners, and residents in vacant lot transformation. Jim Schwab, Manager of the APA Hazards Planning Center, will moderate as the three professionals discuss how their communities translated mitigation goals in two very different but similar environments, Detroit and Baltimore. Learn what makes for successful strategies in adapting green infrastructure and hazard mitigation in areas experiencing blight and high vacancy rates.

CONTINUING EDUCATION

1 CM and 1 CEC credit is available for AICPs & CFMs who participate in the entire webinar.

Walmart, Water Companies To Make Announcement Regarding Water Crisis In Flint

Fox, January 26, 2016

Walmart, Coca-Cola, Nestle and Pepsico are teaming up to help Flint. Walmart says it has a big announcement to make this afternoon.

Many of you have taken to social media wondering why the makers of the bottled water haven't donated to the people in Flint. Well, today there might be an announcement of a donation. Walmart sent out an alert it would be making a major announcement this afternoon at 12:30 at a Walmart store in Flint. It has teamed up with Coca-Cola, Nestle, and PepsiCo. We will update this story after the announcement.

Subject: 2-1-1 Update Flint Water Response for Monday, January 25, 2016

This is the daily 2-1-1 summary on the Flint Water Response for Monday, January 25, 2016

GENERAL INFORMATION:

- ☑ Thank you to the PIOs and DHHS partners who offered to discuss the growing public perception that 2-1-1 is a state agency and how the state is promoting 2-1-1 for the response. I will work to coordinate a meeting or conference call later this week.
- There are two major public meetings this week.
  - Tuesday, January 26 at 5pm the NAACP is holding a Public Mass Meeting at University of Michigan-Flint, Northbank Center, 432 N. SAGINAW STREET, FLINT, MI 48502. The meeting will be hosted by Cornell William Brooks, national NAACP President & CEO.
  - Wednesday, January 27 at 7pm MSNBC's Rachel Maddow will be hosting a broadcast town meeting at Brownell/Holmes STEM Academy, 6602 Oxley Dr., Flint. See link at http://www.mlive.com/news/flint/index.ssf/2016/01/what_to_know_about_rachel_madd.html.
- The Flint Water Plant reported it is receiving the results of lead tests and is compiling the results from up to 100 tests per day. Processing the results is labor intensive as it requires converting the lab data into parts-per-billion, then preparing letters to residents with the results.
  - Water samples submitted for testing take up to three (3) weeks to process. The department is telling the public it is a 30 day wait for results.
  - Many samples are submitted with incomplete contact information, requiring additional research to get results back to the resident.
  - Organizations distributing bottles to collect water samples report running out of bottles. Is there a contact for individuals and organizations to get additional testing sample bottles?
- There are reports that residents using the free Lifeline phones (also known as Obama phones)are having problems using the abbreviated 2-1-1 dialing code. The Michigan 2-1-1 State Office is trying to verify this. If there is a problem we will work with the Lifeline vendor to correct the issue. Anyone having difficulty reaching 2-1-1 can use the alternate toll-free number 1-844-875-9211.

CORRECTIONS AND CLARIFICATIONS
None today

CALL VOLUME:

Jennie Pollak, Central Michigan 2-1-1 Manager, was out sick today and was not able to provide a report on call volume and demand. While call numbers are not yet available, the vendor who provides the statewide call platform notified the Michigan 2-1-1 office that 85% of our incoming and outgoing lines were in use, an indicator that volume was again very high. This 85% threshold triggers close monitoring of the system by the 2-1-1 Technology Director who can turn on additional capacity if needed, ensuring that callers can still reach the 2-1-1 system. 2-1-1 continues to use the 'call-back' feature that allows caller to keep their place in the queue without holding on the line, then be contacted by the first available agent.

SPECIAL NEEDS/REQUESTS

- See above request for a contact to get sample bottles for residents to submit water for testing.
- SEOC is developing a standard form for 2-1-1 to use for water resource delivery requests. Once the format is standardized, Michigan 2-1-1 will work with one of our vendors to convert the this into an electronic form that will allow 2-1-1 agents to collect the callers needs and delivery information, then automatically send the individual requests in real-time to the contact responsible for managing deliveries.
- 2-1-1 has received several calls from individuals complaining about their interaction with National Guard members at water distribution sites. In one instance the caller, who works for the City of Flint, called the Fire Station to talk about the situation and was referred to 2-1-1. We understand there are two sides to these interactions and would like to handle them consistently and in an appropriate way. Can the SEOC or National Guard provide guidance on handling concerns about residents' interactions with responders?
- 2-1-1 has received several questions from responders asking how we handle non-English speakers, as well as deaf/hard of hearing individuals.
    - There are a few 2-1-1 agents in the state system who are fluent in Spanish and Arabic. When these staff are available calls are routed to them. Otherwise, tele-interpreter services are available 24/7/365. It usually takes under one minute to connect with an interpreter in any of 180 languages.
    - 2-1-1 handles requests from deaf and hard of hearing individuals in several ways.
        - TDD/TTY is available at every center, but very few calls come in this way
        - 7-1-1 teleinterpreter is regularly used by callers to reach 2-1-1
        - Email is widely used as it allows direct communication between the deaf/hard of hearing person and the 2-1-1 agent
        - Live chat is available at most of the 2-1-1 partners which allows individuals to communicate directly and privately with a 2-1-1 agent in real-time

RUMOR CONTROL

- 2-1-1 is receiving calls from residents who are very confused and concerned about the statement from Attorney General Schuette that, "I would certainly not bathe a newborn or infant in Flint water". 2-1-1 contacted SEOC about how to respond and was informed the "Lead In Water" document . 2-1-1 agents have this document available, but it does not appear to be available on the state's web site. Can the SEOC provide a link where we can refer callers to read the document, or give Michigan 2-1-1 permission to post it at MI211.org?
    - Hearing different messages from different state officials is causing concern and confusion for the public. Can PIOs provide any guidance as to how 2-1-1 should handle questions from callers about the reliability of information from these officials?
- 2-1-1 received a report that the e-tablets being used for real-time data tracking of water resource deliveries to homes have been away due to concerns that tracking data on the needs of homebound residents is a potential violation of HIPPA. Can the SEOC verify if this is correct? If so, who is working on a HIPPA-compliant process for tracking information on the needs of homebound residents and when is it expected to be available?

UNRESOLVED

- ☐ From 1/15/16: 2-1-1 is trying to identify a resource to pick up test kits from homebound/senior residents who cannot drop off test kits at designated sites.
- ☐ From 1/18/16: Is there a timeframe for how long bottled water will be distributed? Locals are asking how long this will continue.

- ☐ From 1/18/16: One of the top questions is when will canvassers be in specific neighborhoods. Callers would like to know so they can arrange their schedules. Is this information available for 2-1-1 to share?
- ☐ From 1/18/16: Callers are asking about shower heads that can filter water for bathing. 2-1-1 continues to receive reports of rashes attributed to bathing in unfiltered water.
- ☐ From 1/20/16: Michigan 2-1-1 heard an anecdotal report today that real estate agents are reluctant to close sales in Flint because they cannot verify the any properties are free from lead contamination. Is there are state agency or partner who can give real estate agency and home inspectors information on their potential liability.
- ☐ From 1/20/16: Another rumor reported is that Legionella can be aerosolized and inhaled if people boil water on the stove or use a humidifier to humidify the air in their homes. Can a health professional verify the risk of boiling Flint water or using it in an ultrasonic/cool mist humidifier?
- ☐ 1/21/16: Calls continue to increase regarding how to recycle empty water bottles. A recycling vendor contacted 2-1-1 and was referred to United Way of Genesee County. Does the City of Flint offer recycling? If not, what are the options for people to dispose of the empty plastic bottles?

D.C. Requests FEMA Assistance; Federal Offices In NCR To Remain Closed Tuesday
(ABC)
National Capital Region: The District of Columbia will be seeking funding from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to help pay for cleanup after the area was hit with 18 inches of snow this weekend. At a press conference Monday, city officials asked for federal assistance in clearing its 4,400 miles of road. A senior D.C. official said the city will be "dealing with snow all of this week," and crews are working to clear major roadways. Officials say they are getting some help from outside the city, such as a snow melter from Indiana and other equipment from Connecticut. The Office of Personnel Management (OPM) announced that federal government offices in the National Capital Region (NCR) will remain closed Tuesday.

Ohio EPA Temporarily Closes Sebring Schools, Conducts Tests After Unsafe Levels Of Lead Found In Water Supply
(CNN)
Sebring, Ohio: Schools in Sebring are closed Monday as the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) conducts additional water tests. The Ohio EPA has warned some residents not to drink tap water after samples from homes and schools showed unsafe lead levels in Sebring. Tests showed lead levels at 21 parts per billion in some homes, according to a spokeswoman for the Ohio EPA. Federal authorities require the levels not to exceed 15 parts per billion. The Ohio EPA said it's taking steps to revoke the license of the Sebring water treatment operator in the wake of the water crisis. "We have asked for assistance from the federal EPA's criminal investigation division," the spokeswoman said. It's unclear when the town's lead problem started, but a water advisory alert for pregnant women and children was posted December 3 on the Ohio EPA website. Sebring has made tremendous progress since then, according to the spokeswoman. New water sampling results show that only three of 28 homes affected remain above the federally-mandated level for lead, the Ohio EPA said. In addition, 15 water samples taken at three local schools show that all but one have lead levels that meet federal standards. The Ohio EPA said it will not lift its drinking water advisory for pregnant women and children until two rounds of successful sampling in consecutive six-month periods. The Ohio EPA said it suspects lead may be seeping into water from distribution lines and old homes with lead pipes, according to WFMJ. "While the water system has a clean water source and supply, it is still unacceptable that a few individual homes are experiencing corrosion that is causing high levels of lead," said a senior Ohio EPA official. The state agency said it has ordered Sebring to continue water testing and provide health screenings and bottled water or filtration systems to homes with unsafe lead levels.

Flint water crisis leaves city finances in 'very precarious situation'
(MLive)
Michigan: Flint officials say the city is in a "very precarious situation" as a growing number of people are refusing to pay for water service. City Administrator Natasha Henderson told city council members Monday, Jan. 25, that the city's water utility could be out of money by the end of the year as Flint's public health emergency drives down collections on water bills. "This is an imminent concern," Henderson said. She added that conservative estimates say the water fund will be out of cash by December. "That has a tremendous impact on the city's ability to be fiscally sustainable," Henderson said. However, the city's financial state seems to draw little sympathy from residents who already pay water rates that are dramatically higher than the city's neighbors and continued to be charged service fees for a product they are being told shouldn't be consumed without filtration. More than 60 people protested in front of city hall on Monday before the meeting. Many of the protestors were disgusted with the fact they are still being billed for water service.

Michigan AG Appointed Prosecutor to Lead Flint Water Probe
(ABC)
Michigan: Michigan's Republican attorney general named a former prosecutor to spearhead an investigation into the process that left Flint's drinking water tainted with lead, though Democrats questioned whether the special counsel would be impartial. Attorney General Bill Schuette said Monday that Todd Flood, a former assistant prosecutor for Wayne County, which includes Detroit, will lead the probe and be joined by Andy Arena, a retired head of Detroit's FBI office. Schuette said the two would play key roles in the investigation and prevent conflicts of interest since the attorney general's office also defends the state. Both will report to Schuette, who promised they would provide an "experienced and independent review of all the facts and circumstances." He dismissed any concerns about Flood, who is now in private practice and has donated to candidates from both parties, including the maximum allowable amount to Schuette. "I don't care who he (Flood) has given money to, Republican (or) Democrat. It doesn't matter," Schuette said. "This is about conducting a thorough, exhaustive, complete investigation. That's what we're doing." It is unclear at this point if the probe could result in criminal or civil charges. The investigation could focus on whether environmental laws were broken or if there was official misconduct in the process that left Flint's drinking water contaminated.

Emergency Water In Flint Is Not Reaching Undocumented Immigrants
(Gawker)
Michigan: Up until just about today, the outpouring of reporting from Flint, Mich. had forgotten the stories of the people it's easiest to forget: undocumented immigrants. But this afternoon, several articles were published within hours of each other focusing on the specific plight faced by the undocumented in Flint. Though the water crisis there has reached a point in the national consciousness where Diddy and Mark Wahlberg have announced that they're sending 1 million bottles of water (produced by a company they invest in) to the city, it remains a challenge for Flint's undocumented residents to access information and supplies necessary to protect themselves and their families. Those bottles of water, which are being given out across Flint as the city assess the exact extent to which its water system is damaged, are not reaching every hand. As you can read in Vox, some state-run water bottle dispensaries have been requiring people to show ID before they can walk away with any water. The logic behind this, I guess, is so that people from neighboring towns can't come to Flint and take water bottles not meant for them, but those people have access to clean water, so what would they care? In any event, this system leaves out a whole a strata of people: poor folks, the homeless, and, primarily, undocumented immigrants.

Public Health

Illinois Monitoring 4 Counties To Guard Against Bird Flu
(WIFR 23)
Illinois: State agriculture officials say they're keeping close watch over four counties in southeastern Illinois to guard against the possible spread of bird flu from Indiana. More than 414,000 turkeys and chickens have been killed at 10 southwest Indiana farms affected by the bird flu outbreak. Testing will continue for weeks to determine if the outbreak of the H7N8 strain is contained. That strain is different from one that led to the deaths of more than 48 million birds last summer. Illinois Department of Agriculture spokeswoman Rebecca Clark says there have been no reports of bird flu in Illinois, which has strict biosecurity policies in place, including a ban on out-of-state birds from fairs.

Zika virus to spread to all but 2 countries in the Americas, WHO predicts
(CNN)
Globe: The World Health Organization anticipates that the Zika virus will spread to all but two countries in South, Central and North America. The mosquito-borne disease has raged in South America and other regions for several months. Twenty-one countries and territories of the Americas have reported cases of the virus since Brazil reported the first cases of local transmission in May 2015, WHO's regional office for the Americas said in a statement. "Aedes mosquitoes -- the main vector for Zika transmission -- are present in all the region's countries except Canada and continental Chile," the statement said. The virus has been linked to an uptick in babies born with a neurological condition called microcephaly, which can cause abnormally small heads and serious, sometimes deadly, developmental delays. The WHO attributed the virus' rapid spread to the fact that people in the Americas lack immunity because they haven't been exposed to it before. There is no prevention or treatment for the disease. Travelers to hazardous areas are urged to prevent mosquito bites by using repellent and covering exposed skin.

Possible Bomb at Intersection in Muncie, Indiana

(Guardian Liberty Voice)

Indiana: In Muncie, on Jan. 25th, a report was made concerning a suspicious package left near the intersection of White River Boulevard, White River Road, and South Hawthorne Road. The emergency response team, including the Delaware County Bomb Squad, closed off the three roads. People may have to follow a detour if they need to get through that area. The package was 200 yards east of Hawthorne and either on or near a bench that overlooks the north riverbank, west of the Suzanne Gresham Center. According to Sheriff Ray Dudley, the call was made by someone walking by who saw that the package contained a white device and wires. The caller also stated the package was ticking or beeping. According to officials, the package was making fast and high-pitched beeping sounds. The mysterious beeping package was successfully blown up and did not cause a chain-reaction.

EU Police Warn ISIL Planning 'Large-Scale' Attacks On Europe

(Yahoo! News)

Europe: The Islamic State (ISIL) group has honed the ability to launch global attacks and is set to focus more on Europe following the Paris massacre, a senior official with the European Union (EU) police agency Europol said Monday. He said ISIL "had developed a new combat style capability to carry out a campaign of large-scale terrorist attacks on a global stage -- with a particular focus in Europe." ISIL "has a willingness and a capability to carry out further attacks in Europe, and of course all national authorities are working to prevent that from happening," he added. The official was unveiling the findings of a new Europol report on changes in how the jihadist group operates. ISIL "is preparing more terrorist attacks, including more 'Mumbai-style' attacks, to be executed in member states of the EU, and in France in particular," the Europol report said. "The attacks will be primarily directed at soft targets, because of the impact it generates. Both the November Paris attacks and the October 2015 bombing of a Russian airliner suggest a shift in [ISIL] strategy towards going global." ISIL has developed an "external action command" which was trained for "special forces-style attacks" internationally, the report said. The report played down fears that jihadists were smuggling themselves into Europe as part of the huge wave of refugees and migrants that the continent is dealing with, many of whom are fleeing the war in Syria. "There is no concrete evidence that terrorist travelers systematically use the flow of refugees to enter Europe unnoticed," it said. It warned however that many new arrivals were vulnerable to radicalization or recruitment, with evidence that extremist recruiters were specifically targeting refugee centers.

Pre-decisional not for further distribution

Tom,
This is a pretty cool offer from Good360 below. Hopefully Lindsay will give me a call back tomorrow so I can get some more information. I don't like to be in the business of picking and choosing nonprofits to benefit from things like this, so I'd just like to hear from her about the best way to go about this equitably and fairly!

It looks like they've already connected with Catholic Charities, United Way and Janet Hunter.

Lindsay,

It's great to e-meet you as well! Thanks for the introduction, Don. There are a number of partners working on the ground, and others on "standby". It would be great to jump on a quick call with you if you're able, just to talk a little more about how to go about this. I have contact information for a number of the local partners, but they may not necessarily be the best contacts to make decisions like this on their organizations' behalf, so I just want to make sure I connect you with the right folks. I would also hate to leave out any partners that are engaged since this is such a great opportunity, so would just like to know from you what the "limit" or "parameters" may be. Feel free to reach out whenever you get a chance.

Thanks so much,
Katie

Hi Katie-

Nice to e-meet you. (Thanks for the intro, Don!)

My nonprofit, Good360, meets the product needs of nonprofit with corporate product donations. A number of our donors are interested in helping with the Flint Water Crisis and so we are collecting the needs of nonprofits on the ground. We are currently working with the Catholic Charities and have connected with the local United Way and a State EM working on in-kind. Don connected me with you as someone that may know other nonprofits we should work with. We are committed to immediate and long-term needs and a banner for individuals to donate cash to deliver these needs will be up on the Walmart.com site and possibly some other Fortune 500 companies.

Would be happy to discuss further on a call or if you could make any intros that would be great!

Thanks,
Lindsay

FLINT WATER RESPONSE TEAM

UPDATE | MONDAY, JANUARY 25, 2016

This daily update is being issued in order to provide the latest information regarding actions and available resources.

To date, our water resource teams have visited more than 37,000 homes in Flint to deliver critical clean water resources to families in need.

Since January 9, 164,991 cases of bottled water, 91,763 water filters, and 28,763 water testing kits have been distributed in Flint. If you would like to donate or volunteer to help the residents of Flint, please visit www.HelpForFlint.com.

Governor Snyder on Fox and Friends this morning

This morning Governor Snyder joined the Fox and Friends crew to discuss the Flint water crisis and the efforts to ensure immediate and ongoing access to clean, safe drinking water. Click here to watch the Governor's full interview.

REMINDERS

- For Flint water assistance: Dial 211 or visit www.mi.gov/FlintWater
- To donate or volunteer: visit www.HelpForFlint.com
- Residents should install filters to their taps to ensure they have immediate and ongoing access to safe water. Only run cold water through the water filter and use filtered water for drinking and cooking. Monitor the cartridge on the filter and replace as needed.

Gov. Rick Snyder: Flint Water Interagency Coordinating Committee will support long-term needs in Flint

Committee to address health, other issues into the future

LANSING, Mich. - Gov. Rick Snyder today signed an executive order creating the Flint Water Interagency Coordinating Committee, which will bring together a wide range of experts to work on long-term solutions to the Flint water situation and ongoing public health concerns affecting residents.

"We need to focus on improving Flint for the longer term," Snyder said. "This committee, made up of experts from government and the Flint community, will set a course of action to remedy the water situation and resulting health issues, and carry on long after the emergency declaration expires."

The Governor declared an emergency on Jan. 5 to put in place distribution of water, water filters and water tests for residents. The declaration launched the State Emergency Operations Center, made up of state emergency response personnel and non-governmental organizations such as the Red Cross.

The emergency declaration has led to a response from multiple state agencies, and is focused on assistance for immediate needs, such as filter and water distribution. Information can be found on Michigan.gov/flintwater, where individuals can also subscribe to email updates.

FWIACC's membership will include experts from the state, Genesee County, the city of Flint and subject matter experts. The group will analyze any long-term effects of high lead levels in Flint residents and recommend action.

In addition, an independent Flint Water Task Force is continuing a full review of all local, state and federal actions that led to the current situation in Flint.

The Coordinating Committee will be composed of the following 17 members, who shall serve an initial term expiring on Dec. 31, 2018:

- The director of Office of Urban Initiatives within the Executive Office of the Governor;
- The deputy state director of Emergency Management and Homeland Security within the Michigan Department of State Police;
- The director of the Department of Environmental Quality, or his or her designee;
- The director of the Department of Health and Human Services, or his or her designee;
- The director of the Department or Licensing and Regulatory Affairs, or his or her designee;
- The state treasurer, or his or her designee;
- The superintendent of public instruction, or his or her designee;
- The elected mayor of the City of Flint, who shall be appointed to the Coordinating Committee by the Governor;
- Three additional representatives of the City of Flint who shall be submitted by the Flint mayor and appointed to the Coordinating Committee by the Governor;
- Three representatives of Genesee County who shall be submitted by the Genesee County Board of Commissioners and appointed to the coordinating Committee by the Governor;
- Three subject matter experts who shall be appointed to the Coordinating Committee by the Governor.

After the initial appointments, members of the FWIACC will serve three-year terms. The council will be asked to create an incident action plan, review recommendations made by the independent Flint Water Task Force, establish routine protocols for communications at the local, executive and legislative levels, make recommendations regarding the health impacts of the affected population, and assess the status of infrastructure and determine feasible actions for upgrading Flint's water system.

A full list of responsibilities of the council can be found in the Executive Order.

Subject: 2-1-1 issues

Have these issues been communicated/addressed?

- From 1/15/16: 2-1-1 is trying to identify a resource to pick up test kits from homebound/senior residents who cannot drop off test kits at designated sites.

THIS WOULD BE SOMETHING OUT OF THE LOCAL EOC CORRECT?

- From 1/18/16: One of the top questions is, when will canvassers be in specific neighborhoods. Callers would like to know so they can arrange their schedules. Is this information available for 2-1-1 to share?

THINK WE ARE ABOUT DONE WITH THIS, SO MIGHT BE SOLVED

- From 1/18/16: Callers are asking about shower heads that can filter water for bathing. 2-1-1 continues to receive reports of rashes attributed to bathing in unfiltered water.

I DON'T KNOW WHERE THIS WOULD EVEN GO

- 1/21/16: Calls continue to increase regarding how to recycle empty water bottles. A recycling vendor contacted 2-1-1 and was referred to United Way of Genesee County. Does the City of Flint offer recycling? If not, what are the options for people to dispose of the empty plastic bottles?

IS THIS SOMETHING THE LOCAL EOC IS WORKING ON? I DID HEAR IT MENTIONED IN UPDATES ON THE BRIEFINGS

- From 1/20/16: Michigan 2-1-1 heard an anecdotal report today that real estate agents are reluctant to close sales in Flint because they cannot verify the any properties are free from lead contamination. Is there are state agency or partner who can give real estate agency and home inspectors information on their potential liability.

DO WE HAVE A STATE AGENCY THAT ADDRESSES THESE ISSUES?

- From 1/20/16: Another rumor reported is that Legionella can be aerosolized and inhaled if people boil water on the stove or use a humidifier to humidify the air in their homes. Can a health professional verify the risk of boiling Flint water or using it in an ultrasonic/cool mist humidifier?

This is the daily 2-1-1 summary on the Flint Water Response for Friday, January 22, 2016

GENERAL INFORMATION:

- Based on State of Michigan references to "Call 211" in print and online media sources, many callers to the service think 2-1-1 is a state agency. This leads some to ask questions about potential bias in the information 2-1-1 is providing about the Flint water situation. The public understanding of 2-1-1 as an independent and impartial service is essential to maintaining our position as a trusted source of information with both the community at-large and state partners. Michigan 2-1-1 would like to set up a call or meeting with the appropriate state representatives and some key stakeholders to standardize how the state publicizes the 2-1-1 service.
- Central Michigan 2-1-1 has created a Drop Box folder for 2-1-1 agents taking Flint Water calls. It holds a four page master document that ensures updates and new information are immediately available to all 2-1-1 staff. It includes sections on Background Information (including President Obama's Emergency Declaration), Rumor Control, Health & Water Quality/Safety Concerns, the Taxonomy Terms 2-1-1 is using to provide referrals and track needs, a general Q&A section, and links to Printed Materials and online resources such www.helpforflint.com along with various flyers and statements on the response from State of Michigan.
    - If you have information or materials to include on the master document, please email them to jennifer.pollak@lifewayscmh.org, melissa.ladd-patnode@lifewayscmh.org, and tpage@uwmich.org.

CORRECTIONS AND CLARIFICATIONS

None today

CALL VOLUME:

Call volume continues to be higher than average, but is dropping from the Wednesday peak. Average wait time was down significantly to under 15 minutes during peak volume

- There was a brief period today when the queue for Flint water calls reached 20 callers. Central Michigan 2-1-1 contacted other regional 2-1-1 partners for assistance and was able to reduce the queue and wait time for Flint caller back down to approximately two minutes.

SPECIAL NEEDS/REQUESTS

- The lifting of the requirement to provide identification is making it easier for undocumented residents and residents without ID to access water resources. 2-1-1 working to verify whether the Hispanic Center will continue to provide access assistance for the residents.
- 2-1-1 continues to receive several calls a day from churches, nursing homes and business owners asking about filters for their establishments. They are being referred to the Chamber of Commerce to share the impact on their organizations.

RUMOR CONTROL

- No new rumors to report.

UNRESOLVED

- ☐ From 1/15/16: 2-1-1 is trying to identify a resource to pick up test kits from homebound/senior residents who cannot drop off test kits at designated sites.
- ☐ From 1/18/16: Is there a timeframe for how long bottled water will be distributed? Locals are asking how long this will continue.
- ☐ From 1/18/16: One of the top questions is when will canvassers be in specific neighborhoods. Callers would like to know so they can arrange their schedules. Is this information available for 2-1-1 to share?
- ☐ From 1/18/16: Callers are asking about shower heads that can filter water for bathing. 2-1-1 continues to receive reports of rashes attributed to bathing in unfiltered water.
- ☐ From 1/20/16: Michigan 2-1-1 heard an anecdotal report today that real estate agents are reluctant to close sales in Flint because they cannot verify the any properties are free from lead contamination. Is there are state agency or partner who can give real estate agency and home inspectors information on their potential liability.

None today

CALL VOLUME:
Call volume continues to be higher than average, but is dropping from the Wednesday peak. Average wait time was down significantly to under 15 minutes during peak volume

- There was a brief period today when the queue for Flint water calls reached 20 callers. Central Michigan 2-1-1 contacted other regional 2-1-1 partners for assistance and was able to reduce the queue and wait time for Flint caller back down to approximately two minutes.

SPECIAL NEEDS/REQUESTS

- The lifting of the requirement to provide identification is making it easier for undocumented residents and residents without ID to access water resources. 2-1-1 working to verify whether the Hispanic Center will continue to provide access assistance for the residents.
- 2-1-1 continues to receive several calls a day from churches, nursing homes and business owners asking about filters for their establishments. They are being referred to the Chamber of Commerce to share the impact on their organizations.

RUMOR CONTROL

- No new rumors to report.

UNRESOLVED

- ☐ From 1/15/16: 2-1-1 is trying to identify a resource to pick up test kits from homebound/senior residents who cannot drop off test kits at designated sites.
- ☐ From 1/18/16: Is there a timeframe for how long bottled water will be distributed? Locals are asking how long this will continue.
- ☐ From 1/18/16: One of the top questions is when will canvassers be in specific neighborhoods. Callers would like to know so they can arrange their schedules. Is this information available for 2-1-1 to share?
- ☐ From 1/18/16: Callers are asking about shower heads that can filter water for bathing. 2-1-1 continues to receive reports of rashes attributed to bathing in unfiltered water.
- ☐ From 1/20/16: Michigan 2-1-1 heard an anecdotal report today that real estate agents are reluctant to close sales in Flint because they cannot verify the any properties are free from lead contamination. Is there are state agency or partner who can give real estate agency and home inspectors information on their potential liability.
- ☐ From 1/20/16: Another rumor reported is that Legionella can be aerosolized and inhaled if people boil water on the stove or use a humidifier to humidify the air in their homes. Can a health professional verify the risk of boiling Flint water or using it in an ultrasonic/cool mist humidifier?
- ☐ 1/21/16: Calls continue to increase regarding how to recycle empty water bottles. A recycling vendor contacted 2-1-1 and was referred to United Way of Genesee County. Does the City of Flint offer recycling? If not, what are the options for people to dispose of the empty plastic bottles?
